CORNHUSKERS TO INVADE AGGIE COURT

IDA M. TARBELL SPEAKS AT AUDITORIUM THURSDAY

IS CONSIDERED AS AMERICA'S FOREMOST WOMAN JOURNALIST.

Miss Tarbell Has Had Wide Experience as a Lecturer and Writer—Will Address the Home Economics Girls.

Ida M. Tarbell, America's foremost woman journalist, will speak at the college auditorium Thursday evening, February 15, immediately after the Aggie-Nebraska basketball game. Her subject will be "Industrial Idealism." "Few women of America have won such an established place among the clear thinkers of the present generation as has Miss Tarbell," says O. K. Rumbel, chairman of the local lyceum course committee under whose auspices Miss Tarbell appears at the college. "Her fame is international. We believe she has a message for the people of America, and we are proud that the lyceum committee has procured her services for a lecture. For a number of years Miss Tarbell has been devoting considerable time to public speaking addressing many prominent gatherings throughout the country, and she speaks as convincingly as she writes."

Has Had Wide Experience.
Miss Tarbell was born in Erie county, Pa.; graduated at Allegheny college, Meadville, Pa., in 1880; received her M. A. degree in 1883; and degrees from Allegheny and Knox colleges in 1910. She was associate editor of "The Chautauqua" from 1883 until 1891, and is conversant with the whole lyceum and chautauqua movement. She was a student in Paris at the Sorbonne and College de France from 1891 to 1894; staff writer and associate editor of McClure's Magazine from 1894 to 1906, where her Standard Oil series received such wide notice. Since 1906 she has been associate editor of the American Magazine.

Miss Tarbell will arrive Thursday afternoon, and will deliver a lecture to the girls of the home economics division. She will be the guest of Dean Mary Pierce Van Zile.

CONDUCT SHORT STORY CONTEST.

Quill Club Offers Prize for the Best One Submitted.

The third annual short story contest, which is conducted by the Quill club, a national organization of writers, is now open to all college students. The contest will close April 15.

In 1915, the first year the contest was held, Mrs. Ethel Strother won the prize which was offered for the best short story. In 1916, James B. Angle, sophomore in agriculture, won first place.

It is urged that those who expect to compete in this contest start to work on their manuscripts as soon as possible. Rules governing the contest will be announced later.

STEERS WIN 20 PRIZES.

College Stock Takes Two Championships and Nine Firsts.

The animal husbandry department of the Kansas State Agricultural college exhibited at Denver three purebred Aberdeen-Angus, three purebred Hereford, three purebred Shorthorn, and three grade Hereford steers. These cattle won two championship, nine first, four second, and five third prizes.

The Denver show this year was considered the strongest show, especially in the steer classes, that had ever been held west of the Missouri river.

"SPRING HAS COME FOR SURE."

Have Radishes and Ripe Tomatoes at the Greenhouse.

Spring has come for sure at the greenhouse. The radishes are being planted this week, purple and white asters are being set out for commencement week, and the tomatoes are ripening.

The Farm and Home week visitors are attracted by the tomatoes, which being out of season, is a matter of interest to them. One farmer when told that there would soon be ripe tomatoes to sell, replied, "They would taste too strongly of money for me."

QUARANTINE HOLDS UP SIXTEEN.

Short Course Student Suffers From Scarlet Fever.

"Pest House—Max Roberts, proprietor" a conspicuous red lettered sign, on the porch at 1017 Laramie street, makes the less prominent official scarlet fever quarantine proclamation of the county health officer look like a supplement.

Sixteen men students and Ray Davis and wife, who live at this number, were placed under quarantine Tuesday morning when H. J. Carr, a short course student, of Concordia, was found to be suffering with scarlet fever. All of the men except Max Roberts, school of agriculture, and Leo Dysart, special long course, are enrolled for the short course.

Mr. Carr was taken to the old custodian's residence on the campus, just south of the veterinary building, Saturday. This building has been fitted up as a temporary hospital for quarantined students. The others will be detained for seven days.

Mrs. George Smullen, of Concordia, mother of Mr. Carr, arrived Wednesday to care for him during his illness.

MORE THAN 1800 VISITORS HERE FARM AND HOME WEEK

Representatives From 86 Counties—Riley County Has Largest Number in Attendance.

An actual registration last week of 1,307 visitors and an attendance of fully 500 who did not enroll is reported by the division of extension which, under the direction of Dean E. C. Johnson, has just completed the most successful Farm Home week that has ever been held at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Of those who registered, there were representatives from 86 counties of the state. Riley county stands far in the lead with an attendance of 220. The other counties which follow in point of attendance are: Dickinson, 50; Marshall, 38; and Jewell, 35.

There was a tremendous interest shown in the boys' and girls' club work and in the canning club work as it was demonstrated by the Glenwood Mother-Daughter clubs of Leavenworth county.

"The interest which was shown during the Farm-Home week this year far exceeds that of other years," declared E. C. Johnson, dean of the division of extension, Saturday evening. "It has doubled the interest in club and farm bureau work in those counties where it has already been instituted, and it has tended an impetus in other counties which will make development along these lines only a matter of organization. It has been a very successful week."

SHORT COURSE GETS "GAY."

Have Some Narrow Escapes—Try to Drown Their President.

The presence of mind of a short course student who called "Out of the Way!" just in time for three students to clear the path of a 30-pound disc from one of the grinders in the shops which became loosened from a shaft and traveled across the cement floor at the rate of a mile and a half a minute, perhaps saved a serious accident, Saturday afternoon.

The gyroscopic motion of the disc keeping it from falling over even when it struck an obstacle and spun on the cement floor until the path was clear, and finally smashed—into a radiator on the far side of the laboratory.

Another short course student received serious injury in the laboratory Saturday afternoon when he placed his foot on an open crank case so as to secure leverage to "turn 'er over." The engine caught fire on the first turn, catching his foot in the fly wheel, so that it was broken just below the ankle.

Another group of short course students, just to keep things happening, perhaps, attempted to initiate one of their number, C. J. Nelson, president of the short course, by placing him head first in a barrel, with the result that he became unconscious. However, he was able to return to the laboratory before the close of the afternoon.

Jay Lush, '16, has been coaching the Pratt high school debating team which defeated Great Bend 2 to 1, and Hutchinson 3 to 1 in a triangle debate consisting of Pratt, Hutchinson and Great Bend.

SELECT THE CAST FOR "THE MAN FROM HOME"

SOME REAL "FINDS" HAVE BEEN MADE, SAYS PROF. EMERSON.

The Play Will be Given at Auditorium Saturday Night, March 17—Is One of the Best Ever Presented.

The cast for "The Man from Home," the four act comedy to be given by the Purple masque honorary dramatic fraternity, March 17, at the college auditorium, has been selected by J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking.

"We have found a cast in which every member promises to fill his or her part in excellent style," said Mr. Emerson. "Miss Wanda Tetrick who takes the part of Ethel, is the leading lady. Earl Taylor will take the part of the 'Man from Home.'"

Taylor Leading Man.

"Taylor is a real find." He was discovered in the 'Wild Cat Follies' where he played a prominent part in 'Advertising for a Husband.' He will take the part carried by Wm. Hodge in the original production of the play. The 'Man from Home' is an Indiana lawyer who goes to Europe to look after his ward, a young Indiana girl.

"Miss Tetrick has had experience in dramatic work and holds several medals for excellency. She fills the part of the Indiana girl in old world society admirably.

"Miss Margaret Hale will take the difficult part of the French countess. Miss Hale has had dramatic work in Kansas City and in Leland Povers school. She is assistant in the public speaking department and is helping to coach the play.

"Miss Grace Lightfoot has the part of an English lady, Lady Creech. Miss Lightfoot has a fine voice for the part and shows excellent stage deportment. We have found an excellent woman cast.

Two Comedy Parts.

"Two excellent comedy parts are found in the play, Mariano, the Italian waiter, and Almeric, son of an English earl. Mariano is a difficult part and is played by James H. Branham. Mr. Branham is assistant in public speaking and is helping to coach the play. George McVey, another 'find,' has the part of Almeric.

"Charles R. Adamson will play the difficult role of Lord Howcastle. Mr. Adamson is also an assistant in public speaking and will have charge of the stage properties and scenery. Mr. Branham and Mr. Adamson showed their dramatic ability last year in the 'Fortune Hunter.'

H. J. Henney will do a double part. He first appears as Ribiere, the secretary to the grand duke and later as Ivanoff, a political fugitive from Russia. The part of Ivanoff is one of the heaviest in the play.

"Louis Rochford takes the part of Horace, an American. Mr. Rochford makes an ideal young American, breezy, enthusiastic, unthinking, and blinded by the artificial glare of old world society.

Is One of the Best.

"Chester Cosand takes the part of Michele, another dialect. Mr. Cosand is playing the part in good style and will also assist Mr. Adamson in the stage properties.

"I consider 'The Man from Home,' to be one of the best plays that can be presented. It is fully as good as the 'Fortune Hunter' in every way. We will have special scenery and no effort or money will be spared in making the play a success.

"The tryouts started in December of last term. The time since then has been spent in selecting the cast. We are endeavoring to have the play finished at least a week before the time of presentation. Rehearsal is held three times a week, on Monday and Thursday evening in the old chapel and on Wednesday evening in the auditorium."

Mr. Wenkheimer, of Edwards county, a member of the state legislature, was a visitor at the college Thursday. He informs us that his daughter, Alberta Wenkheimer, '09, is teaching in Minnesota. His other daughter, Gladys, is now the wife of F. B. Milliken, '09, at Ogallah.

THE AGGIES DOWN THE WASHINGTON QUINTET

WIN THE FIRST GAME 34 TO 17; SECOND GAME 46 TO 17.

The Cleveland Five Plays Ragged Basketball During the First Game But Come Back in the Second Game.

The Valley Standings.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Missouri	6	2	.750
Aggies	4	2	.667
Kansas	5	3	.625
Ames	2	3	.400
Nebraska	0	2	.000
Drake	0	1	.000
Washington	0	4	.000

Again the Aggies won. The two-game series with the Washington university basketball athletes resulted in a pair of one-sided victories for the Cleveland team. The visitors were downed in a slow game Friday night, 34 to 17, and again suffered defeat in Saturday's combat, 46 to 17.

The brace of triumphs pushes the Cleveland athletes into second place in the Missouri valley standings, Missouri, by twice romping on the Nebraska Cornhuskers, strengthened her hold on the first round position last week, but the Kansas Jayhawkers, who also tasted defeat at the hands of the Missourians, sunk from second to third place in the ratings.

The Washington-Aggie combats last week could hardly be called the acme of basketball. Neither of the teams played a consistently superior brand of the winter college pastime and only at intervals in the contests was there enough fight and dash to keep the attention of the crowd keyed on the performers.

Two Faults.

Two faults, a lack of team-work and an inability to find the basket, marked the play of the Cleveland clan in the first contest. Although Washington seldom worked the ball up under the backboard for an easy chance at goal, the work of the St. Louis men in carrying the ball down the field at times far surpassed the indifferent passing of the Aggies.

One of the two major faults, the inability to make trials at basket count for Aggie points, was partially eliminated from the Aggie play in the second contest. Van Trine and Captain MacMillan each made good their tosses at the basket, five counters filling to the lot of the former and four baskets to the Aggie leader. Reynolds also bagged a quartet of field goals, in addition to making two points on free throws.

The goal-tossing efforts of the Aggies' opponents was the same old story—excellent guarding by Captain MacMillan and Wells forced the visiting point makers to make most of their goals from the middle of the court. In each game the Edmunds quintet made five field goals and seven free throws for the same number of points—17. Wells, playing a "stationary" game most of the time, appeared at the best advantage, but the work of Captain MacMillan in playing the floor, and at the same time doing his share of the guarding, entitles him to high rank.

Forwards Star.

Van Trine, always a consistent performer, played a brilliant game at forward in both games. He starred both in piling up points, ten of which were annexed by him in each game, and in the floor-work of the Aggie quintet. Reynolds battled well in both contests. Fullington's work at the tip-off position and his goal-shooting were not up to the high standard he set in the Aggie-Kansas series of two weeks ago.

Thomas and Stout starred for the visitors. The free goal tossing of the former was the cause of almost a half of the Washington points in each game. Both Stout and Dunker, St. Louis forwards, were quick and speedy, but they found difficulty in connecting with the basket at long range and seldom were given a chance to shoot from a position under the goal.

The Second Game.
Thomas' free throw gave the visiors a one-point lead in the first game, but Reynolds promptly tied the score with a free toss. This brief one-point lead was the only advantage the visitors held during the entire series. The score at the end of the first half in the first game was 17 to 10, and the contest ended with the Aggies on the long end of a 34 to 17 count.

In the second game Fullington's opening put the Aggies on top, and they were never dragged down. The Cleveland men steadily drew away and at the end of the first period lead, 22 to 7. The only Washington spurt of the series closed the score up to 22 to 11 at the opening of the second half, but the Aggie goal makers again found the basket, and the game ended, 46 to 17.

The crowd, only languidly interested in the contests, found numerous chances for outbursts of applause. For one thing "Eddie" Wells shot a basket. "Eddie" has been plugging away all season, but not until the middle of the first half in the first game was the star guard able to score his first basket ball points for

SERVE 4,619 IN FOUR DAYS AT THE CAFETERIA

The Visitors Throng Popular College Eating House During Farm and Home Week.

The college cafeteria is looking back upon the busiest week in its history. During Farm and Home week the cafeteria was one of the most popular places on the hill.

Before each meal the crowds waited in long lines for the doors to open. The average number taking meals at the cafeteria is between seven and eight hundred. During the past week, the number served varied from 1,000 to almost 1,300 each day. A few visitors came Monday and stayed over Saturday, but Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday were the heaviest days. Here are the exact figures: Tuesday, 1,053; Wednesday, 1,254; Thursday, 1,289; Friday, 1,123.

Ordinarily, about 150 college students take breakfast at the cafeteria. During Farm week, 100 extra were served. At night an average of 150 extra took meals at the cafeteria. The noon meal always draws the largest crowd, and during the last week capacity numbers were cared for. The seating capacity in the lunch room is now 168. One noon, from 11:30 to 1:15, 705 persons were served. This necessitated using each chair four or five times, but lunch was over on schedule time.

The majority of the visitors had big appetites, according to the blue pencil marks on the pay checks. The average college lunch is 19 cents. Last week the average was 40 cents. The biggest one was 61 cents.

"It was the most appreciative, best-natured crowd I ever saw," says Miss Nora Treat, director of the cafeteria. There was no impatience and they were pleased with everything."

AID THE CLAY CENTER CHORUS.

College Songsters Sing Solos in the Messiah.

Arthur E. Westbrook, director of music, Miss May Carley and Miss Faye Richards, instructors of voice at K. S. A. C., assisted the Clay Center Choral union in the rendition of the Messiah at Clay Center last Tuesday evening.

The chorus was under the direction of Professor Westbrook. This is the first time Miss Richards has appeared with the Clay Center chorus. Miss Carley and Professor Westbrook have directed the chorus in its work in previous concerts.

Professor Westbrook appeared for the first time as a soloist before Clay Center audiences in this concert. The Dispatch-Republican of Clay Center makes the following comment: "Professor Westbrook has never sung in public here before and the society was pleased to announce that he would give two solos. He possesses a highly trained voice of very pleasing quality, and great volume. His numbers were keenly enjoyed."

Clay Center is one of the few communities of its size that can maintain a chorus capable of rendering a work like the Messiah.

Lois Bockemuhl, of Elinwood, visited the week end with Anna Ernsting. Miss Bockemuhl is studying china painting in Kansas City.

EXPECT LIVELY SCRAP WITH THE NEBRASKANS

PURPLE FIVE SEEKS ATONEMENT FOR LAST SEASON'S DEFEATS.

Anticipate No Trouble If We Play Basketball, Says Coach Cleveland, Who Looks for a Pair of Aggie Victories.

Revenge in the form of a pair of Aggie victories to atone for the two one-point defeats handed the Purple five by Nebraska last season will be the objective of the Cleveland basketball quintet when it clashes with the Cornhusker five on Nichols floor Wednesday and Thursday nights. The Huskers, playing on a Lincoln court, won the only series that any team took from Mermer's 1916 troupe, and the Aggie quintet will fight its hardest to wipe out last year's results by trouncing the Stewart five this week.

The Nebraskans will not be easy marks. That fact was proven when they held the Missouri Tigers to a tie in the first Husker-Tiger game last week, losing 16 to 18 in the five-minute play-off. The Missourians were in better form in the second battle, the Huskers falling under an 18 to 7 count.

Aggies to Show Fight.

The Aggies, playing in the form they showed in the two Washington contests, would not be overwhelming favorites in the Aggie-Husker series. But, it is pointed out, the Cleveland clan will show a return of the fight shown in the Kansas series when real competition is offered. The weakness of the Washington five, according to Coach Cleveland, was the biggest reason for the ragged playing of the MacMillan men.

"If we play basketball, we should have little trouble with Nebraska," says Cleveland. "The games will be close, but I believe the balance is in our favor. Much will depend on the playing of the Aggie center. Should Fullington start, and show the same ability he had in the Kansas games, I look for a pair of Aggie victories."

The Line-up.

But Fullington may not be in the tip-off position when the game starts. The center weakness, which appeared solved in the Kansas games, again came to the fore when the lanky center was off form in the two Washington games. Reynolds and Van Trine will be in their usual positions at forward, and Captain MacMillan and Wells will undertake the task of guarding the Husker goal-shooters.

The line-up of the visitors probably will be Campbell and Pothow, forwards; Nelson, center, and Riddell and Werts' guards. Pothow has been the star of the Husker offensive in the games played by the Lincoln men this season, and will probably receive special care from Captain MacMillan and Wells.

The games will be played in Nichols gymnasium and will start at 7:30 o'clock. Doors will be open at 7 o'clock. "Lefty" Spruill, former Kansas Jayhawk athlete, will do the refereeing.

TO GET NEW CHEMISTRY BLDG.?

The Ways and Means Committee Recommends It.

If the reported agreement of the ways and means committee of the state legislature is adopted, K. S. A. C. will get a new $50,000 chemistry building and $80,000 for more land. It is also reported that the committee had agreed on $150,000 for new class rooms at the university, and $200,000 for a new building at the Pittsburg normal.

The committee, it was said, agreed on a blanket increase of 9 per cent for maintenance of all the schools. Upon this basis the four larger institutions would get: University, $642,555 for 1918 and $653,555 for 1919; agricultural college, $544,455, and $560,804; Emporia normal, $176,580 and $176,580; Pittsburg normal, $104,085 and $110,040.

J. W. Hickling, of the Clear View stock farm, Lyon county, was so well pleased with the college herd of Berkshires that he purchased one of the best and is going in for purebreds in the future.

KEEP BOOKS.

The Students' Council recommends to the organizations of the college that the fundamental principles of good business be followed in keeping their account books.

The treasurer of an organization should be made to feel that it is obligatory that he keep the books in such a manner that there can be no question as to the receipt and disbursements of every cent of the organization funds, and whether bonded or not, should be personally responsible for a correct balance.

The following suggestions are respectfully submitted:

Receipts should be given for all money received by the treasurer for the organization and should include name of person, date, and for what received.

A line should be drawn through untrue accounts and no erasures made. That individuals should not be given credit for their dues for work performed, such as making posters. Checks and orders should be made out regularly, even if the same check is used to pay class dues.

Do not pay cash.

Follow the rules of the business office and ask Miss White, business secretary, when in doubt.

THEY WERE HEAVY EATERS.

Of all the popular places on the hill during Farm and Home week, the cafeteria scored, for it attracted the visitors three times a day.

"I never got such a meal for 26 cents," said a prosperous orchardist. "This sure is dandy ice cream and only five cents," said the prize winner—the hero of the hour—as he consumed his second dish. "These meat balls are delicious and I'm glad I took two," said a pood duped man who did not realize he was eating left-overs—such was the trend of the conversation over the visitors' coffee cups.

To those to whom, the grab-a-tray-and-help-yourself plan, is a new invention, did not realize at first that tardiness is indeed a serious proposition when dealing with a cafeteria. It did not take the wise farmers very long, however, to catch on, and henceforth the students usually brought up the rear.

That the visitors were good customers will be vouchsafed by the cafeteria directors. The student patrons, who had made the high price of living conform to their purses and put to practice all their knowledge on balanced rations coupled with diet economy and to whom a 19-cent meal is verging upon extravagance, looked aghast at the overflowing trays and 61-cent meal tickets.

The activity and good humor which the visitors displayed in the strenuous week of climbing stairs, walking on paved streets and being dressed-up, surely did not depend on inspiration and physical emotions alone. Certainly the "cats" had something to do with it, at least they say so, so what would a Farm and Home week be without a cafeteria?

Once again we wander back to the little log cabin in Kentucky, watch the big rapsplitter and listen to some real homespun wit and philosophy. May the memory of the Great Emancipator become even more revered down through the generations.

Probably the student who decorates his room with the motto, "I didn't come to college to study," need not worry about the future. No doubt he will land a job tutoring at the I. W. W. camp.

Since viewing the Glenwood canning exhibit we are confident there is something to mother-daughter co-operation.

Y. M.-Y. W. Notes

The Y. W. C. A. is preparing special music to be given at their regular meeting Thursday. The octette will sing "By Babylon's Waves," by Gounod, and "Slumber Boat" by Gaynor. A trio composed of Miss Jessie Machir, Miss Margaret Blanchard and Miss Mildred Inskip will sing. Other interesting features have also been planned to entertain the girls.

Miss Jewell Sappenfield, a big sister captain with her group of big sisters, entertained their little sisters last evening at a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. B. F. Eyer, at 1001 Laramie street.

The meeting held last Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. was under the auspices of the freshman girls. "It was a decided success and we doubt if the upperclassmen could have had a more successful meeting," said Miss Mildred Inskip. "The Y. W. C. A. feels quite hopeful for the future success of the association with such workers as the new girls are proving themselves."

W. W. McLean will go to Junction City Thursday in the interest of the state Y. M. C. A.

Guy T. Gebhardt, secretary of Marion county, and J. H. Brown, secretary of Jackson county, had charge of the Y. meeting last Thursday. They explained the opportunity for service in the county work.

DEBATERS SPLIT HONORS

IN OTTAWA DUAL DEBATE

DECISIONS FOR THE VISITING TEAM AT EACH PLACE.

Aggie Co-Eds Win 2 to 1 at Ottawa But Lose 3 to 0 Here—Plans Are Being Made to Change the One Judge System.

The first girls' debate of the season, held here and at Ottawa Friday night, resulted in the decision for the visiting team at each place. Contrary to the usual custom, the affirmative team in each debate was the visiting team. The Aggie affirmative team that went to Ottawa was composed of Blanche Sappenfield, sophomore in general science; Marie Johnston, junior in home economics, and Matilda Ziller, senior in home economics. This team was accompanied by Miss Estella Boot, of the English department.

The negative of the question was upheld here by the Aggie team composed of Ethel Arnold, junior in home economics; Lola Sloop, sophomore in home economics; and Margaret King, junior in home economics. The Ottawa team here was composed of Fay House, senior; Verda Wood, junior; and Dorothy Stratton, sophomore. They were accompanied by Professor Hardy, of the public speaking department, of Ottawa.

Professor Victor Hies, of the history and civics department here, was chairman of the evening. E. W. Wells, superintendent of the high school at Council Grove; E. D. Schonberger, of the public speaking department at Washburn; and R. E. Carter, of the department of education at Kansas university, were the judges of the debate here.

The contest was held in the Athenian hall and was well attended considering the numerous other attractions attendant upon the Farm and Home week. Following the debate, a reception was held for the teams and visitors in the Hamp-lo hall. The short reception was given by the Zeta Kappa Psi debating sorority.

Arrangements were made for a debate engagement with Ottawa again next year. It will likely be a one-judge debate. This is not a new system for K. S. A. C. as the Emporia debate is so judged.

Ottawa is one of the schools in the Pentangular conference and will be met by K. S. A. C. in a men's debate soon.

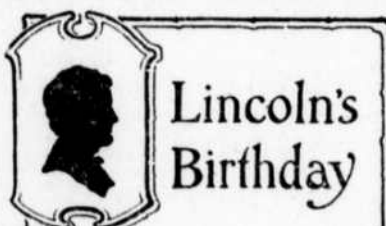

The next debate will be a girls' contest with Washburn, which will also be met in the Pentangular by the boys.

THE UKULELE

THE languorous charm of the Hawaiian native instruments—so moving in appeal, so observably in vogue—is strikingly characteristic of the Ukulele. Its tone possesses that curiously beautiful timbre, that exotic charm of tonal quality which has made these instruments so sensationally popular.

The Ukulele has a pleasing grace of form. The finer models are made of genuine Hawaiian Koa wood. It is much in request today among the smarter college and other musical organizations.

It is easy to learn. Its price includes an Instruction Book.

Hawaiian Steel Guitar

Every chord struck upon this typically representative Hawaiian instrument is marked by a weird, plaintive harmony and strangely beautiful qualities of tone. It brings, to any music, qualities full of vivid color and varied charm.

Price $8.00 and upwards, including Steel and Set of Three Thumbies for playing, and Instruction Book.

AGGIES TIE MISSOURI FOR FIRST PLACE

NEBRASKA LOSES, 13-45 AND 10-37, TO PURPLE

CLEVENGER QUINTET WINS SIXTH CONSECUTIVE TEST.

Aggies Overwhelm Stewart Troupe, Outplaying the Visitors at Their Own Game—MacMillan and Wells
Hold Visitors to Three Goals

Into a tie with Missouri for first place in the Missouri valley championship race; revenge on Nebraska for two one-point defeats of last year which cost the 1916 Aggies the valley title; the sixth consecutive conference victory for the Clevenger quintet—these were some of the results of the 43 to 13 and 37 to 10 triumphs of the Purple basketball quintet over the Nebraska Cornhuskers Wednesday and Thursday nights in Nichols gymnasium.

The scores were one-sided but every one of the 1300 spectators who watched each of the battles are unanimous in the opinion that never for a minute did either of the two teams relax. The Nebraska started their play with plenty of fight kept fighting throughout the game and did fighting.

But it was the Aggie fight that won. Forced to play basketball in the Nebraska style the Purple quintet more than made good. It was a contest between speed head-work goal-shooting ability and fight against speed roughness and fight and the former won.

Aggies All Starred.
Reynolds Wells MacMillan Van Trine and Fullington—they were all Aggie stars no one outshining the other. Reynolds' accuracy with the free tosses Captain MacMillan and Wells in their roles as guardians of the Aggie goal and Van Trine and Fullington as point makers were all important factors in the Aggie play.

The second game was almost a repetition of the first except that the Aggies did not score so heavily. Nebraska took a one-point lead on Campbell's opening free throw but Reynolds immediately tied the count and the Aggies drew away from their opponents. The score at the end of the first half was 12 to 5 favoring the Aggies.

The First Game.

The Clevenger men were in great form in the first game. That fact is proven by the 45 to 13 score which the Aggie five hung on the Cornhuskers. Reynolds and Van Trine played the games of their lives at forwards, and Captain MacMillan and Wells so effectively smothered the Husker point makers that only three field throws found their way through the iron ring.

The Purple crew took the lead on the tip-off when Captain MacMillan sped down from guard, shot through the Husker defense, and tossed a neat basket almost before the Lincoln athletes were aware that the game had started. Nelson of Nebraska tied the count with a field basket, but Reynolds, tossing his third attempt at free throw, succeeded in finding the basket, giving the Aggies a 3 to 2 lead that was never cut down.

Aggies Start Drive.

Then the whirlwind Aggie drive reached its height. Van Trine, Reynolds and Fullington swept past the Husker guards with such ease that the first half ended 20 to 9, favoring the Aggies.

The second half found the Clevenger men in even better trim. Failing to check the rising score of the Aggies, the visiting players increased their speed and roughness, with the result that Frank Reynolds spent almost half his time in shooting free throws. He made good, too, dropping 12 out of 20 attempts through the ring.

The last seven minutes of play found the Aggie irregulars, Kecker, Knostrman, Cushman, Wooster and Clark, battling on more than even terms with the visitors. Kecker also found the basket, and Knostrman also counted a field goal. Combined with Kecker's free throw this gave the second string men a total of seven points in about seven minutes, during

Little Trouble in Trimming
Kansas Conference Quintets.

Undeclared thus far this season, the Emporia Normal basketeers will tangle with Clevenger's Aggie quintet in the last home game of the season Monday night. The Emporians have been having little trouble in trimming Kansas conference fives, and may push the MacMillan men to the limit.

Besides being the last home game of the season, the Normal-Aggie contest begins a two weeks' vacation for the Purple basketeers. The next conference game on the schedule is with the Washington university goal tossers at St. Louis March 2 and 3. Following these games the Aggies journey to Columbia, Mo., to play the Tigers a series which may settle the Missouri valley championship. The Missouri games close the season for the Aggies.

A Washington's birthday contest with St. Marys, at St. Marys, is also on the schedule of Clevenger's men. Unless the Catholics play a better brand of ball than they have been exhibiting in the Kansas conference games this season, however, it is probable that the second-string Aggies will get to play most of the game.

ALUMNI IMPORTANT AUTHORS.

CONVENTION OF BETHANY CIRCLE TO MEET HERE

ANNUAL NATIONAL MEETING TO BE HELD IN APRIL.

Organization of College Women has Four Chapters—Seeks to Establish Chapters at Other Institutions.

The third annual national convention of the Bethany Circle will be held at the Christian church of Manhattan April 6, 7 and 8. Each chapter of the organization will be represented by one delegate. The national convention was held last year at Ann Arbor, Mich. Miss Grace Rudy was the delegate representing the K. S. A. C. chapter.

The Bethany Circle consists of four chapters, located at Valparaiso university, Valparaiso, Indiana; University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan; University of Illinois, Champaign, Illinois; and Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan.

To Establish Other Chapters.
Each chapter of the organization is endeavoring to establish a chapter at some other institution before the national convention takes place. If these chapters are established they will send delegates to Manhattan this year. The chapter at K. S. A. C. has written to the Kansas university in view of placing a chapter there. Miss Grace Rudy will be sent from the chapter here to advise in the organization of the chapter at Lawrence.

The week of the convention will be home coming week for the members of the local chapter. Miss Mabel Seister, national president of the Circle, from Ann Arbor, will be present at the convention. Miss Lenora Moore of Manhattan is the national vice president.

The Bethany Circle is an organization of young women of colleges who belong to or have a preference for the Christian church. The purpose of the organization is to promote the interests of the different departments of the church and to provide church homes for women attending college. Miss Mollie M. Smith is president of the local chapter.

ENTERTAINED THE PRESS CLUB.

College Professors Give Dinner to the Manhattan Newspaper Men.

The members of the Manhattan Press club were entertained Wednesday night with a dinner at Harrison's cafe by Prof. N. A. Crawford and Prof. J. W. Searson of the college.

About 30 guests were seated in the private dining room. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. At each place was a program of the evening's entertainment, cleverly designed in imitation of a vaudeville theater program with a sketch of the accomplishments of each speaker set forth under a letter surrounded by a border.

Short talks were made by E. D. Keilman, Ralph H. Henpe, F. D. Lamo, C. A. Kimball, E. T. Keith, H. W. Davis, J. W. Searson and R. P. McCulloch, ex-editor of the Anthony bulletin. Professor Crawford acted as toastmaster.

A vote of thanks was tendered by the club to the two hosts for the excellent evening's entertainment.

ROBB IS SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Right Hand is Crushed in the Shaping Machine.

Another serious accident occurred in the machine shops Wednesday when the right hand of F. B. Robb of Scott City, short course in traction engines, was badly crushed in the shaping machine.

Mr. Robb was oiling the machine while it was in motion and his hand was caught by the flying piston. He was taken immediately to Dr. A. M. Siever, the college physician, who administered the first aid.

It was found that two bones of the hand and one bone of the forearm had been broken. Mr. Robb was taken to the Charlotte Swift hospital where he is being treated at present.

Harold Sutton, school of agriculture, was taken to the Charlotte Swift hospital with a bad case of rheumatism Tuesday.

HARGISS TRACKSTERS TO MEET AGGIES SATURDAY

NOTHING DEFINITE ON POINT PILLING ABILITIES OF EITHER TEAM.

Several New Men are Showing up
Well—Wilder Will be in Hurdle Events—Holroyd and Osborn in Dashes.

The season's first test of the Kansas Aggie track team will be the indoor dual meet with the Emporia Normals in Nichols gymnasium Saturday night. The strength of the Hargiss tracksters is not known, and the point piling abilities of the team Germany Schulz has gathered to represent the Purple is equally vague, leaving the outcome of the meet in doubt.

The departure of Captain "Duroc" Frizell, Teeters and Vandenberg last year, together with the failure of Collier, star freshman sprinter, to return to school, has left many gaps in the Aggie track ranks. To fill the vacancies left by Frizell and Vandenberg in the hurdles, Coach Schulz has shifted Captain Wilder to the stick events.

New Men Show up.

Several new men are showing track ability. Tillotson has been performing consistently in the two-mile run, and should make a good record in that event. Vorheis has been traveling the mile in good time.

The best showing made by any of the Schulz squad so far this season is the record of 2:07.2 minutes that Keys hung up in the 880 yard dash in last Saturday's varsity tryouts. Keys was not pushed in the event and should be good for three or four seconds better time in the meet with the Normals.

Captain Wilder, in the hurdle events, and Holroyd and Osborne in the dashes, are expected to be among the high point men of the meet. The strength of the Normal hurdlers is not known but Wilder hopped the 30-yard low hurdles last Saturday in four seconds flat, finishing in front of Frizell, last year's Aggie leader, who is getting in trim for Kansas City and St. Louis athletic meets.

Shaper, with a record of 40 feet and 2 inches, and Billings, whose mark is only two inches short of Shaper's, are expected to take both places in the shot put. The Aggie are weak on the pole vault, and not overly strong on the high jump. The relay is apparently safe for the Schulz troupe, leaving them about a three-to-one favorite in the meet.

DAIRY JUDGING CONTEST TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Is Open to All Students—Entrance Fee is 25 Cents—Three Prizes Will be Given.

The annual Students' Dairy Judging contest, given by the Dairy association will be held next Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the judging pavilion.

Four classes, each consisting of four animals of the principal dairy breeds will be placed and reasons will be written up on each class. The first, second and third highest judges of all breeds will receive a gold, silver and bronze medal, respectively. The high men of each breed will each receive a badge.

An entrance fee of 25 cents will be charged for each contestant payable at the opening of the contest.

Professor O. E. Reed, of the dairy department, will place the classes, and Professor Fitch will grade the reasons.

Last year over 50 students took part in the contest, and at least 75 are expected to compete this year. The contest is especially for the benefit of the short course students. However, it is open to any student in college, except members of the dairy judging team. All short course men are urged to enter this contest and those wishing to enter will be excused from classes at that hour.

Mrs. Harriet Allard, of Stout institute at Menominee, Wis., was here Tuesday to consult with Dean Johnson and Miss Frances L. Brown, of the extension department.

PROF. C. A. SCOTT TO RESIGN.

Will Enter Private Business—State

It has been learned from reliable sources that Prof. C. A. Scott contemplates resigning his position at the college and entering private business.

Professor Scott has been Kansas state forester since 1910. He received the degree of B. S. at the Kansas State Agricultural college in '01; was forest expert, United States forest service, '01-'04; graduate student, Yale university forest school, '04-'05; forest supervisor, U. S. forest service, '05-'07; special lecturer on forestry subjects, University of Nebraska, winters '06 and '07; professor of forestry, Iowa State college, '08-'10.

Professor Scott is widely known here and over the state, and has taken an active interest in movements looking toward the betterment of conditions along the line of his work, and also in civic and state affairs.

BUILD A "HIKE" HOUSE FOR THE CADET CORPS

Military Department Plans to Establish a Permanent Fund for This Building.

The plans for the regimental fund which will be started next week were presented by Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets, at a recent meeting of the officers of the college cadet corps.

It is the plan to make the fund a permanent feature of the military department and to have each man make a donation when he is enrolled for military training at the beginning of his freshman year. This fund will be used to build a camp house at Rocky Ford, the building to be by the cadets for their hikes and for camping out during the week ends in the spring.

The building will be constructed on the east shore of the river about 500 yards above the dam and will be large enough to accommodate 150 cadets. The military department intends to build a bathing pier and to buy two or three boats for the use of the cadet corps. All light will be furnished by the power house at a nominal sum.

"The men will get a great deal of good out of a 'shack' of this kind and it will tend to unify the cadet corps. They will get experience in camping out during the spring and the early part of the fall term, and I have no doubt but that it will be in use every week end," says Captain Mathews. "The amount that each man will put into a fund of this kind will never be missed."

All members of the cadet corps who desire to donate to the fund this term and thus be known as charter members, will only be charged 75 cents. After a short period this will be raised 25 cents and from then on the members of the corps will be charged one dollar. The charter member tickets may be obtained from the commandant any time this week.

THE CADETS INSPECT THE FORT.

College Officers Attend Graduation Exercises in Equitation School.

Officers of the college cadet corps went to Fort Riley Thursday to be present at the graduation exercises of the non-commissioned officers in the equitation school.

Each soldier, upon his arrival at Fort Riley, is given a young horse to train. At the end of four months' training the man and horse are given an examination. This examination includes jumping, falling at command, and other maneuvers.

Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets, arranged the trip of inspection which took the cadet officers through the barracks, the post bakery, the ferrier's school, and the post exchange. The post officers gave a special exhibition of their high school horses and a jumping contest was held between the two champion horses at the fort.

The Royal Purple Beauties.

P. B. Keys, chairman of the Royal Purple auditing committee, has made a count of the votes in the beauty contest. The standing is: Miss Margaret Hale, 7200; Miss Merle Beaman, 6200; Miss Mary Dakin, 4150; Miss Sara Drake, 3950; Miss Violet Stockwell, 3300; Miss Helen Blank, 3300; Miss Frances Hildebrand, 1100; Miss Ann Walker, 1100; Miss Dorothy Norris, 2500.

PLANS ARE MATERIALIZING FOR ALL COLLEGE MIXER

Y. M. AND Y. W. PLAN A HOLIDAY AFFAIR FOR THURSDAY.

Chorus of 40 Boys and Girls Are in Training—Minstrel and Live Stunts Are Among the Features.

Plans for the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. mixer to be held Thursday, February 22, are beginning to materialize.

The first part of the evening's entertainment will consist of a musical comedy. A short prologue will explain the stunts that appear in the main act. The occasion is to be a reunion of the class of '17. The scene is laid in 1920 at the home of one of the members.

A chorus of 40 boys and girls are busy learning steps and the latest popular songs. H. W. Luhnnow, senior in animal husbandry, who has charge of the mixer, is drilling the chorus while Miss Cohoon and Miss Loring are teaching the steps.

Feature Dances.

D. A. Kemper is working up a men's minstrel that promises to give twenty minutes of lively fun and song. R. S. Hargis is busy with a stunt which includes a mixed octette, a dance in which Onetta Harrison and Fletcher Speck will take part, and a dialogue.

Bess Hoffman is working up several dances in which May Brookshire, Bess Hoffman, Fletcher Speck and H. B. Dudley will dance.

Have Mixer Stunts.

The second part of the evening's entertainment will be given in the Nichols gymnasium where general mixer stunts will be the order. The crowd will be divided into twelve groups, according to date of birth-days. Twelve captains will have charge of these groups and will plan stunts to mix the crowd in each group. Then each group will put on some stunt that the entire group can take part in.

February 22 is a college holiday and as no admission will be charged every student in the college should take advantage of the opportunity to have an evening of fun, and to get acquainted with his fellow students.

FACULTY WOMEN TO BE NYMPHS.

Open a Special Class in Physical Training for Them.

An evening class in physical training for women and girls connected with the college will be started next Wednesday night, February 21.

Arrangements have been made for this special class for women members of the faculty, wives of the faculty members, and girls and women employed in the offices of the college. The class work will consist of light apparatus work, floor exercises, and folk dancing. As numerous requests have come in for such a class, a large enrollment is expected.

The class will be conducted by Miss Anna Cahoon, instructor in physical training, and will meet in the women's gymnasium. Meetings will be held every Wednesday night from 7.15 to 8.15.

IDA TARBELL AT CHAPEL TODAY.

Noted Woman Journalist Will Speak at Student Assembly.

Ida M. Tarbell, America's foremost woman journalist, will address the student assembly this morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Tarbell spoke at the college auditorium last night under the auspices of the society lecture course committee. Her subject was "Industrial Idealism." The lecture was well attended. The lyceum committee considers itself fortunate in having been able to secure the services of such a renowned personage for a lecture here.

Miss Tarbell addressed the home economics girls Thursday evening at the domestic science hall.

L. E. Conrad, professor of civil engineering, went to Scandia and Jewell, Friday, February 9, to consult the city authorities of those places concerning their water and sewer problems.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE.

Four Kansas men passed through the breadline at the college cafeteria one day during Farm and Home Week; two were students of the college and two were farmers who are helping to send the young men here. Naturally the older men were not used to the customs of our cafeteria, while the young men knew just how everything was going to taste and just how to "stab the butter."

At noon an observer was just behind the first farmer and the disgusted youth who was watching the man. Our visiting friend was somewhat uncertain about the best method of procedure. This excited the ugly wit of our college student. He crowded past the man as he hesitated between meats and made very audible remarks about the old "guy who did not know enough to hang his hat in the hall."

But at the evening meal, a very different and polite young man smiled and said in an offhand way to the farmer that on account of carrying his own tray, he would be able to move faster if he left his coat and hat in the hall. Thus all down the serving line he was unobtrusively helpful to the guest of the college.

One student by his kindness and courtesy to our visitors proved himself a gentleman and gave the college a boost. The other student by his "small town" sarcasm proved himself a poor stick and doubtless lowered the visitors' estimation of our school. What a difference!

ARE YOU GUILTY?

The college museum is a popular place during chapel hour. It is not uncommon to see as many as 30 students standing about in this part of the library—usually in couples.

At first glance an observer would think that the students of the college were exceedingly interested in zoology and geology and were hunting in obscure places among the cases for curious specimens. Upon closer observation, however, and after hearing a few snatches of conversation from the different couples this observer would shake his head in bewilderment and "vamoose."

The real reason for the interested clusters of students in the museum during chapel hour is that they have time. These students are spending their valuable time in attending a class which yields no credits on their grade card.

This class is a near relative to "campus lab," and is sometimes called "museum lab," or "spoonology class." It is useless to argue that attending "museum lab" is wasting valuable time. It is an uplifting subject.

Can you imagine anything more soul inspiring to a poor, worn-out student in the alfalfa infested realms of agriculture than standing in a cool shady nook, looking into the face of a pretty, dewy-eyed co-ed, while the birds, and beasts of the forest, field and stream stand silently about apparently unmindful of the presence of the intruder?

The following data is the result of observing 200 different museum visitors, and the purpose for which they visited the museum. First 100: museum lab, 82 per cent; to study geology and zoology, 4 per cent; study and quiet, 3 percent; wandering aimlessly about, 11 per cent; Second 100: museum lab, 76 per cent; zoology and geology, 7 per cent; study and quiet, 9 per cent; wandering aimlessly about, 8 per cent.

This data was gathered during the chapel period on four different days. The author had intended to make a table including every chapel hour for two weeks but he is now in the "coop" having gone "blew in the belfry" over parts of conversation overheard during his research work.

FINIS.

YOUR HOME TOWN.

Blue? You were blue last summer, too. You thought your home town was the "Jakiest" town on the map. You hated the old man who whittled on the street and talked about socialism and the idle rich all day long. Or you despised the gossiping women who said that Jack Brown was a tough and that Neil White ought never to consider marrying him.

You couldn't imagine why the boys all wore such loose fitting clothes. The boys at K. S. A. C. all wore English clothes. You didn't see why the girls all curled their hair on curlers when the girls at school wore it straight back and very simple. Your mind wandered to the "keen" women and "grand" men with whom you dated at school.

Father and mother, even, couldn't appreciate that you didn't like to eat onions, just common boiled onions—when they were eating onion souffle at K. S. A. C. this year.

Brother and sister used such perfectly absurd grammar. Why the kid said "et," and sis said "durne" if I do. They were too noisy and they weren't at all classical in the reading matter that they choose.

And today you are blue again. You had a rotten dancer last night. You wanted a date with a girl who had pep. Now, Mary, your girl in the small town appreciated it when you were broke and wouldn't eat banana splits when a chocolate smoothie would have been just as nourishing. You would like to have "et" your dinner of boiled onions and common custard. You would enjoy the noise of the kids. You would fairly embrace the washer woman or the delivery man were you to see them today. You will certainly never, never make fun of your home town. It is the only wholesome place on earth and if you ever get back you'll stay.

It is getting that time in the term "When a feller really needs a friend."

If you see a housekeeper wearing that "Life is a serious proposition" expression, it's dinner work.

The annual appearance of Saint Valentine takes us back to the little red school house, tissue paper hearts and our first "case."

The regular evening gymnasium classes for college professors will start again next Wednesday night, February 21. These meetings were discontinued before Christmas owing to the coal shortage. A great deal of interest has been shown and it is hoped that the membership will be increased.

The K. S. A. C. Engineer, a magazine published twice a year by the engineering students of the college, is now in press. This magazine contains information about the work the engineering students are doing and the courses they are studying. It is also used in exchange with similar magazines published by other engineering schools.

J. R. McClung has been transferred from the department of chemistry to the department of bacteriology. Carl J. Lauter arrived Monday to take the position of assistant in chemistry previously filled by Mr. McClung. Mr. Lauter is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has nearly completed his work on the master's degree.

Coach Z. G. Clevenger has issued a call for all basketball pitchers and catchers to report at the gymnasium for indoor practice next week. Baseball prospects look good and with some early training K. S. A. C. should have a winning team. Just as soon as the weather permits the infielders and outfielders will report for outdoor practice.

DEAFNESS OR FRESHNESS?

College Co-ed Is Wondering What a Farm and Home Week Visitor Meant. It happened at the college during farm and home week. The journalism students were asked to interview a number of the visitors to get their opinion of the short course.

One especially pretty co-ed approached one of the visitors and asked, "What is your opinion of our farm and home week?"

"I think some of them are very good looking," replied the visitor.

The girl student is still in doubt as to whether he was affected with deafness or freshness.

DO FRESHMEN PROCRASTINATE?

One Did But He Had to Apologize For It.

The fact that Freshmen are likely to postpone work until the last minute is generally conceded. A striking example of this was noted on the campus recently.

A freshman—yes, because he wore the distinguishing mark, a red and white knitted cap—was sauntering slowly up the walk leading from the main entrance to the campus. He was walking slowly because he had ten minutes before class time and was intently studying a hard lesson for the next hour.

Crash—and he was astonished to find himself facing a much bewildered young lady. On the ground was scattered numerous books and papers which he had caused to fall from her arms.

He picked up the papers, apologized and during the remainder of his walk to class formulated a resolution to always hereafter prepare his lesson at home.

"Civilization" Is Stirring Film.

Although essentially an appealing and eloquent plea for peace, "Civilization" is the most remarkable picture of war that the screen has shown. Wit hit Thomas H. Ince takes rank as a motion picture producer of striking ability, vivid imagination and a sense of dramatic values that places him upon an artistic footing with Belasco.

Sentiment aside, "Civilization" is so ingeniously contrived and so splendidly executed that it commands unqualified admiration. So far as its message goes it can do no harm—and it may do some good. We are compelled to take the theatre in its different phases, for what it is worth. The main thing about it is that it reaches the masses. This is especially true of the picture play. Here then, in "Civilization" with all the irony that its title implies, is something to employ the mind as well as to engage the eye.

SCHOOL OF AG GIRLS ARE TAUGHT TO MAKE WARDROBES

Millinery and Art Needle Work is Also Taught—Work in Charge of Miss Mildred French.

The girls studying domestic art in the school of agriculture are not merely taught a few fancy stitches, but learn how to make a whole wardrobe for themselves.

The girls make a complete set of underwear, a kimono, a kitchen apron, a small work apron, a bungalow apron, middie blouse, tailored wash dress, fancy lingerie blouse, cotton lingerie dress suitable for evening wear, woolen dress and silk dress.

They are taught to darn and patch and keep their clothing and the household linen in repair. Last term the girls darned all the linen in the domestic science department and found time for outside work. They were encouraged in bringing work from home to do in class, thus helping their busy mothers. Work was solicited from the orphans' home, but the elderly inmates there had time to do it.

The girls who cannot afford to buy materials for the problems, may do the work for some other persons who need the clothing but have not the time to sew. Art needlework is taught to those who desire it.

Millinery also is taught in the school of agriculture. The fundamental principles and the completion of one or two hats are required. Special attention is given to the renovation and application of old materials. Miss Mildred French has supervision of the domestic art work in the school of agriculture.

A son, Charles Lawrence, was born January 19, 1917, to John M. Ryan, '07 and Emma Gammon Ryan, '08, at Muscotah.

The school of agriculture students who expect to graduate met in G 55 Thursday to discuss and make necessary plans.

Floyd Brown, a school of agriculture graduate, of Sylvan Grove attended the horse sale held at the college last week.

Amateur Carpenters Make Many Useful Articles.

Wheelbarrows, porch swings, magazine stands, doubletrees, office files, hammer handles, tool boxes—these are some of the things made by the amateur carpenters at the shops.

They not only make these things, but usually they take them home to show daddy what clever workmen they are. All that a student is charged for an article that he has made, is the price of the material. The other articles which are left at the shops, are frequently disposed of to people in and about Manhattan, or they are used as furnishings in the various departments of the college.

"The main idea of this shop practice," said J. T. Parker, instructor in woodwork, "is to give the student practical training in the handling of tools, rather than to teach him a trade. A few students take special work to qualify themselves as teachers of manual training in the high schools."

The Only Standardized Tractor Design
Avery Tractors are the only make built in five sizes (a size for every size farm) all having exactly the same design. There is practically no other make of tractors where there are more than two sizes of the same design.
When the Avery Company builds one size tractor and after thoroughly testing it out, builds another size, and then another, and then another, and then another, until it has five sizes of exactly the same design, it is unquestionable proof of the success of that design.
Genuine Kerosene Burners
Opposed motor, strong crankshaft, renewable inner cylinder walls, patented sliding frame, a spring gear transmission, no intermediate gear or shaft, no counterweights on crankshaft, no water pump, no fuel pump, no fan, no mechanical lubricator, no belts, no sprockets chains.

"CIVILIZATION"

More stupendous than "The Birth of a Nation." Endorsed by the President, the public, press and pulpit. Civilization is an argument against giving one man the power of life and death over men, women and children. It gives us a wonderful presentation of the real horrors of war. The scenes of the destruction of great buildings, cities, and battleships, as well as the terrors of the actual battles, are the greatest ever depicted. This is absolutely the greatest spectacle which has been shown to date.

THE AGGIES TRIM THE NORMALS 33-29

HOLD HOLIDAY MIXER NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

EVENING OF ENTERTAINMENT IS FURNISHED BY Y. M. AND Y. W.

Eight Features Will be Given in the College Auditorium After Which a General Mixer Will be Held in Gymnasium.

Next Thursday evening, an all-college mixer will be held at the college auditorium and gymnasium, under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. The first part of the entertainment will consist of vaudeville performances to be given in the auditorium after which a general mixer will be held in the gymnasium.

"Due to various causes, the plan for a musical comedy could not be carried out," said H. W. Luhn, chairman of the committee, "but a general vaudeville bill has been planned which will probably be even better than the original plan.

"The opening number at the auditorium will be a chorus number. A quartette will take the verse of 'Mammy's Little Coal Black Rose.' A chorus of 40 girls and boys will give an original rendering of the chorus.

"The second number will be a stunt that is being worked up by Robert Hargis. Anna Wilson will sing, 'Don't Leave Me, Daddy.' Oneita Harrison and Fletcher Speck will stage a dance. Bill Ball and Pat Allen will put on a dialogue.

"Playfulness."

"For the third number Bess Hoffman and H. B. Dudley will put on a pretty little dance entitled, 'Playfulness.'

"The chorus will appear again in the fourth number in a song that, though very little known here, has made a hit in the east. Leona Teichgraber will take the solo in 'Slam.'

"The fifth number will consist of a men's minstrel that promises plenty of fun and song. A string specialty is being worked up.

"In the sixth number the chorus will appear in a catchy song entitled, 'I Lost My Heart in Honolulu.' Harold Newton will take the solo.

Another Dance.

"May Brookshire and Fletcher Speck will appear in a dance for the seventh number. The pretty Russian dance which they will put on will be well worth coming to see.

"The closing number will be the song 'Auf Wiedersehn.' This little ballet is one of the prettiest songs that this season has brought out. Alma Hoffman and Pat O'Brien will render it as a duet, and then the chorus will close with a burst of song.

"The crowd will then go over to the gymnasium where general mixer stunts have been planned. Check rooms will be provided at the east end of the building. The crowd will be divided into six groups, according to the month in which the birthdays fall. Those in each group will be expected to put on some stunt that has been arranged by the boy and girl captains of each group.

"A mistaken idea that has gone the rounds that admission will be charged. The whole plan of the evening is for an all-college mixer and not for a money making proposition. So it is urged that every student get into the spirit of the evening and be out promptly at 7:30 for an evening of fun."

TO VISIT NEWSPAPER PLANTS.

Journalism Students of College Are Planning Trip.

A trip to newspaper plants in Kansas City or Topeka is being planned by the journalism department of the college for the students in the department. The trip will be made if 15 students sign to go. So far 11 have decided to make the trip.

Frank L. Snow instructor in the department, said today that a trip of this kind is of great value to a student who contemplates entering newspaper work. The department plans one or more of these trips each year for the journalism students. Last year newspaper plants in both Kansas City and Topeka were visited. Monday, February 26, has been set as the day for the trip.

ASSIGN JUNIOR-SENIOR DATES.

They Must All be in Not Later Than Saturday.

Saturday, February 24, is absolutely the last day when dates for the junior-senior, which is to be held March 10, may be turned in, according to G. C. Gibbons, chairman of the date committee. After this day, dates will be assigned to those who have not turned any in regardless of previous arrangements.

There are more than 600 juniors and seniors in college and less than a third of them have turned in dates for this affair, it is stated. It is believed that a large number of persons have dates, but have neglected to turn them in. Assignments were to have been made today but the date was set forward five days in order to give the delinquent ones a chance to redeem themselves.

Those who have dates are urged to place notices of them in the box opposite the postoffice on or before next Saturday. Failure to do this may be the cause of some junior or senior finding himself with more than one date on his hands, it is stated. Those who do not have dates are urged to get busy right away.

GREAT BARITONE SINGER COMES FESTIVAL WEEK

Cecil Fanning Will Give a Concert at the College Auditorium Sunday Afternoon, March 18.

Cecil Fanning, America's greatest baritone, has been secured to give a concert at the college auditorium Sunday afternoon, March 18. This will be the last entertainment of the program of the Festival week to be held March 12 to 18.

Mr. Fanning is recognized by the best critics of the east to be the greatest interpretative singer in the recital field. He is an artist in demand by musical circles throughout the country. In January Mr. Fanning sang to the largest audience that has assembled in the Aeolian theater of New York this season.

The concert by Mr. Fanning is the only entertainment of the Festival week that will be given by talent outside the community of Manhattan. This number is being advertised in surrounding cities and is one that will be attended by many out of town visitors.

The opportunity to hear this great artist has been made possible by the efforts of the musical department of the college. This feature alone will cost more than three hundred dollars.

Season tickets for the Festival week will be placed on sale for $1.50 and $1. Single admissions to "The Man from Home," "Robin Hood," and the concert by Mr. Fanning will be 75 and 50 cents each.

GRIND SHORTHORNS THROUGH.

Do the Actual Work While Regular Students Act as Bosses.

Is this something new?
The traction engine shortcourse men are being daily ground through the laboratories and shops of the mechanical engineering division. A la Henry Ford—that is, in great numbers and with the least friction between the teachers and students, and with little distraction of machinery.

In this system, the shortcourse students do the actual work and the regular students act in the capacity of inspectors, routing clerks, production engineers, speed bosses, and perform in general the regular duties of foremen and engineers of modern industrial establishments.

This plan was worked out by several members of the engineering faculty during the Christmas vacation and it is attracting much attention.

ARE AFTER THE ENGINEERS.

Representative of Doherty Company is Coming for Them.

A. M. Butcher, electrical engineer, 16, spent the week end at the college while on his way from Caney, Kan., to Denver, Colo., where he is employed by the Doherty corporation, which is contemplating taking over all the Kansas Natural Gas Company's lines.

Mr. Butcher visited with the senior engineers for the purpose of interesting them in the work of the Doherty company. Mr. Butcher's chief will visit the college about March 1 for the purpose of making definite arrangements with several of the senior engineers for work with his company.

HIGH COST OF LIVING IS UNDER WOMAN'S CONTROL

WOMAN IS NOT A NEW FACTOR IN INDUSTRY.

She Has Always Been on the Job, Says Ida M. Tarbell, America's Foremost Woman Journalist.

Many persons have the mistaken idea that woman is a new factor in industry, according to Miss Ida M. Tarbell, America's foremost woman journalist, who spoke before student assembly Friday morning on "The Girl in Industry."

"The woman has always been on the job," said Miss Tarbell. "Woman was as great a factor in industry 100 years ago as she is at present. The only difference is in the form of her work. One hundred years ago she did the work in her home that she does in the factory today. Two million women are engaged in industrial work today and there is nothing done in the factories that cannot be done by women.

Cheap Labor Unprofitable.

"The change in the form of woman labor has brought up new problems. The health problem is the most serious factor. Under the old conditions in the factories thousands of women were robbed of their health. For many years employers have been under the superstition that cheap labor was the most profitable labor. The employers hired girls instead of boys because they would work for a cheaper wage. Managers are now beginning to see that cheap labor is the most unprofitable.

"Under new conditions the girl in the factory must be trained. In many factories the employees are trained in preparatory classes. This kind of thing is being done by the open minded employer. The movement is not general but it is coming into practice.

Woman An Economic Problem.

"Nothing is so important as the education of the woman for the home. Woman has one of the most serious economic problems of the country. The solution of the high cost of living is completely within her control. By common consent the wife is the overseer of the pay envelope.

"The average industrial life of woman is from three to five years. After that period she marries to escape the work in which she is caught. She marries with the idea that she is going to live a life of ease. She makes a failure of married life because she has not had the training in meeting the problems of home life. She cannot make her home attractive and her children and husband will not have the love and respect for the mother and home that they should have. The children will go to the streets and the husband to the saloon in too many cases.

"These women do not understand the problem of making the home beautiful and pleasant. They see that they are a failure and grow to dislike their work and go back to the factory.

FORM DRAMATIC CLUB.

College and Down Town Young People Will Present Play.

A dramatic club whose membership will be composed of college and down town young people is now being formed and plans to present a play in the near future. J. H. Branham, of the public speaking department of the college, has been secured to direct the work of the club. A meeting at which the club will be formally organized and the officers elected, will be called at an early date.

AGGIE TRACKSTERS NOSE NORMALS OUT 50 TO 35

PURPLE MEN TAKE SEVEN FIRST AND FIVE SECONDS.

Captain Cross, of Emporia, Individual
Star of the Meet—Captain Wilder
Was Second High Point Man
With Eight Points.

Germany Schulz's trained troupe of Aggie tracksters nosed out a 50 to 35 victory over the Emporia Normalists in the first indoor dual track meet of the season Saturday night in Nichols gymnasium. The Schulz proteges took seven firsts and five seconds, while the Hargiss men were able only to win firsts in four events, and seconds in five.

The Emporians started off piling up points in a manner that made the Aggie chances for a victory look anything but promising. Captain Cross, of the visitors, won the 30-yard dash. Portman finished first in the mile run, and Cross came back with a victory over Captain Wilder in the low hurdles. The first three events gave the Normal runners a 15 to 9 lead.

Aggies Come to Front.

But the spurt of the visitors proved to be short lived. With the exception of the two-mile run, the Aggie athletes took every remaining event on the card. Billings made the score 18 to 14 by winning the shot put, and a double victory by Holroyd and Granfield in the quarter-mile dash put the Aggies to the front, 22 to 18.

Usually a wearisome ten-minute grind, the two-mile race between Tillotson, of the Aggies, and Weber, of the Normalists, proved to be anything but a bore to the spectators. Tillotson, setting a good indoor pace, jumped into the lead at the start, and continued in front most of the distance. With the men running on different sides of the track, neither knew the exact position of the other. Consequently, when the men began to sprint on the final lap, the Normal runner passed Tillotson without the latter knowing it. Then began a pretty sprint which ended with Weber breasting the tape less than two feet in front of the Aggie runner. The time was 10:24.2 minutes, a good indoor mark.

Captain Cross, of the Normalists, with firsts in the 30-yard dash and the low hurdles, was the individual star of the meet. His time of 3:3 seconds in the 30-yard dash was as good as has ever been made on the Aggie track. Captain Wilder, of the Aggies, was second high point man with eight points.

The Summary.

30 yard dash—Won by Cross, Normalists; Essick, Aggies, second. Time, 3:3 seconds.

Mile run—Won by Portman, Normalists; Eggerman, Aggies, second. Time 14:44 minutes.

30 yard low hurdles—Won by Cross, Normalists; Wilder, Aggies, second. Time 3:4 seconds.

440 yard dash—Won by Holroyd, Aggies; Granfield, Aggies, second. Time, 5:4.4 seconds.

30 yard high hurdles—Won by Wilder, Aggies; Lockman, Normalists, second. Time, 4 seconds.

880 yard dash—Won by Keys, Aggies; Richards, Normalists, second. Time, 2:08:3 minutes.

Two-mile run—Won by Weber, Normalists; Tillotson, Aggies, second. Time, 10:24:2 minutes.

Mile relay—Won by Aggies (Granfield, Wilder, Kerr, Holroyd) Time, 2:44:1 minutes.

High jump—Won by Welmer, Aggies; Lockman, Normalists, second. Height, 5 feet, 7 1-4 inches.

Shot put—Won by Billings, Aggies; Sharp, Normalists, second. Distance, 29 feet, 1 3-4 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Enlow, Aggies; Van Patten, Normalists, second. Height, 10 feet, 10 1-2 inches.

J. R. Jenness, formerly an instructor in physics in the college and at present on a year's leave of absence, is taking post-graduate work at Cornell university. He has received an appointment in the physics department of that institution. If his resignation is accepted by the board he will accept the position.

ST. MARYS GAME IS NEXT.

Glass Backstops May Again Prove the Downfall of Aggie Quintet.

The St. Marys Catholics are the next basketweavers to be met by Coach Clevenger's Aggie quintet. The Purple troupe will journey to St. Marys Thursday for a tussle with the basketball players of Quigleyville.

Although an easy game is expected, the St. Marys five can easily spring a surprise and break the Aggies record of seven consecutive victories. Glass backstops are used on the Catholic court, and should the Aggie forwards prove as unlucky in shooting baskets as the transparent background as they did at Lawrence, a St. Marys victory may be the result.

The Aggie irregulars probably will play the major part of the game, although it is not known whether Clevenger will start the first or the second string quintet. Following the St. Marys contest, the MacMillan men will rest a week before swinging on a five day trip to St. Louis and Columbia, Mo., on which jaunt the Washington and Missouri fives will be met.

COLLEGE ORATORS CLASH FOR HONORS SA . NIGHT

Contest May be Closer Than Ever Before—Orations Are Better on the Average.

Eight orations—the product of many months of patient study and concentrated thought on the part of the promising orators of the college—will be delivered at the college auditorium, Saturday evening at the Annual Inter-Society Oratorical contest. The contest promises to be one of the best that has ever been held at K. S. A. C. More interest was shown on the part of the literary societies in selecting their orators and as many as five finished orations were offered in one society tryout.

"The orations as a whole are considerably better than they were last year," says Dr. J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking, who is giving personal attention to training the orators. "That is not saying that the best oration this year will be better than the best one last year, but they average much better."

The oratorical contest is the big event of the college year for the majority of the students and it is always greeted by a large audience which fills the big auditorium to its full seating capacity.

Formerly original stunts were given. Last year musical numbers were given to vary the program and met with the satisfaction of all present. After the winners are determined, it is the custom for each society to hold a mixer or banquet in their society hall or in some dining hall downtown. Leo C. Moser, Miss Stella Elaine and L. A. Zimmerman were the winners in last year's contest.

NEVER SCHEDULED K. U. MEET.

Hawkers May Now Cancel the Outdoor Contest.

Despite reports from Lawrence to the contrary, there was no Aggie-Jayhawker dual indoor track meet scheduled for last night. A report in Sunday's Kansas City Star that the two rival schools would open the conference track season yesterday in Lawrence was refuted by both Athletic Director Clevenger and Germany Schulz, track coach.

"We never scheduled any such contest," said Germany. "Hamilton, of Kansas, asked for an indoor meet when the valley schedule makers were in Manhattan last December. We refused. Since then no correspondence has been exchanged on the subject, and we had thought that the matter was dropped.

"For another thing it would be foolishness for us to schedule a meet with Kansas only two days after we had met the Emporia Normalists. It appears that the Kansas men have taken too much for granted."

From Lawrence comes the report that the Jayhawkers are considering cancelling the outdoor meet scheduled between the two schools for a May date. Such an action, coming at a time when the relations between the two schools are closer than ever before, would create a spirit between the two schools which the Aggies would not welcome, it is believed.

EMPORIANS GIVE A SCARE TO THE PURPLE QUINTET

THE FINAL SPURT OF THE AG-GIES WINS THE GAME.

Emporians Were in the Lead Four Times and Tied the Count Six
with 3-0 Lead.

The Aggies' record of never having been defeated on their home court (this season tottered and trembled last night—but it wasn't shattered. Six times the Emporia Normalists tied the count, four times the visitors were in the lead, but one of the three periods that the Clevenger quintet had the advantage came at the most opportune time in the contest, the five minutes preceding the pistol shot that ended the contest, and the Purple five emerged from the see-saw contest the victors by a 33 to 29 count.

Indifferent playing by the MacMillan troupe allowed the Hargiss pupils to open the game with a 3-0 lead. Then four consecutive Aggie baskets shot the count to 8-3, and the spectators settled back to watch the expected slaughter of the Normal basketweavers.

They Wouldn't Die.

But the Emporians refused to die. They tied the count at 8-8, and then jumped into a 10-8 lead. Fullington's basket tied the score at 10-10. The free tosses of Reynolds and Culter again tied the count at 11-11. Then both Culter and Reynolds shot baskets from the field, again knotting the score. A basket by Rehm, and a free throw by Culter put the Normalites in the lead, 16 to 13, but an Emporia foul allowed Reynolds to bring the count to 16 to 14 as the period ended.

Aggies Lead.

Two goals by Cross made the score 20 to 14 as the second half opened. The Aggies knotted the count at 21-21 and again at 23-23, and then pulled away for a narrow lead. That lead, despite repeated Normal rallies, was maintained to the end, and the Purple athletes were ahead 33 to 29 at the end of the contest.

Captain Culter, Rehm and Cross starred in the brilliant short-passing and long-shooting game of the visitors. While the Aggies were undeniably not in their best form, credit must be given the Hargiss men for giving the Aggies their worst scare of the home season.

Wells and Van Trine played the most consistent game for the Clevenger men, although Captain MacMillan and Reynolds deserve mention.

GET 'EM AT THE FORT NOW.

Will Order Cadet Uniforms From Fort Riley Hereafter.

Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets, has received permission from the war department to purchase in the future, such equipment as is necessary for the college regiment from the quartermaster's department at Fort Riley.

"This will mean a saving of considerable money," said Captain Mathews. "In the past we have been forced to secure uniforms and equipment from a private firm in St. Louis and have had to pay express on the goods. We can not only get our goods cheaper by securing them from Fort Riley, but we can secure the uniforms sooner and can have our corps uniformed much earlier in the year than has been possible in the past."

IS IT A HABIT?

Is it a common practice, is it becoming a habit, or did it just happen that in the last few weeks a number of fair co-eds have been practicing the unpleasant and disconcerting pastime of breaking dates with their young men friends?

Various reports have arisen on the campus from the men who have been placed in an embarrassing position by such action on the part of the fairer sex. Listen, co-eds! What is the idea? Don't you like the fellow? Or are you just trying to play a practical joke? What do you suppose the fellow thinks of the young lady who telephones him just before the dance that she cannot go with him, and then goes with another man?

Luckily, the first man got another date and went anyway. The young lady was not expecting to see him there but was kind enough to explain that she had a friend from out of town who she did not get to see very often. Was that the fair thing to do? She would have retained the friendship of the first man if she had explained to him why she could not attend the dance with him.

Another incident is called to mind where six co-eds broke dates with the men at one house the evening that they were to be entertained by those men at a dance. One young lady telephoned her date that she could not go to the show with him because she had to study. She sent a substitute but failed to "put her wise" so that the young man learned that she was not studying at all.

If it is impossible for the co-eds to keep their dates, they should at least explain the true circumstances to their gentlemen friends and retain their friendship without breaking a rule of ethics. Perhaps they do not exactly like the young men in question and break their dates knowing that there are other fellows who would be glad to take their place. But remember that reports spread rapidly and the next fellow will hesitate before asking for the company of a co-ed who has the date-breaking habit, recalling the fate of the other man.

IS IT DUE TO H. C. L.

O. P. Jewett, of Lane county, has aroused considerable opposition in the editorial columns because of a bill which he has introduced into the state legislature which proposes that smoking only be allowed in buildings specifically set aside for that purpose.

If the bill is amended to read that stoves will be permitted to smoke, farmers given permission to smoke their hams, and the prodigal husband allowed to come home at night before the smell of the nauseous weed has disappeared, there should be no serious complaint on the part of the editors—especially when the present high cost of living is considered.

It is humiliating to come to the office in the morning with the aroma of a three-for-a-jitney agony unmistakably present when, prior to the increase in prices, the editor could smoke a stogie which at least looked respectable. If the proposed smoke house was established, one could appear to be too busy to loiter on the way. Every one respects the excuse of "Busy!" and no further explanation would be asked either as to the absence of an aroma or as to the presence of an exceedingly bad one.

Over at Downs, an ingenious newspaper man has invented a yellow paint which when dropped lightly on the chin or shirt front looks exactly like egg stain. Now if some editor with the love of his kind at heart will invent a "three-or" which looks, tastes, smells, and smokes like a "five-center," We'll withdraw our support of the bill.

A USEFUL OLD TIMER.

Standing exposed to the elements near the tractor sheds is an old Buffalo-Pitts gas tractor.

In the spring of 1911, this tractor was located in the newly completed part of the engineering building. It was then considered the last word in tractors and created a tremendous interest.

The history of the company that sent this tractor to the college is full of interest as regarding the uncertainties that are met with in the gas tractor game. The Buffalo-Pitts company had long been known for its excellent steam engines and threshing machines. With the advent of the gas tractor, this old established company saw visions of great profit to themselves in building the new machine. Yet with all the prestige and long experience in their successful career as steam engine and threshing machine builders, they were not able to make a success of the gas tractor.

The machine is too heavy—the total weight is not less than 13 tons. Engines of similar capacity in power at the present time have a weight of only five or six tons. The engine is 75 horse power, yet its drawbar horse power is but 30 or 35.

Another fault of the tractor is the large amount of gasoline it burns in operation. It is called a "man-killer" because of the difficulty of starting and the uncertainty of operation. Several operators have been injured.

George S. Knapp, at one time an instructor in the college, worked out his thesis in hydraulics, testing a deep well pump and using the engine of the tractor as his motive power.

The last time it moved with its own power as a tractor was more than three years ago. It has served as a fertile work ground for adventurous and inquisitive traction students. However, problems are being worked out in repairs and experiments that the college would not feel justified in attempting with newer and later tractors that are new in the laboratory.

The engine itself is well constructed of good materials and the workmanship is of a high order. It illustrates to a remarkable degree all of the essential details that must be considered in building a gas tractor.

The traction department still uses the engine in study for determining such points as gear systems, clutches, chain drives, frame and wheel structure, ignition systems and other of the parts that are necessary to consider in the up-to-date tractor.

The engine was left with the understanding that it was sometime to be returned to the company. Owing to financial trouble, the gas engine department of the Buffalo-Pitts company went out of business. So the orphan machine is left with the college, no one caring to claim it.

It has lately become necessary to use the space in the tractor shed, where the old tractor has been located, for housing one of the latest productions from the Aultman-Taylor Tractor company.

The old engine was pulled out of the shed and is now standing exposed to the weather, awaiting such a time as it can again be worked upon and rebuilt by the spring term traction men.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TONIGHT.

There is no use trying to tell what Charlie does in "Behind the Screen" because Charlie is such a queer fellow that few persons ever tell just what he will do next. Anyway, this picture is one of the best productions of this kind ever shown and not a person who sees it will be disappointed. At the Marshall theater this afternoon and tonight.

"THE SIGN OF THE POPPY."

A mystery play fraught with exciting episodes and sensational events that will keep the motion picture fans interested and well entertained throughout the photo drama. Hobart Henley and Gertrude Selby take the leading roles. At the Marshall theater Thursday afternoon and evening.

AGGIES MAY GET FIRST PLACE.

And This Without Meeting a Conference Team This Week.

Missouri Valley Standing.
Team	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Aggies	8	6	2	.750
Missouri	8	6	2	.750
Kansas	12	8	4	.667
Ames	6	3	3	.500
Nebraska	6	1	5	.167
Drake	2	0	2	.000
Washington	6	0	6	.000

Although the Aggie quintet does not meet a conference team this week, the Cleveland quintet may be in undisputed possession of first place before the week is ended. Kansas meets Missouri at Columbia Wednesday and Thursday in a series which means much to Aggie championship hopes. Should Kansas split the series with the Tigers, the Aggies would mount to the top, and would probably remain there the remainder of the season. Two victories by the Tigers, on the other hand, would send the MacMillan men into second place.

Nebraska meets Ames Thursday and Friday nights at Ames, and then plays Drake at Des Moines Saturday night. Following their games with Missouri, the Kansas Jayhawkers play the Washington quintet of St. Louis a two-game series.

40 JANITORS WORK THEIR WAY.

They All Earn Approximately $650 a Month.

More than 40 students are working their way through the Kansas State Agricultural college by doing janitor work, the pay roll amounting to approximately $650 a month.

"The average student on the janitor force is able to make his way through college," said G. F. Wagner, custodian. "Those in charge of the buildings receive 20 cents an hour, and helpers 15 cents on hour."

Forty-two regular janitors on the force work more than three hours a day. Classrooms and halls are swept in the evening, and all offices are looked after in the morning.

Of the $650 spent each month, $550 is used in keeping the rooms clean, and the balance for supplies for the different departments.

The work is given to the students because greater efficiency for less money can be obtained. They handle the work better and are more careful than the average man hired to do this particular work.

CALLS BATTERY CANDIDATES.

Coach Clevenger Asks Pitchers and Catchers to Report Today.

Battery candidates for the Aggie baseball team are asked to report at Coach Clevenger's office at 5 o'clock this afternoon, in a call issued by the Aggie mentor yesterday. The pitchers and catchers will have a portion of every afternoon laid aside for them on the gymnasium floor. Other candidates for the team will not be called out until later, probably not until the close of the basketball season, according to Clevenger.

H. B. Walker, associate professor of irrigation and drainage engineering, went to Winfield today to look after some drainage business.

G. O. L. Doerner, assistant in landscape gardening, went to Morganville last Tuesday to do some landscaping on the farm of Ernest Stewart.

John Wilkinson, student in agriculture, is able to attend his classes again after a severe attack of la grippe.

"CIVILIZATION" IS REMARKABLE.

Picture Showing at Wareham an Appealing and Eloquent Plea for Peace.

"Civilization," which opened a two-day engagement at the Wareham theater yesterday scored a great hit with the large audiences of the afternoon and evening.

"Civilization" is so ingeniously contrived and so splendidly executed that it commands unqualified admiration. It is a gigantic argument against giving one man power of life and death over men, women and children. The battle scenes, both land and sea, are the greatest ever shown here. This picture shows what is actual on another continent.

In this picture is found something which will employ the mind as well as engage the eye. "Civilization" will be shown at the Wareham theater again this afternoon and tonight.

"A GIRL LIKE THAT."

This is a crook story without a mass of underworld scenes and there is much comedy as well as thrilling drama in the production. Here is a crook story that is really different. Irene Fenwick and Owen Moore take the leading roles. At the Wareham theatre Thursday afternoon and evening.

Candles, candle shades.—Kipp's.

AGGIES BEAT CATHOLICS IN A 60 TO 13 CONTEST

REYNOLDS THROWS SEVEN GOALS

Clevenger Sends in Second String Men Before First Half is Over—Shields and Porter Star for St. Marys.

Glass backstops failed to prove the downfall of the Purple quintet yesterday afternoon when it defeated the St. Marys Catholics 60 to 13 on their home court.

The Aggies started the game with a rush and at no time during the entire contest was the result doubtful. The St. Marys team was completely smothered by the close guarding of the Aggie guards and it was seldom that they were able to obtain a clear shot for the basket. The first half ended 42 to 7.

The Catholics put up a hard and scrappy game but were clearly outclassed by the fast Aggie five which was in excellent form in team work and basket shooting.

Sends in Second String.

Coach Clevenger began changing his men before the first half was over, and the second string men played the second half. Reynolds was in excellent form and threw baskets from any angle, making seven goals in 15 minutes after which he was replaced by Cushman. Captain MacMillan and Wells guarded closely holding the St. Marys troupe to five field goals. Kecker played a fast and consistent game. Van Trine and Pullington also played a good game. Shields and Porter were the stars for the St. Marys team.

The contest begins at 7:30 o'clock doors open at seven. It has not yet been announced who will preside at the oratorical. Following are the representatives of the different societies:

Athenian.

The Athenian Literary society places high hopes in its representative, James A. Hull, a senior in the architectural course. Mr. Hull is a graduate from the Stafford high school in 1913. Since coming to college Mr. Hull has been prominent in college affairs, is now a member of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet, is president of the Forum, a debating and oratorical society, was admitted to membership in the Pi Kappa Delta, an honorary debating fraternity, after he represented the college in debate with the Normals last year. He is also a member of Sigma Kappa Tau, a social fraternity. The subject of his oration is "The Business of War."

Webster.

W. G. Bruce, of New York, a senior in the animal husbandry course, will orate for the Websters. Mr. Bruce won the society contest when he was a student in the third year class of the school of agriculture. He is now a member of the college orchestra, of the Saddle and Sirolo club, is captain of Co. I, and has held many places of honor and trust in the college. He is earning his way through school. The subject of his oration is "The Greater Democracy."

Franklin.

Marie Johnston, junior in the division of home economics, will represent the Franklin Literary society in the oratorical contest. Miss Johnston was an active member of the Philomathian Literary society while preparing for college. She is a member of the Forum, the debate council, and of this year's women's intercollegiate debating squad. The subject of her oration is "Society and the Ex-Convict."

Hamilton.

Arthur W. Boyer, of Scranton, junior in industrial journalism, will represent the Hamilton Literary society in the annual intersociety oratorical contest. Mr. Boyer has taken an active interest in student affairs, and has represented K. S. A. C. in two intercollegiate debates. He is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, debating fraternity; Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity; the Quill club, Forum, and has done work on the Collegian for the past two years. The subject of his oration is "America and Japan."

Browning.

Rachel Clark will represent the Brownings in the oratorical contest this year. Miss Clark is a graduate of the Eskridge high school and is now a senior in the division of home economics. She is a prominent member of the Browning Literary society, president of the Wabaunsee County club, and a member of the Oklah Kito club. The subject of Miss Clark's oration is: "A Twentieth Century Task."

Ionian.

Hattie Droll has been chosen to represent the Ionians. Miss Droll is a graduate of the Wichita high school where she received her diploma in 14. She is now a junior in the home economics course.

Her ability as a leader has been recognized from the beginning of her college career. Miss Droll holds a position on the lyceum course committee and a place on the cabinet of the Young Women's Christian association. The subject of her oration is "The Woman of Yesterday."

Eurodelphian.

Stella Strain, junior in the division of home economics, will represent the Eurodelphian Literary society in the oratorical contest. Miss Strain graduated from the Phillipsburg high school as valedictorian. Her work here at college ranks her as a "B" student and she will complete the four years' course in three. "Home Rule or Sinn Fein," is the subject of her oration.

Alpha Beta.

Riley McGarraugh, the Alpha Beta representative, is a graduate of the Mulvane high school, of the Idaho

State Normal, and is a senior in the general science course.

He is a well known college debater, and was captain of the debating team which won from Ames last fall. At present he is the president of the local chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, an honorary debating fraternity, and is treasurer of the Forum.

The subject of his oration is "The Public Paramount."

SHORTCOURSERS GO TO WICHITA.

Attend The Annual Tractor and Thresher Show.

More than 100 members of the short course traction and gas engine classes left at 6 o'clock yesterday morning for Wichita where they will attend the fourteenth Annual Tractor and Thresher show.

A special train had been arranged for them by the Rock Island. The students were accompanied by W. H. Sanders, instructor in gas and steam engineering, and some of the local agents for tractors.

This is one of the largest annual tractor shows in the United States. It will be of great benefit to the men of the short course tractor division as they will be given opportunity to judge the different engines according to the parts that have been emphasized.

The students will return Saturday night.

K. S. A. C. GRADUATES ARE THE BEST FARMERS

INVESTIGATIONS OF THE SANTA FE RAILROAD PROVE THIS

So Says J. F. Jarrell, Publicity Director for This Road—Better Social Conditions in Communities Where K. S. A. C. Grads.

From investigations carried on by the Santa Fe railroad it has been found that in the community where graduates of Kansas State Agricultural college live better farming is practiced than in the communities where there are no graduates of the institution, according to J. F. Jarrell, director of publicity of the Santa Fe railroad, who spoke to the student assembly Wednesday morning.

"In the communities where students of this institution live it is found that there are better social conditions existing," said Mr. Jarrell. "We do not find the flow of the young men from the farm to the city as great as in other communities."

"The Santa Fe railroad has never missed an opportunity to cooperate with Kansas State Agricultural college in any way possible. The Santa Fe runs a special train each year to show to the farmers the results of experiments carried on by the college. The Santa Fe does this because it believes that the message carried to the farmers will help to solve some of the problems that confront them."

Overcome Prejudice.

"When these trains were first started there was a prejudice against them but that has been overcome. The Santa Fe has kept record of all the towns visited by these agricultural trains and satisfactory results have been found in every town where the instructions of the college lecturers have been followed."

Mr. Jarrell urged the students to form an organization of the Kansas State Agricultural graduates and students in every county of the state to show to the people of Kansas what is being done by the college and to send more young people here for their education. Mr. Jarrell also strongly urged that these organizations should work with the legislators of the state to fix a permanent income for state institutions.

"If such county organizations would get the needs of the college before legislators before election more could be done toward receiving a permanent income than can ever be done by lobbying after legislature starts its session," said Mr. Jarrell.

"The call for educated men and women has never been greater than it is today. The responsibilities of the next fifteen years will be placed upon the young people of today. The responsibilities for the war will fall upon the shoulders of the young people who are now educating themselves to meet the problems of the country."

COMMENDS MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

Noted Song Writer Praises Work Done at College.

The musical department of Kansas State Agricultural college has received prominent mention in "Musical America," the most read musical magazine in the country. In the issue of February 10, a full page article by Frederick H. Martens, a song writer and the official opera libretto writer of the United States, was printed.

The article was strong in its praise of the advancement of the musical department and the work that it is doing. Mr. Martens highly commended the department of music and the musical organizations of the college in commenting upon the work of the department Mr. Martens says:

"Arthur E. Westbrook is a noted exemplar of the value of academic training in music. Since he has assumed charge the Kansas State Agricultural college has risen in deserved prominence as one of the many collegiate institutions in the country and particularly in the west, which offers the earnest student every opportunity for the study of music, not only as a profession but because of its importance in the daily life and the cultural influence, inspiration, and pleasure it affords."

Miss Elizabeth Burgner and Miss Fey Young, freshmen in home economics, are spending the week end in Burlington.

THEIR VICIOUS ATTACKS.

Much has been said and quite a fuss has been made over the alleged cancelling of the K. U.-Aggie indoor track meet which it is claimed was to have been held last Monday evening at Lawrence. One newspaper correspondent even went so far as to say that the Aggie coach's reason for cancelling the meet was that his team was not in condition to beat K. U. at the present time. It is preposterous to assume that a coach would make such a statement regarding his team even though a meet were scheduled and cancelled without good reason.

One coach claims that the meet was scheduled and the other says that it was not. There is a misunderstanding somewhere, but however that may be, there was no written agreement that the meet would be held; and we learn from an authoritative source that athletic contests which the Aggies have held with the Lawrence school in the past have been held under written agreements. Entries were not even called for by the Lawrence school, and it would seem from this that somebody was taking a little too much for granted.

Now comes the threat that the outdoor track meet, which was to have been held between the two schools sometime next spring, will be cancelled. Coming, as this does, at a time when the relations between the two schools are friendlier, stronger, and more binding than ever before, it would have been better to foster the spirit of good sportsmanship than to stir up such a fuss over a matter about which there seems to be nothing definite.

ABOUT DANCING.

Close dancing, such as is practiced in almost all of the present day dances, has been dealt a severe blow by the New York Society Teachers of Dancing, Inc. At a recent meeting of this society, at which 70 of the leading instructors of dancing in this country were present, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, the immodest manner of dancing, due particularly to the close position in holding partners, is having a deteriorating moral effect on social dancing, so serious that dancing has been prohibited at many church functions and objected to by some educational institutions, therefore be it

"Resolved, that we, the members of the New York Society of Teachers of Dancing, in an effort to raise the moral standing of social dancing, do place ourselves on record as being absolutely opposed to the immodest manner of holding partners."

These resolutions, accompanied by descriptions of the correct positions for men and women to assume in dancing are being sent to the educational institutions over the country. The stand which many organizations have taken against close dancing is heartily approved by this society. Mr. Wallace, one of the leaders in this organization says: "We as an association are opposed to any close holding of the body in dancing, from which a train of ills have resulted. The position which we have demonstrated to be modest and correct is one that insures a clear line of space between the bodies of the dancers, and one where the hands are held in such a position that guiding can be accomplished by the man with ease to himself and comfort to the girl."

Doctors says they have never before had so many young patients whose ailments could be directly traced to the injurious dancing positions assumed by the young and care-

The College Recluse

"I am a recluse. I am one of the old hermits that came into these parts many years ago. I was born in 1864 at Swampscott, Mass., and made my journey half way across the continent to where I now reside. I came up the Kaw in one of the first ferries that ran from Newport, Mo., to Manhattan.

"At one time I was the one pioneer that stood out pre-eminently above all others. They all looked up to me with respect and reverence. When I spoke all the young people of the neighborhood would come and listen to the many learned things that I had to tell them.

"For years the resoundings of my voice would echo from way up on the Wildcat to far down on the Blue. One cool evening some naughty boys climbed up to my nestling place and wrapped my tongue in strips of cloth so that my voice was no more than a whisper. Some of the good fathers suspected that something was wrong and came to my rescue. They unwrapped the many yards of goods and punished the culprits.

"But that was not the only time that the boys played a prank on me. Once when the custodian forgot to lock the door that goes up to my quarters three of the meanest of the gang slipped up to my hiding place and twisted my tongue off and carried it away. The next day I could not do my duty and again the wise old fathers came to help me. They felt sorry when they saw what had been done and had the foundry man make me a cast iron tongue which I still have to this day.

"The old clapper that was stolen from me afterwards became known around the world and young folk came from all lands of the east and the west to hear the wisdom that I proclaimed daily with my new tongue. There are many mysterious myths as to what really became of the first clapper. Some claim that the cruel boys had it made into iron K's which were worn for waterfobs. Others claim it was handed down from class to class for several years and that an unruly scamp stole it from its keeper and threw it into the old channel of the Blue. For many days the keeper searched for it but it could not be recovered.

"Anyway, I am still doing my duty despite of my hardships and will continue to do so, so long as the people whom I am serving do not abuse me too severely. My den is dusty and rickety and the birds nest close under the eaves of my cell. The wind sings by me with a chilly shriek, while all I can do is to shudder and shiver and say to myself, 'I am doing my duty.' I am weathered and worn, for I came to Kansas in the 60's and I don't regret it. Mr. Student, when you are hurrying along at the bid of my voice please don't say in contempt, 'There it goes,' for I have done my duty faithfully. I am the College Bell."

A straight line may be the shortest distance between two points, but it seems a mighty long way when you are bringing up the rear of the cafeteria line.

MEMBERSHIP CONTEST OPENS.

Students May Submit Manuscripts for Quill Membership.

The second contest of the year for membership to the Quill club is now open to all college students. The contest will close April 1.

OPEN ART EXHIBIT TODAY
IN HOME ECONOMICS BLDG.

Students May Get Free Tickets at the Registrar's Office—Others Charged 25 Cents.

The art exhibit, under the auspices of the home art department, opened today, and will continue until March 14. Students are admitted by a ticket, which they may procure at the registrar's office. A 25-cent admission fee will be charged to all others.

"Robert Henri and George Bellows are of the school of painters known as realists," said Miss Araminta Holman, instructor in home art. "Both of these painters have wonderfully good eyes, and their paintings give a person a feeling of seeing something keenly. The picture of 'Pat,' an Irish lad, is an excellent example of Henri's work.

"In contrast of Bellows' and Henri's works, we have John W. Alexander's 'Portrait.' This is beautiful and idealizes the model. Alexander was a portrait and mural painter of note. He designed the entire decoration of the east wing of the Carnegie institute at Pittsburgh.

"Frederick J. Waugh's 'Sun Path,' and William Ritschel's 'Golden Path,' are probably the best examples of marine paintings in the exhibit. 'November Evening' and 'First Snow,' by Gardner Symons are faithful interpretations of winter landscapes. Edward Redfield is another of the prominent landscape painters. John C. Johanson's 'Child With Kitten,' shows broad handling, but yet catches the spirit of childhood."

MANY ATTEND THE MIXER.

Pig Dinner Dance.

The Gamma Epsilon chapter of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity held its fifth annual pig dinner dance at Harrison's Hall Wednesday night. One hundred six persons attended the dinner and dance which followed. The fraternity colors of blue and pink were carried out at the dinner. Pink roses were given as favors to the girls. The place cards bore the crest of the fraternity. Haley's orchestra of Kansas City furnished music during the dinner. A formal dance followed the dinner. The hall was decorated in pink and blue. Streamers of pink and blue crepe paper were strung from the corners of the hall to a center arrangement of divans set off by palms. Curtains of pink and blue hung at the windows and the lights were shaded by pink and blue crepe paper streamers. The orchestra corner was set off by palms and a lattice work of crepe paper in the fraternity colors. Haley's orchestra furnished the music for dancing. The affair was attended by a large number of alumni of the chapter by Betas from the Nebraska and Kansas chapters of the fraternity, and by a number of out of town girls. Faculty members of the fraternity who acted as chaperones were: Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jardine, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. King, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCampbell, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. CHEAP CHAPS ARE CAUSE OF DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE

THEY HAVE A POOR SENSE OF VALUES, SAYS PROF. DICKENS.

It is Necessary to Have Chaperons to Look After Them--Are Not Exempt From State Laws Either.

A "chap" is an ordinary sort of a cheap sport and a "chaperone" is the person who looks after him, according to Albert Dickens, professor of horticulture, and chairman of the discipline committee, who spoke before student assembly Tuesday morning on "Chaps and Chaperones."

"The word chap," said Professor Dickens, "originated from the word cheap. Housewives called the grocers 'chaps' who did not give them the full value for their money. The word 'chaperone' originated perhaps in the early co-educational institutions where matrimony was the chief object of the students. 'Chaperones' are a topic of conversation when all other subjects fail."

"Chap Causes Trouble."

It is the cheap chap who causes a discipline committee to be in existence. Such a fellow has a poor idea of values. One fellow missed a class to make his tenth unexcused absence because a girl dared him to. He was sent from college and when he got back to the farm he realized that he had a poor sense of relative values.

"Chaperones cannot always be sure what is best for young people," continued Professor Dickens. "They must have a good sense of values. There are only a few cases brought before the discipline committee. Only a small percentage of the students' body makes this committee necessary."

"Because a man is a student is no sign that he is exempt from the laws of the state. As long as the state maintains the institutions, it has a right to expect the students to live up to its laws."

MAKE MONEY ON WASTE PAPER.

The College and Boy Scouts Sell $313 Worth.

More than 18 tons of waste paper was shipped to a paper mill in Marseilles, Ill., last week by the custodian of the college and the Boy Scouts of Manhattan. The Boy Scouts furnished four of the 18 tons. This paper is collected by the janitors and brought to a room back of the old chapel where it is bound in large bales and stored. When a carload has been accumulated it is sold.

The price of paper is exceptionally high now due to the war. A ton of the bound paper sells for $17. The Boy Scouts of the city will realize nearly $75 from their contribution to the carload of paper. The share of the college will be $238.

HAVE MANY SPRING FLOWERS.

College Greenhouse is Now a Flower Garden.

Spring flowers and plants now demand the attention of W. C. Calvert, greenhouse foreman.

Never before has the college had such a variety of Easter flowers. The beautiful Cinerarias are now blooming and already the white jonquils and yellow narcissus are unfolding. Varicolored hyacinths attract one's attention because of their fragrance.

Besides these are a large variety of potted plants with the primroses and marguerite daisies in bloom. The astilbe with its duo-colored leaves adds to the variety and is somewhat rare. Mr. Calvert expects a heavy Easter trade and has made preparations accordingly.

THE "K" FRATERNITY DANCES.

Will Hold Annual Affair at Harrison's Saturday Night.

The "K" fraternity will give its annual dance next Saturday night at Harrison's. Heretofore the "K" fraternity has used the annual "K" dance as a means of raising money for the organization. The new ruling on student dances has made dances for profit impossible. The fraternity decided not to dispense with this annual affair and are planning a big "do-in" to be given early in May as a means of raising money.

Only "K" men are invited to this dance. There are 36 active members in the organization. Several alumni members of the fraternity have signified their intention of attending the dance.

THE BIGGEST CHANCE YET.

"Movie Ball" to be Given in Convention Hall, Kansas City.

It seems to the casual observer quite a long step from K. S. A. C. to a Movie Ball to be held in Kansas City, March 6th, but it is not. The grand reception and ball will be known as the First Annual "Movie Ball," and will be given under the auspices of the Screen Club of Kansas City, and will really, if reports can be believed to any degree, be the biggest event as yet staged in "film-dom." Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will lead the Grand March and twenty other stars of the Silent Drama will add to the great occasion by their presence.

Miss Dorothy Norris and Miss Wanda Tetrick have been nominated and as they both are very popular college girls, they will no doubt receive a large vote and in the event of either of them being the winner it should be quite a notable thing for the college in general.

Votes are given with each admission ticket to the Marshall theatre, until the close of the contest, March 3, each cent paid calling for one vote. In addition to this, each purchase made at Cole Bros. entitles the purchaser to the same privilege, one vote for each cent. The voting is already spirited and in case a K. S. A. C. girl is to win the honors and favors outlined above it would be well for the college folks in general to remember the college entrees and vote accordingly.

"THE RETURN OF DRAW EGAN."

There is intense action from the opening right through to the finish in this wonderful production and there is plenty of good comedy to balance the tensely dramatic scenes. William Hart is cast in the title role. At the Warehouse theatre this afternoon and evening.

COLLEGE THIEVES ARE AT WORK

Steal Articles From Students Overcoat Pocket.

Within the last few weeks several petty thefts have been reported by students. One student reports the theft of two pairs of gloves within a week, another two pairs of gloves and a pair of pant-guards within two weeks. These articles were stolen from the pockets of overcoats which hung just outside the reserve room of the library.

Some miscreant stole a student's cap from under the chair on which the student sat while in chemistry lecture class. Several others have reported the theft of gloves, neck scarfs, and basketball tickets from their overcoat pockets, the robber helping himself while the students were attending class. Most of the thefts have occurred in the library building, the horticulture building and the new agricultural hall.

One or two malefactors are known and several suspects are being watched. It is stated that unless reparations are made within a short time, and those implicated immediately cease operations, some students will be obliged to make some embarrassing explanations.

Have An Engine for Housewife.

A new portable two cycle air cooled one-half horse power gas engine was received by the gas engine laboratory last Monday from the Maytag company, of Newton, Ia. This little engine was designed to take the place of an electrical motor on the farm where no source of electrical power is available. It will churn, run a washing machine, and perform other similar duties. The little engine weighs only 38 pounds--complete with shipping tag.

E. D. Richardson, M. E., '06, has stopped here while on his way to Wichita to attend the Threshermen's convention. Mr. Richardson is cutting some gears for the tractor he made when preparing his thesis. Mr. Richardson has invented a threshing machine since he graduated and he now runs a large repair shop at Cawker City.

SHOULD HAVE BETTER CARE.
Students With Contagious Diseases Should be Isolated.

That better provision should be made for the care and confinement of students who have contagious diseases, is the opinion of Dr. C. M. Stever, college physician. Under present conditions it is sometimes necessary to quarantine all the students in a house where only one has a contagious disease.

At present, three students, H. J. Carr, H. Johnson and C. B. Griffith, are being confined because of scarlet fever in the old house which once served as the president's residence. Two of the rooms have been renovated and fitted up as an improvised hospital ward. Beds, bedding and other equipment necessary for the convenience of these students has been installed in the building by the college and it is the hope of Dr. Stever that this may be supplemented and added to until the department will be able to care for such cases more conveniently and efficiently.

To properly safeguard the health of the student body and as a matter of economy such a ward should be maintained, it is stated. The three students now confined in the ward are from houses in which a total of 37 persons are rooming. Since means have been provided for caring for diseased students persons exposed to contagious diseases have to be quarantined only seven days. This is for the purpose of detecting and checking any new cases. If students sick with contagious diseases were kept at their rooming houses all the others would have to be quarantined there also for a period of 35 days.

Gives Illustrated Lecture.

Students in engineering were given an illustrated lecture Tuesday afternoon on the subject of water wheels. The Pelton Water Wheel company sent the department more than 75 stereopticon lantern slides together with a manuscript explaining each of the slides. L. E. Conrad, professor of civil engineering, was in charge of the lecture and explained the views as they were thrown on the screen.

TWO STUDENTS BADLY INJURED.

Steam Turbine Burst Injuring Dawson and Brooks.

A serious accident occurred Thursday morning in the dairy building when a steam turbine cream tester exploded injuring J. R. Dawson, senior in dairy husbandry, and W. H. Brooks, junior in dairy husbandry.

The two men were testing cream samples when the accident took place. The steam had just been turned into the machine when the steel jacket enclosing the tester exploded throwing pieces of steel violently about the room.

Both hands of Mr. Dawson were badly cut and one rib broken by the flying steel. He was taken to Dr. C. M. Sievers's office in Anderson hall where several stitches had to be taken in his right hand. He is not yet able to attend classes. Mr. Brooks escaped with slighter injury. A piece of the steel struck him on the head knocking him unconscious but he was able to attend classes the next day.

W. J. Boston of the Westinghouse machine company of Pittsburgh, Penn., expects to visit the college and talk to the students in mechanical engineering about the work of the Westinghouse Machine company. The Winners of Intersociety Oratorical Contest

ARTHUR W. BOYER
Hamilton
First Place

STELLA STRAIN
Eurodelphian
Second Place

W. G. BRUCE
Webster
Third Place

(Leo C. Moser.)

A large audience of students and townspeople, Saturday evening, greeted the appearance of the eight orators who represented their respective literary societies in the Annual Intersociety Oratorical contest. Prof. H. H. King presided. The sections reserved for the eight literary societies were elaborately decorated and the great auditorium presented a gala appearance. In every group appeared the faces of alumni who had returned for this interesting event of the college year. Enthusiasm was abundant. Demonstrations by the different organizations began at 7:00 and continued until 7:45.

Varied musical numbers, pleasing and well chosen—a melody chorus, solos, vocal and violin, an octette, and quartets—rendered by the representatives of the literary societies, preceded each oration.

Arthur W. Boyer.

Arthur W. Boyer of Scranton, junior in industrial journalism, representing the Hamilton Literary society, won first place in the contest with an oration entitled "America and Japan," which upheld the right and duty of the United States to "wage a conciliating war of Christianization and education" in the Orient—"backed by the dreadnaughts of industry and commerce." Mr. Boyer declared that the United States should "settle her Oriental issues justly and definitely" and in the contingency of Oriental politics menacing the peace of the Pacific, "it is not for America to act the Pilate of the twentieth century, but rather to demonstrate to the world that democracy is an established axiom, and that justice makes right between nations as between men."

Mr. Boyer has represented K. S. A. C. in two intercollegiate debates, is an active member in literary organizations of the college, and an E student. Mr. Boyer is "working his way" through college but this has not restricted a general interest in college activities.

His literary and journalistic productions are finished and thorough, and have that value which arouses interest by reason of timeliness and apt comparisons. His presentation was characterized by a sympathetic attitude toward his audience which carried conviction. He has a pleasing personality on the platform and a easy, natural delivery inseparable from the person.

Mr. Boyer is a member of the Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity; Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity; American College Quill club, national literary organization; Forum, local honorary debating; and editor-in-chief of the Kansas State Collegian, the student paper of the college.

Miss Stella Strain.

Miss Stella Strain of Phillipsburg, junior in home economics, representing the Eurodelphian Literary society, won second honors in the contest with a highly original production entitled, "Home Rule or Sinn Fein."

"England has failed to perceive that an Irishman might become a loyal Briton, yet remain an Irishman," said Miss Strain, and so "England has thought to make Englishmen, of an alien race by crushing out love of native land, as one who would build patriotism by first destroying it."

"King George has given Ireland a meaner constitution than his father gave to South Africa." Resentment to injustice has given rise to the Republican Ireland movement, Sinn Fein, which has grown enormously in the past year. Ireland consists of a people "too miserable to dread greater misery—too worn with long waiting to wait longer." England controls the ultimate relationship of herself with Ireland. Shall it be "Home Rule or Sinn Fein?"—The small nationality coerced into rebellion or the small nationality protected? England may choose.

Miss Strain graduated as valedictorian from the Phillipsburg high school. Her work in college ranks her as an E student and she will complete the four-year course in three years. She is partially self supporting. The judges on delivery likewise expressed a high regard for her work from the standpoint of thought and composition. Miss Strain is to be congratulated on offering such strong competition for first honors.

W. G. Bruce.

W. G. Bruce of New York City, senior in animal husbandry, representing the Webster Literary society, won third place in the contest with a plea for the awakening of the public mind to the formulation of concerted ideals and action of a national character to the end of realizing "A Greater Democracy."

"America stands imperiled because of disintegration," declared Mr. Bruce. "We are society's greatest debtors, we are the richest inheritors of the ages; let us unite then to make America free and begin a universal reincarnation of the basic ideals of brotherhood. And so shall America fulfill the promise of her inception."

Mr. Bruce won the society oratorical contest when he was a speaker in the third year of the school of agriculture. He is now a member of the college orchestra, Saddle and Sirolo club, captain of Company I of the college cadet corps, and had held many other positions of honor and trust in college organizations. He is self supporting.

Riley McGarraugh.

Riley McGarraugh, of Mulvane, senior in general science, and well known debater of the college, presented an oration on "The Public Paramount" in which he called to mind the fact that in all disputes between labor and capital, such as the last imminent danger presented by the threatened railroad strike, that the interest of the public was paramount to every issue. While he would not see labor at the mercy of capital or capital at the mercy of labor, he maintained that the government has a right to see to it that the public does not suffer.

Rachel Clark.

Rachel Clark, of Eskridge, senior in home economics, represented the Browning Literary society. "A Task of the Twentieth Century" was for the existing manhood to learn to conquer himself even as the men of the nineteenth century had conquered nature. More than 10,000,000 people in our own enlightened country are below the poverty line—a result of the power machine and factory. This fact Miss Clark showed, presented a condition fraught with danger to America of tomorrow and she urged legislation and education to the end of eliminating the evils and bringing about man's mastery of himself.

James A. Hull.

James A. Hull of Stafford, senior in architecture, representing the Athenian Literary society, a debater and an active man in several other college organizations delivered a clean cut indictment against those citizens of all countries who were combined in promoting "The Business of War." Mr. Hull compared the national evils, which are continued primarily because of the profits to a class, to the Navy league and combined munition manufacturers who are promoting the sale of munitions, until the "chivalry of combat has given way to mechanical slaughter."

Marie Johnston.

Marie Johnston, Manhattan, junior in home economics, debater, represented the Franklin Literary society with a plea for social justice in "Society and the Ex-Convict." Miss Johnston showed that prison may reform a man, that the man may be willing to live in accordance with law and convention, that he is seeking neither pity nor charity—he asks only a fighting chance and society refuses to be either just or generous.

Hattie Droll.

Hattie Droll, Wichita, junior in home economics, represented the Ionian Literary society with an oration representing almost entirely original thought, "The Woman of Yesterday." It was because the woman of yesterday had a vision of the proper rank of womanhood in the world of affairs and, earing God, kept that ideal before her, Miss Droll explained, that the woman of today is the conspicuous figure on the stage of the twentieth century. It is her duty to hand down that legacy of freedom to the woman of tomorrow.

The three judges on thought and composition were Prof. A. B. Noble, Iowa State college; Percy H. Boynton, University of Wisconsin; Prof. J. M. O'Neil, University of Missouri. The judges on delivery who were present at the contest were: J. P. Froit, professor of literature in William Jewell college; F. L. Gilson, professor of public speaking at Emporia Normal college; O. H. Burns, associate professor of public speaking in Kansas university; and Mr. Foster, professor of law in Nebraska university.

"As a whole the thought and composition was better than last year" according to J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking. "For the most part the orators did better in their presentation than they have ever done in practice. They relied upon their own initiative and found their audience, a thing that I like to see in a public speaker."

Each of the judges stated they had never attended such a closely contested oratorical, and expressed surprise at the keen interest and enthusiasm on the part of the different factions, and intra-mural spirit that they never seen displayed at any other institution, large or small.

While the decisions of the judges were being opened by the oratorical board, four original stunts were staged by joint groups of the literary societies.

Each of the societies served refreshments in honor of guests and alumni members in their society halls immediately after the oratorical. The custom of holding banquets in downtown dining halls was broken this year by reason of a new faculty ruling which would not allow chaperones to act officially after 12:00 p. m. The late hour at which the contest always closes would not allow time for serving, and the societies have planned to hold their banquets during March or the early part of the spring term.

SIX COLLEGE STUDENTS ESCAPE DEATH IN A FIRE

Leap From Second Story Windows to the Ground—Several of the Students Lose Clothing.

Six college students, who were rooming at the residence of Mrs. A. F. Dooley, 1014 Laramie, narrowly escaped death in a fire early Saturday morning. One of the members of the family, aroused by the pungent odor of burning wood, discovered the flames and awakened the other inmates of the dwelling, who escaped scantily clad.

The students were rooming on the second floor, and finding their exit via the stairway cut off by the flames, threw mattresses and bed clothing to the ground and leaped from the windows upon them. No one was injured.

Several of the students lost part of their belongings, and it is reported that one student who escaped in his bathrobe, was forced to borrow clothing in order that he might attend classes. All of his clothing was burned.

It is stated that the fire started near the furnace and had burned for an hour or more before it was discovered. An alarm was immediately turned in, but according to neighbors, the flames broke out twice after the firemen had left. While attempting to put out the flames, Paul Dooley slipped on an ice-coated porch and fell, injuring both ankles.

It is believed that had the persons sleeping in the house been awakened when they were there might have been some deaths. Nearly all the furniture was removed from the house. The damage to the house is estimated at $1,000.

An Aggie Grad Going Up.

Dr. J. J. Frey, a graduate of the college, who has been working in Chicago as government meat inspector, arrived in Manhattan for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Frey, who live two miles north of the city. Mr. Frey left Sunday night for Sacramento, Cal., where he has been appointed state veterinary pathologist.

MISSOURI TIGERS LEAD IN VALLEY STANDINGS

AGGIES MUST TAKE NEXT FOUR GAMES TO WIN PENNANT.

Possible Defeat of Tigers by St. Louis Pickers and a Splitting of Series at Columbia Would Give Purple Five Lead.

The Missouri Tigers have mounted to the top of the Missouri Valley standings, breaking the tie in which they had been knotted with the Aggies. A pair of defeats that the Columbia athletes handed the Kansas Jayhawkers was the cause of the Tigers' rise, and also eliminated the Lawrence troupe from the race.

The valley championship chase has now resolved itself into a contest between the Kansas Aggies and Missourians, with the odds at present slightly favoring the Tigers. To win the championship, the Clevenger troupe must take a pair of contests from the Washington men of St. Louis next Friday and Saturday, and must then repeat in their battles with the Tiger team at Columbia. In other words, four more games must be added to the present record of six consecutive conference victories if the valley pennant comes to Manhattan.

The Standing.

The standing of the two leading troupes, with four games, those with the Aggies and a pair of battles with Washington at St. Louis, left on the Tiger schedule, and with two two-game series remaining to be played by the Aggies, is as follows:

	G	W	L	Pct
Missouri	10	8	2	.800
Kansas Aggies	8	6	2	.750

Although the Aggies are at present lagging in second place, the results of the concluding games of the season can easily place the Purple troupe in first place. Should Washington rise and trim the Tigers in both of the Washington-Missouri contests, the Aggies would have clear sailing to the championship, even should they succeed in splitting the series with the Tigers. Such a result would leave the race as follows:

	G	W	L	Pct
Kansas Aggies	12	9	3	.750
Missouri	14	10	4	.714

It Is Improbable.

But even a single triumph over the Missourians by the St. Louis Pickers is possible, but improbable. The Washington quintet, even with the advantage of playing on their home court, which is irregular in size, will be forced to show a marked improvement over the form exhibited here if they take so much as a single game from the Columbia quintet. And there is just as much possibility of the Aggies losing to Washington as there is of a Missouri defeat at the hands of the Pickers.

The dope finally comes to the analysis that the Aggies must win both games with the Washington troupe, and repeat against Missouri, as the Tigers will in all probability trim the Pickers in both contests. Figured on this basis, the valley standings of the two teams would appear as follows at the end of the season:

	G	W	L	Pct
Kansas Aggies	12	10	2	.834
Missouri	14	10	4	.714

A split series at Columbia, following dual victories by both the Tigers and the Aggies over Washington, would give Missouri a lead of .035 points at the end of the season:

	G	W	L	Pct
Missouri	14	11	3	.785
Kansas Aggies	12	9	3	.750

NEGROES ROB COLLEGE STUDENT.

Hold up L. B. Wilson and Get 55 Cents.

L. B. Wilson, of 1029 Humboldt, special student in veterinary medicine, was held up in front of 208 N. Eleventh street about midnight Sunday and robbed at the point of a gun by two negroes, Lloyd Smith, 18, and Will Golsby, 21.

The robbers missed some change in the pocket of Wilson and also overlooked his watch, which he carried in a watch pocket in his trousers. As they threw back his coat the watch fell, was pulled back and covered up. His pocketbook, containing 55 cents, was taken.

Both negroes have been arrested and it is stated that if convicted they will be sent to the state reformatory at Hutchinson. Both have been inmates of the state reformatory at Topeka.

COLLEGE THIEVES.

Quite a number of students have made complaints recently regarding the theft of gloves, neck scarfs, basketball tickets and other articles which have been taken from their overcoat pockets while they were at class. Others have had their hats, caps, and rubbers stolen.

The culprit or culprits who are doing this dastardly work seem to and may think they are getting away with it for the present, but there always comes a day of reckoning. More than one student has had to face a trying ordeal for just such capers. If every conscientious student will take it upon himself to act as a private detective, keep an eye on suspects, and report crooks to the discipline committee, we will be able to eliminate these leeches from the student body.

It is, indeed, deplorable when a student will so belittle and disgrace himself and his school, by lowering himself to such an extent as to commit petty larceny. An uneducated professional robber would command more respect in a minute than such a student robber could command in a year. It takes brains to be a professional safe "buster" and this is something which apparently our petty thieves do not have. Such a student cannot expect to command the respect of his associates, whose estimation of him soon comes to be a minus quantity, and they class him among the most contemptible of specimens.

The quicker some action is taken to put such students where they belong, the better off the student body will be. Such a state of affairs cannot be allowed to continue to exist for if it does, honest students will soon be compelled to continually keep their personal belongings "under their thumb" if they expect to keep them.

OUR HOSPITAL WAID.

K. S. A. C. has, for a number of years, looked after the health of its students, and for the past two or three years has employed a college doctor to give the students free medical attention. However, since the college has no hospital ward of its own, and whenever a student becomes seriously ill or contracts a contagious disease, he is obliged to remain at his rooming house.

One or two other state educational institutions of Kansas and similar institutions of other states find it to their advantage to have hospital wards for their students. Since K. S. A. C. is among the largest of the state educational institutions, and since there are more than 3000 students enrolled here during the school year, it is evident that we should have such a building.

Further than this, present circumstances warrant a college hospital. A number of students are quarantined now because of scarlet fever, and those suffering from this disease are confined in the old stone building south of the veterinary building. Circumstances such as this arise every year; large numbers of students are given treatment and directions by the college physicians, but few follow directions to the letter and the result is often a seriously sick student. By having a college hospital ward where students who deserve special treatment, could be sent for a few days, the health of the student body would be better and it would be easier to control contagious diseases.

Girls Don't Know Anything.

"Speaking of the dirt we eat, think of eating bread when the farmers walk in the wheat and even expectorate in it," shuddered the short skirted co-ed hobbling along on her high heels beside the matter-of-fact agricultural student.

"Ah, shucks, flour's cleaner than any of that fool salad dressing that you eat," said the man. "Come on over to the college mill and I will show you."

"Oh, have we a real mill here, right in this school?" giggled the ignorant one.

"You bet we have. It is a cracker jack too, been here since 1906. An Allus Chalmers was then installed for experimental use and in 1911 the legislature gave us money for a larger well equipped modern mill, to be installed in the east wing of the Ag building."

"Oh, how perfectly wonderful," gushed the girl.

"Our mill has a capacity of 100 barrels—"

"Are they all over in the new Ag building?"

"I mean that we can make 100 barrels of flour in 24 hours. It is good flour, too. You use it to make those miniature cookies over in the D. S. department. We sell some of it too. We might grow rich if it were not that we are far away from the railroad."

"I can't see why all those barrels keep the flour from being 'dirty'?" questioned the all interested.

"Well, when wheat goes through several scouring machines and is dusted, and tempered and goes through 8 double stands of rolls, two square sifters containing six sections 12 sieves high, and three reels, do you think it can have even a tiny microbe in it?" asked the man. "The horses eat the outside covering of the wheat any way."

"I see, but why do we have a mill here? Do we raise that much wheat?"

"In a state like this where we raise 88 millions of bushels of wheat and mill 60 millions of bushels it is highly important that experiments are carried on and that men are taught how to mill wheat properly."

"How wonderfully interesting, I better go to class now. Thank you for telling me. I should like to see the mill."

"Girls don't know any thing," thought the disgristed man.

One of the greatest advantages of college life is the meeting with noted people. The visit of Miss Farbell, the foremost woman journalist of the United States, was an inspiration to the students.

Is K. S. A. C. lacking in patriotism or was it a careless oversight that the flag was not hoisted over Anderson hall February 12?

It must be hard luck to have Cupid rope you in and not be able to meet the adored one, chapel hour without someone writing you up.

No doubt the professors believe that "Great minds run in the same direction," after they have graded a number of note-books.

If you can't gain a reputation in any other way, it might be wise to break-out with measles in a crowded class room.

Mid-term quizzes are over, the note books are in and peace reigns again on the hill.

"THE PRICE OF SILENCE."

William Farnum takes the leading role in this photodrama on the subject of child labor. The picture has had the endorsement of President Wilson and Congress. "No state, no home, no industry, has the right to rob the child of its childhood."

At the Wareham Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. No advance in prices will be made on this unusually strong production.

THE Y. W. C. A. GIVES A FARCE.

An Original Play Which Describes a Day's Activities.

The missionary farce, which was scheduled for an earlier meeting and had to be postponed, will be given on Thursday by the Y. W. C. A. at 4:30 o'clock in the rest room of the home economics building. The farce is original and based upon a working day of Miss Kathedine Vance, the Y. W. C. A. city secretary at Tein-sein, China.

Miss Vance has written the association a vivid description of an average day's activities, enclosing kodak pictures and describing personal traits of some of the Chinese girls who are associated with her. The girls feel that they will be able to make the farce quite realistic with Miss Vance's suggestions. Eight girls comprise the cast and they will be in costume.

Miss Vance is the representative in China of the student associations of Kansas, Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming, and the local association is the first to feature a farce based upon her work there. A real Chinese dinner will be served, which will be modeled after Miss Vance's description of dinners she has attended there. Special music will be a feature.

The Y. W. C. A. is planning a series of meetings during March on "What Men Live By, Work, Play, Love and Worship."

WAR CORRESPONDENT SPEAKS.

Potter Will Tell of Experience in French Trenches.

Students in the classes in industrial journalism and other college students who desire to attend, will have an opportunity this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to hear Dean David Potter of the Kansas university who will speak on the "Work of a War Correspondent in the Present War."

Mr. Potter has spent the past year in France, where he represented a Pittsburgh newspaper on which he was formerly employed. The lecture will be open to the public and will be held in the old chapel.

Wants an Agriculturist.

C. B. Brown, U. S. department of agriculture, office of dry land agriculture, will be here March 1 to secure a man to assist him in his soil work at the Garden City experiment station. While here he will speak at the agronomy seminar at 3:30 Thursday afternoon in room 63 of the new Ag. All students interested in dry land farming are invited to attend the meeting.

The wood lathes designed and built in the college engineering shops have been so successful in practical use that the engineering faculty have been busy designing new engine lathes to be used in the college machine shop. The new lathes will carry farther than ever before the safety always plan and they will be more powerful and more convenient than the lathes used in the machine shop at present.

The Kansas branch of the National association of stationary engineers is planning to have a meeting at the college May 2-4. This association consists of the power plant engineers of the country and it will be the first time since their organization that they have met at an educational institution.

Mrs. F. E. Thompson of Republic spent Sunday and Monday in Manhattan visiting her grandchildren, Esther and W. K. Charles. She left for Topeka Monday afternoon.

A DESERT MESSAGE.

"Garden of Allah" Will Play at Marshall, March 7.

That remarkable spectacular drama, "The Garden of Allah," about which so much has been heard, will make its first appearance here at the Marshall Theatre, March 7.

The mysterious silence of the desert night, big golden stars shining down, the dawn wind just freshening in the East and sweeping over the dreary sand dunes, with wolves howling in the distance—all this is only part of the startling realistic scenes of "The Garden of Allah," which transports the audience to the Far East. As the curtain lifts on one beautiful scene after another, one sits silent, drinking in the full magical effect, as the tense tragic story of the love of a beautiful woman and a Trappist monk is unfolded.

DOES THE AGGIE CO-ED HAVE AN EQUAL CHANCE?

Statistics Gathered at The College
Postoffice Indicate That She Doesn't.

Seven letters a week to his girl at home! Does the Aggie co-ed have any chance against such odds?

Figures at the college post office show that 1,675 letters are sent out daily—enough to average one letter a day to the girl at home. An average of 522,600 letters are sent out every year.

Not only letters are sent but candy, flowers, valentines, pictures and numerous packages that make the heart's flutter. The same figures show that 1,800 pounds of second class mail leave the post office every week.

The fact that 8,196 pieces of college mail are handled by the post office each week indicate that it is possible for each college man to send four notes a week to college girls.

However sly the boys may be in their remembrance of the girl at home post office reports show that enough letters are sent in weekly to average eight letters for every girl in college.
An average of 8,010 weekly incoming letters are received every week at the office.

The 57,834 copies of the Collegian and more than one-eighth of 126,000 of Industrialists mailed each school year are handled by the college post office.

Even though the mere sight of examination paper is abhorred, yet 1,200 pounds were given from the office window within six weeks. Stamps and notebooks seem almost as popular as the examination paper for $2329 worth of note books and $3,687 stamps were sold in a year.

HAVE A NEW PLAN FOR DRILL.

One Battalion Is on Parade Each Period.

A new plan of having a battalion parade every drill hour has been inaugurated by the military department.
The first battalion under the command of cadet Major Kenyon will give a parade Monday afternoon. All of the cadets have received their uniforms but are only required to wear them on the day that they drill on the parade ground.

The first battalion drills on the campus Monday, the second battalion on Wednesday and the third battalion on Friday.

The band will be out in full uniform for every formation and the regulation ceremony for "retreat" will be held, the flag that flies over the armory being lowered at the last note of "The Star Spangled Banner."

A. A. Potter, dean of the division of mechanic arts, addressed the general assembly of the students of the Manhattan high school Friday, February 23, on the subject "Educational Preparedness."

KNOSTMAN'S

A college student never knows what he is going to have to buy tomorrow or next week. It may be a suit of clothes, a tennis outfit, or a box of shoe polish. The one thing certain is that he is going to have to buy something.

The business of the Kittell Clothing Store is to find out what the student is going to need and have it ready for him. The next time you have a feeling you are going to have to buy something, ask us about it.

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

VOLUME 23. NUMBER 42

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

TO BE A GALA WEEK DURING MARCH 13-18

ALL PLANS FOR ENTERTAINMENT HAVE BEEN COMPLETED.

The First Number Will be a Concert by College Orchestra—the Last Number a Sacred Concert—"Man from Home" a Feature.

The program for festival week beginning Tuesday, March 13, and ending Sunday evening, March 18, has been definitely arranged and work is going rapidly forward in preparing the different numbers for presentation.

The first entertainment of the week will be a concert given Tuesday evening at eight o'clock by the college orchestra. Under the direction of R. H. Brown, professor of violin, the orchestra is preparing an entertainment which will uphold its reputation for playing high class compositions.

On Friday, 18th, at eight o'clock the opera "Robin Hood" will be presented by the Apollo club and the Girls' Glee club. This is in the light opera class, the presentation of which is seldom attempted by local companies, according to A. E. Westbrook, director of music.

Give Four Act Comedy.

"The Man from Home," a four-act comedy, will be presented Saturday evening at eight o'clock under the direction of J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking. The form which is being shown by the cast of "Robin Hood" and "The Man from Home" is exceeding the expectations of the coaches, according to Chas. R. Adamson, director of publicity for the festival week.

Cecil Fanning, America's greatest concert baritone, will give a concert Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Mr. Fanning is an American artist who has sung all over the United States and England and in some parts of Canada. He is recognized by critics as the best interpretative singer in the recital field.

The last number of the program of the week will be a sacred concert given on Sunday evening at 7:30 by the K. S. A. C. choral society. The chorus has a larger enrollment this term than last and the work is progressing splendidly, states Professor Westbrook, director of the chorus. The music of this concert is very singable and of a light and graceful nature that lends itself to a chorus of this size. The program of the evening will be divided into two parts, the first consisting of anthems and the second of the cantata, "Gallia."

Season tickets for the festival week can be secured from Professor Westbrook or Chas. R. Adamson for $1.50 and $1.00. Single admission will be 75 and 50 cents for each number.

PROMINENT GRADUATES WED.

Donald Jordan and Juanita Reynolds Married Tuesday.

A wedding of interest in college circles occurred at the home of Kappa Kappa Gamma at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when Miss Juanita Reynolds became the bride of Mr. Donald Jordan.

The guests were the members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma and Acacia fraternities. The bride couple were preceded down the stairs by Miss Teresa Goodwyn and Miss Mildred Warring as ribbon bearers. Miss Marie Beeman was maid of honor and Mr. Albert Acres best man. Miss Elizabeth Cotton was flower girl. The bride and groom took their places in a bower just beyond the living room where the Rev. S. B. Moore performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white tulle trimmed in lace. The bride veil was caught in a bonnet-like fashion with lilies of the valley.

Miss Reynolds was popular in social circles and college activities. She was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma, Omicron Nu, and Phi Kappa Phi fraternities.

Mr. Jordan was a member of the Acacia and Gamma Sigma Delta fraternities. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are graduates of the college in the class of '16.

After the wedding, a four course dinner dance was given at Harrison's hall. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan left Tuesday night for their home in Topeka where Mr. Jordan has a position as city milk inspector.

ORATORICAL TRYOUTS APRIL 1.

Missouri Valley Contest Open to All Students.

The tryouts for the Missouri valley oratorical contest will be held April 1 under the supervision of the public speaking department. The contest is open to all students taking collegiate work.

Drake university expects to pay the expenses of the orator who will go from here to Des Moines, Ia., for the contest.

All orations must be in the hands of the public speaking department by March 15. If there are more than eight orations presented it may be necessary to hold a preliminary contest. Five judges will decide upon the person who will be sent to the contest, thus making it impossible for one judge to cast out an orator.

Orations must not be more than 2,000 words in length and the only subject that is barred is one of a controversial religious nature. Judging of the contestants will be on the basis of general effectiveness. Thought and composition will not be considered in the judging except as they attribute to general effectiveness.

"Here is a chance for men and women not in literary society work to demonstrate their inability along oratorical lines," said J. G. Emerson, head of the public speaking department. "The fact that the type of oration we expect to produce in this event is to be the practical effective kind rather than the elocutionary type ought to make it doubly attractive to all students."

A NOTED ENGLISH WOMAN TO BE HERE MARCH 4-11

Alice Ravenhill, of London, will Address Students and Faculty at 4:30 Each Afternoon.

Miss Alice Ravenhill, of London, probably the best known leader in the development of home economics in England, will spend the coming week—March 4 to 11—at the Kansas State Agricultural college. She will speak at 4:30 o'clock each afternoon to students and teachers of home economics and other persons interested. On Thursday she will speak under the auspices of the Omicron Nu sorority on "The Home Economics Movement in England."

Miss Ravenhill is the author of reports on the teaching of home economics in European countries and in the United States, she having acted as investigator for the English board of education. She is the author of textbooks on household administration and other subjects. Miss Ravenhill is inspector of domestic science teaching in England and lecturer on hygiene and household education in King's College of Women, University of London, and is a member of the advisory board of women's institutes of British Columbia. She has lectured in numerous American universities.

DR. GREENE GIVES LECTURES.

Talks to Otta U. Students on Hygiene and Social Problems.

Dr. Marie A. Greene, assistant in the department of student health of the college went to Ottawa the first of the week to deliver a series of lectures to the students of the university there.

A request came to Dr. Greene for these lectures to be given at Ottawa last fall but she was unable to give them at that time. A short time ago another request came urging her to give the lectures to the Ottawa university students. Arrangements were made that made it possible for the request to be granted.

Dr. Greene gives seven lectures to the young women of Ottawa university, two to the young men and one to a general assembly. The subject matter of these lectures is similar to that given in her course to the young men and women of the college here.

DR. GREENE WRITES A CODE.

Is State Representative in National Competition.

Milton Fairchild, son of ex-President George T. Fairchild of this college, is chairman of the board of directors of the national institution for moral instruction. This board is holding a national $5,000 morality code competition. It has representatives from every state writing moral codes for the instruction of children in schools and homes.

W. D. Ross, state superintendent, appointed Dr. Marie Greene, of this college, as the Kansas representative in this contest. She has completed her code and sent it in to the headquarters at Washington.

STUDENTS WOULD FIGHT IF WAR WERE DECLARED

MANY WOULD BE CAPABLE OF OFFICERING VOLUNTEERS.

More Than 800 Cadets Receive Instruction in Military Training—Kansas Is Prepared, Says Sergeant Claeren.

If the United States should enter war, hundreds of students in the Kansas State Agricultural college would be capable of officering volunteer regiments, according to E. L. Claeren, retired commissary sergeant in the United States army and assistant to the commandant at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The college military department has an enrollment of 800 cadets under the supervision of a captain of the regular army, L. O. Matthews, detailed by the war department as commandant of cadets. Discipline is administered by cadet officers under the general direction of the commandant and the assistant commandant.

Have Twelve Companies.

The regiment is composed of three battalions of four companies each, an engineering company, a machine gun company and a 30-piece band. These cadets are drilled three hours a week. The course in military training covers a period of two years and is required of every man who obtains a degree.

The college maintains a standard target range, one of the few standard ranges west of the Mississippi river. Two rapid fire guns, issued to the department by the government, are handled by a special company of students from the engineering division. The engineering company is handled by students from the senior class of the engineering division and the training that the cadets receive gives them the rudiments of military field engineering.

Kansas Is Prepared.

"Kansas is one of the leading states in military preparedness," commented Sergeant Claeren. "This department ranks fifth in military efficiency among all the land grant colleges in the United States. The names of all commissioned officers of the college cadet corps who are graduated are filed by the war department in Washington. These men will get the first offers for commissions in case of a call for volunteer regiments."

SHIELDS LEADS IN CONTEST.

Has Margin of 2 Column Inches in Industrialist Race.

The winter term Industrialist contest which is being conducted by the Journalism department is now in full swing and P. Q. Shields, junior in Journalism, takes first place with 35.5 column inches to his credit, Lester Greenbank, special in general science, second with 31.5 column inches, and G. W. Rhine, junior in horticulture, third with 29 column inches.

Fourth fifth and sixth places are held by Zenith Mullen, Erba Kaull, and Edward Wells, with 28.5, 23.5 and 19 column inches to their credit respectively. Sixteen contestants are entered.

B. Q. Shields, who leads at present, was the winner of the first prize offered by the Journalism department in a similar contest which was conducted last spring term. It is stated that there will be a considerable change in the ranking of the contestants when their standing is next computed.

TREATS THEM ALL ALIKE.

College Extension Division Employs Extension Agent for Negro Farmers.

An extension agent for negro farmers has been employed by the division of extension of the agricultural college.

F. W. Kirk of Oklahoma City, born and brought up on the farm in Oklahoma and a graduate of Langston Agricultural college, will spend much time in assisting the colored people in the small villages and towns of Kansas in gardening, canning, and poultry work. Mr. Kirk has had special training and experience in gardening and truck growing. His headquarters will be at the agricultural college. Any village or country community may make application for his services.

The art exhibit is open from eight to five o'clock every day, and some person will talk about the pictures from four to five o'clock every afternoon.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS OUT OF DANGER IN EUROPE

ARE NOT ALLOWED TO GO INTO ZONES OF HEAVY FIGHTING.

D. L. Patterson, Professor of History at K. U., Tells of Experiences in French Trenches Last Summer.

The French government goes to much trouble and expense in protecting the war correspondents near the battle line in Europe, according to D. L. Patterson, professor of European history in the University of Kansas, and a recent war correspondent in France for the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, who spoke to the faculty and students in the old chapel at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

"The French are careful about protecting all war correspondents whether French or of a neutral nation," said Mr. Patterson. "The journalists are not allowed to go into the war zone where heavy fighting is taking place because they would not stand more than one chance in a hundred of coming back alive. I was allowed to visit the front line trenches at Rheims, France, because there was no severe fighting going on at this sector of the battle line at that time."

Make One Trip a Month.

At present neutral correspondents are allowed to go to the front only once a month. Every two weeks a number of journalists are taken to the lines but each time they are men from different news associations. French and English correspondents are at the front almost continuously.

The newspapers of France are very small. Most of the papers consist of four pages. Many of these small sheets are the personal papers of politicians which were formerly published to air their radical political views. When the war broke out the political parties were united and are now working for the common good of France.

"I went to Europe to study the social and economical conditions of the country and to take up again the newspaper work in which I had formerly been engaged. Every where I found the French hospitable and they have nothing but the friendliest feeling towards the United States."

NO CODE FOR CHOOSING FRIENDS

Must Let Moral Instincts Decide Says Mr. Fisher.

There is one general principle which will invariably aid one in choosing friends, according to Dr. Drury Hill Fisher, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke to the students of the college, Wednesday morning, on "My Friends."

"A code of rules to be followed in choosing one's friends would be impracticable, but there is a general principle which can be followed—let the moral instincts decide. There is something in every pure girl that tells her when she is in the presence of a bad man."

"The staunchest friendships are founded on cleanness. The soldering of tin requires that both pieces be perfectly clean before the solder is applied. The greatest discovery in medicine was the discovery of dirt and once recognized, it was removed so that normal development and recovery might be brought about. In the same manner the staunchest, most wholesome friendships are clean friendships."

"I don't suggest pious talking. But David and Jonathan—don't smile—prayed for each other. They were better men for knowing each other. So should you be a better man for your friendships."

"I can think of one doing a great work, perhaps occupying a great place in history without love. But that man is not a noble character. Napoleon Bonaparte is an example of that type. The best man and the greatest man needs true friendship."

"The college circle makes it possible to meet many people. We perhaps meet more people than we would in any other sort of community. But one should not let your friends build your world for you. Acquaintances, good or bad, will respect you for drawing certain lines."

Dr. E. H. Reiser, associate professor of education, returned last night from Kansas City where he has been attending a superintendents meeting. He will meet all his classes today.

* COMPANY COMES AFTER THEM.

Denver Gas and Electric Wants Electrical Engineers.

N. J. Dicks, secretary of the educational department of the Denver Gas & Electric company, spent Wednesday afternoon at the college interviewing the senior electrical engineering students with the view of interesting them in taking up work with this company.

The Denver Gas & Electric company is one of more than 150 plants throughout the country which the Doherty corporation control and operates. The Denver Gas & Electric company is the same concern that is now negotiating with Kansas City and the state of Kansas for a franchise to operate the Kansas National Gas company and to furnish this territory with gas.

Recent graduates of the college now employed by the company are A. M. Butcher, '16, J. G. Phinney, '16, L. C. Gelsendorf, '15, and H. E. Butcher, '14.

Engineers to Give a Mixer.

The engineer's annual mixer will be held Friday evening, March 2, in the drafting room (S 51). This affair is the big annual mixer of the engineering students given under the auspices of the engineer's association of which all the regular engineering students are members. All evidences indicate that many new things will be "pulled off." There are rumors to the effect that several of the engineering professors are musically inclined and that they will be given a chance to compete for a grand prize. There will be many other stunts, including prizes for the best song and the best story.

SCHOENLEBER RESIGNS AS HEAD OF VET. DEPT.

Has Been With the College 12 Years—Conducted Many Important Investigations.

Dr. F. S. Schoenleber, for 12 years head of the department of veterinary medicine in the Kansas State Agricultural college, has resigned his position and left the institution yesterday. He has not made public his plans.

Doctor Schoenleber's work in the college has been marked by investigations leading to important results in the control of animal diseases. The serum plant maintained by the college was the second established in the United States. Before its erection, the annual loss from hog cholera in the state exceeded $2,000,000 a year. The laboratories, though self-supporting, have done important experimental work in hog cholera control and have accomplished much in reducing the disease in the state. It is estimated that more improvement has been made in serum production by the college plant than by all other agricultural colleges in the United States combined.

A new method of combating blackleg is the latest work of Doctor Schoenleber's department. This method will not only check actual outbreaks of this disease but will immunize animals from its attack.

A smoker was given Wednesday night at the Woman's League building by the Veterinary Medical association in honor of Dr. Schoenleber. The veterinary faculty and 50 members of the association were present.

The toasts given by Dr. L. W. Goss and Dr. C. W. McCampbell, who described the veterinary department as it was when Doctor Schoenleber took charge of it and as it now is, giving credit to Doctor Schoenleber for his work in the department the last 11 years.

AGGIE TRACK MEN TO K. C.

Coach Schulz Will Enter Eight Men in Indoor Meet.

Eight Aggie track men will be entered in the twelfth annual indoor meet of the Kansas City Athletic club, which will be held Saturday night in Convention hall, Kansas City. Coach Adolph ("Germany") Schulz and his track artists will leave Saturday morning for Kansas City.

The Aggie relay team will compete against the relay team of the University of Oklahoma, according to Coach Schulz. The team is composed of Captain Wilder, Holroyd, Kerr, Grandfield and Essick.

Captain Wilder also will run the hurdles for the Aggies. Welmer will compete in the high jump, Key and Caffee in the half-mile and Essick in the dash events.

Athletic teams from Missouri Valley conference schools, the Kansas conference, the Missouri State conference, high schools, ward schools and athletic associations will compete in relay races and other events.

AGGIES MAKE LAST TRIP OF BASKETBALL SEASON

GAMES AT ST. LOUIS AND COLUMBIA DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Will Take Hard Work to Twist the Tiger's Tail—This is the Last Trip for MacMillan, Reynolds and Cushman.

A string of ten consecutive conference victories and then the Missouri valley championship—can the Aggie quintet turn the trick? Will the Washington Pikers, fighting on their own irregular St. Louis court, and then the Missouri Tigers, battling for the Missouri valley championship, both be trampled upon by the Cleveland crew in their eastern invasion this week end? Or will the Aggies meet a single defeat, and be forced to content themselves with second place in the valley standings?

The question of possession of first place in the conference ranking will be settled in the two games the Cleveland men play the Washington team at St. Louis tonight and tomorrow night, and in the two-game series with the Columbia basketballers Monday and Tuesday nights.

The first series, that with the Pikers, will probably clinch second place for the MacMillan men. A pair of victories at St. Louis will put the Aggies close to Missouri. Then comes the critical series of the year for both Missouri and the Aggies, out of which will emerge a team of valley champion which will it be, the Aggies or the Tigers?

Twisting the Tigers' tail will be no easy task for the men of Cleveland. The games will probably be the hardest fought of the conference season. With the advantage of playing on their own court the Tigers are easily given a 50-50 chance in the series by most dopesters. That will mean a split series, and a split series would mean the Aggies would be shunted to second place.

The trip is the last one to be made by three members of the squad, Captain MacMillan, Reynolds and Cushman. The first two men mentioned will probably start in each of the games, and should the Purple quintet fail to bring home the valley pennant, it will be no fault of theirs. The Aggie leader has been a consistent fighter, a star guard and heady captain. Reynolds will probably return from the trip in either first or second place among the point-makers of the valley which is tribute enough for any athlete. It forecasts a place for him on the mythical All-Valley quintet which will be picked by coaches, officials and sport writers at the close of the season.

CHARLES LEADING CONTESTANT.

Spencer and Shields Take Second and Third Places.

W. K. Charles, junior in Journalism, ranks first in the contest which is being conducted by the Collegian, having 220 column inches to his credit. Of the copy submitted by Stewart Spencer, student in the school of agriculture, 112 column inches has been published in the Collegian. B. Q. Shields ranks third with 111 column inches to his credit.

Fourth fifth and sixth places are held by Zenith Mullen, Elizabeth Wadley, and Lillie Lehman respectively. All are Journalism students except Miss Mullen who is enrolled in the general science course.

Fourteen contestants are entered in the race and all except three are Journalism students. These three exceptions are general science students but are taking special work in the Journalism department. Mr. Spencer, the second man, expects to take Journalism second man, expects to take Journalism when he enters college. Considerable interest is being shown in the contest.

Will Discuss Sunday Hiking.

Sunday hiking and study will be discussed at the Congregational church next Sunday evening by the Rev. W. I. Jones, college pastor. His subject will be "What's the Use of Sunday?" in the morning the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Voris, will speak on "In League With the Stones of the Field."

F. S. Merrill, instructor in horticulture, accompanied by a senior class in horticulture, made a trip to Linwood last Friday to give a practical demonstration on pruning in some large orchards of that vicinity.

COLLEGE MEN IN THE WAR.

How will the college men of America respond in case of war?

The question has been heard often recently. Some light may be thrown upon it by a look at the statistics showing the contribution of Oxford and Cambridge to England's cause in the present European conflict.

Oxford has sent 5,342 men to the front, of whom 722 have been killed. Cambridge has given 13,138 and has had 1,945 killed.

Scarcely any students, except a few hundred foreigners, remain in the once populous halls of the universities. Athletics have been almost completely given up, such as remain being carried on largely by Americans. The Oxford cricket team, for instance, is made up of 10 Americans and two or three students from India.

Can it be doubted that American college men will respond any less readily than those of Britain?—Ohio State Lantern.

Why is it that some fellows will write such glowing tributes to the studious girl who wears a serge dress in the winter and sensible heels, yet they seem in their element if they are permitted to walk with the short-skirted co-ed who hobbles along on her French heels and gushes over the latest dance step.

Some of the co-eds have donned spring bonnets, the robins are beginning to chirp, so spring must be here.

NELL CRAIG AND BRYANT WASH- BURN IN "THE BREAKERS."

A notorious counterfeiter, to elude trail of government detectives, foists a suit case filled with spurious money on an eccentric young inventor. A girl detective, disguised as a typist, discovers the suitcase in inventor's room. She falls in love with the inventor, however, and together they find the real crook. As other detectives arrest the inventor, the girl, doffing her disguise, proclaims him innocent and produces the counterfeit. Rewards and wedding bells follow. At the Marshall theatre Monday afternoon and evening.

"THE AWAKENING OF HELENA RICHIE."

Ethel Barrymore takes the leading role in this powerful story. The picture is based on Margaret Deland's famous novel. Until she selected this one Miss Barrymore made a wide search for a picture production adapted to her talents. At the Wareham theatre Saturday afternoon and evening.

"HIS PICTURE IN THE PAPER."

In this production Douglas Fairbanks plays a ne'er-do-well son of a wealthy food product king. He wants to marry a nice young girl but among other things he is told that he must go out and do something for the family name as well as for himself before he can get the girl. The comedy stunts of Mr. Fairbanks in this production is supreme. At the Wareham theatre this afternoon and evening.

THE PRODUCTION SUPREME.

Garden of Allah Will Bring Spell of the Desert to Manhattan.

Weaving its magic spell of the desert over all, the gigantic production of "The Garden of Allah" will come to the Marshall theatre next Wednesday evening.

The opulent array of scenery, which has been furnished by the producers, Liebler & Co., the small army of Algerian tirailleurs, Arabs, Kalyles and Mozabites, the dancing girls, the camels, donkeys, horses, goats, etc., the exquisite breaking of the desert dawn; the splendid starlit night in the trackless wastes; the wind bitten sands when the storm rages--all these are subtle foils for the passionate and tragic story of Boris Androvsky, the Trappist monk, and his bride, Domini Enfiliden, which the audience enthralled at the final curtain.

"KICK IN" to be at the Marshall.

Manager J. I. Marshall of the Marshall theatre announces that he will show the Pathe Gold Rooster Play "Kick In" in doing so he brings to the attention of every theatre-goer the name of a play which was a real sensation in New York City, which had a long run in Chicago and other large cities and which was hailed everywhere as being the best play of its kind in many seasons.

A. H. Woods produced the original play from the pen of Willard Mack. The complete cast of the motion picture production made under the direction of George Fitzmaurice is: William Courtenay as "Chick Hewes," Robert Clugston as "Benny," Mollie King as "Mollie Hewes," Richard Taylor as "Charlie" her brother, Susanne Wills as "Myrtle," John Boyle as "Commissioner Garvey."

THE AGGIES WIN FROM MISSOURI 26-22

AGGIES TAKE TWO FROM THE WASHINGTON PIKERS

WIN FIRST GAME 42 TO 21 AND SECOND CONTEST 33 TO 20.

Washington's Goals Were the Results of Long Shots From the Field—Bad Sportsmanship Lose Pikers Four Points

Special to Collegian.

St. Louis, Mo., March 4.—The Kansas Aggies won their eighth consecutive conference victory by trimming the Washington Pikers 33 to 20 here last night, after having administered a 42 to 21 defeat to the locals Friday. The speedy Sunflower five outclassed the Washington men in every department of the game in each combat, and neither contest was ever in danger.

Fullington, Reynolds and Wells starred in the Friday encounter. Reynolds dropped ten free throws in the basket out of 15 attempts. The guarding of Wells, together with that of Captain MacMillan, staved off the Washington goal shooters, and all Piker baskets were the results of long shots from the field.

Spectators Hissed Sproull.

Bad sportsmanship lost the Pikers four points during the contest. The crowd hissed Referee Sproull's decisions repeatedly, and at one time he called four successive fouls on the crowd. Reynolds made good three of the four.

Captain Dunker and Stout led the play of the locals.

The Piker leader made ten of his team's 21 points. After the Aggie second team entered the contest, Edmunds sent in four of his second-string.

The Second Game.

The Washington men threatened to come back in the second contest, but their opening spurt was short-lived. After the Aggies once assumed the lead, soon after the scoring began, they drew away and were never again in danger.

As in the first game, Reynolds' accuracy in tossing free throws gave the Aggies an advantage. The star Aggie forward counted nine times out of sixteen attempts, besides tossing three goals from the field. Van Trine hit the basket four times from the floor, and starred in the field-play of the visitors.

Wells Was Everywhere.

The MacMillan-Wells guarding combination again proved an efficient barrier to the Piker scorers. The back court passing of the Washington men rivaled the passing of the visitors, but once near the goal, the Piker passes were interrupted by the accurate Wells, who flew in from somewhere and captured the ball whenever the Washington forwards were within scoring range.

In order to save his men for the important Tiger-Aggie series in Columbia Monday and Tuesday, Coach Clevenger inserted his second troup in the middle of the last half. Playing against the substitutes, the Pikers were able to make more progress but were too far in the rear to stage a winning spurt.

DILLON TO ADDRESS THE CUBS.

Speaks to Third, Fourth and Seventh Hour Journalism Classes.

Charles Dillon, managing editor of the Capper farm papers, and former professor of journalism at this institution, will address the third, fourth, and seventh hour journalism classes today. All journalism students are urged to be present and hear as many of these lectures as possible.

Mr. Dillon would also like to consult with and answer questions which the journalism students care to ask him. At 6:30 this evening, Professor N. A. Crawford, will entertain Mr. Dillon and the junior and seniors in the journalism course with a dinner at Harrison hall.

PERMANENT INCOME BILL NOW BEFORE THE HOUSE

Passes the Senate by a 27-9 Vote—Representative Stone is Pushing the Bill.

The Permanent Income amendment, known in the state legislature as senate concurrent resolution No. 15, passed the senate last Wednesday evening with an exact three-fourths vote, twenty-seven favoring and nine opposing. The senators voting in the negative were Ansbaugh, Doerr, Nixon, Laing, Pomeroy, Price, Satterthwaite, Smith, Sutton. Senators absent or not voting: Anderson, Brunner, Crocker, Plumb.

A house resolution providing that no senate measures would be considered before midnight Saturday kept the measure from being considered by the house last week. It was thought possible that the bill might be considered yesterday on the floor of the house but it was not definitely placed on the calendar.

Several members of the house think that there is a fighting chance for the resolution to meet with a favorable vote," said Leo C. Moser, chairman of the student council, who was in Topeka, Thursday, looking after the interests of the bill. "Representative Stone was about to enter the resolution, together with another measure, at an earlier period of the session. Objections were raised, however and withdrew it.

"Mr. Stone is a very able speaker and will no doubt be able to defend it against the tirading of Representative Martin, the gentleman from Reno, who has appointed himself to roast the heads of the educational institutions and to 'expose' the state schools in general.

"The representatives, who are alumni of the institutions are of course doing all that they can to further the interests of the measure, as is Representative Charles of Republic, who has a son and daughter attending K. S. A. C. The alumni of the university are also trying to get the true import of the bill understood so that it will not be defeated because of a lack of information as to the need and merits of a permanent income."

L. C. MOSER GETS GOOD JOB.

Will be Editor of Farm Department of Word and Works Magazine.

Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, has been selected as editor of the Farm department of the Word and Works magazine published in St. Louis, Mo.

"Word and Works" was edited for many years by the Rev. I. L. Hicks, chautauqua lecturer, astronomer, and author. Since the death of Rev. Hicks the direction of the magazine has begun looking forward to making a modern home paper instead of a scientific monthly. Mr. Moser was among those recommended for places on the new editorial staff as editor of farm material. Mr. Moser will conduct the work by correspondence.

BEN GREET PLAYERS HERE FOR THREE PERFORMANCES

COME JUNE 1 AND 2 UNDER AUSPICES OF Y. W. C. A.

Company is in Charge of Elsie Herndon Kearns, Who Played Two Years as Katrina in "Taming of the Shrew."

Under the auspices of the college Y. W. C. A., the Ben Greet players will give three performances here June 1 and 2. One Shakespearean and two modern plays will be given the names of which will be announced later.

The Y. W. C. A. plans to make this form of spring entertainment a permanent feature. The local association contracted February 27 with the Elsie Herndon Kearns Company Woodland Players of New York for three performances to be given here this spring. R. A. Barnett was here in the interests of this company.

This is the same company which played here with Ben Greet two years ago. As Ben Greet is in England this year, Miss Kearns has taken charge of the company. Miss Kearns played with this company two years as Katrina in the "Taming of the Shrew."

Friday evening, June 1, the first performance will be given, and on Saturday afternoon the players will give a matinee, Saturday evening the last play will be presented. Both evening performances will be given out of doors—on account of the heat. In case of inclement weather, arrangements will be made to hold all the performances indoors.

Miss Inskeep, who is in immediate charge, urges that the students keep Friday and Saturday, June 1 and 2, in mind, and that no entertainments be planned which will conflict with this entertainment which is being engineered by the Y. W. C. A.

THE JUNIORS AND SOPHS WIN.

Beat the Seniors and Freshmen 14-9 and 30-28.

The second series of games in the girls' basketball tournament will be played during the eighth hour this afternoon in the big gymnasium. The freshmen will play the seniors, and the sophomores the juniors. The final games will come off Thursday.

The class basketball teams are competing for the possession of the silver cup presented to the winning team in last year's tournament by Askren's jewelry company. At present the junior girls hold the cup. But to own this trophy the class must win it three years in succession.

To do good work the girls on the teams say they must have more girl rooters out for the games.

The first series of the tournament was played Friday at which time the sophomores won from the freshmen in a fast and exciting 30-28 contest; and the juniors romped on the seniors in a 14-9 score.

EXAMS. FOR 2D LIEUTS. APRIL 2.

K. S. A. C. Graduates Must Pass the Physical Examinations Only.

Dr. H. J. Waters, president of the college, received a telegram Saturday morning from the commandant of the United States marine corps at Washington, stating that the examination for second lieutenants in the marine corps would take place on the second day of April instead of the second of July, as originally announced.

Any graduates of this institution, or any students graduating in June are eligible. A physical examination only must be passed. The salary is $1700 a year. Students graduating in June get their commission then. Further information may be obtained from Captain L. O. Matreus, commandant of cadets.

SCHOOL OF AGS. WIN 34-23.

Trounce Onaga Highs Friday—Williams High Man.

The school of agriculture basketball team won from the Onaga Highs Friday evening by a 34-23 count. The game was played in Nichols gymnasium.

Williams, a first year man in the school of agriculture, starred for the home team, making 16 out of the 34 points.

AGGIES AND HAWKERS UPHOLD OLIVE BRANCH

CRISIS, DUE TO STRAINED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS, AVERTED.

Indoor Track Meet Between the Two Schools Will be Held Wednesday of This Week at Lawrence

Diplomatic—and athletic—relations between the Kansas Aggies and the Kansas Jayhawkers have been renewed. Following the refusal of "Germany" Schulz to abandon his policy of unrestricted control over the schedule of the Aggie track team, notes were exchanged between Athletic Director Hamilton of Kansas and "Germany" with the result that a truce has been practically agreed upon.

Only an "overt act" on the part of the Manhattan representative of the Kaiser can now halt the negotiations. Present indications are that the main provision of the peace terms will be that the Aggie and Jayhawker track teams will clash on the indoor track in Robinson gymnasium.

Meet Tomorrow.

The date of the indoor meet has been definitely set for Wednesday of this week. A large troupe of Aggie tracksters will be taken to the Jayhawker town by Coach "Germany" Schulz, and while the dope slightly favors the Lawrence team, the Aggies are expected to make the Hamilton men exert themselves to the limit to win.

The coming to terms of Hamilton and Schulz ends an incident that has been regretted by both institutions. When the Missouri valley coaches were in Manhattan in November, Hamilton asked for an indoor meet with the Aggies. The date was not agreed upon. In some way, Hamilton formed the conclusion that February 13 would find the Aggies and Jayhawkers competing on the Lawrence indoor track, while "Germany" Schulz knew nothing of such arrangements.

The upshot of the matter was that a number of interviews were given out by both sides, culminating in a statement by Athletic Director Clevenger that, rather than to have had the controversy with the Lawrence officials, "the Aggies would have scheduled two or three indoor meets, all at Lawrence." Following this opening of Clevenger's negotiations were begun between the two schools, resulting in the present agreement.

WILL TEACH THE MEN TO DANCE.

A Special Class Will be Conducted for Them Next Term.

A dancing class for men will be organized next term by Miss Ann Cahoon and E. A. Bauer, instructors in the physical training department. The number in the class will be limited to 20.

One credit hour will be given for three periods a week of practice—the same amount of time as is required for laboratory work. Those who are interested are urged to consult with one of these instructors before the close of the winter term.

GOT YOUR JUNIOR-SENIOR DATE.

Committee Is to Blame if You Were Overlooked.

"Got a date for the Junior-Senior Prom?" Don't let it worry you if you have not. The chairman of the junior-senior committee says that if you were overlooked by the date committee, it was their mistake, and you will be privileged to bring any one that you choose whether she or he is a member of the two upper classes or not.

The juniors to come under this privileged ruling will be required to have their fees and assessment paid, but the seniors as guests are given free rein. All the assignments for dates which the committee will make were sent out last week. If you did not receive yours, you were overlooked and you still have five days to choose a date "at large."

The junior-senior committee meets this evening for the last time. Nearly all of the final preparations have been made and some of the details will be given out for publication Friday.

TWIST THE TIGERS' TAIL

Columbia, Mo., March 5.—The Kansas Aggies mounted to first place in the Missouri Valley standing and won their ninth consecutive conference victory by defeating the Missouri Tigers, 26 to 22, in a hotly contested battle here this evening. The score at the end of the first half gave the Aggies a 15 to 13 lead.

A "Missouri Valley Championship Watch Party" will be held at Kittell's tonight to await the returns of the Tiger-Aggie basketball game in Columbia.

TOO MUCH IS DONE FOR THEM.

Young People Lack Initiative Says Former President.

Too much is done for young people, too many decisions made for them, according to Dr. E. R. Nichols, of Chicago, former president of the Kansas State Agricultural college, in an address before the student assembly.

"I find too many men," said Doctor Nichols, "who excel in scholarship, but do not have initiative. They lack the qualities of leadership. I do not mean to say that scholarship is not important, but the ability to mix with one's fellows is better than an extra five per cent in grades. The man or woman who is prominent in student activities stands a better chance of being a success in after life."

Dr. Nichols told of the changes that have taken place at the Kansas State Agricultural college, since he retired from the presidency eight years ago. "This institution had its greatest growth, both in students and buildings, during Doctor Nichols' administration," said Dr. Henry J. Waters, president of the college, in introducing the speaker.

Mr. S. M. Woods, of Elmdale, a member of the board of regents during the latter part of President Anderson's and the first of President Fairchild's administration, spoke briefly to the students following Doctor Nichols' address.

AGGIES TOOK THREE SECONDS.

Track Men Got Three Medals at the K. C. A. C. Meet.

Three second places and six medals were won by the Kansas Aggie track men who competed in the annual indoor meet of the Kansas City Athletic club, which was held at Kansas City Saturday night. Coach Adolph ("Germany") Schulz, who accompanied the team, and the track men returned yesterday.

Oklahoma university did not show up in the relay race scheduled with the Aggies, so the event went to the Aggies. Missouri and Nebraska invited Schulz to enter his relay team in their race. Missouri won the relay but the Aggies took second, defeating Nebraska by about 35 yards. The Aggie relay team was composed of Granfield, Holroyd, Kerr and Wilder. Weimer took second in the jump event and Keys, running against Campbell of Chicago university, placed second in the 580-yard dash.

THEY FACE A BIG PROBLEM.

Must Produce More Than Ever, Says "Cap" Sanders.

The farmer of today has the problem of raising more farm products than he has ever produced before, according to W. H. Sanders, instructor in farm motors, who gave an illustrated lecture to the student assembly Friday morning.

"To meet this problem of increased production the farmer must have more power for the cultivation of his crops," said Mr. Sanders. "Six horses is the maximum number that can be handled by one man and that number cannot furnish enough power. The tractor furnishes more power and is easily operated by one man."

WRITE BOOK FOR THE FARMERS.

Dean Johnson and P. E. McNall Publish Second Edition.

The second edition of "The Farmer's Account Book" written by E. C. Johnson, dean of the extension division of the college and Preston E. McNall, specialist in farm management demonstrations, K. S. A. C., and the U. S. department of agriculture, is now off the press.

More than 20,000 copies of this book will be sent to the banks of the state which will in turn distribute them to the farmers.

SIX CO-EDS WILL FIGHT IN WORDY BATTLE FRIDAY

WASHBURN AND AGGIE GIRLS WILL ARGUE MINIMUM WAGE.

Will be One of the Best Contests of the Season—Pentangular Squad at Work—First Series Will be Held March 23.

The Washburn-K. S. A. C. women's dual debate, which promises to be one of the best of the season, will be held Friday night, March 9. The Washburn co-eds won both ends of this contest last year.

The teams are working hard and are now putting on the finishing touches under the coaching of Don L. Burk, coach of debate.

The question is that of minimum wage and will be supported at home by the affirmative team composed of Lucile Norwood, Lois Bellomy, Rose Baker, and Lillian Buchelm, alternate. The negative team which will contest the question at Washburn is composed of Donna Faye Wilson, Mae Sweet, and Laura Mueller.

The constructive speeches will be 12 minutes in length, and but one rebuttal speech eight minutes in length, will be given by each side. Rose Baker and Mae Sweet, both experienced debaters, will handle the rebuttal argument.

"These teams are coming on fine and are showing some real debate," said Mr. Burk, in commenting on the work of the squads.

Pentangular Squad at Work.

The pentangular squad has begun work for a series of two debates the first of which will be held March 23. This is considered the big debate of the season. The question is the same as that debated by the Washburn-Aggie girls March 9.

Two weeks after the first contest, the negative team remains at home to meet a different school from that met by either team before, and the affirmative team, likewise, meets debaters from a different school. The schools in the pentangular league are Baker university, Washburn college, Ottawa university, College of Emporia, and K. S. A. C.

The men composing the affirmative team are Fred Carp, Calvin Medina, L. R. Hiatt, A. F. Swanson and Floyd Hawkins. The negative team is composed of P. L. Findley, W. A. Wunsch, Glen Case, and G. W. Bursch. The main speeches in the debates will be 11 minutes in length; five minutes will be allowed for the first two rebuttals and seven minutes for the last rebuttal speech. Three judges will be used in this contest.

HOW HE VIEWS IT.

Representative Martin of Reno happens to be the gentleman in the present session of the legislature who has felt called upon to roast the heads of the state schools because they visit Topeka and ask for financial support for their institutions.

Some impatient solon has done the same thing for us, these many years. It is no more annoying to the state legislator, however, than it is humiliating to the school men. But what are they to do? Whenever the political campaign is on, all candidates and parties go before the people telling how they are going to economize if elected. The state institutions must naturally be the greatest source of expense to the state, and hence the greatest opportunity for slicing down the appropriation comes in the institution budget. The officers who are "in," even to the heads of the administration, dare not advocate liberality to the schools, and no one is left but the professors or executive heads of the schools to do the pleading for the funds.

If Judge Martin and other legislators do not like to be asked for enough state money to maintain the state institutions, let them pass laws which will take care of such appropriations automatically, and thus be rid of this biennial scramble. Scramble it must be under the present system.—Newton Kansan.

Some freshmen seem to be trying to break into society by trespassing upon the hospitality of the short course students. Of course some things have to be overlooked in youth and innocence.

Columbia, March 7.—The Kansas Aggies, not the Missouri Tigers, are basketball champions of the Missouri Valley. Johnnie Miller's Tiger troupe was forced to bow twice here before a superior quintet from Manhattan, and these two victories by the

CAPTAIN MacMILLAN

Clevenger five cinched the title. The scores of the two games were 26 to 22 and 32 to 27.

The battles were contests of fight, endurance and basketball ability, and in each of these departments the Aggies were supreme. Despite having already played two games on the same trip, the Aggieville representatives won each of their games in the final five minutes of play. The substitution of fresh men by Coach Miller in the latter half seemed only to spur the Aggies on to victories which could not be denied.

Every Aggie Starred.

Captain MacMillan and Reynolds, of the Aggies, were playing their last games for the Purple, and their playing showed it. The Aggie leader featured with a whirlwind floorwork, and with Wells, formed the best pair of guards ever seen on the floor of Bethwell gymnasium. Reynolds practically cinched himself a position on the All-Valley selection.

No stars could be picked from the Aggie lineup. Every man played his best every minute, and this "best" was just four or five points better than the best Missouri could offer. Wells was a staunch guard. He was everywhere all the time, and broke up many a Tiger pass that might easily have resulted in a basket, which in turn, might have turned the tide in favor of the Bengals.

Van Trine, however, was one of the surprises. The Miller guards had been instructed to watch Reynolds, but soon found that the Aggie right forward was even a harder proposition to handle. Van Trine bagged three baskets in the first game, and his five goals in second round were almost a third of the Aggie points.

Fullington's goals came at critical periods of each game.

The score at the end of the first half of the first game was 15 to 13 in favor of the Aggies, but at the start of the second half the Tigers came back strong, and, aided by Captain

Williams' free throws, took the lead. Then came the greatest five minutes of basketball ever seen in Columbia. The score saw-sawed back and forth, until a brilliant Aggie spurt put them to the front. The game ended with the Aggies holding a 26 to 22 lead.

The Second Game.

Missouri started the first half with a great deal of fight and the team work of the Bengals was exceptionally good. Before the whirlwind attack the Aggies seemed for the moment baffled. The great shooting of Captain Williams and Campbell kept the Tigers well out in front, the score at the end of the first half ending, Missouri, 20; Aggies, 13.

Then came a wonderful exhibition of fight from the Aggies. Van Trine and Reynolds broke through the Missouri guards with three field goals that put the Aggies on the Tigers' heels. A second later, Fullington shot a long goal for the Kansans, and the visitors were in the lead.

Aggies Stage Comeback.

But the Aggie advantage was only temporary. A Tiger spurt soon closed up the gap and once more the Miller proteges resumed the lead. Shepard made a wonderful shot, taking a tip-off on the end of his fingers and shooting it into the basket for a Tiger score, while suspended in mid-air.

But the Aggies, tasting victory, came back. With only six minutes left to play, Van Trine made a shot over half the length of the field, and Wells followed with another of the same kind. Fighting desperately, the Tigers sought to regain the lead, but the Aggies, not to be denied, blasted all of Missouri's championship hopes by winning the game, 32 to 29.

WAREHAM WOULDN'T TAKE IT.

Refused to Accept Pay for Doors Smashed by "Pepsters."

As a result of the scramble to gain admittance to the free show Wednesday night two doors of the Wareham theater were broken by the hilarious and exultant Aggies.

Anxious to repay for the loss a representative from the student body went to H. P. Wareham Thursday and asked him to accept payment for the damage done by the "pepsters." Mr. Wareham refused to accept any payment, saying "The mere smashing of two doors is nothing compared to the winning of a Missouri valley championship."

Will Speak on "Ideal Womanhood."

A sermon intended to have a wide appeal for the young women of the college, "Ideal Womanhood," will be given by the Rev. J. R. Voris Sunday morning at the Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Voris will give a spiritual interpretation of the play, "The Melting Plot," Sunday evening. The Rev. Lewis Jacobsen, pastor of the Baptist church, will speak at 6:15 o'clock before the Christian Endeavor society on "Why I Am a Preacher."

AGGIE CO-EDS CLASH WITH WASHBURN GIRLS TONIGHT

FOUR OF THE AGGIE GIRLS ARE VETERAN DEBATORS.

The Contest Promises to be a Battle Royal—Argue Minimum Wage—Each Team Will Have One Rebuttal Speech.

The old time duels have gone out of practice but a dual debate will be staged in the college auditorium between the girls' affirmative team of K. S. A. C. and the girls' negative team of Washburn. At the same time a similar dual debate will be held at Topeka with the Washburn affirmative and the K. S. A. C. negative.

Last year Washburn took both ends of this debate but this year the indications are strong for a battle royal. The judges to pass verdict at this end are—H. M. Karr, debate coach of the Kansas State Normal, Professor Myers, of the department of political science of the Normal and Washburn Debaters Veterans.

All of the Washburn debaters have had experience in this college activity and four of the six contestants on the Aggie teams are veteran speakers. The Washburn team coming to Manhattan is composed of Flora Harrington, who has three times successfully defended her side in debate contests, and who is the only girl winning the distinction of wearing the third degree in Pi Kappa Delta, a fornicious fraternity; Erma Erickson and Mabel Jones.

The Aggie Teams.

The Aggie teams are composed of, affirmative, Lucile Norwood, Lois Bellomy and Rose Baker. The first two members of this team are not experienced debaters. Miss Baker will give the rebuttal for this team. Negative, Donna Faye Wilson, Laura Mueller and Mae Sweet. Miss Sweet will ably oppose the Washburn affirmative in the rebuttal for this team. Miss Baker and the members of the negative team are all members of the Zeta Kappa Psi, forensic debating sorority. Miss Sweet is the girl debate scholar and does creditable work in her rebuttal.

Miss Estella Boot, of the department of English, will accompany the team to Topeka. Following the debate the Zeta Kappa Psi sorority will entertain the debaters and judges in the Athenian-Browning hall.

The following score card is used in determining the membership of the society: Personality and character, 15; attractiveness 5; forcefulness 5; co-operation 5; scholarship 65; (general 35, departmental 30); personal interest 10, executive ability 10.

WILL DELIVER PEACE ORATION.

K. S. A. C. Representative Speaks at Chapel Saturday.

Saturday, at student assembly, the K. S. A. C. representative to the state peace oratorical contest, which will be held at Wichita, Tuesday night, will deliver his oration entitled "Economic Necessity—A Cause for War?" Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, is the representative of the college who will participate in this annual contest.

Six Kansas colleges will be represented in the peace oratorical. The Kansas university contestant won first place last year, but this institution has no orator entered this year.

It is urged that all students be present to hear the oration which will be delivered at chapel Saturday, and thus lend support and incentive to this form of college activity.

DESIRE GOOD PERSONALITY IN ENJOYABLE PERIODICAL

DILLON LIKES MAGAZINE WITH HEARTY HANDSHAKE.

Periodicals Which Appeal to the Baser Senses Are Contaminating, According to Manager of Copper Farm Papers.

The greatest fault of the country newspaper is that it usually leaves out the information which the reader most desires, is the opinion of Charles Dillon, of Topeka, managing editor of the Copper farm papers, who spoke to the students in industrial journalism Tuesday afternoon.

"The country newspaper generally gives a short item of an incident with no relative information," said Mr. Dillon, "and consequently the story does not carry the message that it should. A paper cannot afford to use space for stories that do not bring some message to the mind of the reader."

In his talk to the students in current periodicals, Mr. Dillon took up his "Impressions of the American Magazine." He praised The Literary Digest and The Ladies' Home Companion as the two periodicals that should be on every table. "The magazine that is straight forward and honest and meets you with a hearty handshake, is the type of magazine that I enjoy," remarked Mr. Dillon. "The Saturday Evening Post has more constructive articles in it than any other magazine in the five cent field."

Condemns Some.

"The Cosmopolitan is a magazine of the type that I will not even allow in my barn, it would contaminate my automobile. The style of stories which this magazine publishes appeals only to the baser senses of its readers."

Mr. Dillon placed the Literary Digest, The Factory, The Geographical Magazine, The Saturday Evening Post, The Country Gentleman, The Century, Collier's, Outlook and The Atlantic Monthly as the leading magazines, and magazines that should be found upon the desk of every up-to-date reader. Among those that Mr. Dillon condemned were The Cosmopolitan, The Masses and Leslie's.

Mr. Dillon spoke highly in favor of the college trained journalist. He said that the student of journalism was learning in college what the man who went directly to the newspaper office to learn newspaper work must learn by many years of hard knocks.

LECTURES AT THE COLLEGE.

"The Appalachians, Their Charm and Invitation," the Subject.

William L. Hall, district forester, U. S. department of agriculture, will give a free illustrated lecture in the college auditorium at 3:30 today. His subject will be, "The Appalachians, Their Charm and Invitation." The lecture will be illustrated with colored lantern slides, and with one reel of moving pictures, showing the winter carnivals at Dartmouth college. Mr. Hall will also speak at student assembly this morning at 10 o'clock. The public is invited to both lectures.

Idea of March Will be Fatal.

The Idea of March will prove fatal to any person who fails to have his picture in the hands of the class book committee for no pictures will be taken after that day. It will prove fatal to the girl who is the most beautiful if votes are not handed in before March 15, for that is the closing day. The Idea will be fatal to the senior who does not order his invitation for no orders will be taken after that date. If there are not more books sold by March 15 people who buy books after that time must pay a bonus of 5 cents besides the regular price, according to H. J. Adams, manager of the 1917 Royal Purple.

May Buy a New Horse.

The college shipped a bunch of top geldings Thursday that will average 1,500 pounds. They are the last of the colts used in a feeding experiment started in 1912. David Gray, assistant in animal husbandry, accompanied them to Chicago, from thence he will go to Youngstown, Ohio, where he will meet Prof. W. A. Cochel who left Tuesday. They are contemplating the purchase of a Belgian stallion.

JUDGING CONTEST TOMORROW.

Eight Classes of Animals Will be Judged—22 Prizes Awarded.

The Saddle and Siroin club will hold a stock judging contest at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the stock pavilion. This is the annual contest held by the Saddle and Siroin club and the club is exerting every effort to make it a big event.

Any student of the college may take part in this contest who is not a member of the stock judging team or who has not received a medal in a previous stock judging contest. All students are welcome and those enrolled in the short courses are especially urged to enter.

A notable feature of the contest is the fact that 22 prizes will be awarded. These will consist of four medals, ten ribbons, and eight special prizes. An advantage of the contest will be that the contestant will receive experience in judging several different classes of animals. Eight classes in all will be judged; two classes each of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.

LEGISLATURE PASSES THE PERMANENT INCOME BILL

Will be Submitted to People of State for Vote at General Election in 1918.

The permanent income bill, known in the legislature as senate concurrent resolution No. 15, passed the house Wednesday evening with a final vote of 85 to 35, and will be submitted to the people of the state at the 1918 general election for ratification.

The measure will allow the legislature to set aside a separate tax for the support of the state schools. Unless some succeeding legislature sees fit to change the levy, it will remain fixed and insure, in some degree at least, a certain fixed income on which the schools can depend for support.

The proposed amendment had been thoroughly thrashed out in the house Tuesday evening and there was no argument for or against it when presented Wednesday afternoon for the vote. It took a call of the house to get the vote up to 83 one less than required. Then Jones of Osage changed his vote from no to aye and the amendment was adopted so far as the legislature was concerned. Noble of LaBette changed to aye a second later and gave the measure 85 votes.

When the people adopt this amendment, the legislature may then fix a tax levy for the use of the schools—a tax of so many mills levy for state school purposes each year. The money will then be spent under the direction of the board of administration. The appropriations for all the state educational institutions last year has been checked to equal a fraction over six mills.

MISS RAVENHILL SPEAKS TODAY.

Will Answer Home Economic Problems This Afternoon.

At 9 o'clock this morning, Miss Alice Ravenhill will speak in room 40 of the domestic science building on "The Physical Basis of Habit Formation." At 4:30 this afternoon she will answer questions on home economics—these questions to be handed to Miss Margaret Haggert not later than this morning.

Last evening, Miss Ravenhill spoke in the reception room of the home economics building on "The Development of Household Arts in Great Britain." This meeting was under the auspices of the Omicron Nu sorority. Monday Miss Ravenhill will speak on "Phases of Adolescence." The time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

ACACIA FRATERNITY TO BUILD.

New Home Costing $7,500 to Be Built On Sixteenth Street.

A new chapter house is to be built for the local chapter of the Acacia fraternity by the Acacia Alumni association of Kansas. The dwelling will cost $7,500, according to the building permit taken out at the office of the city clerk, and will be constructed at 344 North Sixteenth street. The house will be a two-story structure and will have dimensions of 32 by 44 feet. Cork & Ferrier will be the builders. The Acacia fraternity is now located at 821 Osage street.

P. J. Davies, student in agriculture, has withdrawn from college.

NEW FEATURES PLANNED FOR BIG ANNUAL EVENT

TWO ORCHESTRAS WILL FURNISH MUSIC DURING THE EVENING.

Will be One of the Biggest Events Ever held at the College—Special Entertainment for Non-Dancers.

The doors of the big gymnasium will open at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening to welcome the seniors and juniors to what will perhaps be the best junior-senior party that the Kansas state students have ever known.

The best musicians to be found in the student body, a farce perfected by many weeks of careful training, dainty refreshments served by charming sophomore girls, tasty decorations and colored lights, which are being arranged by a large committee under the direction of Fred Carp, are but some of the more striking features which will combine to make the 1917 junior-senior a social function to be remembered.

Dr. Henry Jackson Waters, president of the college, and Mrs. Waters will head the receiving line. Mr. Ed T. Hackney, Mrs. Cora G. Lewis, Ex-Governor Hoch, Z. G. Clevenger and wife, Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile, Dean A. A. Potter and wife, Dr. J. T. Willard and wife, Dean Jardine and wife, and the junior-senior committee will complete the receiving line.

Once on the floor, the program of the hour will be a mixer—a chance for the out-of-town guests and even the busy upper classmen to form new acquaintances.

Give Two-Act Farce.

From 8 o'clock until 9 the farce in the auditorium will engross the attention of everyone. The farce presented by a cast of eight under the direction of Margaret King was entirely written by the farce committee. It consists of two acts and various interludes which the committee would not allow to be called either scenes or vaudeville. Nevertheless these are thrown in free.

The only comment which the committee chairman, Miss Hazel Merrill, would permit to be published was a warning to juniors and seniors to hide all of the clothes that they had been wearing this winter which might be used to characterize them. Veatch and Nichols' five-piece orchestra will furnish music for the farce and for the entertainment in the women's gymnasium.

Gibbons Gets "Shepherd's Crook."

Immediately after the farce, the "Shepherd's Crook" will be formally intrusted to George C. Gibbons, as a representative of the junior class, by J. B. Sweet, who has kept it in trust for the class of 1917 since last year.

The entertainment committee, under the direction of Donna Faye Wilson, has arranged for a feature musical program which will be presented in the women's gymnasium. "Those who do not dance should understand that the entertainment committee has something more than a mediocre program to offer as an attraction," said Miss Wilson, yesterday. "We have a pleasing surprise with the appearance of each number under a musical name. Tell everyone to be there."

Dance on Main Floor.

Music on the main floor of the gymnasium will be furnished by the Maupin-Skelley ten-piece orchestra.

Punch will be served on the main floor of the gymnasium. The Browning-Athenian literary society hall and the band room will be converted into refreshment parlors where thirty sophomore girls assisted by tea sophomore men will serve ice cream and wafers.

"We want to say a final word about those dates," said G. C. Gibbons, chairman of the date committee. "Those who were not, due to some mistake, assigned to girls are privileged to bring any other girl of college standing that they wish."

"Those who have out-of-town guests," said J. E. Du Bois, chairman of the junior senior committee, "will be privileged to bring them without paying any fee providing they see me before that time and secure a regular 'guest ticket'."

MAIL TO THE WILD CAT KING.
The Wild Cat sits upon a throne,
A crown upon his head,
And views the gory battlefield,
Where valiant foes have bled.

Within his lair the Tiger mourns,—
A melancholy wail—
And strives in vain to loose the knots
The Cat tied in his tail.

The Jaybird with a bandaged head,
And minus half a wing,
Yet hobbles on his one good leg
And tries in vain to sing.

Nebraska sits and weeps alone,
Heartbroken and forlorn,
For leaders in the Valley race
Have husked her golden corn.

All hail the King of basketball,
The Wild Cat on the throne—
Has fought his way to Valley fame,
And comes into his own.

—Walter Houghton, '18.

BLOCKING PROGRESS.

It goes without saying that regular and full doses of custodian's rules should be administered to those who crowd and jam main hall at chapel time. There is just cause for complaint, and it is annoying to be squeezed when one doesn't want to be. As much as has been said regarding this daily congestion, little attention is paid to the oft repeated rules of the road, viz., keep to the right and don't block progress. Boys and the girls are equally to blame for this "coagulated condition." The boys congregate along the sidelines and make the passage extremely narrow. An then imagine one's consternation, while trying his utmost to accomplish the well nigh impossible feat of steering himself successfully down main hall, when he runs into a bevy of girls in the center of the hall engaged in animated conversation about the beauty contest, a new face powder, or some other equally important matter which couldn't possibly be discussed at any other time or place.

No sooner does he get around this group until he is compelled to sidestep for another group larger than the last. No wonder he swears softly to himself as he emerges from the hall, and feels like going off and taking a drink.

The student who is continually borrowing and forgets to pay back, may attribute it to weak memory, but no doubt it is strong nerve.

The freshmen are beginning to wear that dreamy expression, and are pricing ukeles. An early spring season is predicted.

There's music in the air. Hang around the auditorium next week, and be convinced.

Some professors say there is more fiction than truth in some of the answers given to quiz questions. Embryo novelists must be in excess on the hill.

HAWKERS SWAMP AGGIES
71-14 IN INDOOR MEET

Wilder Individual Star for the Purple Men—Rodkey Runs Half Mile in Record Time.

The Kansas Jayhawkers walked away from the Aggies in the indoor dual track meet at Lawrence last night. Only one first and three seconds were made by the Manhattan team for a total of 14 points, against 71 piled up by the Jayhawkers.

Wilder was the individual Aggie star of the meet. He took first in the high hurdles and second in the low hurdles for eight of the Aggie points.

The time made by the Kansans in some of the running events was good enough to have defeated almost any team of tracksters in the valley. Davidson made 3:3 seconds in the 30-yard dash, Rodkey ran the half mile in the surprising indoor time of 2:02.1 minutes, and the 410-yard dash went to O'Leary in 56:1 seconds, which is good time on the ansas track.

The summary:

30-yard dash—Davidson, Kansas, first; Crowley, Kansas, second. Time 3.3.

Half-mile run—Howland, Kansas, first; Statler, Kansas, second. Time 4:53.3. 30-yard high hurdles—Wilder, Aggies, first; Casey, Kansas, second. Time, 4.1.

Quarter mile—O'Leary, Kansas, first; Welsh, Kansas, second. Time 56.1.

30-yard low hurdles—Casey, Kansas, first; Wilder, Aggies, second. Time, 4 flat.

Half-mile run—Rodkey, Kansas, first; Sproul, Kansas second. Time, 2:02.1. (New record.)

2-mile run—Groene, Kansas; Statler, Kansas, tied for first. Time, 10.23.3.

High jump—Trewoeke, Kansas, and Rice, Kansas, tied for first. Height, 5 feet 11 1-2 inches.

Shotput—Small, Kansas, first; Shaffer, Aggies, second. Distance, 39 feet 3 1-2 inches.

Pole vault—Patterson, Kansas, first; Enlow, Aggies, second. Height, 11 feet.

Relay—Won by Kansas (Murphy, Welsh, O'Leary and Rodkey.) Time, 3:48.

AGGIE FROSH CHALLENGE NORMAL FROSH TO DEBATE

THE CONTEST WILL BE HELD THE FIRST WEEK OF MAY.

The Subject to be Debated is the Government Ownership and Control of Interstate Railroads—Class Pays Expenses.

The freshman class of K. S. A. C. will debate the freshman class of the Kansas State Normal in a dual debate on either May 4 or 11.

A short time ago a committee was appointed by the freshman class to look into the matter of a debate with the freshman class of some other college. After a conference with Don L. Burk, coach of debate here, a challenge was sent to the Normal. This challenge was accepted by the freshman class there.

The debate will be dual with three men on a side. There are to be three judges of each debate. No "K" debater is eligible to tryout for the team and only men of the class may take part.

The question to be debated is: Resolved, that the United States government should own and control interstate railroads. The affirmative will be supported by the home teams. Classes Bear Expenses.

The expenses of the debate will be borne by the classes of the two schools. All arrangements for the debates are to be made by the freshmen. Coach Burk has charge of the training of the squads and he will be assisted by two "K" men. While the varsity debate council has none of the arrangements to make and none of the expenses to pay, still the contest has the dignity of the sanction and support of the department of debate.

Regarding the debate, Coach Burk said, "This will be a fine experience for the freshmen and ought to turn out some good material for next year's varsity teams. I'm for it strong and will do all I can to make it go. It's a fine thing for the college and shows some splendid points in favor of debate in K. S. A. C."

HAVE A NEW MAGNETIC CHUCK. Will be Used in Grinding Small Parts of Machinery.

The machine shop has a new magnetic chuck which will be used for grinding piston rings and other small parts of the little engines that are being made by the students in shop work in the college shops. This chuck will reduce to a minimum the work of finishing small parts of the machines that are made in the shops.

It consists of a revolving electromagnet that is strong enough to hold any of the small parts of the engines and lathes that are manufactured from time to time in the shops, while the grinding and other finishing processes are being carried on.

The machine shop is also building a new arbor press which will be used for putting pinions and small gears on shafts so that they can be machined and finished. The mandrills or shafts that the gears are put on so the finishing process may be carried on, taper at the rate of one thousandth of an inch in diameter to an inch in length so that the gears may be put on very tightly. The arbor press is capable of exerting a pressure of 12,000 pounds.

Art Exhibit Closes Wednesday.

The art exhibit held in home economics hall will close Wednesday evening. Talks on the pictures will be given between four and five today and Wednesday. One noticeable feature about the exhibit this year is that some persons are always there studying the pictures.

A window is being cut in the wall of the stock room in front of the desk of Prof. Charles Yost. This window will make the arrangement of the machine shop handier in that Mr. Yost may watch the students at work while sitting at this desk.

I. Mutchler left Friday for his home at Madison, Wis., where he has charge of interior construction work at the University of Wisconsin. He has been visiting F. C. Gutsch, instructor in chemistry.

FOUR AGGIES ARE PICKED.

Purple Guards and Forwards Chosen on Clevenger's All-Valley Team.

Four Kansas Aggies are chosen for places on the first All-Missouri Valley basketball quintet in the selections made by Coach Cevenger. Reynolds and Van Trine at forwards and Captain MacMillan and Wells at guards draw first team places, while Captain Fred Williams of Missouri is given the center position.

Pullington, the remaining Aggie regular, draws the tip-off position on the second team. Other second choices are Uhlraub, Kansas, and Erskine, Ames, forwards, and Slusher, Missouri, and Boynton, Ames, guards.

The official All-Valley five will probably be announced in Sunday's Kansas City Star. The Star's selections are made from the quintets picked by officials, coaches and sport writers of the valley.

THE STATE PEACE CONTEST HELD AT WICHITA TONIGHT

Moser is Representative from K. S. A. C.—Six Contestants to Compete for Honors.

Leo C. Moser, representative of the college in the state peace oratorical contest, left for Wichita yesterday afternoon where the contest will be held tonight at Fairmount college.

Mr. Moser was winner in the try-out held last fall for the state contest. He was placed first over a group of four contestants by all seven of the judges.

The institutions which will be represented in this contest will be Washburn college, Wesleyan college, Ottawa university, Kansas State Agricultural college, Hays normal and Pittsburg normal.

"K. S. A. C. occupies a good position on the program, having fifth place in a field of seven contestants," said J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking. "Judging from the quality of the orations delivered at the contest last year this college has a fighting chance for first honors."

The contest last year was held in Topeka and was won by the State university. If Mr. Moser wins first place he will receive a prize of $75 and will represent the state in the interstate contest to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, the middle of April. The winner of the interstate contest will receive a prize of $65 and will represent the middle western states in the national contest to be held at Lake Mohonk, New York, in May.

The names of all the persons who are going to tryout for the Missouri valley oratorical contest must be turned in to the department of public speaking by March 15. The Missouri valley tryout will be held April 1.

SHOULD SERVE YOUR COUNTRY.

Ought to Give a Few Years of Work Says W. L. Hall.

"I believe every young man should give a few years of his life in service to his nation," said Wm. L. Hall, '98, district forester in charge of the Appalachian and White mountains, who spoke to the student assembly Friday morning.

"This period does not necessarily need to be spent in military services but in some work that will give the young man discipline and impress upon his mind the fact that he is a part of this great nation. Whether one is a farmer, a factory worker or a public servant he should remember that he is doing a service to his country. He should not look to the time when he can win wealth and fame but rather to the time when he can serve his fellowman."

"As a people we are coming to realize that each individual is a unit in the nation. Twenty years ago the government was not doing the work towards the conservation of the forest lands that it is doing today."

"Forests have been bought in mountain regions to preserve natural water sheds and to protect the land from erosion. Desert lands have been turned into forests by the federal reclamation service. It is as much our duty to preserve the country's resources for our posterity as it is to supply our own daily needs."

Miss Lenore Richards, assistant director of the cafeteria, spent the week end in Lincoln, Neb., where she attended the Annual Founder's Day banquet of the Delta Gamma sorority.

FIRST NUMBER OF WEEK WILL BE GIVEN THIS EVE

CONCERT BY COLLEGE ORCHESTRA STARTS OFF FESTIVAL

Robin Hood Will be Presented Friday Evening, "The Man From Home," Saturday, and a Sacred Concert Sunday.

The College Orchestra concert, conducted by Prof. R. H. Brown, this evening at 8 o'clock, will open the program of the first annual musical festival week of the college. Miss Fanchion Easter is announced as piano soloist.

"Professor Brown will offer a program that is worthy of a large attendance," commented A. E. Westbrook, director of music, yesterday. "Mr. Brown is a successful orchestra leader because he recognizes that strict classical music in itself is not especially interesting except to those who have studied and practiced it so that they can appreciate the artistic technique."

"Rather does he choose those selections which are tuneful, beautiful and popular enough to be appreciated by the general public whom he wishes to please. He has, through his efforts and persistence, worked out an orchestra which can present programs which would be creditable for even larger orchestras. He attempts big things and succeeds."

Mrs. Brown to Assist. "Mrs. Brown, who is always so willing to co-operate with the musicals of the college will add not a little with her harp and her own charming personality to the personal and musical interest of the concert."

It is to be regretted that due to illness, Miss Carley, contralto soloist, will not be able to appear as was announced.

In addition to this concert, Professor Brown, in preparing the college orchestra to furnish music for the presentations of Robin Hood, The Man From Home, and the Sacred Concert.

Robin Hood, one of the most popular of the old operas, as presented here Friday evening, by the College Glee clubs, is promised as a treat to all music enthusiasts.

Earl Taylor, starring as the crude, honest "Man from Home," among the foppish nobility of the continent, and talented cast will present a production that rivals the professional in finish.

Cecil Fanning, baritone, and Miss Margaret Lester, of Chicago, soprano, are the two visiting artists who will feature the programs of Sunday afternoon and evening.

WORLD WILL COME TO AN END.

Thursday is Last Day When Royal Purple Assessments May be Paid.

Next Thursday is absolutely the last day when pictures will be taken proofs maybe returned, assessments may be paid, organization copy may be handed to the Royal Purple editor, or senior invitations may be ordered, according to H. J. Adams, manager of the 1917 Royal Purple, who says, that after that day the world will come to an end for all those who have not complied with the above requirements; that is the college world as all pictures and copy intended for this year's college annual must be turned in on or before Thursday, March 15.

This is also the date when the beauty contest will close. The present ranking of the contestants are Mary Dakin, first; Merle Beeman, second; Irene Walker, third; Sarah Drake, fourth; and Misses Hale and Dondurant have tied for fifth place. Those who have their favorites picked and wish to see them win are urged to pay up and vote before the contest closes.

Alumnus is Author.

C. H. Popenoe, '05, assistant in the bureau of entomology in the United States department of agriculture, is author of Farmers' Bulletin No. 789, on "Mushroom Pests and How to Control Them." This bulletin also contains a list of the publications of the United States department of agriculture relating to insects injurious to truck crops.

NEW WAY OF GROWING FLOWERS.

May Cultivate Carnations Differently Hereafter.

The accidental falling of a bench of carnations in the greenhouse may be the cause of a new system of growing the flower. Several days ago one of the benches became too heavy for the supports and bracing and it leaned to the south and collapsed. The sides were pulled together and now except for position the bench with its plants is in as good condition as before.

Since carnations require a lower temperature than the average greenhouse plant the system may be put into practice to grow them in the same house with other plants.

SALINA HIGHS ARE THE FIFTH DISTRICT CHAMPS

Win the Silver Loving Cup by Trimming Clay County 44 to 22 in the Final Game.

The Salina Highs marched away with first place in the Fifth district high school basketball tournament Saturday by trimming Clay County 44 to 22 in the final game. The Salina quintet had fought its way through the first and second elimination rounds unscathed, and by defeating the five from Clay Center won a silver loving cup, given annually to the tournament winner.

Salina, Manhattan and Clay County had survived the first day's play Friday. In drawing for opponents Manhattan and Salina were matched, while Clay County, receiving a blank, was given the chance to meet the winner of the Manhattan-Salina game for the championship.

The game between Salina and the locals was probably the hardest fought contest of the series. Salina forged to the front in the first half, and gained a 20 to 8 lead. Manhattan came back strong in the second period and was rapidly closing up the gap when the game ended with Salina still ahead, 40 to 37.

Washington won the consolation round by defeating Clyde 50 to 21. Other scores of the two days' playing were: Salina, 42, Washington, 37; Belleville, 42, School of Agriculture, 17; Manhattan, 41, Clyde, 11; Clay County, 35; Greenleaf, 31; Dickinson County, 72, Enterprise, 32; Clay County, 38, Belleville, 20; Salina, 54, Dickinson County, 26; and Washington, 37, School of Agriculture, 17.

Clevenger's championship Aggie quintet showed the visiting high school athletes how the game is played in the Missouri valley by downing the Aggie second string in a fast 23 to 3 exhibition Friday night. The teams played but ten minutes.

HAVE TRUCK SUPPLY COMPANY.

Auto is Ready—May be Driven From Chicago.

The traction department has been offered the use of a two ton truck to be used by the traction and military departments during the remainder of the college year. This is the result of a plan started in the military department for a truck supply company that will be organized as soon as the truck is delivered.

This company will receive training in loading and handling trucks, according to military regulations. The truck will be equipped with the regular military body that is furnished to the government and will be used to carry equipment for the hikes that the regiment will participate in the spring.

The manufacturers have notified W. H. Sanders, instructor in farm motors, that the truck is ready at their Chicago factory, but owing to the present transportation conditions it will be impossible for them to deliver the truck over the rails. They suggest that the college furnish drivers and the truck be driven overland from Chicago.

It is expected that the truck will be driven overland in the next three or four weeks.

THE CO-EDS BREAK EVEN IN THE WASHBURN DEBATE

THE AFFIRMATIVE TEAMS OF BOTH SCHOOLS WIN.

Debate Here Was Slow, the Negative Failing to Clash With the Affirmative—Rose Baker Stars for the Aggies.

Once more the Aggies won. This time it was a girls' team. Friday night the Washburn-Aggie girls' debate resulted in a two to one decision in favor of the home team. The question was the minimum wage law.

The Washburn team was slow in connecting with the affirmative and the teams failed to clash during the entire debate which tended to make the contest slow. The rebuttal work of Rose Baker for the Aggies was the strongest part of the contest.

Professor Karr, debate coach at the Emporia normal, Professor Myers, of the department of political science at the Emporia normal, and A. M. Thorman, of Topeka, chairman of the state text book commission, were the judges of the debate.

Immediately following the contest Zeta Kappa Psi, forensic sorority, entertained for the debaters and coaches. The members of the Pi Kappa Delta, debating fraternity, members of the K. S. A. C. debate squads, and judges were also present. The reception was held in the Athenian-Browning hall, where punch was served and a farce entitled the origin and growth of debate was given.

Washburn Affirmative Wins.

At the other end of the line the Washburn team took the decision unanimously. One or two of the members of the Aggie team that went to Topeka should have been in the hospital rather than on the debate platform.

Rose Baker and Mae Sweet, captains of the teams, won their third "K" in this contest. This will be the last debate for them as they are both seniors this year.

Rose Baker, of Topeka, is a senior in home economics. She is a member of Zeta, Kappa Psi, Forum, Debate Council, Browning society and has been twice captain of her team.

Mae Sweet, of Burlington, is a senior in home economics, Ionian, Forum member, Omicron Nu, debating council, Zeta Kappa Psi and has twice captained her team.

Lucile Norwood, first speaker for the affirmative, is from St. Joseph. She is on the faculty of the English department, member of the Forum, sophomore in general science, member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, and debated for the first time Friday night.

Lois Bellomy, second speaker on the affirmative, is from Manhattan, senior in home economics, member of the Forum, Browning Literary society and debated for the first time Friday night.

Donna Faye Wilson, of the negative team, is from Wichita, and is a junior in home economics. She is a member of the Forum, Ionian Literary society, Junior-senior committee, Zeta Kappa Psi, and counts this as her second debate.

Laura Mueller also of the negative team, is from Wichita, is a senior in home economics and took part in her second college debate in this contest. She is an Ionian, Zeta Kappa Psi, member of the Forum and Y. W. cadnet.

A call for baseball candidates was issued yesterday by Coach Z. G. Clevenger. The men are to report at 4:30 every afternoon in Nichols gymnasium. Outside work will begin as soon as the weather permits.

MORE THAN 700 ATTEND JUNIOR-SENIOR SOCIAL

Annual Event is Considered One of the Best Ever Staged by a Junior Class.

The 1917 junior-senior, the biggest annual social event of the college which was held Saturday night, is considered by many to be one of the best entertainments ever staged by a junior class. It is estimated that more than 700 persons were present.

The reception in Nichols gymnasium began at 7 o'clock and lasted until 8, fifteen juniors and faculty members were in the receiving line. From 8 until 9 o'clock, the junior farce was given in the auditorium. The farce pictured a senior student who had taken a too active part in the many college organizations with the result that he was carried off "by the squirrels" to become a member of the Phil-burt family.

After the farce, the Shepherd's Crook was presented to Geo. C. Gibbons, president of the junior class, by J. B. Sweet, representative of the senior class and holder during the past year.

On the main floor of the gymnasium dancing was the form of entertainment provided for those who cared to indulge, while in the women's gymnasium a unique musical entertainment and mixer was provided for those who did not care to dance.

Punch, ice cream and wafers were served by sophomore boys and girls during the evening. The Maupin-Skelly and Veach-Nichols orchestras furnished music for the entertainments. Decorations were purple and white, the college colors, red and blue lights, and suspended from the ceiling in the center of the gymnasium was a lighted cone with reverse revolving sections on which were the words "Junior," "Senior," "18-17." Approximately 50 juniors served on the various committees which arranged for this annual affair.

STUDENTS PRAISE DR. GREENE.

Have High Regard for Lectures Delivered at Ottawa U.

The students of the Ottawa university are high in their praise of the series of lectures on sex problems and related subjects delivered at that university by Doctor Marie Greene, student physician at Kansas State Agricultural college.

Doctor Greene spoke at student assembly and gave five lectures to the girls and three to the boys. In expressing the appreciation of the lectures the "Ottawa Campus" says: "Every student who heard Doctor Greene speak felt the wonderful wealth of her soul in its treasure of sympathy and deep, live human interest. With the irresistible force of a lovely and lovable personality, the students were drawn to her in perfect trust and confidence."

"The value and result of her far-reaching influence is shown in the ready and general opinion of all students: 'It is what we have long needed. It has furnished us a foundation on which to build toward our ideals.'"

"Her subject was not made repulsive in the least, by the presentation of cold-storage facts in fossil form. But the clothing of a fine, livable philosophy of life, a part not only of the spoken words but the very life of the speaker herself warms to a rich glow every beautifully sacred fact which she presented."

J. M. Boring spent the week end in Kansas City on business.

ANDERSON HALL'S DRESS.

The climbing vine on Anderson hall is American woodbine—ampelopsis quinquefolia to be exact—and not ivy. Many have passed it a hundred times never knowing when and by whom it was planted.

This woodbine vine is old—older even than a majority of the students. Dr. J. D. Walters is authority for the statement that it was planted in 1885 and the years following under the direction of A. E. Popponoe who was, at that time, professor of horticulture and entomology. Later several classes were given permission by President G. T. Fairchild to plant "Class Ivy." That is the way it came to be there.

Early in the spring it shakes out its green folds and clothes Anderson in a most stylish and becoming dress conforming to the lines of the building faithfully and gracefully, ever new and ever beautiful. In the fall the green changes to a Seinna or wine red as though for its last appearance is desired to put on the most attractive and becoming gown of the year. Then it is truly beautiful. About the first of November the foliage falls off but always comes again in the spring and is always welcome.

HAVE YOU FELT IT?

Have you been disgusted with yourself and life in general about two weeks after college has closed? You have made up all the sleep you lost, and have passed the "company stage" with your family. Somehow you are longing for the college friends whom just a few weeks ago seemed a bore.

This is the time you should start an Eight Week club in your home community. An Eight Week club is composed of the girls in your community, which with you as their leader, band themselves together for the purpose of study, work and play. To make you the very best leader, the Y. W. C. A. has organized a training class for college girls who wish to take up this line of work in their home communities. The Y. W. C. A. secretary will be glad to meet all girls personally who are interested.

The Manhattan man who sold his potatoes last fall for 95 cents a bushel and had to buy some back this spring for seed at $3.75 a bushel, certainly has reason to believe that fate has picked him out for a target.

Why should the cafeteria patrons worry about the high price of potatoes? The manager believes in preparedness and settled the potato question last fall.

Kansas certainly has been "bone dry" during February. Weather records report it the driest for thirty years.

 THE JEWELER

Student's Alarm Clock Has Interesting Experience

You do not recognize me? But then I am not surprised. I remember now that my face is blackened, my hands missing and my entire frame twisted almost entirely out of its natural shape. I am only a bit of trash now, perhaps of no value even to the junk man.

But I have not always been this way. You see, when I was new I was one of the best alarm clocks ever made. After I left the jewelry shop I went to the room of two girls, both college students. Those girls were real nice to me but what I learned about them would surprise their most intimate friends.

For example, listen to this, Charlie So-and-So wonders why Mabelle Whats-her-Name was so nice to him for several weeks and now treats him with such indifference. I am the only one besides Mabelle's roommate who knows the reason. Here it is.

Mabelle never was very crazy about Charlie but the frat to which he belonged gave the best dances in town and the young lady wished to pull the next one of those affairs. To do this she had to give Charlie the dates for which he asked—about a dozen in all. After all these dates Charlie did not ask Mabelle to the party and now he is no more listed among her intimate friends.

I know how Pretty Brunette makes her hair so wavy, who Shellpink Ears is secretly engaged to and how many low grades Ihunta Date got last semester.

These and many other things I learned that winter while I sat on Mabelle's dresser, ringing my hardest every morning except Sunday in order to awaken the "sweet young thing."

When school was out the next spring and the girls forgot me in their rush to get started home. I was not alone some long, however, as a young man, a summer school student, moved into the room next day after the girls left.

The young man was very nice and we got along fine. I never failed to call him at just the right time and he always was gentle with me. After summer school was out he took me home with him and I did not do a thing except repose peacefully in his trunk for the remainder of the summer.

When September came the young man took me back to college with him and it was then that I began the life which put me where I am today.

My master, Heza Stude, went to live in a fraternity house, and of course I went with him. All of the men at the house slept in one big room. Some fellow would set me for the time he wished to get up in the morning and then, if he did not happen to hear me right away, some fellow would grab me and throw me clear across the room. The first few times they did this I would not stop ringing until I had entirely run down but every morning was too much and I only lasted about two months. After that I would not ring or run either and I was tossed here in the trash pile.

Now I am living on my memories. In my time I have heard more secrets than most persons would imagine exist. I have heard class politics and social policies discussed until there was no use in setting me in order to get up in time for breakfast. I have listened to persons studying every course in the catalogue. I know that a certain well known personage did not leave college to help his father during a rush of business but that the young man in question was expelled for gambling. I know of cases of graft in everything ranging from Sunday School picnics to Congressional sessions.

And, with all this knowledge I have been cast aside as being of no account. While other friends are feasted and made much over I am forgotten. My days of usefulness have passed and I have sunk into oblivion. I am just a student's discarded alarm clock but probably possessing more knowledge than any graduate of this college.

Odds and Ends

A Sub-Freshman in 1921.

Teacher: "Sterilized Stephen, do you bring with you a disinfected certificate of birth, baptism and successful vaccination?"

Stephie: "Yes ma'am."

Teacher: "Have you had your lower left forearm inoculated with the correct cholera serum?"

"Ye-ye-yes ma'am."

"Have you had your verniform appendix removed?"

"I guess so."

"Do you promise yourself, your heirs and assigns for all ages, to use sterilized milk?"

"I do."

"Do you solemnly consent to soak your slate in sulphur fumes for five hours, before coming to school?"

"Boo-hoo, ye-ye-yes."

"Will you extemporaneously adjure every companion that sniffs?"

"Un huh."

"Do you promise to use an anti-septic slate sponge and confine yourself to individual chewing gum?"

(sadly) "I 'spose."

"Then extract that one remaining milk tooth, tie a formaldehyde bag around your neck, fill your pockets, if you possess any, with asafetida, and make your will. Come back again tomorrow and you will be assigned an isolated sitting place in this sanitary rhode of knowledge. Good day."
 (Exit poor scared freshie.)

—The Echo

A tripper with a very red nose got a day's work as a laborer in a boiler works. The same day the appeared before the surgeon at the hospital with his nose smashed.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the surgeon. "How did you manage to get your nose smashed like that?"

"Oh," cried the sufferer, "I put my nose thru a hole in the boiler for a sniff of fresh air, and the man outside with the hammer mistook it for a red-hot rivet. And he only hit once—that's all."—Ex.

 C is for the candy that I bought her
 K is for the kale I've spent, as good as dead
 E is everything I've done to please

"Yes," said the lady lecturer, "women have been wronged for ages, and have suffered in a thousand ways."

"There is one way in which they have never suffered," chimed in a meek looking man, standing near the door.

"What is that, sir?" demanded the lecturer.

"They have never suffered in silence."—Then he bolted.

Luke had it before.
 Paul had it behind.
 Matthew never had it at all.
 All girls have it once.
 Boys cannot have it.

Old Mrs. Mulligan had it twice in succession.
 Dr. Lowell had it before and behind and he had it twice as bad behind as before.

Answer—the letter "L."

"Just fancy!" exclaimed the first little girl after she had heard the story of the fall of man. "The serpent couldn't tempt me with an apple. I don't like apples."

"But," argued the second girl, "suppose somebody told you not to eat apples?"

"Now, Dorothy," said the teacher to a small pupil, "can you tell me what a panther is?"

"Yeth ma'am," hisped Dorothy. "A panther is a man that makth panth."

TO OUR ALMA MATER.

In the crispness of the evening,
 When the brown leaves speak of frost;

On the cowpaths, people leaving,
 Right inside feel kind o' lost.

The chimes are slowly sounding,
 "Lead me on, thou kindly light,"
 And the echo says resounding,

"Where are my dear friends to-night?"

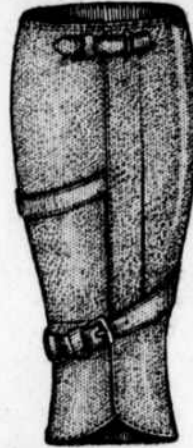

None can hear the tones appealing,
 With his breast at liberty,
 For within there is a feeling
 Which seems to speak most sacredly:

"This is your dear Alma Mater—
 This, the dearest school I know,
 And the others round about you
 Are your brothers—treat them so!"

TWO THOUSAND STUDENTS MUST PAY MORE TO EAT

Emporia, Kan., March 12.—Two thousand students in the State Normal school and the College of Emporia were affected by the announcement, made Saturday by the boarding house keepers, that the price of board would be increased from $3.50 to $4 a week, starting March 17. Time was when the normal boarding clubs fed the students for $1.75 a week, but little by little the price has been advanced. A few co-operative clubs, run by students, furnish cheaper board, and probably more of these clubs will be started.

HERE ARE SOME SOLUTIONS FOR THE MEXICAN PROBLEM

There are Three of Them—Any one Will Settle the Situation Definitely.

The discussion, in the Aggieville barber shop of Wilson's administration had drifted to the subject of the president's Mexican policy.

"The fundamental cause of all this trouble," stated the red headed customer in the first chair, "is that confounded boundary line. I've always claimed that it ought not be there, and there is only one way to settle the question. We should line up every soldier in the United States and push that bloomin' border clear down to south America."

The slim barber cleared his throat. "I have a better plan that will solve two questions at once. Line up every nigger in the country, male and female and let the Greasers use up all of their ammunition on 'em. Then we can walk in and take possession."

The little barber at the first chair re-lighted his cigar. His small audience waited respectfully for his opinion.

"The only way to settle this Mexican affair definitely," he said impressively, "is this—send every man, woman and child in the United States to the border who can possibly go. Send 'em in autos, on horseback, in Fords, in wagons, and on foot. Then form a line across the boundary from coast to coast. March straight forward and push every Greaser off into the ocean or the Gulf of Mexico. The navy can form along each side and make sure they drown. Next."

Her Most Embarrassing Moment.

A jostling, bouncing wagon was carrying us toward Dripping Springs for an all day hike. Fourteen college students were packed in firmly.

Every one was laughing and joking with much hilarity. I was feeling especially happy for I had a secret little plan to make a good impression on a certain young man. I believed that my use of graceful little mannerisms were making the desired impression.

We neared some dead, scraggly, old cottonwood trees. I swelled with pride for my little plans were to be a success. Just then I felt a mass of hair leaving my head. A wicked little branch from one of the cottonwood trees hung far down over the road. It spitefully fastened itself into my hair.

I grabbed wildly for my fast departing locks. A deep red raced hotly up my neck and cheeks to the crown of my head. I had lost. What could he be thinking of me now?

Then leaning over he whispered, "The dresser drawer is the best place for hair after all, isn't it?"

TREE PLANTING CAMPAIGN IS ON.

State-Wide Movement Launched by State Forester.

State-wide tree planting campaign has been started by the Kansas State Agricultural college. Chas. A. Scott, state forester, and Walter Burr, director of the rural service department, division of extension, will speak at community meetings where interest is taken in systematic tree planting, and will suggest plans to meet local conditions.

A second series of meetings will be held early in April when actual tree planting will be done. The general public is expected to participate in the work. The tollers will get together to enjoy community dinners in each place where the campaign is pushed.

Several towns have asked for dates, and others are expected to fall in line soon. The request for meetings is being made by civic organizations. Stafford county, through the teachers, is planning to conduct a general campaign. A community meeting will be held in St. John.

A bulletin on "Tree Planting in Kansas," prepared by Professors Scott and Burr, and issued by the division of extension of the college, not only gives details of the campaign, but contains valuable suggestions relative to putting out trees. It will be sent upon application to those interested in the project.

STUDENTS CELEBRATE THE IDES OF MARCH

SECOND ANNUAL CELEBRATION IS HOWLING SUCCESS.

The Day is Characterized by Lack of Roughness and Rowdiness—Great Variety of Costumes Worn.

Tuesday morning numerous handbills were found scattered about the campus warning the students to "Beware the Ides of March," and giving a brief account of the Ides of March in 1916. Consequently Thursday morning the students applied the safety first rule and appeared on the campus prepared to celebrate "rough neck day."

Many and varied were the colors and costumes worn by the "rough necks." Many of the colors were of such an intensity that they fairly screamed. Costumes varied from girls' bathing suits to a la Charlie Chaplins. The dilapidated hobo was the common make up.

Charley Chaplins and Fatty Lewises vied with Irish brick layers and stone masons for the applause of Aggie coeds, who, not to be outdone and counting the hazard, made their appearance at classes attired in costumes that had the tang of the backwoods girl from the settlement "farthest back." Every conceivable type of humanity, from the "weary willy" and the freckle-faced youth from the rural district with his skin-tight trousers, steel-rimmed spectacles and gaudy red tie to the Italian count with bristling black mustachios and monocle, and its prototype in the motley congregation that made even staid college professors condescend to smile.

No Paddling.

A noticeable feature of "rough neck day" was the lack of paddling which was the common form of punishment used last year to reprimand those who dared to appear on the campus not properly attired. Few paddles were in evidence yesterday and no cases of paddling were reported. Several students dared to brave the warning issued Tuesday and appeared on the campus in "store clothes" and white collars and "got by with it."

Tin cans, tubs and buckets were tied to automobiles and motorcycles in order to lend enchantment to the celebration. The enhancing spirit of the day even imbued the souls of the youngsters and several little tots appeared on the hill arrayed in attire befitting the occasion. An unusual number of visitors came to college to enjoy the scenery and to study costumes and designs.

Take "Movies."

At noon the Manhattan moving picture man took some "movies" of the students as they came out of main hall and especially of those most appropriately attired. It was planned to have the "rough necks" march down town, led by the college band, last evening, at which time more "movies" were to have been taken. However, these plans were frustrated on account of the rain.

The second annual celebration of the Ides of March was characterized by the lack of roughness and rowdiness. It is considered by many that the costumes worn this year were much better than those used last year.

Gold Basketballs for the Champs.

Since the Aggies won the Missouri valley championship in basketball Coach Z. G. Clevenger has locked his office doors to keep the jewelers from trying to sell him little gold basketballs. The next day after the glad news of the Aggie victory had been spread abroad no less than three jewelers visited the office of the coach.

It is customary to give the winners of the championship watch charms in honor of their achievement. The gold basketballs have been selected and in another week the members of the team will be wearing them.

Burns Hand With Acid.

Zeno Rechel, junior in general science, had his left hand severely burned last Monday while working in the organic chemistry laboratory. Mr. Rechel was using liquid bromine in an experiment. Some of the fluid spilled onto his hand and before it could be removed burned a gash deep into the flesh of the back of his hand.

ELECT VAN TRINE CAPTAIN

Will Pilot 1918 Basketball Squad—
All the Players This Year Will Receive Sweaters.

Ralph Van Trine, junior in engineering, will lead the Aggie basketball team next year. He was chosen captain yesterday by the unanimous vote of his teammates. Van Trine, although not playing his usual flashy game at the beginning, showed exceptional form at the close of the season. His great work in the Missouri games caused much comment and it was largely due to him that the Aggies were able to win the championship.

The entire squad will receive basketball sweaters. The men are Captain MacMillan, Capitanelect Van Trine, Reynolds, Fullington, Wells, Wooster, Clark, Knostman, Kecker and Cushman. Three seniors, MacMillan, Reynolds and Cushman will receive their last sweater as they graduate at the end of the spring term. Wooster, Wells and Van Trine have one more year to play while Fullington, Clark, Knostman and Kecker are all sophomores and will be eligible for two more seasons.

AGGIE CO-EDS PLAN TO BECOME KANSAS FARMERS

Miss Blanche French, Junior, and Miss Luella Schaumburg, Freshman, Are Specializing in Agronomy.

Miss Blanche French, of Hamilton, and Miss Luella Schaumburg, of La Crosse, are studying at the Kansas State Agricultural college with a view to becoming up-to-date Kansas farmers.

Miss French is classified as a junior, having had work at the Kansas City Polytechnical school last year and work at the University of Kansas year before last.

Miss French's parents died in her early childhood. She and a younger sister have since lived on a large farm with their grandparents. Last year the grandfather died leaving the entire management of the farm to the two girls.

"As I am the oldest, I knew it was up to me to manage the farm," explained Miss French. "Last summer I wrote to one of the agronomy professors at the Agricultural college for information, stating my desire to enter the agronomy course. He answered my letter begging me to consider the home economics or general science courses. He could not believe it possible that I wish to take agronomy. I began to think that the college did not want me."

Undaunted, Miss French faced her responsibility and entered the agronomy course in the fall. She went to President H. J. Waters for advice in choosing this course and was given encouragement since she intends some day to manage a farm.

Miss Schaumburg, freshman, expects to specialize in agronomy and plans to teach after graduation. "I am hoping that my father will give me a farm if I prove worthy of it," Miss Schaumburg said.

SOPH GIRLS ARE THE CHAMPS.

Are Now Proud Possessors of Silver Loving Cup.

The girls' inter-class basketball tournament is over—and the sophomores are the proud possessors of the title "champions."

The final and deciding game was played Friday afternoon between the Sophomores and Seniors, resulting, Sophomores 14, Seniors 10. The game Friday was to play off a tie between the second and fourth year teams, each having won two games and lost one. The game was slow, in one way, but not in another as the floor of the gymnasium had just been waxed for the junior-senior.

The silver cup, presented last year to the winners of the tournament, the present juniors, will now pass into the keeping of the sophomores. It will be formally presented at the next meeting of the girls' athletic association, some time before the end of this term. To own the cup one class must win it three times in succession.

Results of the Tournament:

March 2—
Freshman, 28; Sophomores, 30.
Junior, 14; Senior, 9.
March 6—
Freshman, 16; Senior, 18.
Sophomores, 15; Junior, 22.
March 8—
Freshman, 22; Junior, 4.
Sophomore, 14; Senior, 16.
Final, March 12.
Sophomore, 14; Senior, 10.

Orchestra Concert Tuesday Evening
Was a Delightful Success—Mrs.
Margaret Lester to Assist in Sacred Concert.

A concert which would have been creditable to many orchestras composed of professional musicians was presented at the college auditorium Tuesday evening under the direction of Prof. R. H. Brown.

The program was a success both from the quality of the music and the delightful rendition of the compositions. It was a concert appreciated by each individual of the large audience. Professor Brown's skill as an orchestra conductor was shown by the beautiful effect produced by each number.

Miss Patricia Abernathy appeared as piano soloist. She gave two solos which portrayed her beautiful personality and her skill as a musical artist. Mrs. Brown with the harp gave a support to the orchestra which was appreciated by the entire audience.

This concert was the opening number of the festival week program. On Friday night will be given the popular English opera, "Robin Hood," by the college glee clubs.

"The Man from Home," a four-act comedy-drama, will be presented by the Purple Mask dramatic fraternity Saturday night. The talent of the cast for this play rivals that of professional companies.

The two entertainments Sunday will be featured by the appearance of two prominent visiting artists. Sunday afternoon Cecil Fanning, baritone, will give the entire program. In presenting the sacred concert Sunday evening the college chorals will be assisted by Mrs. Margaret Lester. Mrs. Lester is one of Chicago's most prominent lyric sopranos. She is soprano soloist in McCabe Memorial Methodist church of Hyde Park and is the wife of William Lester, a young American composer of songs and choral works. Mrs. Lester will sing some of her husband's works.

Cecil Fanning, poet and singer, America's most eminent baritone, and an artist who sings to please his countrymen, will give a concert which will be at least to all lovers of song at the college auditorium Sunday afternoon.

To Mr. Fanning poetry and song are one. He writes poetry and interprets it to his people in song. He has toured Europe twice and is an admirer of those of those countries. He sings almost entirely in English because it is the language that his audiences love and appreciate.

Mr. Fanning is much interested in community music such as is being carried out by the department of music at Kansas State Agricultural college. After a tour of the western states Mr. Fanning says:

"The community music movement has had a tremendous influence on recital giving. I would urge all artists to co-operate in this community movement. Give a town a civic chorus or an orchestra and a new attention is directed to the touring artist. In Kansas, particularly, we noticed a surprising advance in music. Every community seems to have its civic musical organization and the newly made music lovers flocked to the recitals."

Clifford Carr, '11, of the Allis Chalmers Mfg. company of Kansas City, was in town yesterday on business and visiting friends.

MOSER WINS SECOND IN STATE PEACE CONTEST

PAUL BREESE OF FAIRMOUNT COLLEGE TAKES FIRST.

Moser's Oration, Entitled "Economic Necessity—A Cause for War?"
Considered Superior in Thought and Composition.

Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, won second prize as a representative of Kansas State Agricultural college in the State Peace

LEO C. MOSER

Oratorical contest which was held at Fairmount college, Wichita, Tuesday, March 13. The title of Mr. Moser's oration was "Economic Necessity—A Cause for War?"

Paul Breeze, of Fairmount college, won first prize, with an oration entitled, "The Part of Poland." Mr. Breeze was the winner of the state and interstate prohibition oratorical contest held last year.

"It was his veteran qualities and his composure that caused Mr. Breeze to rank so consistently high," says J. G. Emerson, oratorical coach. "His merit consisted of a perfectly composed appearance and his pleasing manner and voice. In the opinion of several of the oratorical coaches present at the contest his oration was not so strong as those of the Washburn and Aggie representatives."

Only by a supreme effort in his conclusion was he able to give his oration a semblance of a peace production.

"Mr. Moser made a decidedly strong impression upon his audience as well as the other contestants and coaches. On delivery he was completely at home on the platform. He styled his delivery to meet the circumstances of the occasion and the mechanism of his delivery as laid down by the coach was not so apparent as in the speeches of the other contestants."

"In the opinion of some of the oratorical coaches Mr. Moser's oration was superior to any of the others in thought and composition. There were only three strong orations—those of Washburn, Fairmount and K. S. A. C. and it was a toss-up among those men for first place. The other orations dealt with the old hackneyed ideas of peace. Mr. Moser's oration had the pleasing distinction of dealing with a phase of the peace problem in a decidedly original way."

The institutions which entered the contest were, Washburn college, Fairmount college, Ottawa university, K. S. A. C., Salina Wesleyan, Pittsburg Normal, and Hays Normal. The presiding officer of the contest was Colonel S. B. Amidon, a prominent citizen of Wichita, who donated the prize of $50 which Mr. Moser won. The first prize of $75 was donated by the Seabury sisters of Boston.

HOLD AN INTERCLASS MEET

Annual Event Will be Staged Monday Evening.

The annual interclass indoor track meet will be held at 7:25 Monday evening, March 19. All students, including "K" men are eligible for this event.

A cup for the winning team and possibly one for the highest individual point winner will be awarded. Four places will count; the first three places will be awarded ribbons.

All entries should be in the athletic director's office by Saturday noon.

The classes appear to be evenly divided, according to the dope. Probable senior entrants are Keys, Granfield, Holroyd, Schaper, Teeter, Welmer and Ernsting. The juniors may be represented by Wilder, Bixby, Billings, Enlow, Essick, Chaffee, Eggerman and Honeywell, while Tillotson, Dodrill, Cozine, Totten, Whedon, Colburn, Rhoda Helt, Kliever, Coffey, Washburn, Vorheis and Langdon probably will compete for the sophomores. Beatty, Clapp, Knisely, Wallace, Champe, Shields, Beckett, Frost, Maldon, D. Billings and Hedrick are freshman contestants.

CONTRIBUTES $9,000,000 TO AID STARVING BELGIANS

America Was First to Come to Aid of the War Stricken People, Says J. T. Marshall.

Three million children in Belgium are facing starvation unless America comes to their aid, according to Joseph T. Marshall, who spoke to the student assembly Wednesday morning in behalf of the Belgian Relief commission.

"When Belgium was first overrun it was America who first came to the aid of the stricken people," said Mr. Marshall, "but she has contributed only $9,000,000 of the $250,000,000 that has been given to these people. England and France have given $240,000,000."

"The children of Belgium are subject to many diseases because of malnutrition. They can be fed at the small cost of seven cents a day and for three cents more they can be given an extra meal at noon time. Now when more money is needed the funds of the relief commission are decreasing but I have great faith in the people of the country that they will respond to the need. Wherever the people have understood the situation subscriptions have come in."

Mr. Marshall in company with Mrs. Ina Few Longfellow are touring the country giving lectures and concerts. Before Mr. Marshall spoke they gave a pleasing concert consisting of vocal solos and duets. The proceeds of their concerts go entirely to the Belgian relief fund. Mr. Marshall's father is defraying the expenses of the tour.

PROFESSOR WIRT IS HONORED.

Reappointed on Committee of American Society of Ag. Engineers.

F. A. Wirt, head of the department of farm machinery in the Kansas State Agricultural college, has been reappointed to the education committee and appointed to the committee on field machinery, American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Professor Wirt prepared the comprehensive report recently presented to the association on the subject of instruction in farm machinery. The report deals carefully and in detail with the status of this study in American colleges and universities, taking up methods of teaching, research and other topics of importance.

INSTALL LIGHTS ON BUILDINGS.

Put Them on Auditorium, Gymnasium and Kedzie Hall.

Among the latest improvements being made at the college is the installing of the new lights on the buildings over the campus. In all there are four large lights installed at the expense of $70. Two of these lights are on the Nichols gymnasium at the east and west entrances.

One is on the northeast corner of Kedzie hall and the other on the west side of the auditorium. The last two being placed for the purpose of lighting the automobile parkings. It is very probable that next fall entirely new lights will be placed in the gymnasium.

The current issue of the Country Gentleman contains an article by Frank L. Snow, instructor in industrial journalism, on the work of the state live stock registry board of which Dr. C. W. McCampbell is secretary. Two weeks ago this paper ran a story by Mr. Snow on the results accomplished in 1916 by the Kansas farm bureau and agents.

Merle Beeman, Irene Walker, Margaret Hale, Helen Blank and Fayne Bonduant Are the Other Beauties Selected.

Last evening, the beauty contest for the 1917 Royal Purple closed with the following results: First, Mary Dakin, '18, 99,810 votes. Miss Dakin is a junior in home economics, a member of the Ionia Literary society, Forum, Omicron Nu, home economics sorority, and Zeta Kappa Psi, girls' debating fraternity. Second, Merle Beeman, Kappa Kappa Gamma, 78,900; third, Ann Walker, Delta Zeta, 47,700; fourth, Margaret Hale, Alpha Delta Pi, 47,270; fifth, Helen Blank, Pi Beta Phi, 39,705; and Fayne Bonduant, Chi Omega, 39,550.

These six girls who will have a special vanity fair section in this year's class book will be taken to Kansas City for special pictures for this section, according to H. J. Adams manager of the 1917 Royal Purple. Voting for the beauty contestants was heavy yesterday and continued until after closing time.

Continue Book Sale.

The book sale last evening was exceedingly heavy, and orders for books will continue to be taken at the window opposite the postoffice the rest of the week. A limited supply will be ordered for spring distribution, and Mr. Adams urges those who wish books to set their orders in right away.

HE LIKES TO SING IN ENGLISH.

Cecil Fanning Prefers Songs in Native Language.

The English language above all other is the favorite singing medium of Cecil Fanning, the great American concert baritone, who will sing at the college auditorium Sunday afternoon March 18 at 2:30 o'clock. This is next to the last number of the program of the festival week.

"I have always loved my native language and I love it none the less after a careful study of the Romance tongues," says Mr. Fanning. "I believe that there is no language which combines all the elements of other tongues as nearly as does our English."

"I can hardly go as far as to give an entire program in English, unless I am especially requested to do so, because of the many wonderful songs of foreign composers. But my greatest pleasure comes in singing English works, both because I enjoy singing them so much and because it is so manifest that these are the works that my fellow-countrymen most enjoy."

Six countries have claimed Mr. Fanning as a great artist. He has sung all over the United States and in several cities of Canada. He has toured England twice and has sung in many of the most important musical centers of France, Germany, and Italy. He has won favorable comment in all of these countries by the merit of his work.

In all his travels, Mr. Fanning has as his accompanist and co-laborer, H. B. Turpin who has been his advisor and teacher since Mr. Fanning began the study of music.

Won't Teach Social Dancing.

In a recent issue of the Collegian appeared an article which stated that E. A. Bauer and Miss Ann Cahoon, instructors in physical training, would teach dancing. Many have had the idea that this would be social dancing. This is not the case, however, as they will teach only gymnastic dancing which will be given three times a week and for which one hour of credit will be given. Those who contemplate taking this work should hand their names in to Mr. Bauer as soon as possible.

Many Attend Art Exhibit.

The art exhibit in home economics which closed Wednesday had an especially large attendance the last two days. Many high school students were excused from classes to take advantage of the pictures. The attendance Tuesday morning was 203, and in the afternoon 124, making a total of 327 for the day. Many of these high school students were in attendance last year and are now making a comparison of the exhibit in these two years.

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 1917.

JUST LIKE A WOMAN.

Wanted to know—who got it started—that a woman couldn't hit a nail on the head? That erroneous belief has gone down through ages and has not yet been lived down.

But a visit to the girls' carpentry class seventh and eighth hours on any Tuesday or Thursday ought to dispel any doubts as to the ability of the feminine hands in the manipulations of hammers, nails, or saws. There are 35 girls enrolled in this home economics class in carpentry under the instruction of J. T. Parker. They are all busy and making things—these things by the way are not lop-sided crooked, or too fragile to be touched either.

At first, while the girls were becoming accustomed to the tools and their names, they all worked on the same problems. Later in the term they were given a choice of articles to be made. A number of the co-eds thought that the cedar chest was the most desirable thing on the list right away. Others chose a lawn seat or a porch swing. Then any number are busy with cutting boards, sewing stands, tabouretts, book racks, foot stools and magazine stands.

The names, jointer plane, jack plane making gauge, 1 1/2, 3-4 and 1-4 inch paring chisel, back saw, and try square, are now as familiar to the co-eds as knives, forks and thimbles. According to J. T. Parker, instructor of the girls' carpentry class, the number of mashed thumbs and hurt fingers are remarkably few. The work is just as accurate as the work of any boys' carpentry class. The co-eds saw as straight and no more material is wasted than in the men's classes. This is contradictory to tradition.

Will Lecture to Men.

The Rev. J. R. Voris will speak to the men of the college and others on "The New Chivalry" Sunday morning at the Congregational church. The men will be seated in a body in the center of the church. Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Voris spoke on "Ideal Womanhood." Dr. J. R. MacArthur, acting head of the department of English will speak at 6:15 o'clock before the Christian Endeavor society on "Hymns—Ancient and Modern." No evening service will be held on account of the concert at the college, but a vesper service is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Wonderful Array of New Silks

The silks now being exhibited in the silk department are those thought most of by the country's experts for the fashion for Spring and Summer 1917, and they are winning the admiration of all who see them.

The styles are so exceedingly diverse that they might be almost called kaleidoscopic, particularly as large patterns in stripes and figures, and vivid colors, receive so much attention this year.

Our commitments in the silk market are larger than ever, and because of the difficult conditions—the scarcity of French silks and the tremendous demand upon domestic silk weavers—were made months ago that we might present our customers with the largest possible varieties of the best patterns.

KING BASEBALL APPEARS AS HARBINGER OF SPRING

MISSOURI TIGERS OPEN SEASON HERE APRIL 9 AND 10.

Hitting to be the Big Objective Says Coach Clevenger—Several Men are Trying for Each Position.

Spring is here. For the past two weeks the robins, peeping buds, spring millinery and campus cases have foretold that the sun would cross the vernal equinox today noon, thus officially proclaiming spring, but it was not until Saturday that the true harbinger appeared.

This true harbinger was King Baseball. Coach Clevenger's squad of baseball men forsok Nichols gymnasium, in which they have been warming up their flingers for the past three weeks, and cavorted on the college campus Saturday. It was the first outdoor workout of the Aggie baseball aspirants, although individual athletes have braved the elements a number of times in the past week.

A large squad of valuable material answered the first outdoor call. The men went through preliminary batting and fielding practices under Clevenger's direction, but the main work consisted of playing catch to loosen up the men's arm muscles.

"Hitting will be our big objective," says Clevenger. "I will send the men through batting practice every day we are out doors, and I hope the players will have their batting eyes in better training than last season."

The Bender men of last year batted but 143, and the absence of a couple of reliable sluggers undoubtedly lost the Aggies a number of games.

Starts Pitchers to Work.

Clevenger is already starting work with his pitchers. "Dutch" Hewey, whose flinging was the backbone of last year's playing, will again be on the mound, and will probably carry the heaviest pitching burden. MacGrath is a recruit from last year's School of Agriculture nine. He has both speed and control, and should prove an able second to Hewey. Brechelsen, McGarraugh and Hargis are other pitching candidates.

Sullivan, last year's Varsity catcher, Guilfoyle, from the 1916 freshman team, and "Eddie" Wells, star football and basketball athlete, are catching candidates. Wells' receiving ability is unknown, but both Sullivan and Guilfoyle are veterans at the catching game.

First base will be contested for by Frank, Clark and probably MacMillan. Newton and Wooster are trying out for the keystone sack. Newton, who played second last year, is also in the race for third base. "Dickie" Richardson, a star Aggie shortstop of former years, apparently is in the lead for that position on the Clevenger team this year. "Dickie" is said to be a heavy hitter.

Captain Harvey, ex-Captain Reynolds, McLeod and DuBois are leading aspirants for outfield positions. Harvey and Reynolds are fairly sure of their positions at left field and center field, respectively, leaving right field in doubt.

Tigers Open Season.

The Missouri Tigers open the season here April 9 and 10, according to the incomplete schedule announced by Coach Clevenger. In addition to the games listed below, contests will be scheduled April 20 and May 21 with Kansas conference teams, one of which will be the Emporia Normals.

The schedule:

Missouri here, April 9, 10.
Nebraska here, April 27, 28.
Missouri at Columbia, May 2, 3.
St. Marys here, May 10.
Nebraska at Lincoln, May 16, 17.
Kansas at Lawrence, May 23, 24.
St. Marys at St. Marys, May 29.
Kansas here, June 1, 2.

Will Lecture on Sex Control.

Dr. D. D. Whitney, of the University of Nebraska, will give an illustrated lecture this evening at 8 o'clock in C 26, on "The Determination of Sex." Dr. Whitney is one of the authorities of this country on this subject, from an experimental standpoint, having had signal success in modifying the sex ratio in some of the lower forms of animals. Dr. Whitney will appear under the auspices of the Science club, and all interested are invited.

DR. DUTTON TO SPEAK HERE.

Will Address Y. M. and Y. W. Next Thursday.

Dr. D. C. Dutton, of Abilene, will speak Thursday of this week, at 3:30 before the Young Women's Christian association and in the evening at 7:30 at the Young Men's Christian association meeting. Dr. Dutton has had a wide experience with young people and has an inspirational message of vital interest to all.

Doctor Dutton has served many fine pastorates with success in this part of the country and has been influential in summer institutes held throughout the country. He has the rare quality of giving the plan of doing and the inspiration for doing a task.

Besides being a speaker of repute, Doctor Dutton is an author of ability. His religious compositions and books are highly recommended. His books on "The Great Life" are exceptionally fine. Do not fail to hear him Thursday.

APPOINT CAPT. MATHEWS TO ORGANIZE R. O. T. C.

Officers Commissioned in Grades From Second Lieutenant to Major in Any Branch of Service.

Capt. L. O. Mathews, commandant, has been appointed by the war department to organize throughout this congressional district the officers reserve corps. The officers are commissioned immediately by the president in grades from second lieutenant to major of any branch of service. No duty is required in time of peace excepting at request of the officer concerned, when he may be detailed with a regular army unit with the pay and allowance of his rank for 15 days or more in one calendar year.

The following from this district have undergone the examination and have passed successfully and will be commissioned at once by the president of the United States. Chauncey Dewey, Manhattan, major of cavalry; James C. McClure, Manhattan, captain of infantry; Guy A. Russell, senior in engineering, first lieutenant of cavalry. Those who have applied include N. R. Roberts and C. A. Kimbell, of Manhattan.

Officers commissioned are privileged to wear a uniform of their rank on all occasions of ceremony.

Captain Mathews hopes that every junior and senior in college will avail himself of this opportunity to show his patriotism by assisting the government in mustering its forces. With the seniors and juniors it is a question of being commissioned in the regular army with the rank they deserve, or waiting for hostilities and entering as a private in some volunteer regiment.

HOLD SECOND ORATORICAL.

School of Agriculture Orators to Declaim Saturday.

At 7:30 Saturday evening the school of agricultural literary societies will hold their second annual oratorical contest in the college auditorium.

The representatives of the three societies are: Lincoln, W. C. McCarty; Philomathian, Mabel Bentley; Hesperian, J. Ralph Nutter. Stunts and demonstrations will be given by the societies, and after the contest, each society will give a banquet in honor of its orator and visitors. Admission to the contest will be 15 cents.

Miss Abbie Swafford, freshman in home economics, was winner of the contest last year.

Faculty Women Like Gym.

The evening gymnasium class for faculty women has found favor with a number of women instructors for an hour's recreation. The class meets one evening a week. At each time there are new applications for membership. At present the class has 29 members and from its popularity, will be continued during the spring term. The class work consists of folk dancing and gymnasium floor exercises.

Sigma Delta Chi Elects Officers.

At a recent meeting of the Kansas State chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, the following men were elected as officers for the coming year: President, Arthur W. Boyer, junior; vice president, B. Q. Shields, junior; secretary, Ralph L. Foster; treasurer, E. B. Brewer.

ARE BUSY GETTING JOBS FOR SENIORS AND GRADS

NINE SECURE TEACHING POSITIONS DURING PAST WEEK.

Bureau of Recommendations Gets a Statement of Character and Ability of Applicants From Heads of Departments.

This is an exceptionally busy time for the bureau of recommendations of the Kansas State Agricultural college of which Dr. E. H. Reiser, associate professor of education, is the chairman. The task of placing graduates, who desire teaching positions, rests largely with this bureau.

It is difficult to place all those desiring positions, in work that is satisfactory to the graduate in every respect. To this end it is necessary that the bureau know a great deal of the character of the applicant, so as to fit them to conditions. In this work the instructors and heads of departments have willingly helped by sending in their confidential statements regarding graduates and applicants.

Everybody Helps.

"Everybody is helping," said Doctor Reiser. "I am much impressed with the willingness of all our teachers and graduates to assist with this work. The confidential statements sent in by our teachers have been especially helpful in securing a many-sided view of the candidate."

Within the past week teaching positions have been secured for nine persons, six of whom are students at the present time. Their names together with the towns where each will be located and the subjects each will teach follow: Miss Ellen Nyström, '17, Kearney, Neb., domestic science and art; Miss Lucy Bachman, '17, Arkansas City, home economics and in charge of the lunch room; Miss Mable Root, '17, Osborne, home economics; Miss Evelyn Potter, '17, Grainfield, home economics; Harold Snell, '17, Ford, science and agriculture; Earnest Baird, '15, Lebanon, science; Miss Sara Marty, '16, Ford, home economics and supervisor of music; T. E. Moore, '16, Coldwater, principal of high school; Miss Emily Lofnick, '17, Coldwater, home economics.

These positions pay salaries of $75 to $90 per month. There is an unprecedented demand for teachers of agriculture and manual training and especially for men to fill really big positions in secondary and normal schools.

COMPLETE WORK THIS TERM.

J. B. Sweet, W. F. Heppie, and Dwight Hull Finish Their Course.

J. B. Sweet, W. F. Heppie, and Dwight Hull are three seniors who will complete their college courses this term. Mr. Sweet and Mr. Hull are taking animal husbandry course and Mr. Heppie the astronomy.

Mr. Sweet is one of the best known seniors on the hill. He is an Alpha Zeta, colonel of the cadet corps, a member of Scabbard and Blade, Pi Kappa Delta, debating fraternity, Athenian Literary society, Forum, and has worked his way through college. He will take up work as a fellow in the University of Wisconsin after finishing his work here.

Mr. Heppie is a member of the Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural and Beta Theta Pi fraternities. In scholastic standing, Mr. Heppie has lead his class throughout his college course and at present is the highest ranking man.

Mr. Hull is a member of the Pi Kappa Delta debating fraternity, Hamilton Literary society, and the Forum. He took his preparatory training at K. S. A. C. and has worked his way through college. Immediately upon completing his work here, Mr. Hull will manage a 500 acre stock farm near Fort Scott, Kan.

Has Place of Honor.

The front page of last week's issue of the Mail and Breeze is devoted to an article by Prof. M. F. Ahern on "Improve the Home Grounds."

Dr. Dan B. Brummitt, editor of the Epworth Herald, the young peoples' paper of the Methodist church, will be a campus visitor Friday. He will meet the Methodist student cabinet at a 5 o'clock luncheon at the church Friday evening, and speak to them at that time. All interested students are invited to meet Doctor Brummitt.

COLLEGE FESTIVAL WEEK IS A DECIDED SUCCESS

ALL THE NUMBERS WERE WELL RECEIVED

Fanning Captivates His Audience—Casts for Robin Hood and "The Man From Home" Show Excellent Training.

Lovers of music and drama in the community of Manhattan were given a treat of exceptional quality in the program of the first annual festival week held in the college auditorium March 13 to 18.

A. E. Westbrook, director of music, in co-operation with J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, presented the series of entertainments to show to the public that real talent exists in the community of Manhattan and that the people might be given an opportunity to see and hear music and drama equal to that heard in the cities.

The first number of the series was an orchestral concert given Tuesday night, March 13, by the college orchestra under the direction of Professor R. H. Brown. The entertainment was one that would have been creditable to even a larger orchestra composed of professional players.

Robin Hood Takes.

The second entertainment of the week was the popular English opera, "Robin Hood," presented by the college glee clubs. This was undoubtedly the best entertainment of its nature that has ever been given at the college by college talent. The chorus was perhaps the strongest feature of the evening but the soloists showed exceptional skill in the manner in which they carried their parts. The entire cast showed the results of the expert training which they had received under the direction of Professor Westbrook.

"The Man From Home," a four-act comedy-drama, was presented Saturday evening by the Purple Masque dramatic fraternity under the direction of J. G. Emerson. The cast of this play gave an exhibition equal that of a professional company. Earl Taylor played the part of leading man and Miss Wanda Tetrick was the leading lady. Each part of the cast was heavy and was acted in an admirable manner.

"We are sorry that the delays between acts were so long and tiresome," said Mr. Emerson, "but it was due to no other cause than the fact that the stage in the auditorium is so shallow for the handling of the scenery. The automobile in the second act was almost more than we had bargained for, and we had not taken into consideration the fact that a bull pup could have such a strong voice."

Fanning Captivates His Audience.

Cecil Fanning, America's great interpretive baritone, gave the most delightful vocal concert Sunday afternoon that has ever been given here by a visiting artist. Mr. Fanning is both a poet and singer. He writes poetry and interprets it to his audience in song.

Mr. Fanning's artistic skill lies in the wonderful feeling expressed in his songs and in his pleasing and charming personality. He was accompanied by his friend and advisor Mr. H. B. Turpin.

The last number of the festival week was a sacred concert given by the College Choral society augmented by the Clay Center and Randolph choruses. Mrs. Margaret Lester, one of Chicago's most prominent sopranos, was the assisting artist from out of town. Mrs. Lester created a most favorable impression. She has a winning personality which combined with her clear lyric voice gives her a most pleasing appearance.

"I am well pleased with the way the people of the Manhattan community have co-operated with the college in the whole program of the week," said Professor Westbrook. "The program that we have given was a success in every way. The things that we have been able to do simply goes to show that we have excellent talent in this community. It was simply a matter of finding and developing it."

Governor Capper Saturday appointed Hon. S. A. Bardwell and Prof. H. B. Walker of this city as delegates to the national conservation congress, to be held at New Orleans, La., April 3 to 5.

THE HEN SPECIAL A SUCCESS.

Many People See Cow and Chicken Train.

The cow and hen special is a great success according to R. M. Sherwood, specialist in poultry husbandry who has returned from a week's tour with the train.

"The people are interested and everywhere there are large crowds to welcome the train when it pulls into a station," said Mr. Sherwood. "There are none of the type of people who used to stand back and say 'Those white-collared guys can't learn me anything,' to meet the train as there was when the first grain specials were run over the state. The people now show a different attitude toward the college and its representatives."

The train is made up of two cars of chickens and several cars of dairy cows from the college. The train is being run under the management of the Santa Fe Railway company. It makes on the average of four towns per day. The first week it was on the road over 7,000 people visited the train.

WE DON'T UNDERSTAND MARINE CORPS--DELANO

K. S. A. C. Graduates May Receive Commissions by Passing Required Physical Examination.

People living in the central part of the United States do not as a rule know much about the United States marine corps, according to Captain Fred Delano, chief recruiting officer of the central division, who spoke at the student assembly of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"It appears in the papers that marines were landed in Haiti to quell an insurrection, or that a body of United States marines will protect American subjects in some foreign country," said Captain Delano, "but few people say much further attention to the matter."

"The marines are trained in all kinds of work that makes for naval or military efficiency. They are given instruction in all kinds of communication work, such as wireless telegraphy and the use of the semaphore. Marines are taught how to land, what to do in case of attack, in short they must act as infantry on a moment's notice."

The United States marine corps, according to Captain Delano, has in the last ten years, ranked above the marines of England, Germany, Italy, Japan and other foreign countries in competitive tests.

Kansas State Agricultural college has in the marine corps one of its best known and most popular graduates, Emmet W. Skinner, of football fame. Three more students have been nominated and it is hoped that more will signify their willingness to take the examination.

Graduates of this institution are required to pass only a physical examination. If successful they are given commission as second lieutenant at once. Further military education is obtained after enlistment. The salary is $1,800 a year for a four-year term. A man may resign at any time, unless the United States be at war.

CO-EDS MAY BE WATER NYMPHS.

Blue Caps Will Count 25 Points Toward a "K."

The "swimmers" are beginning to get out their blue and red and tan caps and get ready for spring term swimming carnival. This term swimming will be given credit along with two hours of physical training work. Interest has always been taken in winning the caps but it will be greater this next term as a blue cap will add 25 points toward winning a "K."

Four girls earned blue caps last fall term: Helen Christ, Iva Fuller, Eva Wood and Bertha Hole. Next in order is the red cap. More than fifty girls in the athletic department have won these. Three hours will be open for any college girl to take the swimming lessons, whether she is enrolled in a gymnasium class or not.

Professor's Son An Inventor.

The small boy who owns a bicycle and a pair of roller skates often ponders over the question of which locomotive power he shall use. The son of a K. S. A. C. professor has solved the problem. He used both the bicycle and skates at once. One of the roller skates has been strapped to the tireless front wheel of his bicycle. The speed with which he travels down Poyntz avenue is not slow and his bright eyes glow with pride for he has invented a way to keep the cherished unused play things from going out of style.

SENIORS TAKE THE MEET BY A 7-1/3 POINT LEAD

BEATTY IS INDIVIDUAL STAR--WINS 13 POINTS.

The Freshmen Take Second Place--the Sophomores Claim Cellar Position With 11 Points to Their Credit.

The seniors won the annual indoor inter-class meet last night, piling up a total of 43 points. The freshmen were second with 35 2-3 points, the juniors third with 34 1-3 points and the sophomores were last with a paltry 11 points.

The seniors started off with a spurt, winning the first three events on the program. Beatty temporarily checked the seniors by taking the low hurdles, but the seniors came back in the next event, the high jump, and tied for first place. Then Holroyd and Granfield, both seniors, ran a dead heat in a spectacular quarter-mile race which went in the record time of one minute flat, said by many to be the slowest time ever made on the Nichols track.

Beatty of the freshmen, with first over Wilder in both the hurdle events and a second in the 30-yard dash, was the star of the meet with 13 points. His mark of 4 seconds flat in the high hurdles was the best time of the meet.

The summary:

30-yard dash—Won by Osborne, S.; Beatty, F. second; Vandenburg, unattached, third; Essick, J. fourth. Time, 3.4 seconds.

80-yard dash—Won by Keys, S.; Chaffee, J. second; Clapp, F. third; Frankenhoff, J. fourth. Time, 2:08.3 minutes.

Shot put—Won by Shaper, S.; Billings, J. second; Wilder, J. third; Talley, S. fourth. Distance, 38 feet 11 inches.

30-yard low hurdles—Won by Beatty, F.; Wilder, J. second; Vandenburg, unattached, third; Holroyd, S. fourth. Time, 4 seconds.

High jump—Totten, S. and Welmer, S. tied for first; Wilder, J. and Frost, F. tied for third. Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

440-yard run—Holroyd, S. and Granfield, S. tied for first; Clapp, F. third; Time, one minute.

Two-mile—Won by Thilotsen, S.; Barnes, S. second; Teeter, S. third; Keene, F. fourth. Time, 10:22.3 minutes.

One mile relay—Won by juniors (Chaffee, Frankenhoff, Enlow, Wilder); freshmen, second. Time 3:55 minutes.

MEN TO STUDY COOKING.

Two Male Students at College Believe in "Safety First."

"Safety first" will be the slogan of the young men in the Kansas State Agricultural college who are planning to study cookery in the spring term. The boys will not only learn how to carve the duck without personal embarrassment or disastrous results, but will be taught how to cook and serve meals, and the art of washing dishes. Balanced menus and economy in diet will be given special attention. Marketing and the care of foods will also be included in the course.

The class will recite twice a week and will be taught by Miss Helen Green, instructor in domestic science. The boys will be required to wear white butchers' aprons while they are in the laboratory. The class will be limited to 20 members.

PLANTING OATS FOR PASTURE.

Should be Seeded by March 20, Says Expert.

Oats planted by March 20, with a relief pasture of sweet clover sown at the same time will insure an early and season-long pasture, according to Ralph Kenney, assistant professor of crops in the agricultural college.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1917.

MORE ROOM.

That more room is needed on the stage in the auditorium was evidenced Saturday night when the play, "The Man From Home," was given. The lights had to be turned out while the automobile which was used in the play was run out on the stage; and it was also necessary for the audience to sit in darkness for a time at the end of this act while the auto was being removed.

This was necessary because of the fact that the stage is not deep enough. There is plenty of width but not enough depth. Whenever a play is staged, it is always necessary for the actors to retreat to the back of the stage so as not to be caught outside of the curtain. Instances have occurred where this has happened.

It may seem that there is plenty of room on the stage, but when one considers the fact that when the curtain drops, practically one-half of the stage is in front of the curtain which leaves very little room behind the scenes. Consequently, because of this crowded condition, it takes longer between acts to arrange the scenery and prepare for the next act.

Something should be done to remedy this condition and give more room behind the scenes. It would not only facilitate the work of the stage hands and permit the actors to play to better advantage, but it would also be of greater convenience to the audience by not being compelled to sit in darkness during a part of the entertainment.

Let's have more room on the stage.

HAVE YOU NOTICED IT?

Have you noticed it? It is just an engraving on the large stone pillars on either side of the north entrance of Anderson hall; but it is so neatly and cleverly done that the casual observer would, by the merest chance, notice the entwined letters and figures, which are engraved in such a manner as to give the appearance of small tree branches bent into graceful curves and acute angles. On the east pillar are engraved the letters "K. S. A. C." and on the west pillar the date "1878." This date does not agree with the college catalogue, however, which says:

"Anderson hall: Erected 1879; cost $79,000, dimensions, 152x250 feet, two stories and basement. Contains the offices of administration of the college, a lecture hall, the college post office, offices of the Division of College Extension and of the Department of Student Health, and offices and class rooms of the Departments of Architecture and Drawing, Economics, Education, English Language, English Literature, and Mathematics. Value of equipment $16,181."

For 39 years students have been passing through and jamming Anderson hall, but of the many thousands who have passed through the north entrance of this building it would be safe to wager that but a small percent have noticed these significant engravings. There are no corresponding letters and figures on the stone pillars at the south entrance of the hall which would seem to be the proper place for them. There is no apparent reason for this except that in the days of long ago when Anderson hall was the southernmost building on the campus, the north door may have been the main entrance to the building. But time changes many things, and today, the south door of Anderson hall is the main entrance, and "K. S. A. C., 1878" at north entrance is scarcely noticed, if at all, by the many bustling students who go scurrying to and from their classes.

It's a long way to the sheepskin, sighs the freshman as he dons his janitor uniform for the daily sweep.

If some real hoboes could have visited the fashion show put on Thursday at the college, they would have gotten some new ideas for the I. W. W. spring style book.

Club Reporter Tells What He Saw In Editor's Room

O! Boy! Listen to me. I went into the room of the editor-in-chief of the Royal Purple while he was away yesterday and took a "sneak at his dope." This is strictly between you and me and I don't want you to say a word about what I am going to tell you for I know the editor wanted to spring some of this "stuff" as a surprise.

First thing I picked up was a bunch of snap shots for the Royal Purple and they sure are good. I'd like to have every one of 'em for my kodak book but I was afraid to take some. Gee! when B. K. and R. F. see their pictures in the annual I bet they will be fighting mad. Some of the other "casey" ones won't have anything to act sweet about. Honestly, I believe every person in school is in one or more of those pictures and some of them are positively scandalous. I don't know where the editor got all of them but they sure are there in his room.

And cartoons and sketches—say. Next time I get a grouch I'm going back and look at those cartoons again. Anybody who couldn't find a laugh in every one of them must be a chronic dyspeptic. I'd give a lot to have some of the originals for my room but I guess it's no use. Most of these cartoons represent "roasts" or "slams" on the students and faculty and they hit where they are aimed. They have a good one there about "Germany" Schulz and the football dance. "Germany" is funny but he isn't half so funny as that cartoon.

I looked inside the editor's "dummy"—that's what they call the blank book with the layouts and plans sketched in—and they had 168 pages saved for "Student Life." Well, they won't have any trouble filling the space for they have enough "dope" for three times that many pages. Even if I have to walk home at the end of the year in order to have the money I'm going to have one of —

Oh! You turn off here—well I'll see you again.

A certain Topeka lady sat up till 12 o'clock the other night waiting for her husband to come home. At last, weary and worn out with waiting, she went to the bedroom to retire and found the missing husband there fast asleep. Instead of going down town, he had gone to his room. She was so mad that she wouldn't speak to him for a week.—Mail and Breeze.

CONCRETE PAVEMENT A SUCCESS.

Main Driveway on College Campus Stands the Travel.

The concrete pavement in use on the main driveway at the Kansas State Agricultural college has proved that this type of pavement is successful, according to L. E. Conrad, professor of civil engineering. This pavement has been in use for more than three years and shows practically no wear.

The traffic over this road is heavy. It consists of all the coal and machinery delivered to the college, a large part of the material that is used in the construction of new buildings on the campus, college mail and express and many pleasure vehicles that are continually using the road.

Two methods were used to surface the road. On the level portion of the roadway the finish was made comparatively smooth, while on the grades a heavy stable brush was drawn over the green cement, leaving a rough surface. It is probable that after a few years of service the roadway which has the smooth surface will present a more uniform appearance but at present there is no appreciable difference.

"The teamsters hauling coal to the college power plant were strongly of the opinion that the road would be slippery," remarked Mr. Conrad, "but they say, after using it for three years, that it affords as good a foothold for the horses as any hard surface."

HEPPE IS HIGH MAN IN STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

SCORE 587 POINTS OUT OF A POSSIBLE 800.

H. M. Birks, J. L. Lantow and S. J. Molby Win the Silver and Bronze Medals—Other Prizes Offered.

In the annual livestock judging contest which was held March 12 under the auspices of the Saddle and Sirolo club, Waldo Heppie, senior in agronomy, won the gold medal which was offered to the winner. Mr. Heppie scored 587 points out of a possible 800.

H. M. Birks, junior in animal husbandry, won the second prize, a silver medal, with a score of 535 points; J. L. Lantow, senior in animal husbandry, third prize, a bronze medal, with a score of 563 points; and S. J. Molby, junior in animal husbandry, scored 556 points, thereby winning fourth prize, also a bronze medal, according to announcement made by the judges.

Offer 22 Prizes.

Twenty-two prizes were offered. Besides the medals granted the four highest ranking men, ribbons were also given to the ten highest men on all classes. The Saddle and Sirolo club gave a special prize to each of the four men ranking highest on horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Dr. C. W. McCampbell gave a special prize for the best set of reasons on horses; Professor W. A. Miss Schaumburg ranked third in placing the sheep, third on cattle reasons, and first on sheep reasons. Miss French ranked first on horse reasons.

The Biggest Contest.

71 AGGIE PROFS ARE LECTURERS. College Publishes Bulletin Giving the Names and Subjects.

More than 70 college professors and instructors are listed for lectures according to a bulletin just issued by the college extension division. The lectures are planned to meet the requirements of technical societies, lecture course committees, and school boards desiring commencement addresses. In each case the statement of the subject denotes the suitability for the occasion.

Many requests come to the college concerning available lecture service, names of lecturers, subjects and terms. As a consequence a pamphlet was published to supply such information. The speakers are chosen from every department in college and the lectures cover a large variety of subjects.

MANY SEEK STUDENTS WHO HAVE AG. TRAINING

Dean Jardine Gets Numerous Letters of Inquiry—Good Positions Are Offered.

Many letters are received at the office of Dr. W. M. Jardine, dean of the division of agriculture, inquiring in regard to students wanted to fill various positions of responsibility. The original letter or a copy is posted on the dean's bulletin board as soon as received. Those students interested write for further particulars and information.

"We recommend men only when a contract seems probable," said Hugh Durham, assistant to Dean Jardine. "Not a great many men are placed directly through this office, but many are placed by the heads of the various departments—veterinary medicine, dairy husbandry, animal husbandry, and agronomy. Less than 40 per cent of the men in this division seek positions because of having farms or other positions definitely in mind for which they are fitting themselves."

"The average beginning salary for a graduate of this division is from $1,000 to $1,200 a year in the government service with opportunity for promotion, and the average will be as high for other positions."

"Among the positions offered are those of research or experiment station assistants, managers, herdsmen, dairymen, veterinarians, and teachers. The demand for teachers, dairymen, and veterinarians exceeds the supply, although the supply generally exceeds in other fields. Men from this division are in demand at good salaries and with good opportunities."

PUT "MORE" IN SOPHOMORE

Idea Committee Develops Halo of Brilliant Ideas and Plans a Popularity Dance.

Recently the sophomore class passed a motion to have an idea committee appointed the purpose of which was to originate some bright ideas.

As a result, the freshman-sophomore popularity concert dance will be staged March 23. A mixer will be given for those who do not dance as well as for those who dance. A farce will close the program.

Least some of the ideas of the idea committee sweep the sophs into ill repute and incidentally into the president's office, the class of '19 elected J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking, as class sponsor. Mr. Emerson will act as permanent official chaperone and faculty adviser.

The idea committee is composed of those most active in class politics and who have already originated some bright ideas. Rex Criswell is chairman of the committee.

SAYS CO-EDS LACKED CLOTHING. University "Prom" Is Denounced by a Wisconsin Legislator.

A resolution asking that the salaries of all professors who took part in the University of Wisconsin junior promenade be reduced to $500 a year recently was offered in the legislature by Carl Pieper, assemblyman. Mr. Pieper charges that the co-eds didn't wear sufficient clothing at the dance.

His resolution characterizes the "prom" as a scene of splendor, in which "the charms of the creator's most perfect creation—woman—were shown in their natural state without being diminished to any marked extent by any useless wearing apparel."

Also the assemblyman's request to his fellow lawmakers asks that the scene be repeated so that motion pictures may be taken, and the resolution would make it mandatory upon all picture houses of the state to exhibit these pictures for at least 10 days and the receipts be given as the full support of the university.

Now the junior prom is the capital T-social event of the season at the university. And the assemblyman's resolution has thrown a bomb into champions of the dance. They are indignant and demand that the legislature investigate the charges.

A CONCRETE ATHLETIC STADIUM FOR K. S. A. C.?

IT MAY BE BUILT WITHIN THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

No Exact Specifications Have Been Made as Yet—Is Being Dreamed of by Athletic Authorities.

A concrete athletic stadium for K. S. A. C. within the next few years is the dream of Aggie athletic authorities. Plans have been forming in the minds of President H. J. Waters, Athletic Director Clevenger, and members of the athletic board since last fall for an athletic field that would rival those of other Missouri valley institutions, and the realization of their expectations seems now to be only a question of time and money.

Because of the uncertainty of the plans, no exact specifications have been made. It is thought, however, that the first move would be the construction of a large concrete grandstand on the south side of the field, probably on the site of the present wooden structure. These concrete stands would then be the nucleus of an oval stadium that would enclose the entire grounds.

Improve the Grounds.

The first move towards improving the athletic grounds was made last December, when the entire student body turned out on "field day" to ditch and "turtle back" and tile the field. This work is now being completed. The ground has been plowed and harrowed, fertilizer has been sown, and Bermuda roots will be planted soon. From these Bermuda roots will spring a turf which experts assert can not be excelled for the use to which it will be put. The turf will be in condition for use next fall.

The baseball grounds have been moved from the football field and this year's games will be played on an improvised diamond north of the old field. Coach Clevenger had his baseball athletes on the new diamond for the first time yesterday. All baseball practices will in the future be held on the new field.

When the contemplated stadium is built, it is expected that the baseball field will be moved back to the original grounds. The stadium will be of sufficient size to accommodate more than 4,000 persons. A quarter-mile track, together with a 220-yard straightway, will surround the new field, if the germinating plans are fully developed.

Preceding the business meeting, O. E. Reed, professor of dairy husbandry, gave a talk on the value of experience to a college graduate. A number of visitors were present.

SPRING TERM SCHEDULES OUT.

Placed on Sale at the College Post Office.

The spring term schedules are out. The first distribution was made to the college professors and instructors Tuesday. Wednesday they were placed on sale at the college post office, at the price of 10 cents each.

Students are urged to get their assignments ready and have them approved by their deans, where necessary, between terms so as to facilitate the work of the assigners. Assignments for the spring term will begin at eight o'clock Tuesday morning, April 3.

The Congregational church choir will sing "The Holy City" Sunday night under the direction of Miss Alice May Carley, instructor in voice. The morning service will be in honor of those persons who have been members of the church for at least 10 years. The Rev. J. R. Voris, pastor, will speak on "This Church—Its Past and Its Future."

CO-EDS TO HAVE SUMMER CAMP.

Those Interested Are Asked to See Miss Cahoon.

Agitation has been begun here for a summer "campfire" camp in the vicinity of Manhattan.

No definite plans have been made as yet as the establishment of the camp will depend upon the number of college girls who are interested in the movement. Numerous requests for such a camp have come in to the physical training department.

Miss Anne Cahoon, instructor in physical training, asks that all college girls who are interested in this camp to see her sometime before the end of the term or by the beginning of spring term. If the number is sufficient, steps will be taken toward gaining permission for the establishment of the summer camp. Such a camp would have definite supervision and direction. The camp would be open for the entire summer and be prepared for its first delegation of girls as soon as the spring term ended. Each group of girls spends from one to three weeks in camp. During summer school the town girls would be admitted. Then at the end of summer school these girls would have the privileges of a "campfire" vacation.

Y. M. C. A. WILL HOLD TRAINING CONFERENCE

March 30 to April 1 is Date—Expect More Than 150 Y. M. Workers From Other Institutions.

"Every student who expects to serve on the cabinet or committee of the Young Men's Christian association should attend the spring training conference to be held between terms from March 30 to April 1," said W. W. McLean, general secretary.

"The primary purpose of the conference is to train leaders to carry on the work for the coming year. It will strengthen the intentions and knowledge of any who intend going into active association work. There are many committees whose ranks will have to be recruited from those who have had the necessary training."

This training conference is an annual affair, which is held especially for the training of cabinet members and committeemen. It is expected that 150 cabinet members from other institutions will be in attendance. Already a sufficient number of homes have been opened for their accommodation while the members are in town.

Among the prominent speakers will be Dr. Zora S. Davis one of the most popular speakers in America and R. H. Richards, social expert on the international committee. In addition to these there will be G. C. Foster, Clifford Pierce and H. L. Heinzman. A fee of 50 cents will be charged for registration. It is urged that those wishing to attend, register early so as to relieve any congestion that might occur previous to the early morning session, Friday. A full program will be printed in a later issue of the Collegian.

MAKE ICE CREAM AT THE DAIRY.

Students Eat Forty Gallons in Three Days.

The dairy short course students have been making ice cream at the creamery the past few weeks, and it is being sold to the college students at retail prices.

Last Tuesday they made about forty gallons of ice cream and it was all sold by Thursday. Next term this course will be offered to all dairy students and the ice cream will be sold at retail prices to anyone coming to the creamery. The ice cream is not, however, sold in large lots to any outside concern, but is sometimes sold to the different organizations of the college.

C. E. PEARCE IS NEW PROF.

Clinton E. Pearce, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has taken the position of assistant professor in applied mechanics at the college. Since last fall prior to coming here he had charge of the mechanical engineering department.

DR. EDWARD A. STEINER TO SPEAK HERE MONDAY

WILL BE LAST NUMBER ON SOCIETY LYCEUM COURSE.

Dr. Steiner is a Popular Lecturer who has Experienced all the Phases of Immigrant Life in America.

What is considered to be one of the best attractions on the society lyceum course this year has been saved until the last. Dr. Edward A.

DR. E. A. STEINER.

Steiner will speak in the college auditorium Monday evening, March 26.

Dr. Steiner, author, educator, lecturer, and authority on immigration problems, was born in Austria. He received his early training in Bohemia, and, after attending the higher schools of Germany, made his doctor's degree at the University of Heidelberg. He spent his early manhood in Russia and is now the head of the department of Applied Christianity in Iowa College at Grinnell.

Is a Popular Lecturer.

Dr. Steiner is considered one of the most popular lecturers on the platform today. He has made thirteen trips across the Atlantic as a steerage passenger. These trips were not made because of the usual reason, the lack of funds, but were made so that a study of the life and manners of the immigrants who were coming to the United States, could be made.

Many Phases of Life.

Life in many phases has been the lot of Dr. Steiner. He has been a guest of the royalty, and has stood with dirty immigrants and taught them how to use American soap. He has passed through the stages of sweatshop toiler, farm hand, tin pedler, iron worker, miner, tramp, factory hand, student, teacher and preacher.

In his lectures Dr. Steiner reveals the innermost recesses of his world-inclusive heart. His talks are considered well worth hearing. The present committee has been congratulated upon securing such a person as Dr. Steiner for one of the attractions of the lyceum course.

"M" IS NOW GIVEN THE VALUE OF 75 PER CENT.

This Letter is Considered a Terror by the Students Since it Cuts Down the Number of "E's" Given.

A new percentage basis has been established by the faculty committee on grades, the new basis being made necessary by the introduction of the new grading system the beginning of the fall term.

Under the new system of grading, G and E have the same number of honor points as formerly—G, 1 and E, 2. Under the old system, P was given the value of 0 in determining honor points and a percentage basis of 75. The scholarship standing was obtained by multiplying the honor value of the grades obtained by the number of credit hours in the course for which the grade was given and to divide the sum of the amounts thus obtained by the number of credit hours for the final standing.

Thus E in 8 credit hours would equal 16 honor points; C in four credit hours would equal 4, and P in four credit hours would equal 0. The total honor points would be 20 in a total of 16 credit hours, average honor points 1.25 or .25 honor points above an average of G. However, the inability of others to interpret the meaning of 1.25 or any other honor point average found by this system led to the adoption of a method of changing the standing obtained as above into a decimal grade.

This was done by giving the P its mean decimal value of 75 per cent, then adding this to ten times the average honor points. Thus 1.25x10 the standing of the above student, plus 75 per cent is 87.5 per cent or 2.5 per cent better than 85 the average value of G. Under the old system, this gave G the value of 85 per cent and E the value of 95 per cent.

The new percentage basis is established by giving M, which has the value of 0 honor points, the value of 75 per cent. This gives G and E the values of 88 and 98 per cents respectively.

Few E's Given.

Although "M" has been on the hill but two short terms he has a powerful lot of enemies. "Never SEE an 'E' any more, unless we all crowd up to get a glimpse of the one that the one or two fortunate get," is the common wall.

Frequent calls have come in from the students for explanations of the present system of grading used by the college. The introduction of "M" seems to have done all the damage. Under the old system the value assigned the letter E was 2, G was 1, P was 0, C was -1, and F was -2. For the purpose of comparing the rankings of the organizations or of individuals this method was fair, accurate, and satisfactory.

However, the inability of students to interpret the meaning of the 1.25 "honor point" average found by this system led to the changing of standing to a decimal grade.

Have New Meanings.

Here are the new meanings now assigned to the grades to designate scholarship standing: "E" shows distinguished achievement. It is expected that in the long run not more than 5 per cent of the students will receive this grade.

"Q" represents superior achievement and it is now estimated that about 20 per cent of the students will be listed among the "Q's."

"M" stands for the work done by the AVERAGE student. About 50 per cent will come in for this grade.

"P" represents the lowest passing grade and may be described as poor. "C" means work of inferior value, which is to be made up by examination or by extra work.

"F" the common enemy, represents work of so unsatisfactory a nature as to require the course to be repeated. P, C and F grades in the final wind-up are expected to be dealt out to nearly 25 per cent of the students.

The introduction of the M into the system of grades, as the standing of the AVERAGE student, in place of the grade P which had been used in the former system, made it necessary to assign to M the honor value of 0 since it is considered of no special honor or distinction to be an average student. By moving the 0 honor point the honor value of G and E were increased. Fewer students now obtain these grades, but the value when obtained is of greater weight.

The honor value assigned: E is now 2; G is 1; M is 0; P is -.5; C is -.4; F is -.2.

DR. GREENE AIDS 4,485 STUDENTS.

Gives Medical Treatment to This Number in Three Months.

Giving medical attention to from 40 to 80 students each day, 4,485 during the past three months, is the record of Dr. Marie Greene, college physician.

Along with her medical work, Dr. Greene formerly gave lectures to the students on hygiene and social problems which she was forced to discontinue.

Because of the great number of students who come to her for medical attention, this popular college physician is obliged to keep early and late office hours, even waiting upon some students on Sundays.

FROSH AND SOPHS HOLD A POP CONCERT TONIGHT

Plan to Make This an Annual Event—Class of '19 Presents Wooden Key to Yearlings.

Promptly at 7:15 tonight will begin the program of the First Annual Freshman-Sophomore Pop Concert which will be held in Nichols gymnasium.

The entertainment of the evening will consist of a mixer in the women's gymnasium for those who do not dance, and dancing on the main floor of the gymnasium. From 7:15 until 8 o'clock a reception will be held—approximately 30 prominent freshmen, sophomores, and faculty members will be in the receiving line.

From 8 until 9 o'clock the mixer and dancing will be the form of entertainment given. From 9 until 10 o'clock, the Pop Concert on the main floor of the gymnasium will be given. This will include a number of musical selections and readings.

The main feature of the Pop Concert, however, will be the presentation of the Key to K. S. A. C. by Bruce Brewer, president of the class of '19, to C. Yeoman, president of the class of '20. The key is a huge wooden emblem to which will be tied the colors of the sophomore class. It is planned to have the sophomore class each year present this key to the freshman class.

The rest of the evening, from 10 to 12 o'clock, will be spent in dancing and mixing in the women's gymnasium. Refreshments consisting of punch and ice cream, will be served during the evening in the east end of the gymnasium.

It is stated by a member of the committee that freshmen and sophomores must have all dues paid before they will be allowed to participate in the entertainment of the evening.

All those who did not secure dates were assigned by a date committee the first of the week. It is expected that every sophomore and freshman will be present at the First Annual Freshman-Sophomore Pop Concert.

BELGIAN RELIEF FUND GROWS.

The Students and Townspeople Contribute $1342.44.

The committee on Belgium relief of Manhattan and the college is doing wonderful work. Friday, March 16, was tag day and tags were sold about the campus. The following is a report of Professor Kammeyer, secretary of this committee, upon the collection made up to date.

Tags were sold to the amount of $124. A collection was taken at chapel hour Friday to the amount of $187. Pledges were made at the college of $699.25. The city schools of Manhattan raised $137.55. Subscriptions were made to the amount of $123.18. At a mass meeting held at the Presbyterian church, on the same evening $351.40 was raised.

This makes a grand total of $1,352.44 collected both at the college and in the city of Manhattan. Mr. Kammeyer states that this amount is being raised very rapidly.

AGGIES WILL MEET THE OTTAWA AND BAKER TEAMS

THIRTY DEBATERS WILL CONTEST FOR HONORS TONIGHT.

Battle Will Begin at Eight O'clock at Auditorium—Second Contest Will be Held Within Next Three Weeks.

Tonight two teams from each school of the Pentangular debate conference will argue the minimum wage question.

The Aggie negative team composed of Calvin Medlin, Athenian; A. F. Swanson, Franklin; and Paul Findley, Hamilton, will go to Ottawa to oppose the Ottawa affirmative.

The K. S. A. C. affirmative team composed of Fred Carp, Athenian; I. R. Hlatt, Alpha Beta; and Floyd Hawkins, Hamilton, stay at home to defend the question against the negative team from Baker university.

The debate will be held in the auditorium and will begin at eight o'clock. Following the debate a reception will be given for the debaters, coaches and judges.

Will Debate Again.

Three weeks from the date of this debate a second series will be held in which the negative teams of each school remain upon the home platform and meet the affirmative team of a school which they have not as yet met in the Pentangular series.

The schools that make up the pentangular conference are Washburn, Ottawa, university, Baker university, College of Emporia, and K. S. A. C.

In the second series the Aggie affirmative goes to the College of Emporia and the negative team remains at home to meet a team from Washburn.

Speakers Got to Work.

In speaking about the debate, Coach Burk said, "The men in this debate got down to business in good shape. They really hit the vital points in short order and had their speeches prepared before it was expected they would."

Concerning the rebuttal work, of which there are three speeches on each team, Mr. Burk said, "If the men give rebuttals in the actual debates like they are giving them in practice we can look for the decision at both ends of the contest, Friday night."

"With the close of the debate, the women's team that is to meet Warrensburg will be gotten out for work," said Mr. Burk.

The debating council is considering the contracts for the debates for next year. At present there seems to be as heavy a schedule in view for the coming year as there has been this season.

BIG LEAGUERS TO PLAY HERE.

New York Giants and Detroit Tigers Come April 6.

Two big league baseball teams, the New York Giants, and the Detroit Tigers, will play on the college athletic field April 6.

These teams come to Manhattan under the auspices of the Manhattan City and Interurban Railway company of which Mr. J. T. West is manager. The teams composed of all star players, will arrive here the morning of April 6 in a special train of seven cars.

The Detroit Tigers are members of the American league and the New York Giants belong to the National league. The Giants have the record of winning 26 straight league games last year—a record unsurpassed by any other team.

"We expect more than 5,000 people here if it is a nice day," said Mr. West. The charge for admission will be $1.00.

Miss McLean Goes to Omaha Bee.

Miss Erwin McLean of McPherson, junior in industrial journalism, has a position on the staff of the Omaha Bee, and will take up work there about April 1. Miss McLean has done considerable feature writing on college and other publications. The Bee, to which she goes, is one of the best known daily newspapers in the middle west.

KNOW YOUR COLLEGE.

Many students graduate from K. S. A. C. without ever really becoming acquainted with their Alma Mater. Many students, before and after graduation, are asked simple questions about their college which they cannot answer. This does not speak well for you or for the school.

To become acquainted with your college does not mean that you are to become personally acquainted with every prof. on the hill, and all his instructors and assistants. It does mean, however, that after attending one school for four years, you should be able to name the different divisions and departments of the college, the head of each, and have a general knowledge of the work of each department. You should at least know the name of each building, what departments are located in each, and know where to locate the college museum and flour mill.

Many students never think of going to any of the buildings except those in which they have classes, and even then they confine themselves pretty largely to their class rooms. To become acquainted with people one must get out and mix. So it is with your college—to become acquainted with your alma mater so that you will be in a position to give information regarding it, and be able to advertise and boost your school.

"T'WILL BE EVER THUS."

"Your grade is F," said the professor in a matter of fact voice that might just as well have said, "It is a nice day."

"But what is the —mat-t-e-r with mmm—y work," asked the startled co-ed.

"Oh, nothing in particular, but you understand that the dean of this division has notified his instructors that they are to give a certain percent of F's and I am carrying out his orders," answered the professor, turning to his littered desk.

"But why pick me?" asked the girl, her eyes blazing and her voice full of spunk.

"You happened to come sixth on the roll and therefore got the sixth grade," smilingly explained the professor. "Is there anything else that I can do for you?"

It may be an excellent grading system yet it works a general hardship upon the students. Some instructors give E's to the girls who dress the best, others give G's to the girls who will promise him at least two dances at the next varsity hop—it isn't always worth the price.

Some instructors give P's to the women who come to class wearing ear rings, others will give E's to the men—good looking men—who remain after class leaning over her desk gushing mere nothings about the next lesson.

With these things in mind do not worry about the term grades, get your lessons, after all that is what you are in college for. You cannot tell what tastes all of your instructors are liable to have. Just thank the lucky stars that there are teachers on the hill who grade on real merit regardless of the deans.—E. K.

ARE YOU A FRIEND?

What is a friend? A friend is a person with whom you dare to be yourself. Your soul can go naked with him. He seems to ask of you to put on nothing, only to be what you are. When you are with him you feel as a prisoner feels when he has been declared innocent. You do not have to be on your guard. You can say what you think, express what you feel. He is shocked at nothing, offended at nothing so long as it is genuinely you. He understands those contradictions in your nature that lead others to misjudge you. With him you breathe free. You can take off your coat and loosen your collar. You can avow your little vanities and envies and hates and vicious sparks, your meanness and absurdities, and in opening them up to him they are lost, dissolved in the white ocean of its loyalty. He understands. You do not have to be careful. You can abuse him, neglect him, berate him, but best of all you can keep still with him. It makes no difference, he likes you. He is like fire that purifies all you do. He is like water that cleanses all you say. He is like wine that warms you to the bone. You can weep with him, laugh with him, sing with him, pray with him. Through and underneath it all he sees, knows, and loves—you. A friend is one with whom you dare to be yourself.

OH! THOSE HORTS.

Have you ever visited the two laboratories belonging to the department of horticulture in the basement of the horticulture building when on a curiosity satisfying junket over the campus?

The spray materials laboratory and the spray engines laboratory are the ways those two workshops are styled, and of which those jocular professors of the horticultural staff and those severely broad-minded seniors in horticulture are the sole proprietors and the chief users and abusers.

The spray materials laboratory is a medium sized room in the southwest corner of the basement, and it is fitted with several workbenches, many pots and pans of all descriptions, some wall cases and shelves for acids and other materials of like nature, and a myriad of calorimeters, beakers, and glass vessels so smutched and dirty that the sight of them would, no doubt, make a co-ed in home economics want to get busy with a dishpanful of hot water and a drying cloth. The chief function of this laboratory is to give those senior students in horticulture, a working conception of what they don't know about sprays and their compositions.

The east third of the basement composes the spray engines laboratory. At one time it was two rooms but the large doors which separated them were taken out and the entrance to the south room from the basement hall was locked so that ingress and egress is possible only by the entrance to the north half of the laboratory. There are divers makes of spraying machines, both hand operated and power driven, a wall case of spray nozzles, various charts, graphs, and other contrivances for testing the diffusing ability and the carrying force of the sprays from the different nozzles, an apple grader, a wall case of common garden tools, and, situated conveniently near the entrance door is an ordinary insignificant looking, yet very necessary portable platform scale, upon which those estimable horticultural professors are prone to weigh themselves at least once a day, and then considering the story the scale tells, discuss at length the relative merits of pancakes, hominy, prunes, and other staple articles with like functions, as diets and rations.

The chief pedagogic function of the spray engines laboratory is that of furnishing material for comparison of the several types of spray nozzles, power sprayers and their pressure gauges, and the several makes of small gas engines used in spray work; also to provide a practical means for the responsible minded seniors in horticulture to discover ways of adjusting and overcoming the bad pranks to which those professors subject the spray engines.

Frank's a Boy's Name.

The young man took his eyes from the road down which he was driving his long powerful roadster and raised them frankly to the pretty girl beside him.

"I am glad to hear you talk so frankly," he said. "That is the thing that I like most about you. You are so frank and honest. I can always depend on you to tell the truth. Now, can't I?"

"Well," said the girl a little too softly and sweetly. "I don't believe that I always do."

"Oh, but I am sure that you always do," said the frank young man.

The automobile zigzagged from one side of the road to the other as he became interested in his subject and let his attention wander from his driving.

"There is so much dishonesty in the average co-ed that we college men never can tell whether to believe them or not. They deliberately lie to you and tell you that they have a date when they haven't and as soon as you leave the phone they call up some man and tell him to make a date with them 'cause they said they had a date and they do hate to lie. I can trust you though. You are different from the others. The time before last when I asked to come down, you frankly told me that you had a headache. If you had not wanted me to come you would have told me the truth. I tell you I think that the girls ought to be more frank and honest."

"Yes?" came the soft and interested reply. "You like girls to be frank, then? And say just what they think?"

"I certainly do."

"Take me home. I've just been going with you because you had this car. The car's all right but I can't stand you. Don't call me up again, for I don't like your company."

Rev. John Maclean says when we pray we see ourselves in all our ugliness. If the good doctor isn't careful, he will scare some of us out of praying.

What has become of the old fashioned grocer who used to put a potato on the spout of the kerosene can?

Springtime Sentiments.

Lovey, dovey, sweetheart,
Honey, sweetness, do
Tell me that you love me
Cause I love none but you.

Cuddle up still closer

To this heart of mine.
Come and say you love me,
For you know I'm thine.

Press your lips to mine, dear,
Let them stay awhile,
Though you know our actions
Do make old maids smile.

It is spring-time, dearie,

We must bill and coo,
Though in a month you'll pass me up
And I'll have forgotten you.

A Cadillac's an asset,

When you woo a pretty maid,
But I'd be suited even
With a bus like Henry made.

Now is the time for all poor students to call to their aid their ponies.

Could it be that much of the so-called affection is really infection?

Clothes for college men

YOU don't have to be a college man to appreciate the kind of clothes they choose; you may be just a plain everyday business man, or farmer, or whatever you have to do; the point is that good clothes are an important factor in whatever you do.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Varsity Fifty Five suits

THESE very striking and lively models are the choice of young men everywhere, in and out of college. They're made for men who feel and dress young; and that includes a good many men who have lived more than young years. The Varsity ideas in designing clothes are expressed in modified form in these suits we have for men of 45 and 50.

Men of affairs don't outgrow, or get too old for, good style, good all-wool fabrics, good tailoring, good fit.

Every Hart Schaffner & Marx suit has the label in it; we'll show you where if you ask us to. "A small thing to look for, a big thing to find."

STORY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE CITY OF MANHATTAN

AN OLD PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS
VILLAGE OF 1860.

The First Houses Were Brought Up on a Steamboat From St. Louis,
Some of Which are Yet Standing.

Being much interested in preserving relics of the early days of Manhattan, Mrs. Will Rosenkutter of 1201 Riley street, has treasured the following review of the early history of the city, which was published in the Kansas City Star of November 25, 1906:

In looking over some old negatives recently Dr. S. C. Orr of Manhattan, Kansas, discovered what is thought to be the oldest photograph of that town in existence. It was taken in 1860 by Burgoyne, the first photographer in central Kansas. It shows two wagon trains on what is now Poyntz avenue. One is a government southern. It burned down shortly after the close of the war. The general supposition is that it was fired; anyway the negroes left in a hurry.

The house near the river on the left was one of the houses brought up the river in sections from Cincinnati, Ohio. This recalls the story of the early settlement of Manhattan.

On April 27, 1855, a company of seventy-five people left Cincinnati, O. on the steamboat Hartford, bound for central Kansas via the Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri and Kansas rivers. The name Manhattan had been fixed upon for the prospective town, as it was thought that there was room for a town in Kansas that would bear some comparison to New York—and there was plenty of room.

In St. Louis the party numbered about eighty. Deeming the boat an abolition steamer the St. Louis authorities delayed her passage for Boston, at the junction of the Kansas and Blue rivers, did not like the idea of having a rival town laid out fifteen miles above them, where Junction City now stands, and where Meade, Pipher and Palmer had laid out Manhattan. They proposed to the settlers from the Hartford that they change their plans and unite with them in them in making one good town on the Boston site. The three at Junction City were sent for and it was decided that the site selected by Meade, Pipher and Palmer should be abandoned and Boston and Manhattan should be consolidated under the name of Manhattan. Half of the Boston townsite was given to the Manhattan people.

On the steamer the Manhattan townsite company had brought ten houses all ready to put up. These houses were located as the nucleus of the town. One or two of these buildings is still standing.

MANHATTAN, KAN., IN 1860, FROM A RARE OLD PHOTOGRAPH.

train drawn by mules. They were returning from Fort Riley to the east. The other is a contractor's outfit from California and bound for Kansas City.

The first building on the left was built by J. A. Miller in '58 and was one of the first stores of the town. This was afterward occupied by a saloon on one side and an undertaking establishment on the other. It was a common saying there, "Be sure to order your coffin before you take your drink, for you will sure need the coffin if you take the drink." The house finally came into the possession of some negroes who gave it the name of being the "worst dive between Fort Riley and the Mis-some time. Finally the voyage to Kansas City commenced under the guidance of a pilot for the exorbitant sum of $750. Cholera broke out on the steamer and several deaths occurred. At Kansas City there was another delay because of low water. At this point Andrew J. Meade, John Pipher and H. Palmer bought a wagon and equipment and drove to what is now Junction City and laid out the town of Manhattan. Meantime, heavy rains had raised the Kansas river, so the Hartford steamed up from Kansas City as far as the mouth of the Blue river, where it went aground. It was necessary to unload all the freight and passengers here. The people living in the town of

It was planned to have the Hartford make regular trips between Manhattan and the eastern markets. The boat had been bought by Meade and his party for $7,000. It started down the river on its first trip and stopped at St. Mary's mission. While lying there against the bank it was destroyed by a prairie fire that swept down upon it. It is supposed that the fire was set by a couple of Indians who were angry because they had been driven off the boat by the mate. The company recovered $3,000 insurance and sold the boilers for $300. The bell from the steamer was taken to Manhattan and hung in the Methodist church, where it is still doing service.

FARMERS ARE WARNED TO LOOK FOR CUTWORM

TIME FOR ARMY WORMS' SPRING CAMPAIGN ABOUT HERE.

Some Damage May be Done to Alfalfa in This Year Because of Small Amount of Volunteer
Wheat.

Kansas farmers should be on the lookout for army cutworms. This is the time of year when they are likely to appear in the fields.

Wing to the presence of but little volunteer wheat last fall, the worms probably hibernated in great numbers in alfalfa sod and some damage may occur to alfalfa this spring, believes T. H. Parks, specialist in entomology in the division of extension at the agricultural college.

First Damage Along Edges.
In grain the injury is usually first noticed along one edge or at one corner of the field and gradually extends across the field as the worms travel in search of new food. Where such a condition exists it is necessary to apply a bran mash to only a portion of the field. It is usually scattered thinly over the ground and is more effective if applied during the afternoon, as the worms begin feeding about four o'clock, and continue to feed during the night providing the temperature is sufficiently high. They remain quiet beneath the surface during the day.

Use Poison Bran Mash.
The poison bran mash commonly used to kill grasshoppers is the best ammunition to use in defending the crops against the army cutworm. Mr. Parks pointed out. Best results were obtained in 1916 where the poison bait was scattered thinly over the feeding grounds of the cutworms. The worms attack both grain and alfalfa. They may kill the grain, but merely delay the growth of alfalfa for about three weeks by devouring the new shoots.

These cutworms appear earlier than all other staple crop insects and usually damage crops the last of March. The moth—the parent form—is migratory and, for this reason, it is difficult to forecast the appearance of the worms before injury is observed. The formula for the bran mash as commonly used is 20 pounds of bran, one pound of Paris green or white arsenic, 2 quarts of molasses, three oranges or lemons, and three gallons of water.

Miss Pearl Dakin returned yesterday from Green where she visited her sister, Mrs. John Koepfer.

THEY WOULD CONQUER THE AIR.

Seventy or More Manhattan Boys Enter Kite Contest.

What man has not passed many an idle hour as a boy flying kites? Perhaps not many later developed into our modern "birdmen" but times have changed and now the boy who flies kites may later learn to fly an airplane.

Seventy or more Manhattan boys, mostly from grades under the seventh grade, have entered the kite contest which will be held Saturday morning on the golf links on Blummont hill, according to an announcement made today by M. D. Collins of the high school, who will have charge of the contest. Prizes will be awarded to the four boys most successful in flying kites. First prize will be a $1.25 knife. The other three prizes also will be knives.

ALPHA BETAS TAKE THE CAKE.

Present a Farce with Take Offs on the Faculty.

Staging what is considered to be one of the best chapel programs of the year, the Alpha Beta Literary society, Wednesday morning at student assembly gave a farce, in three acts entitled the Faculty Harmony Club.

The play pictured prominent faculty members, musically inclined, who desired to aid in the moral uplift of the students through harmony. Ira Plank as Professor Arthur Westbrook was considered the crowning feature of the entertainment.

T. W. Bigger, impersonating Professor I. V. Ries, with his song, "I Will Flunk You Sure," and A. Seiber as Professor E. H. Reinsner, with his solo on Professor Reinsner's new grading system were exceptionally well received.

LECTURES TO SCIENCE CLUB.

Dr. Whitney Discusses "Sex Inheritance and Control."

Dr. D. D. Whitney, of the university of Nebraska lectured to the Science club Tuesday afternoon in room 60 of the chemistry building on "Sex Inheritance and Control." The lectures was illustrated by lantern slides.

Doctor Whitney has been experimenting on sex control for the last ten years. In the lecture given Tuesday afternoon it was shown that at present it is impossible to determine sex before birth in the higher animals. He stated that in the higher forms of life the sexes appear in nearly an equal proportion.

It has been found in Doctor Whitney's experiments that in the lower forms of life sex before birth can be determined by feeding. He has carried on experiments with rotifers or the wheeled animalcules, a low form of life living in ponds and sluggish streams that can scarcely be seen with the naked eye.

MARGARITA FISCHER IN "THE BUTTERFLY GIRL."

Margarita Fischer portrays the role of the star of the "Isthmus" at the exposition and the cry of the "splendors" can almost be heard, so saturated is the production with the spirit of San Diego exposition, featuring the "Hawaiian Village." Miss Fischer will be remembered for her work in "The Pearl of Paradise," and "Miss Jackie of the Navy." At the Marshall theater this afternoon and evening. No advance in prices.

RUSH TO WEDLOCK ALTAR EXPECTED UNTIL JUNE 1

LAW RAISES MAJORITY AGE OF WOMEN THEN EFFECTIVE.

After June 1 Shy Maidens Under 21 Years Old Must Get Consent of Parents Before Getting Married.

All K. S. A. C. maidens between 18 and 21 years old, who would encounter any difficulty in getting their parents consent to their marriage, and who are contemplating such an act, should rush with their prospective lords to the altar of Hymen before June, of this year.

Probate Judge E. E. Morris, who issues all marriage licenses in this county, received a letter today from Stuart G. Thompson, state registrar, notifying him that the bill recently passed by the state legislature, extending the period of majority of women from the age of 18 to the age of 21 years, will go into effect upon the statute book about June 1, and that after that date, in order to obtain a license, a woman must be more than 21 years old or have the written consent of her parents.

Expects Rush of Business. The majority age for women, has heretofore been 18 years and the probate judge anticipates a large business in licenses between now and June 1.

The system of recording marriages also was changed by the last legislature and the bill affecting this change also will go into effect upon publication in the statute book.

Until 1913 the probate judge of each county kept the only record of the marriages performed in his county. After the wedding ceremony had been performed the one performing the ceremony was required to return the license for record to the probate judge who issued it. The legislature of 1913 passed a law making the state registrar the keeper of all records of marriages and since that time all licenses have been sent direct to him after the ceremony, has been performed. The new law passed by the last legislature requires the one performing the ceremony to return the marriage license to the probate judge who issued the license. The probate judge is required to make a record of it and forward it to the office of the state registrar for record. In this way two sets of records will be kept and they can be used to check each other.

Little Change Needed Here.

The new law pertaining to the recording of marriages will not materially change the system which has been in force in the office of Judge Morris as he has kept a record of all marriages in this county since 1913 even though he was not required by law to do so. His system has been to make duplicate licenses. As the new law will make it necessary for all licenses to be returned to him before going to the office of the state registrar he can now do away with his duplicating system and record the marriages in the same book with the licenses.

DEPARTED FROM OUR MIDST.

They Have Harkened to the Call of the Fields.

They are gone from us. They came in the cold bleak days of winter and made their abode with us for a time, but now when the days begin to lengthen and the call of the fields has entered their souls they have left us.

No more will main hall be filled with their countless numbers. No more will the seats of the auditorium be fed at chapel time. Truly our ranks have been thinned by the spring rush. The shorthorns have departed. Educated by goah!

The enrollment of the short courses this year was unusually large. The total number reached 160, an increase of 60 over that of last year. Of those enrolled this year, 250 were in the farmers and creamery classes and 210 in engineering classes.

HOLD UP DR. NABOURS' PICTURES

Russian Government Takes Cameras and Films Away from Him.

A large number of photograph negatives has recently been received by Doctor R. K. Nabours, professor of zoology, which he and his wife took while on their trip around the world last year.

More than 200 photographs were taken in Hawaii, Japan Korea and China. The pictures were taken from the agricultural and general activities of these countries.

Doctor Nabours stated that both cameras and films were taken from them when they entered Russia. The Russian government would not allow the camera to be taken into the country because of the practice of hiding papers and documents in the complicated machinery of such instruments. The films were held for six months and Doctor Nabours is confident that the cameras will be returned after the war.

WAS SAINT PATRICK AN ENGINEER?

FOUR CONFERENCE GAMES FOR AGGIE FOOTBALL MEN

WILL PLAY K. U., WASHINGTON, AMES AND MISSOURI.

There Will be No Cornhusker-Aggie Game Since Manager Reed and Coach Clevenger Couldn't Come to Terms.

Three new teams, Ames, Washington and the Oklahoma Aggies will be met by the Aggie football eleven next fall, according to the schedule announced by Athletic Director Clevenger. The Nebraska Cornhuskers and the Oklahoma Sooners are the two teams which have been dropped to make way for the new teams.

Manager Reed, of Nebraska, and Coach Clevenger could not come to terms on a Cornhusker-Aggie date. The only proposition offered by Reed was an early season game. This was not agreeable to Clevenger, who maintained that the showing made by the Aggies the past year entitled them to more consideration than being shoved into a practice contest at Lincoln.

Oklahoma will not be met because Bennie Owen wanted the Clevenger eleven to play at Norman again this fall, after having played there last season. The Sooners played practically all their big games at home last season, and wanted a good drawing card for this coming season.

Will Play Them Again.

The contracts with the four conference schools, Missouri, Kansas, Ames and Washington, contain the provision that the teams will meet again in 1918. In that year Missouri and Ames will play in Manhattan, while Kansas will be played at Lawrence and Washington at St. Louis.

Homecoming day will be held November 3, the date of the Aggie-Kansas battle. Almost as large an army of alumni attended the K. U.-K. S. A. C. game at Lawrence this year as was present on the Aggie Homecoming day, when the Aggies trimmed the Tigers, so the Homecoming crowd which will fill the Aggie bleachers November 3 is expected to be the largest on record.

Five of the games, those with Baker, Oklahoma Aggies, Washington, Kansas and the Kansas Normals, will be played in Manhattan. Both Baker and the Normals played here last season. The Emporians formerly had an alternating agreement with the Aggies, providing for playing the games at Emporia and Manhattan, but hereafter it is thought that all Kansas conference games, with the exception of Washburn, will be played here.

The schedule follows:
Sept. 29, Baker at Manhattan.
Oct. 6, Oklahoma A & M at Manhattan.
Oct. 13, Missouri at Columbia.
Oct. 20, Washington U. at Manhattan.
Nov. 3, Kansas at Manhattan.
Nov. 10, Iowa State at Ames.
Nov. 22, Emporia Normals at Manhattan.
Nov. 29, Washburn at Topeka.

Leaders in the state garden and other club projects in Kansas representing the division of extension of the Kansas State Agricultural college and the United States department of agriculture will meet in conference at the college March 29 to 31.

Five thousand boys and girls engaged in club work last year, but as a result of the increased interest in gardening this season due to the present food shortage, and the recent appointment by the board of administration of additional leaders, the scope of the work will be increased materially.

The list of conference speakers includes Otis E. Hall, state club leader; Edward C. Johnson, dean, division of extension; H. L. Popenoe, county agricultural agent, Emporia; Mrs. J. M. SCHOOL CLOSING 11 A. M. FRIDAY.

Will be the Last Term Under Present Three Term System.

By 11 o'clock Friday morning, the last final will have been given. The last fervid prayer will have been said by the doubtfuls, the last siren song of the pros will have been sung, and the winter term of school will be ended.

At eight o'clock the following Tuesday morning, assignment of students for the spring term will begin, giving a vacation of approximately four days between terms. Assignment of students closes at five o'clock Wednesday evening, and on Thursday morning, the grind begins for twelve weeks more. The spring term of school will close June 20. Many students are going home at the close of this term, and it is not expected that there will be a heavy enrollment for the spring term.

This spring term will be the last term under the present three-term system. Next year, the two semester system will be inaugurated for the first time, thus giving the students 18 weeks to study one subject instead of 12.

LOSE TO BAKER 2 TO 1 AND TO OTTAWA 3 TO 0.

Washburn and Baker Tie for First Place in First Series—Edge in Baker's Favor—Second Series April 13.

The first debates of the Pentangular series resulted in two losses for the Aggies—a two to one decision in favor of Baker here and a unanimous decision for Ottawa at Ottawa was the result of the Friday evening contests. The question debated was the minimum wage.

The Aggie affirmative team was composed of Fred Carp, junior in animal husbandry, L. R. Hintt, senior in animal husbandry, and Floyd Hawkins, junior in journalism. This team was opposed by the Baker negative team composed of Leon Whitney, junior, Fred Newcomb, senior, and Charles Nichols, sophomore, who captured the Baker men.

The K. S. A. C. negative team which contested the Baptists at Ottawa was composed of Calvin Medlin, A. F. Swanson, and Paul Findley. All of the Aggie debaters were new men except Mr. Hawkins who had debated three times before.

The judges of the debate at Manhattan were Professor A. S. Olin of the department of education at Kansas university, Judge John Marshall of the state supreme court; and ex-senator A. E. Carney of Concordia, who was chairman of the senate committee on education. Following the debate, the Forum entertained in the Hamilton-Tonlan hall.

Washburn and Baker Tie.

The debates Friday night were the first of the series held by the following five Kansas schools: Baker university, Washburn, College of Emporia, Ottawa university and K. S. A. C.

In this first series, Washburn won both decisions in its clash with Ottawa and the College of Emporia by two to one counts. This leaves Baker and Washburn tied for first place with the edge in Baker's favor having won five of the six judges' decisions, while Washburn won but four of the votes of the six judges.

Ottawa ranks second with one contest won and one lost, while K. S. A. C. and the College of Emporia are tied for the cellar position with both clashes on the lost side of the column.

On the night of April 13 the second series will be held, at which time the Aggie affirmative team will meet the College of Emporia at Emporia, and the Aggie negative team will contest the sons of Ichabod on the home platform. The minimum wage question is debated in both series.

Receives Steel Poles.

The electrical engineering department has already received some sections of steel poles for transmission lines from the Franklin Steel Pole company of Franklin Pa. The sections are six feet in length and they are of three types. The total weight is 500 pounds. The company sent this equipment by prepaid express although a freight shipment would have been much cheaper. It is considered that this incident shows that the company feels an interest in the college.

CHARLES LEADS IN CONTESTS.

Ranks First in Both Collegian and Industrial Races.

W. K. Charles, junior in industrial journalism, leads in both the Industrialist and Collegian contests. For the Industrialist, Mr. Charles has submitted copy of which 112 column inches has been published. G. W. Fine ranks second with 105.5 column inches, and Ralph Foster, third, with 82 column inches. Zenith Mullett, Dorothy Smith and H. H. Dudley take fourth, fifth and sixth places, respectively.

In the Collegian contest, Mr. Charles ranks first with 289 column inches, Stewart Spencer second with 147 inches, and Elizabeth Wadley third with 137.5 column inches to her credit. B. Q. Shields and Lillie Lehman take fourth and fifth places.

MABEL BENTLEY WINS THE SCHOOL OF ORATORICAL

REPRESENTATIVE OF PHILOMATHIANS TAKES PRIZE.

J. Ralph Nutter, Hesperian, Won Second Place, and W. O. McCarty, Lincoln, Third—Philomathians Won Last Year.

Miss Mabel Bentley, the representative of the Philomathian society, won first prize in the second annual intersociety oratorical contest of the school of agriculture held in the college auditorium Saturday night, March 24. J. Ralph Nutter, of the Hesperian society won second place and W. O. McCarty of the Lincoln society third.

The subject of Miss Bentley's oration was "The New Idea for Workers." Her oration was a plea for better vocational training of the American working man. She showed that America's greatest resource was its working people and that to improve and develop this resource it should be the laborer must be better trained for carrying on the nation's industries. Miss Bentley pointed out that the only intelligent way of improving the nation's resource was through vocational training and that the most effective way to secure the vocational training was in vocational schools.

Presents Plan.

The plan for the training of the worker which Miss Bentley presented was the establishment of vocational schools in the city where the children over fourteen years of age who were forced to quit school and go to work could be given training two and a half days out of the week. After a course of four years the young man or woman who had attended a school of this sort would be fitted as experts to take up the work for which they had been training.

The contest of the societies of the school of agriculture is presented the same as the contest of the college societies. Music consisting of vocal solos and choruses was held between each oration. After the orations were given and while the decision of the judges was being made, stunts were presented by each society.

H. L. Kent, principal of the school of agriculture, was the presiding officer of the evening. Three prizes were given. The first was a gold medal and five dollars, the second a silver medal and the third a bronze medal.

After the contest each of the societies held a banquet in their respective halls for the active and ex-members. The representative of the Philomathian society won the contest last year.

BAGHDIGIAN TO BE AN EDITOR.

Gets Position With the Baxter Springs News.

B. K. Baghdigian, an Armenian student who graduated from the industrial journalism course in '16 at K. S. A. C., has been appointed assistant editor and manager of the Baxter Springs (Kan.) News.

Since graduation, Mr. Baghdigian has been working as community lecturer and reporter for the Kansas Farmer which is published at Topeka.

Mr. Baghdigian came from Armenia to America 11 years ago. He came to K. S. A. C. and enrolled in the Journalism course in the fall of 1915 as a senior, having had work in several eastern colleges. While attending K. S. A. C. he became a member of the Quill club and Sigma Delta Chi, the national journalistic fraternity. He worked his way through school partly by selling articles to the different farm periodicals.

Mrs. Helen (Huse) Collins, '08, of Baldwin, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Huse, of Manhattan. Mrs. Collins is a former instructor in the domestic science department.

Miss Deryl Houghton, in lunchroom managers' course, spent this week end with her parents at Junction City.

Ray Ambrose, student in the creamery short course, left for his home in Norton the latter part of the week.

STILL AFTER THE ENGINEERS.

Demand for K. S. A. C. Grads Exceeds the Supply.

Practically every engineering student who will graduate in June either has accepted a job or has under consideration four or five different positions from which to choose a place, according to A. A. Potter, dean of the engineering division.

"Four times as many graduates as we shall have could have been placed," said Dean Potter. "Call after call has come, but we have not been able to meet the requests."

The companies to which the students will go are: Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company, Westinghouse Machine company, the General Electric company of New York, the Western Electric company of Chicago, the Automatic Telephone company of Chicago, and the Doherty interests of Denver and Bartsville, Ohio.

The following companies have asked for from one to ten men, but the college has not been able to supply the demand: New York Central, the Babcock & Wilcox company of New York, the American Locomotive company of New York, General Electric company of Lynn, Mass., the Allys-Chalmers company, and several others in the East and Middle West.

MORE THAN 500 ATTEND FROSH-SOPH POP CONCERT

Key to K. S. A. C. is Presented to the Freshmen by the Sophomores.

Carrying out the idea of a prom and social mixer, the first annual freshman-sophomore pop-concert, which was held Friday night in Nichols gymnasium, proved to be all the committee hoped for it.

More than 500 persons attended, many of whom were juniors and seniors, the first entertainment of this kind ever given by the underclassmen.

The reception, dancing, and a mixer were the order of the evening until 9 o'clock. From 9 until 10 o'clock the concert was given on the main floor of the gymnasium. After the concert, which consisted of readings and musical numbers, the key to K. S. A. C., a large wooden emblem, was presented by Bruce E. Brewer, president of the class of '19 to C. Yeoman, president of the class of '20.

With the presentation of this key, the sophomores have established a custom, which it is expected the second year class will carry out from year to year. It is reported that by a ruse some upperclassmen obtained the original key and made away with it Friday afternoon, thus making it necessary for the sophomores to put in a rush order for another key to present that evening at the concert.

After the concert, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and holding a mixer in the women's gymnasium. Thirty prominent sophomores, freshmen and faculty members were in the receiving line; and approximately the same number of freshmen and sophomores served on the various committees which arranged for the entertainment. Refreshments consisted of punch and ice cream.

FOUR COLLEGE COWS ON A TOUR.

Are Being Exhibited on a Special Santa Fe Train.

Four college cows, representatives of the different breeds of dairy cattle are on exhibition on the Santa Fe special train which is touring from Strong City to Superior, Neb.

The cows are: Canary Belle, Ayrshire, which has a milk record of 17,693 pounds and 786 pounds of butter; Sultana Tipsy, Jersey, 709 pounds of butter; Imported Flower, Guernsey, 500 pounds of butter; College Daisy, Holstein, 600 pounds of butter.

"The exhibition of these record cows will give the farmers along the Santa Fe line a good chance to see what can be done in improved dairy stock," said C. E. Reed, professor in dairying, who left Sunday to accompany the train, while J. B. Fitch, who has been on the excursion, returns home.

In 13 days a total of 22,723 persons visited the train.

Miss Jane Cape, assistant in domestic science, spent Friday in Topeka.

THE PROOF THAT HE WAS WILL BE GIVEN MAY 1-4

COLLEGE ENGINEERS WILL HOLD A FESTIVAL THEN.

Plans Are Being Made to Stretch the Annual Celebration Into a Week—Modern Genii Expect to Do Big Things.

The engineering division is planning for the annual engineers' day which will be stretched into a week, this year, instead of just one day as in the past few years. It has been planned to have an engineers' week once in four years and the intervening years will have only one day. By this method everyone attending college for four years will participate in one large celebration and three lesser ones. This will lessen the work required for having an engineers' week every year. The plans made for this year's celebration are quite extensive. It is stated that if nothing prevents, the engineering body will make St. Patrick feel proud that he was an engineer and not an ag. The proof that St. Patrick was an engineer will be given some time during the engineers' week.

The program for the week of May 1-4 will be quite interesting to all divisions of the college it is stated, and all students of any course are cordially invited to take part in the celebration. On Tuesday, May 1, the engineers will put out the Collegian. On Wednesday night will be held one of the best engineering-electrical parades that has been seen at Manhattan for several years, it is reported. On Thursday, the engineers will hold chapel after which there will be open house. In the entire engineering division. Every laboratory, office, Sigma Tau room, etc., will be open for inspection and visitors during the hour following chapel. Thursday afternoon will probably be a holiday for the engineers and will be spent at Rocky Ford where a water carnival is planned.

Engineers Will Dance.

Friday night will be devoted to the second annual engineers' ball. It is planned to make the ball, a rival of the Junior-senior in decorations, beauty, and entertainment. Two hundred tickets will be placed on sale within the next week. The tickets will be sold only to engineers until all engineers have obtained a ticket. Any tickets remaining will be sold to other students. The Maupin-Skelly ten piece orchestra will furnish the music.

During the open house in the engineering division, all classes will probably be excused and guides will be stationed at the entrance of all buildings housing engineering work, for the direction of the visitors. There will be many interesting stunts beside the regular work of the classes in all laboratories. Among the exhibits will be an automatic telephone system without a single hello-girl to operate it; an exhibit of electrical cooking and heating devices; lifting magnet; a pin over which no one can throw a ring; and many other novel and interesting exhibits.

Work Out Details.

Details for the week are being worked out and a man is in charge of every part of the work. The following chairmen have been appointed:

W. A. Buck, general foreman; J. O. Mall, parade manager; Wm. N. Caton, in charge of ball; J. S. Gullledge, chapel; R. H. Oliver, publicity manager; O. K. Rumbel, Collegian editor; G. A. Cunningham, picnic and water carnival; C. D. Hultgren, superintendent of supplies; C. A. Frankenhoff and W. E. Dickerson, finance committee; Keen Umber, yell leader; G. A. Sellers, open house.

Maybelle Rodgers, sophomore in home economics, has as her guest her mother from Cherryvale. Mrs. Rodgers will remain here until the end of the term.

Miss Adelaide Seeds, sophomore in home economics, has withdrawn from college on account of poor health.

Miss Marie Coons, '09, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis, is reported as getting along nicely.

GIRLS AND THEIR VARIETIES.

Variety—yes, girls have an option on it. The greatest variety is, of course, in their dress, but that is an abused subject. A limited variety exists in shoes and other apparel styles. For natural variety consider their hair.

Variety in color—yes, worlds of it. The shades range from baby blonde through the sorrel yellow and buff cochlea brown to the vampire black. Just where the Indian summer red fits into this scheme of shades has not been decided. Compared to the shades in hair, the number of shades of color in the rainbow is an insignificant fraction.

Variety in "make up" (the term is used for lack of a more expressive one)—well, volumes could be written on the subject and by the time the volumes were ready to be published there would be a sufficient number of new "make ups" to fill another volume the size of an unabridged dictionary. No chameleon could compete with the hair styles for rapid changes.

It seems that there will be a great variety in ways of combing the hair as long as the movie magnates continue to separate us from our diminutive decimal pieces. The movie is, again the "goat." Why shouldn't they be the "goat?"

And curls daily—at least curls that were intended to be Pickford. Possibly they are Minter curls. Any way they are apt to be movie curls if curls they are. Or if the hair is straight and black it may be combed Para fashion—ugh! Pay close attention and the fluffy Ward, the "stacked" Billie Burke, the Marguerite Clarke type and many others types will be noticed.

Then there is the "I-don't-care," the "I've-got-a-beau-clinched," (a careless type of girl), and the studious girl. One can usually identify them by the way they comb their hair. It is extremely simple in design—parted in the middle and the surplus twisted into a "bunch" said "bunch" located in any convenient place. Or it may be combed in a manner that indicates it is the quickest method known.

Next in line is the "I-won't-tell-my-age" girl. She has at hand dozens of misleading methods of fixing her hair to deceive others. Watch for her. You will notice the apparent effort to slip up five or six years on daddy tempus. Her hair "make up" will betray her.

There is a world of character in the arrangement of the hair; in fact there is just as much character as there are methods of arrangement. But as was mentioned before, the subject is inexhaustible—and so is the variety. Well, "variety is the spice of life." Girls, it is up to you to do your best to make this life as "peppery" as possible.

SUPPORTING COLLEGE ACTIVITIES.

Every year there arises the question of support for some form of college activity. In regard to athletics, the sentiment has grown until the man who does not attend and support the athletic contests is considered lacking in the proper college spirit. This is a form of college activity which boosts and advertises the college and deserves every bit of the support that is given to it.

There is, however, another form of college activity that is deserving of support which it does not receive from the student body. That activity is college debate. Of course the financial support helps, but there is greater need for the personal support of the students—that is their attendance and rooting for the home team.

Some persons say they do not like to attend a debate because it is long and dry and tiresome. It is the lack of proper support that makes it so. It is the interest of the student body in a college activity which makes that activity live and interesting. So it is with debates—so long as the students do not attend and take an interest in intercollegiate contests of this kind, just so long will it be dry and uninteresting.

That debate is deserving of the support of the student body becomes evident when one considers the training and platform experience which the contestants receive. The debaters are trained to become mental athletes instead of physical athletes. The training and the contest become as alive and as vigorous, with the proper support, as an athletic contest. It takes work to become a debater—hard conscientious work just the same as it does to become a member of the football team. And the debaters work as hard to win laurels for their alma mater as do the athletes. Again a school with a high standing in intercollegiate debates will draw many of the high school debaters; thus this form of student activity proves a good advertising medium, as it is from the high schools that the majority of the college students come.

Then, since debating is a student activity which possesses merits not possessed by other large student activities, i. e., mental development, unique advertising medium, and training for the contestants which cannot be obtained in any other way, it is evident that this form of student activity deserves and should receive the support of the entire student body of this institution.

BEAUTY POSSESSED BY ALL.

Has it ever occurred to you that the most beautiful things in life are the common things—things which a pauper may possess as well as a prince, things which plowman and poet may claim with equal right? For is it not the sea, the sibilant-whispering sea, whose lips kiss the sands of a thousand shores, and in whose passionate embrace are nestled myriad argosies—is not the sea with its wealth of wonder and mystery, the heritage of all? Is not the splendor of the sun yours and mine as well as Shakespeare's? Shall not the serenity of midsummer skies bring us solace as well as him who "sitteth in the seats of the mighty"? Let a man have but eyes and he shall see beauty everywhere. The music of the summer rains shall fill his soul with gladness, and the song of the lark shall give him kinship with the Infinite. He shall have fellowship with the grass and the flowers and the trees, and the slow winding river and the majestic mountains shall be of his brotherhood. Before his eyes shall pass the scarlet-clad glory of Autumn, and always for him in the loom of life there shall be wrought a wondrous tapestry, woven anew each day from the warp and woof of common things, but of imperishable beauty, because designed and patterned by a Weaver whose name is God.—F. L. Pinet.

WASHBURN STUDENTS DO NOT LIKE GRADE SYSTEM

Circulate Petition to Abolish Symbols Similar to Ones Recently Instituted at K. S. A. C.

Abolition of the present system of grading at Washburn college is sought in a petition which was circulated among the students of the college recently. The petition probably will be presented to the college authorities some time during the early part of next month.

Under the present system of grading "S" stands for superior, the highest mark which a student can secure. Only two "S's" may be given out in each class. "G" standing for good, is the next highest mark; "M," or medium, the next; "I," for intermediate, the next, and "F," standing for failure. Instructors at the college generally represent "S" as being above the 93 mark; "G" from 87 to 93; "M" from 80 to 87; "I" from 70 to 80 and "F" below 70.

Students say that this system of grading works a hardship on many of them who are striving for high marks. Frequently there are many in a class who should be allowed an "S" they say, but the ban on giving out a limited number prevents this and makes it necessary for the instructor to substitute a "G."

This is not the only disadvantage to the system, the students say. The symbols which represent their ranking in class leaves them indefinite as to just what kind of work they are doing. With the per cent system in effect—that is, a system which marks on a basis of 100 per cent—this difficulty would be eliminated, they say, and they could tell more accurately their exact standing.

"In one class," said a Washburn girl, "I complained to the instructor that my work was just as good as another girl's who received an 'S.' He told me that he was limited to a certain number of the superior marks and said himself that he thought my work just as good as the other girl's. Under the system of grading he had no way of showing my work was equal to her's and he admitted it himself."

It is planned to have the petition well circulated before presenting it. It is hoped by the petitioners to secure the names of every student in the school.—Topeka Daily Capital.

The Washburn system of grading, which is proving to be notably unsatisfactory, is similar to the system of grading which was instituted at this college the beginning of the present school year.

Because Palmer Bressler, 19, was in love he could not attend school in Manhattan in accordance with his father's wishes. His mind was all too occupied to consider such inconsequential and sordid matters as the rotation of crops and fall plowing. Consequently, he went to Lawrence to have a better opportunity to visit the woman of his choice, a student at the university.

Father had a more agricultural mind. It seems, and spilled the beans, so to speak. When Bressler had told her good night Sheriff Woodward called him quite suddenly into consultation. After some fatherly advice the boy was allowed to return to the Pi Kappa Alpha house, where he stayed until morning, when he returned to Manhattan in company with an officer. It is understood he will re-enter school.—Topeka Daily Capital.

A Story of Good Shoes

Which Shows the Folly of Putting Up With Poor Shoes

Nothing but tried and tested materials are used in Walk-Over shoes for men and women—they are designed by men who make a study of styles and who are conversant with every change in fashion; and they are made with the greatest care by trained and skilled artisans—they are "quality" shoes in style and workmanship as well as in leather.

Every shoe made by Walk-Over measures up flush with this Walk-Over standard—the highest ever set—and represents, at Walk-Over prices, a value unobtainable outside a Walk-Over Store.

If you want 100 cents' worth of good shoe value for every dollar you invest, here is where you will find it—along with almost limitless variety of styles, sizes and models and at any price you please from

COST OF LIVING WAS LOW FOR STUDENTS 30 YEARS AGO

Wages Too Low—College Only Paid 8 to 10 Cents an Hour for Help.

The h. c. i. is an abused "goat" and at present is a much talked of animal. It may or may not deserve all the abuse it receives. It is interesting to compare wages and living expenses at the Kansas State Agricultural college of 30 years ago with those of today. Then, as now, the college employed much student help but wages were much lower. So were living expenses.

A little more than 30 years ago, Jacob Lund, now superintendent of heating and power, worked 12 1-2 hours moving trees from the old college grounds at the rate of 8 cents an hour. For two or three years eight cents was the rate per hour paid by the college. It was raised to 10 cents per hour and remained at that rate for several years.

Student help now receives from 15 to 25 cents per hour for manual labor. Student helpers in laboratories and those doing technical work receive 29 cents and upwards per hour. Wages for the same work have increased two to three times in the last 30 years.

Unfurnished rooms might have been had 30 years ago for $2 per month, and board ranged in price from $2.50 to $3.50. The very best in board cost not more than $3.50. Now the best furnished rooms bring the landlady $15.00 every month and the cheapest rooms $6 to $8. Board ranges in price from $3.75 to $4.50 per week.

Wages have increased in proportion to living expenses. If figures do not lie a dollar of today is worth proportionately a dollar of thirty years ago. It may be true that it is not so much the high cost of living as the cost of high living.

"THE HABIT OF HAPPINESS."

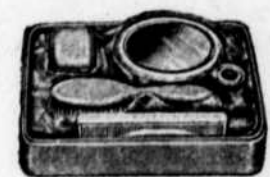

Showing Douglas Fairbanks in the leading part. This is a wonderful vehicle for this star. The thought of the story has to do with the fact that anyone can be taught to smile and that the habit of happiness is a wonderful possession. At the Warcham theater Wednesday afternoon and evening.

This is a drama of the aviation field, police court and "409" in which Mae Murry portrays the role of a young country girl, whose main ambition is to become a business woman. This is an unusually strong offering. At the Warcham theater Thursday.

MANY HEAR STEINER'S LECTURE. His Subject Was the "Making of a Nation."

Dr. Edward A. Steiner, noted author and lecturer on immigrant problems, lectured to an appreciative audience at the college auditorium last night on the subject of "Making of a Nation."

Dr. Steiner took up the problem of nationalism in America and stated that we should have a new type of nationalism which should not be European but should be distinctly American. Dr. Steiner gave this lecture for the first time a few weeks ago before the League to Enforce Peace in New York City.

Y. M.—Y. W. PUBLISH COLLEGIAN.

Next Issue Will Give News of These Associations.

Next Friday's issue of the Collegian will be the annual Y. W. C. A.—Y. M. C. A. number. The news, which will be handled by the active members of these associations, will be largely of the workers and the work these organizations are doing at the college.

From Friday, March 30, until Sunday, April 1, the state Y. M. C. A. conference will be held here, at which time more than 150 members of the various Y. M. C. A. cabinets over the state are expected. A number of prominent speakers will lecture and it is urged that all students who expect to serve on the local Y. M. C. A. cabinet or committees attend this three-day conference.

ESSAY ON WOMAN.

There are three kinds of women: suffragists, anti-suffragists, and neutrals. They all have a motto. The motto of the suff. is "Votes for Woman"; the motto of the anti-suff. is "Woman's Sphere is the Home"; the motto of the neutral is "Let the Men Do the Work."

You can always tell what a woman is when she begins to talk. The suff. says, "That was a ripping good lecture on Preparedness last night, wasn't it?" The anti-suff. says, "My dear, I have the darlings new recipe for tea biscuits." The neutral says, "Oh! do come with me to the matinee this afternoon—the man that plays the lead is just too sweet for words."

You can tell their children, too. The suff. says "Sure I'll go—it don't make any difference to her." The anti suff. says, "I'll tease her a lot and then she'll let me." The neutral says, "I don't know—I'll ask Dad if I can."

It is usually pretty easy to find out to which type a woman belongs. If she is a suff. she tells you about it in the first five minutes, if she is an anti, she insists upon telling you about her home and husband; if she doesn't do either, then you know she is a neutral.—Washington State Student Life.

COOPERATION IS KEYNOTE OF Y. W. FOR COMING YEAR

EVERY GIRL MUST SHARE RESPONSIBILITY, SAYS PRES.

Plan is to Make Religion as Practical as Possible—Will Not be Something to Have and Not Use, Says Miss Wilkie.

"Co-operation will be the keynote of the association work," said Miss Nell Wilkie, president-elect of the Young Women's Christian association, in outlining the work for the coming year. "Each of the Y. W. girls will have to share her part of the responsibility. There will be individual tasks for the members of the cabinet but there are some things that will require the energy of all the cabinet and committee."

"Many problems will prove too large for the time of any one person. In such a case there will have to be a distribution of tasks. A large group working together in complete harmony and unison can accomplish wonders."

Will Not be Impractical.

Many a Christian is not beyond the theory that the chief aim of religion is to make himself a religious warehouse, pointed out Miss Wilkie. They spend all their time taking in facts and never devote any to doing things that will count. In other words they are impractical.

"My intention is to make religion as practical as possible," said Miss Wilkie. "In all the things that will be done an effort to make Christianity as vital to the lives of the girls as it can be made. I think that too many people have the opinion that religion is something to have but never to be used."

Takes Place of Miss Gould.

Miss Nell Wilkie, junior in home economics, will take the place of Miss Stella Gould as president of the Young Women's Christian association. Miss Wilkie has been prominent in student affairs since she came to college. She is now a member of the Eurodelphian Literary society, the Omicron Nu, the oratorical board and other minor organizations.

MUCH INTEREST IN R. O. T. C.

Captain Mathews Receives Many Applications and Enquiries.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the army reserve corps being formed in this section of the state under the direction of Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets at the college, according to a statement made by Captain Mathews today. He said he had received letters from many cities and towns in this section of the state relative to the corps.

A large number of applications have been made, Captain Mathews asserted. "The reason for this, it was explained, is that the form of examination has not been decided."

Captain Mathews has announced the 10 members of the 1917 graduating class at the college who will be recommended to the war department as provisional lieutenants of the army. They are: Walter E. Deal, Great Bend; Charles T. Halbert, Agara; Henry R. Horack, Munden; Harold C. McClelland, Manhattan; Louis A. Maury, San Antonio, Tex.; John R. Rathbun, Downs; Frank R. Rawson, Wamego; Guy P. Smith, Great Bend; Thomas D. Vincent, Manhattan; and Charles Zimmerman, Stillwell. J. B. Mudge, '14, of Lawrence and Paul E. Jackson, '15, of Downs also have been recommended for provisional commissions.

The men already have received notice to proceed to Fort Leavenworth April 23 to take their preliminary examinations. Following this they will take a course in military science.

E. L. Hageman, '11, visited at the college Monday. Since his graduation he has been employed almost continually in civil engineering work. His experience has included power plant work in Tennessee and highway work in Tennessee and North Carolina. He is at present employed with the interstate commerce commission on valuation work.

William J. Marshall, '14, who recently completed his work at the Boston Theological Seminary, and Mrs. Ethel (Justin) Marshall, '10, will shortly leave for Burlington where Mr. Marshall has been appointed pastor of the Methodist church.

Ex-President Y. W. C. A.PLANS FOR POP NIGHT
NEXT FALL BEING MADE

Entertainment Will be Given in December—Silver Loving Cup Offered as Prize Again.

The Y. W. C. A. is already planning the "Pop Night" for next year. It is expected that the event will have a prominent place in the list of attractions for next year's students. Judging by the plans already being made for it, the affair will be well worth the attendance of all.

The "Aggie Pop Night" presented by the Y. W. C. A. on the evening of December 8, 1916, was well attended. This was the first time for this event but it will be an annual affair planned to take the place of the Y. W. county fair of former years. This year's pop night will be in December.

The event was a financial success as well as giving an opportunity for several organizations of the college to demonstrate the ability of the students of the college at originating and giving some unusually fine stunts or demonstrations. The prize given for the best one of these demonstrations was a silver loving cup which is to be held by the society of the organization winning it for one year. At each year's contest the organization winning first place in beauty and quality of their demonstration gets the cup for the year. The cup was presented to the Y. W. C. A. by the advisory board of the association which is made up of faculty and townswomen. This year the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority won the cup.

HIGH PER CENT OF K. S. A. C.
CO-ED GRADUATES MARRY

An Investigation of the Six Largest Coeducational Institutions Prove This.

The Kansas State Agricultural college leads all investigated coeducational institutions of the West in the highest per cent of women graduates who marry.

Alumni records of the University of California, Illinois university, Ohio State university, Wisconsin university, Kansas State Agricultural college, and Oberlin college were examined by W. T. Altman of the American Genetic association.

In these great coeducational institutions which are fairly representative of the universities and colleges of the west it was found that from 44.5 to 63.5 per cent of the women graduates marry. The percentage of graduates who marry from women's colleges of the east appears to vary from 40 to 50, in most instances being nearer the smaller figure. None of the coeducational institutions here considered show as low a rate as this.

The latest period of graduation that could be profitably taken was between 1900 and 1904, and some who graduated in this period will yet marry.

BACK TO THE FARM FOR THE Y. W. CABINET GIRLS

They Will Move to the Country March 31 and Stay Until April 1—Plan a Big Time.

(By Mildred Inskip)

If you wanted fresh inspiration, a more serene spirit, and time for sober reflection, wouldn't you want to live for a moment out in the spring-time country? Well, that is the way the Y. W. C. A. girls feel about it, and so from March 31 to April 1, the old cabinet will give a house party for the new cabinet on the Charles Springer farm, near Stockdale. Mrs. Springer will be hostess, in absentia, the family intends to move out for two days and leave Miss Mildred Inskip and her girls in complete charge of everything, from getting the meals to tending a hatching incubator.

The party will go to Stockdale on the motor early Saturday morning, where relatives of Miss Inskip will have cars waiting to take girls, pillows and baggage to the farm. Saturday morning will be devoted to conferences. Each member of the old cabinet will give her successor an outline of the work expected of her, an appreciation of her opportunities, and a legacy of enthusiasm. The feature of the morning will be an ideal committee meeting. In the afternoon, Miss Boot will talk to the girls on "Campus Drifts." Then they will close the day with a steak roast in the woods. There, around the campfire, under the country sky, the passing cabinet will tell the new girls about what the year has meant to them.

Early Sunday morning Vesper service will be held out of doors. Later the party expects to attend the neighborhood church where they have been asked to take charge of the morning services.

After dinner, which will of course be planned and cooked by the girls, the chaperons will give inspirational talks. Dean Van Zile will talk on "Making Christ Real by Worship." Mrs. L. E. Melchers, who was association secretary in Chicago before her marriage, will discuss "Making Christ Real by Friendship." Miss Machir will make "Work" her main theme under the same title heading.

They will all be brought back to Manhattan Sunday night in cars, and they are coming back to the campus, these old girls and these new girls, no eager and so happily determined to make the new year count that the most faraway girl in college is going to catch the ASSOCIATION SPIRIT.

Miss Edie Rose, special, of Paola, will not be in school spring term.

Her Highness Will be Chosen From Among the Senior Girls of K. S. A. C.—Announce Method of Choosing Later.

Now Robin was an outlaw bold, An outlaw bold was he! He ranged with his men in the forest glades,

And dwelt in the Greenwood free, Robin Hood and his men, the jolly outlaws, who were among us festival week are to be at home in their natural surroundings in Sherwood Forest Saturday, May 19.

Robin Hood (along with Little John, Will Scarlet, Ailana-Dale, Friar Tuck, and the rest of them) has extended a grand invitation to King Henry VIII and Queen Katherine to attend the annual spring festival, the fete of the month of May, in Sherwood Forest. All of the villagers, the milk-maids, the shepherds, and the shepherdesses are generously included in the gala day invitation.

Wood Sprites Will be There.

The wood sprites will also be there as they are great friends of Robin Hood's. Then there will be the host of attendants and courtiers of the King and Queen.

Maid Marion, however will be the center of all Greenwood festivities for she is to be crowned as the youthful Queen of May. And most important of all—Maid Marion, as Robin Hood's sweetheart, is to be chosen from among the senior girls of K. S. A. C. The method of choosing will be announced later.

The college May fete this year is to be the biggest and best yet, it is stated. The plans are laid and drilling for the dances and work on the costumes will begin as soon as the spring term opens. At least 300 college students, boys and girls will have parts. Formerly May Day has been a girls' entertainment. But this spring fully as many boys as girls will be featured. Every boy asked to assist is expected to respond loyally. The dances will be under the instruction of Miss Anne Cahoon and Miss Ethel Lormg, instructors in physical training.

Many Festivities.

Robin Hood and his men will be the central figures in the entertainment, as the hosts of the day. Then each group will join in the festivities presenting dances and pantomimes. The celebration will begin with a grand march and close with the winding of the five Maypoles.

Maid Marion's attendants will give a flower dance. The villagers will present an old English dance. An archery dance of skill with the bow and arrow will be a feature. Robin Hood, with his courtesy, courtliness and free good will intends to make the day a true gala event.

Each year the May Fete is given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A.

LIVE STOCK INDUSTRY

More Stock and Equipment Than Any Other College—Judging Team Ranks Higher.

Kansas State Agricultural college has more live stock and more equipment for carrying on the live stock industry than any other college in the world, according to President H. J. Waters.

"The live stock and live stock equipment of this college amounts to one-third million dollars," said Doctor Waters. "Kansas State Agricultural college has won twice as many prizes in the last international live stock show as any other college represented."

"No people have ever advanced far in civilization without live stock. It has always been the meat eating nation that has been dominant in language, literature, and civilization. If Kansas is to hold its place in the United States it must emphasize its live stock industry."

For the last four years the average placings of the stock judging teams from Kansas State Agricultural college in the International Live Stock show has been higher than any other college," said W. A. Coehel, professor of animal husbandry.

Ex-President Y. M. C. A.THE STUDENTS ARE LEAVING FOR VACATION OF FEW DAYS

Winter Term at College Closes This Morning—Spring Term Opens Next Week.

With the final examinations at the end of the winter term at the college closing at 11 o'clock this morning, 2,000 or more students are planning to leave for their homes in various parts of Kansas and other nearby states for a few days of rest before starting work for the spring term.

Many of the students completed their examinations yesterday morning or afternoon and left on afternoon or night trains for their homes. There will be but three hours of classes this morning and then the winter term will come to an end.

The enrollment at the college for the term just closing was 2,597, according to figures obtained at the office of the registrar, Miss Jessie McD. Machir. It was pointed out that the spring term enrollment is always much smaller than that of the winter term. This is because many of the students from the farm must be at home to look after spring work. It is expected that about 2,300 students will enroll for the spring term.

Enrollment and assignment for the spring session will begin next Tuesday morning in the Nichols gymnasium and continue for two days. The first classes of the session will be held Thursday morning. The term will close June 20.

150 SUMMER SCHOOL COURSES.

70 Faculty Members to Teach During Sultry Months.

Seventy members of the faculty will give 150 courses in the summer school of the Kansas State Agricultural college. This is the most extensive work ever offered by the institution in a summer session.

The work has been arranged to fit the real needs both of teachers and of other persons who want to perfect themselves in their work. Work is offered which will be credited in the regular four-year college courses, including agriculture, the various lines of engineering, home economics, general science, and industrial journalism.

Many courses will also be given to meet the special needs of teachers who are emphasizing modern industrial subjects in their schools. In many of the lines of work taught by the college the demand for competent instructors is greater than the supply, and by taking summer courses teachers of experience can obtain specific preparation in these lines of study.

Miss Mamie Sherrod, freshman in home economics, will not enroll in college the spring term. She will visit friends in Salina before returning to her home in Goodland.

TRAIN FOR LEADERSHIP IS POLICY OF THE Y. M.

WILL TEACH STUDENTS TO APPLY THEIR RURAL COMMUNITIES.

A Special Class in Which Instruction in this Work Will be Given Will be Conducted During the Spring Term.

"The policy of the association for the coming year will be to train men for leadership in the home communities," asserted Floyd Hawkins, president of the cabinet of the Young Men's Christian association.

"The college student who goes out into a home community must be willing and ready to do active work. A student goes out into a vicinity and does not become an active force in that community he will do himself and others harm. Every student that goes into a rural locality should understand that to serve is to succeed."

A class in rural leadership will be conducted during the spring term, pointed out Mr. Hawkins. It will be a discussion group that will select its own leader. There are already more than 20 enrolled for the class the spring term. The text that will be used was written by Dr. Warren H. Wilson, who was here during the winter term conducting the rural conference series.

Communities without Leaders.

"Most of the rural communities are without people to act as leaders," stated Mr. Hawkins. "It is a known fact that many of the younger folk go away to school and come back with the quality of leadership less developed than when they went away. This is a sad state of affairs that can be corrected only by better and more adequate training for rural community work in the schools."

"The need has been felt for a long time. There have been many attempts at a solution. There have been movements to build up the country church by pastors of theological training. This has failed to a large degree. The only cases where it succeeded was where there were community leaders that were in close touch with the work."

Leaders must get vision.

Half the battle is won when the leaders of the country district get the vision, according to the speaker the man without the spirit of service is not the man who will succeed. There must be a controlling vision. The only way for the outstanding men to get the vision is to have it brought to them by persons that have been trained and understand the problems that confront a vicinity and then the way to solve them.

"A fellow that goes out into a community and organizes classes and becomes a leader of boys will come to mean something to them," is the opinion of Mr. Hawkins. "It has been said that a fellow who does not do anything when he goes home had better be dead, so far as the good of the community is concerned. I don't think there is a community anywhere but what there is a job for the fellow who is ready to take it."

Floyd Hawkins, who will take the position formerly held by H. B. Bayer, is a junior in industrial journalism. Mr. Hawkins has held many positions of honor and trust since he came to college. He completed his preparatory work in the school of agriculture and has won four "K's" in debate since he came to college. In every case he has been the captain of his team.

Mr. Hawkins is a member of the Phi Kappa Delta, the Hamilton Literary society, the Forum, and is now student assistant for the Baptist church.

The electrical engineering department was much gratified recently by the interest shown by the girl students in the wall cases in Denison hall which contain exhibits of storage battery parts until it was discovered that the dark background of the cases made the glass front an excellent mirror.

Miss Blanche Baird will go to Russell today to be the week and guest of Miss Hazel Phinney. From Russell Miss Baird will go to Denver, Colorado where she will assist in the installation of Rho chapter of the Delta Delta fraternity in the University of Denver.

An elective course in harmonics will be given by Prof. E. V. Floyd next term to those interested in music.

ADVERTISING K. S. A. C.

"We are advertised by our loving friends" is no less true when applied to K. S. A. C. than to baby food. The right kind of advertising will give to every citizen of the state a good opinion of the college. Vice-versa, of course.

What kind of an idea does the average Kansan hold of the college? Last fall when the Manhattan high school team was playing a team in another city, the high school coach, an alumnus of the college spoke to the father of one of the star athletes about his sons coming to K. S. A. C. next fall. "Not much," was the reply. "A boy will go to the devil soon enough without going to either K. U. or the Agricultural college." Where did he get this idea? Was it because he felt that his son would get into the wrong set and lose his moral and religious principles? If he did the chances are that some student has returned from the college to that community and failed to make good.

The best advertisement that the college can have is the student who returns home well equipped and trained for his life work with high moral and religious principles and an impelling idea of service. When such students return there will be no fear in that community that the sending of a student to K. S. A. C. will injure him.

It is not only the reputation of a college for athletics and scholarship that draws students but for most parents the thing of primary importance is the question of the moral and religious conditions of the college. Will a strong Y. M. C. A. help to create the right kind of surroundings for students and will such a work advertise K. S. A. C. as a safe place to send young men?

It certainly will. The Y. M. C. A. seeks to unite all Christian young men and those of good moral character into an organization which stands for clean athletics, honest class room examinations, democratic ideals, clean speech and actions, unselfish service—in fact just manly Christ-like living.
Every young man to whom such a program appeals should respond by making himself an active part of this organization.

YOU AND YOUR COMMUNITY.

Many students when they go home are criticised for lack of interest in local affairs. The home folks feel that their money and time is being thrown away because they take not the least interest in local problems.
There are many things that should receive the support of the student when he is at his home. He should be a strong advocate of every enterprise that tends for the betterment of the community. If he does not do this he is not doing his duty.

The young fellows at home are always looking to the college student for a standard in dress. "He wears a sport suit home, the boys will soon be imitating him. If he uses slang they will soon have grounded it into their vocabulary. These little things are the things by which a great many of the rural folk judge the college.

Anything that will create a prejudice in the community will hinder the development of the district because the college representatives will not find a welcome there. The economic and social life will not receive a new incentive to growth.

The localities from which the student comes have gone to a great expense to make it possible for the education of that boy or girl. High schools are a recent addition to the educational system. The folks who have paid the taxes and hired the teachers are the ones toward whom the student should feel a responsibility.

It is impossible to repay the tax money. It is improbable that the community will ever realize any cash return for the investment that has been made in the way of schooling.
But the folks at home do expect that the young people that receive these privileges will bring honor to them.

Testimonials

The following letter was recently received from H. B. Bayer, former president of the Y. M. C. A. who is now managing a farm at Quincy. He will be remembered by the boys as "Heinie."

Sunny Slope Farm,
Quincy, Kansas
Wednesday Evening.

Dear fellows.

I was glad to hear of the election of the new officers of the Y. M. C. A.
I know that the school could not have made a better selection. I can only hope that the rest of the men will work like "Mac," Hawkins, Cross, and Brown.

Few people realize the importance of the Y. M. C. A. until they are out of school. I must say that my Y. M. work has been as valuable to me as anything else that I took an active interest in. It has helped me to combine Christianity and good fellowship
"a thing no successful man can get along without."

I believe that the careful selection of high minded associates and an active interest in Christian work will do as much good after he leaves school as the work of his regular college course.

Very sincerely,
H. B. BAYER.

Last Christmas I came to school almost without funds. I was depending on the chance of finding work to keep myself in school. Work was very scarce and I was on my way down to the depot to get a ticket home. As a last hope I dropped into the Y. M. office and told Mr. McLean my troubles. He looked over his list of "boys wanted" and persuaded me to try for a job driving a milk wagon. I got the place and was enabled to continue my school work for the term. I think the work done by the Y. M. in the employment department alone fills a great need in the life of the student body.—J. Parker Ball.

Riley, Kansas.

Dear Men:

It has been a year now since I was in school. I find that the knowledge and training for service gained through the Y. M. is my greatest asset. It helps me in my work as no other part of my college training does.

Boys clubs of various kinds with the stamp of approval of the Y. M. are being welcomed in the open country both by the parents and by the children.

If a man finds he has time for but one activity I would advise him to let the Y. M. be that activity, because it offers the greatest field for service.
Sincerely,
LEON N. MOODY.

Y. M.-Y. W. CABINETS

Gould Inskeep McNall Farquhar Baker Cutler Mueller Richards Weible Thomas Winne Robinson McFarland Droll Blain Burnham

"The cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association has worked faithfully to make the college girl's life worth living," said Miss Mildred Inskeep, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., in commenting on the work of the past year.

The big sister committee was instrumental last fall in introducing the freshmen girls to their new life at college, pointed out Miss Inskeep. From the time the freshmen girls climbed off the train to the time of their introduction into the social life of the college, they were under the protecting wing of some big sister.

The terrors of finding rooms and getting registered were lessened by the help of the older girls. When the little sisters were started safely in college, their big sisters entertained them with a kid party. Each big sister came as a nurse with her family of from one to five little sisters. The evening was enjoyed in true kid fashion, with animal crackers, stick candy and ice cream cones.

The Bible study committee has done faithful work in cooperating with the churches to get the students enrolled in Bible study classes. Four hundred and fifty students have enrolled and attendance has been remarkably good. The committee keeps in touch with the girls through a card catalog system, stated Miss Inskeep.

Reorganize Music Committee.

One of the best things done in the past year was the reorganization of the music committee. The eight members formed an octette and were trained under Miss May Carley of the music department. They have furnished special music for the regular meetings of the association.

The work of the social committee is well known by all who attended the Y. M.-Y. W. reception last fall and the all school mixer of the winter term.

This committee was also instrumental in getting the short course girls acquainted with the other girls in school through a party held for the girls of the short course.

The membership committee has been active in its campaign and, although it has not been as successful as it had hoped, approximately 300 girls joined the association.

The regular weekly vesper services under the supervision of the religious meetings committee have been especially good. These meetings were held in the rest room of the domestic science and art building and were led by student members. Several out of town speakers have been present during the year and their talks have been full of inspiration to the girls.

Aid the Orphans.

Through the work of the social service division of the cabinet, the children at the Odd Fellows home near Eureka Lake were given one of the happiest times of their lives last Christmas. Each child was temporarily adopted by some member of the association and was sent candy and letters by her "foster-parent."

Immediately after Christmas the mission study rally was held under the direction of the missionary committee. One hundred twenty-five girls were enrolled in group classes for the study of missions. These classes were led by students and members of the faculty.

The finance and missionary committees started a campaign for systematic giving among the students. Their aim was to raise $500 for missions and for the local work. Although they fell short of their aim, with $375 pledged, the campaign was far from lost for the personal touch of girl with girl was a great help.

Plan Publicity.

"The work of the association news committee does not come with a rush. Week after week, they have been working faithfully to secure activities of the association," said Miss Inskeep.

"Through the conference committee we have come to know that Estes Park is a wonderful place. Every summer representatives from the local association attend the national association conference which has been held for several years at Estes Park. The conference committee holds spreads during the year to tell the college girls stories of camp life at these conferences. Much of the work of this committee comes in the spring term and big things are expected of them."

Plan Summer Work.

The second cabinet, led by Mary Weible, has made plans for the eight-week club work to be carried on during the summer. These girls are full of enthusiasm for their work and they will accomplish much, is the belief of Miss Inskeep.

The work of the cabinets as a whole has been very satisfactory, according to Miss Mildred Inskeep, secretary of the local association, although there are as many things yet to do as have been done.

The new cabinet has been chosen to carry on the work next year. The members are:

President, Nell Wilkie; vice president, Bette Droll; treasurer, Lillian Kennedy; secretary, Phoebe Buzzard; Committees: Religious meetings, Kathrine McFarland; social, Margaret King; social service, Mildred Gellgey; news, Velma Carson; Bible study, Donna Payne Wilson; missionary study, Mary Mason; big sister, Harriet Morris; conference, Florence Mitchell; music, Mary Dakin; membership, Ruth Thomas.

The budget of the Y. M. C. A. for the past year was in round figures $5,200. The principal sources of income were approximately as follows: regular rents, $1,900; students' dues, $825; faculty subscriptions, $525; college appropriation, $600; town subscriptions, $350; interest, $300; May fete, $210; hand-book advertisements, $240.

The principal items of expense were as follows: salaries, $2,875 (includes salary of janitor and care-taker of rooms); coal, $500; light, $235; office (telephone, etc.) $55; building supplies $75; fixtures and permanent supplies, $300; repairs, $55; religious meetings, $35; social, $55; taxes, $86; insurance, $60; interest $21; and reading room, $75. Subscriptions to state and international work amounted to $100. In addition to the above the association in co-operation with the Y. W. C. A., raised about $700 for the prison camp relief work in Europe.

Building.

Very few people realize the extent to which the building of the Y. M. C. A. is used. The gym has been used for the various social and religious gatherings of the association, for political rallies of all parties, for college organizations and for basketball. Two tournaments with about 150 men have made use of the gym this way.

The dormitory rooms have been kept full and the dining room is rented as a co-operative club which has maintained a very satisfactory eating place at a minimum cost. The parlor is the regular meeting place of the dairy and veterinary associations and the honorary fraternities, Epsilon and Sigma Gamma Delta. Various other committees have used this room and the other committee rooms.

The reading room has been a popular place all year, many students having taken advantage of its excellent facilities. This room also has served as the regular meeting place for the Thursday evening meetings of the association. The association building was headquarters for the new students who were looking for rooms, and for the delegates to the Farm and Home week. It is estimated that the Y. M. C. A. telephone made more dates than any other dozen telephones in town. The Y. M. C. A. has been the dispenser of information on all kinds of subjects.

Employment.

The number of permanent jobs such as working for room and board are somewhat limited. The greater part of the work done by the employment bureau is odd job work. Such jobs often lead to permanent employment, when satisfaction is given by the student. During the past year about 30 permanent jobs and over 600 odd jobs were supplied by the bureau. The value of the work secured for students for the past year is approximately $3,500.

The board of directors for the coming year will be composed of the following members:

Faculty and business men—Dr. J. R. McArthur, Prof. L. A. Fitz, Prof. C. A. Scott, Prof. C. O. Swanson, Hugh Durham, assistant to dean of agriculture, A. M. Johnston.

Student members—Floyd Hawkins, B. Q. Shields, J. E. Taylor, J. M. Dorrill.

The new cabinet for the association will be composed of the following members: Floyd Hawkins, president; Homer Cross, vice president; C. R. Brown, secretary.

Committeemen—J. M. Dorrill, B. Q. Shields, J. E. Taylor, R. H. Parsons, Homer Cross, C. R. Brown, Carl Poward.

Last fall the association saw fit to organize a cabinet for the school of agriculture. They held an election and W. O. McCarty was elected president. R. R. Snyder was elected vice president, and Harry Bradley, secretary.

The cabinet consists of the following members—R. R. Snyder, F. E. Spencer, R. S. Knox, H. B. Pondurant, Vernon Veltheim, J. Smid.

Bible Study.

The aim of the Bible study department of the association is to supplement and not to duplicate the work of the churches. The association believes in the small group class where free and open discussion may be had. It also believes in student leaders for the under classmen. The students feel free to talk under student leadership and the training is of great advantage to the leader. There were thirteen classes conducted by the association meeting at the Y. M. C. A. or in the rooms of students. Six courses were offered. Students Standards of Action, Life at Its Best, Christian Standards in Life, Social Principles of Jesus, Manhood of the Master and Introducing Men to Christ.

Eleven of the classes were led by students and the total enrollment in all classes was 136.

Religious Meetings.

During the year 28 regular Thursday evening meetings were held with an average attendance of 79.

New Student.

The opening days of college are busy ones at the Y. M. C. A. Hundreds of students make the building their headquarters until suitable rooms are found and even then many find it the best place to go in order to overcome that lonesome feeling. The handbook of useful information is in much demand as well as the other helps to be found at the Y. Last year 526 men registered for rooms. About 125 freshmen attended the opening supper the first week and the later social events were well patronized.

Membership.

All young men of the college are welcome at the Y, whether they belong or not. No fixed dues are charged.

ed but each student subscribes whatever amount he feels he can afford. While some give more and some less, the average is about one dollar a term. There are now 635 members of the association of which 117 are faculty and 518 are student members. The freshmen have the largest per cent of the membership. For the winter term there was 121 freshmen who held membership cards. The sophomores have 74, the juniors 75 and the seniors 46 members. There are 99 cards taken out by shortcourse men and 75 by the school of agriculture. The faculty was canvassed by faculty members. They were divided into ten teams of two members each. They had complete charge of the membership campaign. The men were seen and were invited to become members. Nearly everyone responded.

Not Over Yet.

Johnny had just started learning history, and very proud of himself. One evening as he sat studying his lesson, he thought he would test his grandfather's knowledge of the subject, so he asked: "Grandpa, do you know what great war broke out in 1850?" The old man raised his head from the evening paper and looked thoughtfully at the lad. Then a sudden light came into his eyes. "Why," said he, "that was the year I married your grandmother."

WILL DEBATE FARM TENANCY

K. S. A. C.—Ames Teams Will Use
This Question Next Fall.

Next fall the Ames agricultural college and the Kansas Aggies will meet in an interstate debating contest on the question, "Resolved, That for the welfare of the cornbelt farmer, satisfactory methods of renting land are of more importance than the ownership of land."

Dean Jardine has promised the co-operation of the agricultural department in obtaining material.

In speaking of the debate, Coach Burk said, "It is the feeling of the debate coaches and interested students that debate should be practical. There are a host of people thinking on this subject now and it is a fine thing for agricultural students to study out. If possible men in the agricultural division will be used in this debate. This will give them splendid training in studying out some of the problems of their field."

"Here will be two large agricultural colleges debating on the subject so closely akin to the work of the institutions that it will make an appeal to people in both states. Especially is this true as the people are already thinking in that direction and it needs but this to make them think that way stronger."

"It will serve to boost debate, too, when such subjects as this are being used by the squads that represent the college. We have kept in the field of politics and government so long that that is about all that is expected from a debating team in the line of a question."

"Here is an opportunity for some men to do some real practical research work on the line of rural tenancy and land ownership," remarked Mr. Burk.

Hold K. S. A. C. Alumni Reunion.

A reunion of alumni and former students of the Kansas State Agricultural college has been announced for 8 o'clock this evening at the Coates house, Kansas City. Members of the faculty will be among the speakers.

ENGINEERS VISIT BIG PLANTS

Approximately 30 go to Kansas City on a Three-Day Tour.

Approximately 30 seniors in the departments of electrical and mechanical engineering and milling industry, accompanied by Professors R. A. Seaton, S. L. Simmering, L. A. Fitz and C. E. Reid, left for Kansas City Thursday morning where they will inspect some of the leading industries of that city.

Kansas City, Kan., provided automobiles for the engineers to carry them to the municipal light and water plant which is one and one-half miles from the nearest street car line.

The Witte Engine Works provided lunch for the entire party. The company especially asked that the schedule of the engineers be arranged so that they might be the guests of the Witte company at lunch time. The Missouri & Kansas Telephone Co. provided a large number of their engineers Thursday afternoon to act as guides and explain the workings of the plant to the K. S. A. C. men.

Thursday the K. S. A. C. engineers visited the municipal light and water plant of Kansas City, Kan., the Witte Engine Works, the Ford motor plant, and the Missouri & Kansas Telephone company. Today they will visit Swift & Co., Southwestern Milling company, Peet Brothers Manufacturing company, the Kansas City Terminal Railway company, and this evening at 8 o'clock the seniors will attend the K. COLLEGE FEED SHEDS BURN SUNDAY NIGHT

ESTIMATED LOSS IS $3,000—CAT-TLE SAVED.

It is Supposed That the Fire was Started by Some Visitor at the Sheds—Experiment Will be Continued.

Sheds and pens used for feeding purposes at the agricultural college here were totally destroyed by fire about 8:15 o'clock Sunday night, entailing a loss estimated at $3,000 and endangering about 100 head of cattle, valued at approximately $12,000, which were driven out of the pens before the flames reached them.

In addition to the loss of the sheds and pens 15 tons of alfalfa, 30 tons of straw and 5 tons of feed were destroyed by the fire. The sheds, which were built six years ago, are located about a quarter of a mile north of the main campus. Although the fire truck made a quick run from Manhattan to the fire, the sheds were ablaze from one end to the other when it arrived. As there are no fire plugs near the sheds no streams of water could be thrown. Because of the intense heat the firemen could not get near enough to the burning buildings to use chemicals.

Visitor Started Fire!

It is supposed that the fire was started by some visitor at the sheds, who carelessly dropped a lighted match or cigar in the straw. Dr. H. J. Waters, president of the college, said that there was a large number of visitors at the barns on Sunday.

The 100 head of cattle were divided into six lots and were being used in a feeding experiment. It was thought that the experiment would be broken into but it is now stated that the experiment would continue without much loss. The cattle were divided up into the original lots Monday and feeding was again begun.

The fact that a period in the experiment closed Sunday makes it possible to carry on the work without much loss, it was explained by Dr. Waters.

It is reported that a Scotch Collie dog at the barns first attracted attention to the fire and thus probably saved the lives of many of the cattle. This same dog discovered a fire in the large stone barn at the college several months ago.

1650 ENROLL FOR SPRING TERM.

A Few Stragglers are Still Coming in for Work.

At twelve o'clock Thursday the enrollment for the spring term at K. S. A. C. had reached 1650. A few stragglers were still coming in and the number had not yet reached its highest.

The first day of enrollment was by far the heaviest. When the doors closed Wednesday evening 1300 students had received their assignment. The system of taking care of the students by squads of fifty was used again this term and much confusion was avoided. Those coming in late are being assigned at the window opposite the post office and are charged an extra penalty fee of one dollar.

EXTEND TIME OF PLAY CONTEST.

June 1 is Date Now—Offer Prize of Fifty Dollars.

The play writing contest which was to have closed last term, has been extended to June 1, by the committee which was appointed by J. G. Emerson, professor of public speaking, to pass upon the manuscripts.

Several plays were presented which displayed considerable originality on the part of the local dramatists, but lacked the necessary finish which would make the production of them possible. This was apparently due only to hasty preparation. The committee is of the opinion that if the additional time is used the finished productions will have considerable merit.

Anyone who has not presented manuscript, will be privileged to take advantage of this additional time also and enter his or her play on June 1.

It was planned to present the play during the spring term, but under the new arrangement the plays will be passed upon at the close of the spring term, the winner of the contest paid $50, and the play will be produced by the public speaking department next fall term.

QUILL CONTEST CLOSES.

The Short Story Contest Closes on April 15.

The time for submitting manuscripts for membership to the Quill club has been extended until tomorrow. The date originally set was April 1 but owing to the fact that this was between terms and the membership committee was busy with registration the first of the week, it was decided to extend the time limit another week.

The short story contest which is being conducted by the Quill club and which is open to all college students, closes April 15. Three manuscripts on which the name of the author should not appear, should be handed to Miss Estella Boot of the English department, on or before this date. A prize is offered for the best short story submitted.

TWO BIG LEAGUE NINES WILL PLAY HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Detroit Tigers and New York Giants are Strong Contenders—5000 Fans Expected.

"Benny" Kauff, "Heinie" Zimmerman, "Jeff" Tesreau, "Indian Jim" Thorpe, Herzog, Burns, Fletcher, Bush, Crawford, Veach, Coveleskie and Rariden—these will be some of the major league baseball stars who will be seen in action on College field this afternoon when the New York Giants meet the Detroit Tigers in the fifth game of a series the two teams are playing on their way from their training camps back home.

Up to date the Giants are in the lead in the series, having won one more game than the Tigers. The New York team is picked by Eastern baseball experts as strong pennant contenders in the National league, and Detroit is almost as equal favorite in the American league race, so that Manhattan fans may be watching today the two teams who next fall will be battling for the world's championship.

The shining light of the Detroit squad, Tyrus Raymond Cobb, for the past three years leading batter of the American league, will not be seen in the present series. Cobb clashed with Herzog, second baseman of the Giants, in the opening game of the series last week, and after a fight, in which members of both clubs supported their respective team-mate, declared that he would participate in no game in which Herzog played. Cobb is training with Cincinnati, but will rejoin the Tigers at Detroit. Herzog is playing regularly with New York.

Manager West of the street railway company predicts that a crowd of close to 5000 spectators will be on hand this afternoon to watch the game. Inquiries have been pouring in from nearby towns. Manhattan is the only stop the two teams will make between Wichita and Kansas City, so that baseball fans from a large radius will attend. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

110 ATTEND Y. M. CONFERENCE.

Washburn Delegation Largest With Twenty-one Men.

The state conference for the Young Men's Christian association held here in Manhattan March 30, 31, and April 1, for the purpose of training men in leadership for cabinet positions was attended by 110 men from outside schools during vacation period.

This was the first time that an attempt has been made to get the cabinets of the different associations together for a training conference. Formerly a training conference was held only for the presidents.

The Washburn delegation was the largest. They had 21 men in attendance. The Kansas State Normal of Emporia was second with 19 present. Charles Weber of the Normal was elected president of the conference. He is president of the local "Y." at Emporia.

Great stress was laid on the needs of the freshman and how they can best be met. The most important are, a purpose for coming to school, an ideal to live up to when he once arrives, something to do that will keep him busy, and then most important of all is a real friend. H. L. Heinzman said, "The student leaves college made or marred by the men with whom he associates."

R. G. Page is the new instructor in the English department this spring term. Mr. Page has recently received his master's degree from the University of Chicago. He takes the place of Lee R. Light, who resigned to accept an educational position in Montana.

"Twist that Tiger's tail."

For the third consecutive time this sport season the Kansas Aggies and Missouri Tiger teams will meet in games which may wreck the chances of the opponent in the race for a valley championship. In both football and basketball the Purple teams were victorious over the Black and Gold. Monday and Tuesday afternoons the Tigers will battle with the Aggies on College field in an effort to regain in baseball the prestige they lost in football and basketball.

"The Missourians have the edge on Clevenger's nine according to the dope. Coach Brewer's Missourians have been taking a training trip in the south, conditioning themselves under ideal weather conditions while the Aggies have been battling cold weather and 40-mile-an-hour Kansas gales. The games the Missourians played against Arkansas university resulted in 8 to 1 and 18 to 5 victories for the Columbia athletes.

Hewey on the Mound.

Big "Dutch" Hewey will be on the mound for the Clevenger crew, if he is in as good condition as he has been the past two weeks. The big hurler has not yet tried out his curve ball, but with plenty of "smoke" and control he is counted on to baffle the Tiger batters. McGrath will be sent to the mound if Hewey does not show well in the warm-up. McGrath will probably start the game Tuesday. Although Coach Clevenger has not decided on the batting order, he has announced his opening lineup. Clark, Newton, Sullivan and Richardson will play infield, while in the outfield will be Captain Harvey, Reynolds and either McLeod or DuBois. Reynolds and Clark have been hitting the ball with regularity, and both will probably be found near the "cleanup" position, the fourth in the batting order.

Both games will start promptly at 3:30 o'clock. Admission will be 50 cents. Moss of St. Marys will officiate.

HOLD PASSION WEEK SERVICES.

Meet From 12:30 to 1:00 O'Clock
Each Day in F-3.

Passion week services are being held each day from 12:30 to 1:00 o'clock in the basement of the library building—F-3. The services are conducted by the Christian associations of the churches of Manhattan.

Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday A. R. Elliott, state student Y. M. C. A. secretary; J. R. Macarthur, professor of English in the college; and the Rev. J. M. McClelland of the First Methodist church were speakers.

Today the Rev. J. R. Voris of the Congregational church will speak and tomorrow Miss Estella Boot, of the English department will conduct the services. Special music is a feature each day.

FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1917.

WHAT IS A COLLEGE STUDENT?

Most of us can remember the time when the college student was a gaily dressed person who early adopted a pipe bearing strange insignia and allowed himself to be led about by a bull dog, stopping occasionally to give vent to a lusty rah, rah for something.

There has been a mighty change in this person. He no longer feels under obligation to live up to the comic supplement ideal. The tendency with regard to personal appearance seems to be toward a more conservative mood, and that other great complement to college life, hazing, is also disappearing rapidly.

What is the reason? We think it is that the college student has ceased to be quite such a rarity. Everybody goes to college now. There are tens of thousands of degrees handed out every June and the number is constantly increasing. And with regard to all this there is something that most of us should keep in mind.

With competition keener in every line of business it behooves the college student to get a few of the things that others are missing. The man who blunders his way through the university along with hundreds of others is not very far ahead when he is through. For that reason the "forehanded" person will ask himself if he is making the most of his time.—Michigan Daily.

FLAG ETIQUETTE.

Probably more flags are being displayed in Topeka now than ever before in the city's history, except on holiday or convention occasions.

There is a strict etiquette governing the display of Old Glory, which many patriotic Topekans have overlooked.

Raise the flag at sunrise or after, never before.

Lower the flag at sunset.

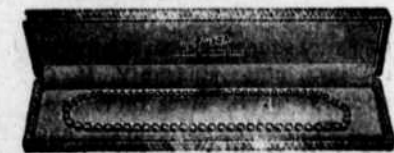

When draping the flag against the side of a room or building, place the blue field always to the north or east.

Good taste requires that bunting be draped or hung with the red at the top, followed by the white and the blue in accordance with the heraldic colors of the flag. It is a mark of disrespect to allow the flag to fly throughout the night. A flag upside down is a signal of distress.—Topeka Capital.

Nature did her best to make the first session of the spring term a perfect day, yet the gloom of approaching war cast a shadow that the sun could not dispel.

Opposites must attract or E and F could not dwell in such close proximity in the alphabet.

We are wondering who put the lay in ukelele.

SPRING THRILLS.

Last fall we made the touchdowns,
Then last winter shot the goals,
And soon the time is coming
For home runs to thrill our souls.

Last fall we shouted, "Touchdown,"
But soon with broadening smile,
We'll be shouting, "Hit 'er Shorty,
Line her out half a mile."

Soon we'll gather at the ball park
Where we've won undying fame
And forget our griefs and troubles,
And enjoy a baseball game.
Walter Houghton, '18.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

Editor of The Collegian.

Will the time ever come—

1. When the auditorium will be properly ventilated?
2. When K. S. A. C. audiences will become enthusiastic enough to applaud?
3. When notices of chapel exercises will be posted on the bulletin board so that those having first hour classes can find out what is going on at chapel without going back to Anderson hall?
4. When speakers at chapel will not be annoyed by unnecessary noises?
5. When speakers will not be introduced in chapel as "the greatest in the world" or "the foremost in America?"—E. E. D.

"WAR BRIDES" IS TRIUMPH.

Private Presentation at Marshall Theatre Receives High Praise.

"War Brides," a picture which arises to greater heights than "The Birth of a Nation," startled the spectators at a private presentation given at the Marshall theatre yesterday afternoon. Alla Nazimova, the widely known emotional actress takes the part of Joan, the widow of a young officer. Her expression and power as an actress carried right out from the screen in a manner almost lifelike and made her "close-ups" more vivid and convincing than any that have previously been presented.

"War Brides" does not pretend to be a portrayal of conflict, but one scene was built for this production which surpasses anything done before on this continent to show actual war conditions. This was a huge trench, four stories deep, in which the life of the soldier is shown and the unexpected manner in which whole companies may be killed with out even seeing the enemy.

Rapidity of action, swift flashes, very little actual warfare and much intimate home life with well chosen sub-titles, rare taste in the selection of scenic backgrounds—perfect continuity, superb action and technical skill—these are the things which make "War Brides" a picture which appeals to all.

The picture will be shown to the public at the Marshall the latter part of this month.

THE SENIOR NEVER DONE IT.

Didn't Make Alleged "Formal" Application for Degree.

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Topeka papers: "Much to his chargin, a student in agriculture at the Kansas State Agricultural college here discovered the other day that 'formal' may apply to other things than dress. In response to a notice to make 'formal' application for his degree, to be received at the spring graduation, this sedate senior, rented a full dress suit and thus duly accoutered presented himself at the office of the registrar. Not until the titter of giggles from co-ed clerks greeted his ears was he aware of his mortifying mistake."

"It is a trumped up falsehood," is the statement of a faculty member in authority. In commenting upon the article, it is stated that there is absolutely no foundation for the story, and that no such a "formal" application for a degree has never been made by a senior. It is considered absurd to suppose that such an incident could happen in an institution of higher learning.

SENIORS ELECT OFFICERS.

W. A. Wunsch Will Lead the Class This Spring.

At their last regular meeting of the winter term, the seniors elected the following class officers for the spring term:

FIVE M. V. SCHOOLS IN CONTEST.

Leo C. Moser Will Represent K. S. A. C. in Oratorical.

K. S. A. C., Iowa State college, of Ames, Nebraska university, Missouri university and Drake university, are the five Missouri valley schools which have entered contestants for the Missouri valley oratorical contest which will be held at Drake university, Des Moines, Ia., Friday, April 20.

Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, is the K. S. A. C. representative entered in this contest. Mr. Moser has worked over his oration which won first place in the intersociety contest last year. The oration is entitled "Our Real Foreign Enemy" and deals with the problem of immigration.

Mr. Moser won second place in the state peace contest which was held at Wichita the second week of March. Mr. Moser's ranking in this contest is considered exceptionally high due to the fact that Mr. Breese who took first, was a veteran orator, having won a state oratorical contest and was placed among the leading contestants in an interstate contest last year.

"Inasmuch as we are now entered in the Missouri Valley oratorical, interest in oratory ought to pick up," says J. C. Emerson, head of the public speaking department and coach of oratory and debates.

TRAINING CAMP AT FT. RILEY

Congress Spends $1,000,000 on Summer Project.

A military training camp will be held in Fort Riley between the dates of August 11 and September 12 this year. Congress has appropriated one million dollars to be spent at Fort Riley and the work of arranging quarters and providing accommodations for these men has already begun.

"The purpose of the training camp," said Capt. L. O. Mathews, "is to create a reserve of eligibles for commissions in the regular army."

Expenses to and from home are provided for by the government, quarters furnished and uniforms issued. Hence considering the time spent each summer it serves as a free vacation.

"If the reserve officers training corps is established in the college later than this year, those attending this summer's training camp at Fort Riley will receive credit for the same when the corps is established," explained Capt. Mathews.

"The citizens of eastern Kansas, western Missouri and southern Iowa, are eligible to this camp. Already 6,000 business men in Kansas City have signified their intention of attending this summer's camp."

HEADACHES and EYESTRAIN

Headaches are often caused by eyestrain. It may be possible to have headache without eyestrain but I have never known eyestrain without headache. I RELIEVE HEADACHES by properly measuring the curvatures and deficiencies of the eye and correcting the same by mathematically ground lenses. If you suffer with headaches you will be surprised to find how much I can help you with a pair of correctly fitted eye-glasses.

PLANS FOR PATRIOTIC RALLY GET ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT

City and College Organizations Plan for Big Demonstration—in a Parade, 4,000.

Manhattan and College organizations are responding splendidly to the call for assistance in planning the patriotic rally which is to be held Monday evening, April 9, it was announced today. Since the plans for "Loyalty" day in Manhattan had not been completed the men who were working upon them have decided not to make any further effort to have a program Friday but will assist in making Monday's rally a greater success. It is now expected that the capacity of the college auditorium will be taxed in handling the crowd.

Every organization in Manhattan and practically every one at the college will be represented in the gigantic street parade which will march from the business district of town to the college. The parade will be led by the college band, which will be followed, it is expected, by the college cadets, company I, K. N. G., the G. A. R., Elks, Masons, K. of P., Woodmen, Yeoman, Boy Scouts, Manhattan Military band, Manhattan Commercial club and other fraternal and social societies whose acceptance has not yet been received. Automobiles will be furnished for the members of the G. A. R. Col. L. R. Brady will marshal the parade, which is expected to number 4,000.

Major Rhodes, commandant at Fort Riley, has written that he will be present and Colonel Penn of Chicago, who will inspect the college cadets Tuesday, will arrive Monday evening. Dan D. Casement, temporary chairman, will arrive from New York Saturday.

SENDS BUGS TO THE COLLEGE.

W. Knaus, '82, Gives Rare Collection to Entomological Museum.

Warren Knaus of the class of 1882, Kansas State Agricultural college, has donated to the entomological museum of the college his valuable collection of coleoptera, or beetles.

Ever since he was a student in the college, Mr. Knaus, who is a McPherson newspaper man, has spent practically all his spare time and vacations in collecting and studying beetles. He has made many trips into the arid regions of Mexico, Arizona, Texas, and New Mexico, to collect insects. These trips have been productive of a great many new species. His collection contains a number of beetles that are only found in one or two museums in the world, and these were furnished by Mr. Knaus.

THE WAVE OF PATRIOTISM SWEEPS TOWN AND COLLEGE

MORE THAN 3500 STUDENTS AND TOWNSPEOPLE ATTEND RALLY.

The College Auditorium is Crowded to Capacity—Organize a Chapter of the American Red Cross Give Patriotic Speeches.

of the American Red Cross.

The spirit of patriotism reached its height in Manhattan when more than 3,500 loyal persons responded to the support of the patriotic rally held last night. Business men, women, children and college students alike met in the true spirit of Americanism when they formed the gigantic street parade and marched from the business district to the college.

The parade was marshalled by Col. L. R. Brady and led by the college cadet band. Every organization of the town and college was invited to take part. Following the band came the college cadets, Company I of the K. N. G., recruiting officers U. S. A., the two posts of the G. A. R., and various other organizations in the line of march.

Fill Auditorium.

After forming at the intersection of Fifth street and Poyntz avenue the patriotic procession marched through the residence section to the college auditorium. The seating capacity and standing room of the auditorium was filled to its fullest capacity by one of the largest citizen gatherings ever witnessed in Manhattan.

Patriotic speeches were given by men who have a thorough knowledge of the war situation and understand the need of national support in this crisis. Major Rhodes, commandant at Fort Riley, was present, and Colonel Penn, of Chicago, who will inspect the college cadets today.

Organize Red Cross Chapter.

Dan D. Casement was the chairman of the meeting and assisted in the installation of a chapter of the American Red Cross. A nurse of the Red Cross was present and explained the work of the association. Other work of aiding the country in its need was outlined and will be carried on at once.

The other speakers of the evening were ex-Governor E. W. Hoch, Father A. J. Luckey, Major Robbins of the United States army medical corps at Fort Riley, Miss Lula Kennedy, of the domestic science department, who explained nurse's aid work, and Miss Ann Cahoon, of the physical training department, who explained the first aid work.

Thief Enters Claude B. Harris' Room and Helps Himself.

The room of Claude B. Harris, 723 Moro, freshman in agriculture, was ransacked Friday evening and a suit case, two suits of clothes, an overcoat, three pairs of shoes, and various other articles of wearing apparel were taken. The landlady, Mrs. L. M. Cropp, noted a disturbance about 9 o'clock and stepped out into the hall as the person started down the stairs. It is thought that upon seeing her, the intruder stepped back into the room and remained until she returned to the dining room before attempting to leave. No notice was taken of the incident at the time as it was presumed the person was one of the roomers. Mr. Harris returned about 11 o'clock and reported the matter to the sheriff, turning over to him an illegible note which was left on the dresser. As yet the guilty party has not been apprehended.

BIG SISTER CONFERENCE SUNDAY
Plans for Next Year's Work Will be Made.

On Sunday, April 15, the Big Sisters of the Y. W. C. A. will hold a conference with their little sisters and faculty advisers. The purpose of this meeting is to summarize this year's work and to furnish inspiration for next year's plans. The conference will be held from 7:30 to 11 a. m. as follows:

Home economics hall, 7:30 to 8:30—Fruit, sandwiches and coffee.

8:30 to 9:30—Conference and talks in the rest room.

From 10 to 11—Special services at the Congregational church.

All freshmen girls are urged to attend whether or not they have had a big sister during the college year.

SECOND DEBATE SERIES FRIDAY.

Aggie Teams Meet Washburn and College of Emporia.

Next Friday night, April 13, the second series of the men's pentagonal debates will be held in the college auditorium. The negative team will remain at home to meet the affirmative team from Washburn college, and the Aggie affirmative team will go to meet the negative team of the College of Emporia at Emporia.

In the first series, the Aggie men met the teams from Baker and Ottawa universities and lost both ends of the series 3 to 0 to Ottawa and 2 to 1 to Baker. The debaters have been in constant training since the last debate and promise to put up a battle royal in the second series.

GIANTS WIN FROM TIGERS 3-1.

Well Known Stars Were Seen in Action Friday.

The New York Giants won a 3 to 1 over the Detroit Tigers in a pre-season exhibition game on the college field Friday. New York led off in the first inning with one run, made one more in the fifth and another in the seventh inning.

The regular lineup of both teams, including stars like Zimmerman, Kauff, Crawford and Tesreau, played. "Muggsy" McGraw and "Hughie" Jennings, probably the two best known managers in the major leagues were seen in action on the coaching lines.

Tesreau and Salle pitched for New York and Mitchell and Couch hurled for Detroit.

COLONEL PENN INSPECTS THE CADET CORPS TODAY

Captain Billard Will Fly From Topeka to Manhattan—Take Pictures for Path's Weekly.

Today the annual inspection of the college cadet corps will be made by Colonel Julius R. Penn, who arrived last night.

The cadets assembled at 8 o'clock this morning for regimental inspection. Battalion, company, platoon and squad drill are being given at the will of the inspector. At 1:30 this afternoon, the cadets will reassemble and give the following program: First battalion, advance guard; second battalion, outpost duty; third battalion, Company E, camp sanitation; Company F, digging trenches; Company G, field problem with ball and cartridges; Company H, field conveniences; engineer company, construction of a bridge; machine gun platoon assisting Company G.

At 8 o'clock this evening will be given a formal military ball in honor of Colonel Penn, who will be obliged to leave at 9:30 this evening for Lincoln, Neb., where he will inspect the Nebraska cadet corps.

For the past three years the college has won the coveted honor of "distinguished institution" in military drill, and it thought that the college stands an excellent chance of winning the honor again this year. The cadets have been drilling overtime during the past week, and drilled practically all day yesterday in preparation for the inspection.

A big feature of today, depending on weather conditions, will be the flight of Captain Phil Billard from Topeka to Manhattan in his flying machine. Captain Billard notified Captain Mathews that he intended to come today, but it was not learned at what time he expected to get here.

Besides moving pictures which will be taken of the cadet corps, inspection pictures will be taken which are to appear in the columns of Path's Weekly.

K. S. A. C. ENGINEERS TO GO INTO THE WORLD WAR

FACULTY MEMBERS AND STUDENTS APPLY FOR COMMISSIONS.

Big Firms Swamp Dean Potter's Office With Letters Asking for Engineering Students—Demand Exceeds Supply.

K. S. A. C. engineers and members of the engineering faculty will probably play an important role in the war with Germany, according to A. A. Potter, dean of the engineering division.

Several members of the engineering faculty have made applications for positions as officers in the officers reserve corps. Among those who have applied are: W. B. Wendt has made application for captain of artillery, H. B. Walker, captain of engineers corps; W. H. Sanders, captain of commissary; W. A. Buck, first lieutenant engineers corps; Ellis Hobbs, first lieutenant engineers corps. Dean Potter is now serving as director of industrial preparedness for Kansas and is also an associate member of the naval consulting board.

Students Make Applications.

Many engineering students have either made or are considering making applications for positions in the engineering corps. K. S. A. C. alumni who have had military training will also play an important part in this war is the opinion of Dean Potter. Many of the alumni are now reserve officers in the United States army.

An avalanche of letters from engineering firms asking for engineering students is pouring into Dean Potter's office. Considering the fact that it takes from three to six men working in the factory to equip and supply one soldier, it is considered that there will continue to be a dearth of engineers.

Demand Exceeds Supply.

That there will not be enough engineers to supply the demand within the next ten years is the belief of Dean Potter, who states that besides the numerous opportunities in the United States, foreign countries are offering a wide field of operation. It is stated that the Russian revolution will create a big demand for engineers.

Recently Doctor Moss, head of the research department of the General Electric company, Lynn, Mass., wrote Dean Potter asking for men for research work offering a salary of $70 for beginners in the work. W. S. Baxter, '13, who is now educational director for the Doherty interests visited the college recently looking for men to take up work with his company.

CRAWFORD WRITES A BULLETIN.

Is Third of Series Published on Journalism Subjects.

Professor N. A. Crawford, the head of the journalism department of the college, is the author of a bulletin entitled "Preparation for Editorial Work on Farm Papers," which has just been published. This is the third of a series of such bulletins which are being issued by the journalism department this year.

The bulletin is the result of a questionnaire on agricultural journalism which was sent to the managing editors of 146 farm papers in the United States last December. The purpose of the questionnaire was to obtain specific suggestions looking toward more efficient preparation of young men for agricultural journalism. The bulletin gives an interesting discussion of what the farm editors demand in the way of preparation and qualifications of those who contemplate entering the field of farm journalism.

Y. W. Holds Conference Banquet.

From 5:30 to 8:30 next Friday night the Y. W. C. A. will hold its annual conference banquet at the Congregational church to discuss and promote interest in this summer's camp at Hollister. Tickets will be on sale early in the week to all college girls. It is desired that reservations be made by Wednesday night.

Miss Lula May Zeller, freshman in general science spent the week end in Junction City where she attended the Gamma Tau Beta dance.

Miss Grace Lowe of Stockton, who taught the past year in a consolidated school at Delmar has enrolled for the spring term.

GIVE "MAN FROM HOME" AGAIN.

The townspeople of Manhattan have expressed a desire to see the play, "The Man from Home," presented by the public speaking department of the college during the musical festival week. It has been suggested that the play be given at one of the downtown theatres.

"We have not made any arrangements to present the play downtown as yet," said Charles R. Adamson, assistant in public speaking and dramatic coach, last night. "The same suggestion from downtown people has come to me, but I am unable to say whether or not the play will be presented again."

ICHABOD SONGSTERS HERE THUR.

Come Under Auspices of Military Department.

Next Thursday evening the glee club of Washburn college will present a musical program at the college auditorium. The first part of the program will consist of a regular concert and the second part will be an operetta.

The Washburn Glee club is making a tour of northern Kansas and Manhattan is one of the towns on the circuit. The program is given under the auspices of the college military department and the proceeds will be used to help pay for the construction of the hike house which is soon to be built by the cadet corps club.

TEACH PREPAREDNESS TO DOMESTIC ART STUDENTS

Instruction in Knitting the First Step Write Red Cross Society to Ascertain Needs.

Domestic art students of the Kansas State Agricultural college will be taught to knit as one step toward preparedness.

The students who cannot turn the heel and toe of a sock will learn the process. Knitting will include the making of bandages, surgical sponges, and chest protectors. The department of domestic art has written to the Red Cross society in order to ascertain the immediate needs.

A conference of instructors was held to discuss the need of greater economy in the use of textiles in the United States, and particularly in the Kansas State Agricultural college. This might be done, it was pointed out, by a more general use of cotton goods in place of silk non-essentials such as underwear, hose, and crepe de chine handkerchiefs; by simplified or uniform dress; preservation of clothing through care, renovation, and remodeling; preservation of all old clothing such as cotton cloth for hospital use and wool to be reweaved for army use; by saving old rubber and leather; and by using composition soles and cloth tops for shoes. Another suggestion was that knitting be taught in the schools throughout the country.

Statistics were read by Miss Mildred French, in charge of domestic art in the school of agriculture, showing the great need in this country for a campaign such as is being started at the agricultural college.

THE COLLEGIAN GIVES PRIZES.

Conducts Another News Story Contest This Spring.

Beginning immediately, the Collegian will conduct a contest similar to the one conducted during the past term, that is students may submit copy for publication in the student paper and at the end of the term, those having the greatest number of column inches published during the term will be awarded with free subscriptions to the Collegian.

The student ranking first will be given a year's subscription, the student ranking second a six month's subscription and the student ranking third a subscription of three months. The contest is open to all who desire to take part.

All copy submitted must be typewritten and must be turned in to the editor not later than 3:30 on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Where this is not possible, it must be in by 3:30 on Thursday and Monday afternoons if it is to appear in the succeeding issue of the Collegian.

Mrs. Jaye E. Brown of Garden City visited the first part of the week with her daughter, Miss Flossie Brown, junior in home economics.

Miss Vera Garvin, freshman in home economics, is out of college on account of the measles.

AGGIES DROP FIRST GAME TO TIGERS BY SCORE 3-11

THE GAME IS FEATURED BY 11 ERRORS BY THE HOME TEAM.

Hewey Pitched in Form but Failed to Receive Proper Support—Tigers Make Five Runs in Seventh Inning.

Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" had nothing on yesterday's Missouri Tiger-Kansas Aggie baseball battle, which the Tigers won 11 to 3. Eleven Aggie errors, nine of them by the Purple infielders, were important in enabling the visitors to win their first athletic victory of the 1916-17 season over a Clevelenger team.

Most of the Aggie bobbles came at critical times. "Dutch" Hewey pitched in form, and although he was touched for nine blows, the Tiger hits were so well scattered that he would probably have hurled himself to victory had his support been clean.

Missouri got off to an early lead. Stemmons, first up for the Tigers, smashed a single through second base. Dippold walked and Rutledge doubled over third base, bringing in both Stemmons and Dippold.

Get Two More.

Not contented with the two-run lead, the visitors sent two more runs across the plate in the second stanza. Morris, first up, drew a pass and stole second. Stemmons lived when Richardson juggled his grounder and Slusher drew the second walk of the inning, filling the bases. Giltner's Texas leaguer over second sent both Morris and Stemmons home.

The Aggies came back in the third, making their only scores of the game. After McLeod had walked, "Dutch" Hewey stepped into one of Giltner's fast ones for a timely single. Harvey was walked, filling the bases with no one out. Stemmons dropped a hot liner from Clark's bat, and McLeod scored. MacMillan muffed Reynold's grounder, allowing Hewey to score, and then dropped Sullivan's high fly, letting Clark cross the plate with the third Aggie run.

Hewey Pitches Fine.

Hewey settled down after the second inning and pitched an excellent brand of ball until the seventh, when three hits, a sacrifice fly and three errors gave the Tigers five runs. Missouri scored again in the ninth. A triple by Wooster, of the Aggies, batting for Richardson, sent a thrill into the Aggie rooters in the ninth.

The same teams play again today. McGrath will probably do the hurling for the Aggies. With the experience of yesterday's game, the Clevelenger men are granted an even chance of tying the series with the visitors, who have already played five games this year.

TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1917

THIS IS HOW IT ALL STARTED.

When Adam met Eve he was bashful and shy.

And he stammered and blushed every time he came nigh.

'Til at last he grew bold and began to pay court.

(You'll have to put faith in this report).

And he murmured to her on an even-serene.

"You're the prettiest girl that ever I've seen—"

And that's the way it all started.

When Eve with a beautiful blush on her face,

Yielded, shyly and sweetly, to Adam's embrace,

And put up her red lips for the true lover's pact

(You may set all this down as absolute fact),

She inquired, while he bather the fond names on his list.

"Have you said that to all the girls you have kissed?"

And that's the way it all started.

When Adam asked Eve if she would be his bride,

She looked up, she looked down.

She heaved and she sighed,

And she let him take hold of her lily white hand,

(This is history now as you'll understand);

Then she said in a voice that was dulcetly low:

"I must take time to think. 'Tis so sudden you know."

And that's the way it all started.

When they had been married a few years or so,

Then Adam told Eve: "We're invited to go

To a dinner and a dance with some friends down in Nod."

(This is truly authentic although it seems odd),

Eve replied with a sad and sorrowful air:

"I can't go. Don't you see I have nothing to wear?"

And that's the way it all started.

ANITA STEWART AS HEROINE.

Dainty Vitagraph Star Captivates In "The Girl Philippa."

Perhaps if the thousands of readers of the Robert W. Chambers story, "The Girl Philippa," which ran in the Cosmopolitan and in book form had been asked what motion picture star they would choose to play the title role of "Philippa," there would have been much hesitancy, for the role is very complex and difficult.

The readers would have racked their brains trying to think of the dainty star who could act the cashier in the cabaret, yet bespeak the lady. They would puzzle over who could best portray the whimsical little lady, utterly ignorant of conventionality.

However, with everything given due consideration, it is quite probable that dainty Anita Stewart of the Vitagraph would have eventually been chosen.

And wise the choice would have been, too, as she herself will prove by her wonderful characterization of the title role of the girl Philippa in the special eight part Vitagraph feature, which is at the Marshall theatre on Monday and Tuesday next.

SECOND PENTANGULAR SERIES TONIGHT

TIGERS WIN SECOND GAME FROM THE AGGIES 6 TO 1

McGRATH HOLDS MISSOURIANS UNTIL SEVENTH INNING.

Then the Visitors Scored Four Runs and Make Two More in the Eighth—Aggies Score in the Fifth.

Missouri made it two in a row by giving the Aggies a second trimming Tuesday. Opportune hitting on Missouri's part, coupled with ragged fielding and scattered hits by the Aggies, gave the visitors a 6 to 1 victory.

McGrath and his support started the game in great form. The first thirteen men to face the Aggie hurler were retired in quick order, not one of them reaching first base. But the fourteenth batter coming up in the middle of the fifth inning, cracked out a single, and from then on Missouri hits and Aggie errors were numerous, five of the former and four of the latter being made during the last half of the game.

Captain Harvey scored the first run of the contest, and the only one made by the Aggies. After having singled in the first and third innings and died on the paths, the Aggie leader in the fifth inning again reached first base when McMillan juggled a hot grounder. Harvey stole second and moved to third on Guilfoyle's out. Then Clark smashed a single over shortstop, and Harvey scored.

Missouri Lines Out Four. Two Missouri hits, one of them a triple by Dippold, two Aggie errors, a passed ball and a fielder's choice won the game for Missouri in the seventh inning, the same stanza in which they scored five runs in the first game. Before the Tigers could be stopped, four runs had come home.

The visitors came back in the eighth inning and made sure of the contest by scoring a brace of runs. Stemmons had the Aggies at his mercy in the final rounds of the game, and the Aggies never got a man past second base after the fifth.

Clark was the fielding star of the contest. He accepted without error seventeen chances at first base, a record number. Many of the wild heaves of the Aggie infielders would have been chalked up as errors had not Clark scooped, jumped or reached to the side to receive the throws.

McGrath's initial appearance as an Aggie hurler was far from disappointing. Throughout the game he pitched with a coolness and steadiness that would have done credit to any veteran. His feat of holding the visitors away from first base until the middle of the contest was a redeeming feature of the contest.

A new line-up with Wooster at second, McMillan in right field, Sullivan at shortstop, and Newton on third, worked like a charm until the Tigers got to McGrath in the fifth. Then the infielders began to boot the ball, and the Tigers began to score.

No Reply Yet—The Band's Services Will Probably be Accepted When the Call for Volunteers is Made.

Old Glory will not lack the support of the college band in the war with Germany.

A unit of 28 men has offered its services to the government under the leadership of Burr H. Ozment, director of the college band. Notice to this effect has been sent to the war department at Washington by Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets at the college.

When asked if he had received an answer from the war department, Captain Mathews stated that he had not yet received a reply. He declared, however, that when the first unit of volunteers was called the offer of the band's services would be accepted.

"The college band is in fine shape and is doing good work," says Captain Mathews. "It is in better condition now than it has been since I came to this institution."

Ozment is Experienced.

Mr. Ozment has directed the college military band for a number of years and has also had charge of the Manhattan City band for several seasons. Mr. Ozment has had years of experience with military bands at the college here, the University of Missouri, and at military academies besides having served as bandmaster in the regular army for a number of years.

Wednesday Captain Mathews sent in the application of 17 men for the position as assistant paymaster in the navy who will have charge of the payment of the men aboard ship and overseeing of the ship supplies.

President H. J. Waters has asked for a division of the officers' reserve training corps at K. S. A. C. and there is no doubt but that the request will be granted according to Captain Mathews. This will lend importance to the military department and more military equipment will be placed in the college it is stated.

COLLEGE CHEMISTS GO TO K. C.

Several Appear on Program at Annual Meeting.

The 54th annual meeting of the American Chemical society is now in session at the Muebach hotel at Kansas City. The meetings began Tuesday, April 10, and end Saturday, April 14. The program consists of papers and lectures by the members of the society and trips through the various industrial plants in the vicinity of the city.

Almost all the members of the department of chemistry of the college are in attendance. J. T. Willard, dean of the division of general science, is a member of the finance committee. C. O. Swanson, associate professor of chemistry and H. F. Zoller, instructor of chemistry, take part on the program. W. N. Shokrup, of the '15 class, will give a paper on water purification.

THE WAR ENTHUSES THE CADETS

Many Apply for Commissions in Officers' Reserve Corps.

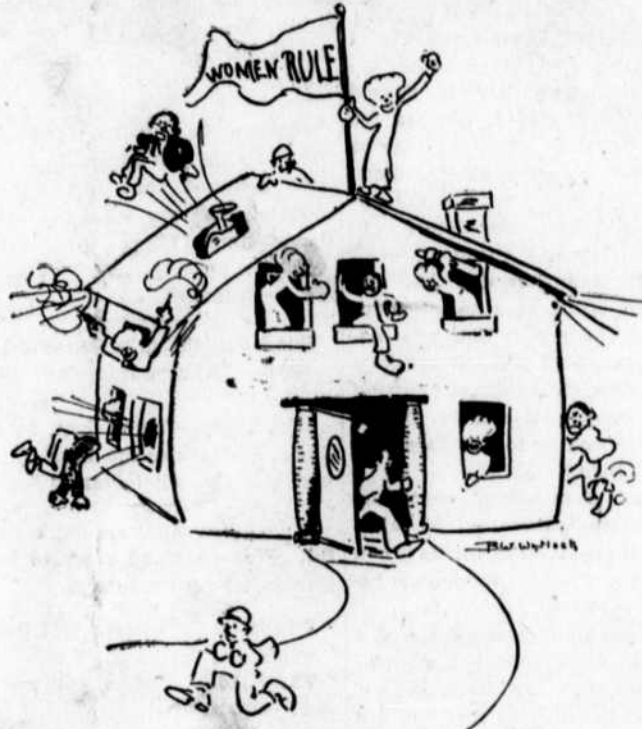

Forty application blanks for commissions in the officers' reserve corps have been distributed by Captain L. O. Mathews.

"All but two or three applicants were students or instructors," said Captain Mathews.

When asked whether the war was having any effect upon the military department he replied: "Yes, there seems to be more enthusiasm among the cadets. The shortage of officers in the army necessitates that more emphasis be placed upon the training of officers."

Captain Mathews has established a rest room for officers in the room next to his office. Here he has placed reading matter pertaining to the officers' reserve corps and has marked the sections to be read. All those interested are at liberty to make use of these articles.

Juniors Elect Suffragettes

"When Johnny goes marching off to war—" Well in case such a thing should happen, the boys of the junior class didn't like the idea of home affairs going to rack and ruin and so insisted upon the election of a straight suffragette ticket for class officers this term.

This is the first time in the history of the present junior class that the co-eds have been wholly in power. Miss Hazel Merillat, elected Tuesday, is the first girl to hold the office of president in this class. The other officers: Vice president, Irma Boerner; secretary, Alice Neiman; treasurer, Frances Stall; marshal, Dorothy Skinner; assistant marshal, Margaret King; class scribe, Rosalie Godfrey.

THREE GET COMMISSIONS IN THE RESERVE CORPS

K. S. A. C. Passes 100 Per Cent of Representatives—Kenyon, Sellon and Vandenburg Join.

Keith Kenyon, John Sellon and H. Vandenburg went to Chicago last week end to take a physical examination for second lieutenant in the United States marine corps. Each man passed a successful examination, and received his commission while there. Mr. Kenyon and Mr. Sellon returned to Manhattan, having been granted a furlough until they receive their diplomas. Mr. Vandenburg went immediately to Washington, D. C., to receive training before going into service.

Of the seven distinguished institutions represented the Kansas State Agricultural college was the only one that passed 100 per cent. Out of the 28 men that appeared for the examination only eight passed inspection. The three representatives from this college are among the eight.

Keith Kenyon is major of the first battalion, a member of the Tri-Epsilon fraternity, Scabbard and Blade and Webster Literary society and senior in general science.

John Sellon is a member of the Aztec fraternity, Scabbard and Blade. Mr. Sellon is a senior in general science.

H. Vandenburg was graduated in the class of '16. He was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and for two years a member of the varsity track team.

Has Flag With Only 21 Stars.

How many persons have noticed that the large flag flying in front of J. M. Correll's home at 1030 Laramie, contains only 21 stars in the blue field? It has been in Mr. Correll's family since the early twenties, or after the admission of Missouri to the union, March 2, 1821, as the twenty-fourth state. A cane containing a very small but distinct picture of Agricultural hall at Centennial exposition in 1876, is another historic relic of the family.

Musical Concert at Cafeteria.

A musical program was rendered at the cafeteria Monday evening during the supper hour by members of Professor A. E. Westbrook's music class.

The dining room was decorated with flags and flowers. Those taking part in the program were: E. L. Moore, solo; Bess Curry, solo; Howard O'Brien, solo; L. M. Hanna, cello solo; Roy Carr, violin solo; Lucille Lockwood, solo; Paul Carnahan, solo; Rex Maupin, cornet solo. Mrs. Gertie Cope acted as pianist. The 250 persons who were served were well pleased with the music.

THE AGGIE TEAMS MEET

WASHBURN AND C. OF E.

THIS IS THE LAST MEN'S DEBATE OF THE SEASON.

The Aggie Negative Meets the Washburn Affirmative Here—The Battle of Words Promises to be Hotly Contested.

Tonight at the college auditorium will be held the second and last debate of the Pentangular series on the minimum wage question. This is also the last men's debate of the season.

This time the K. S. A. C. negative team, composed of P. L. Findley, junior, L. R. Hiatt, senior, and G. J. Medlin, freshman, will remain at home to meet the Washburn affirmative team; while the K. S. A. C. affirmative team, composed of Fred Carp, junior, W. A. Wunsch, senior, and Floyd Hawkins, junior, will go to Emporia to meet negative team of the College of Emporia at that place.

The judges who will decide the contest here tonight are C. E. St. John, assistant state superintendent of instruction; W. S. Hensner, superintendent of schools, Salina; and T. A. McNeal, of the Capper publications, Topeka.

After the debate, a reception will be given by Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity, for the visiting debaters, judges, and Zeta Kappa Psi, girls' forensic fraternity.

Aggies Lost Before.

The first debate of the pentangular series was held two weeks ago at which time the Aggie affirmative team was defeated by the Baker negative in a 2 to 1 decision, while the Aggie negative team which met the Ottawa university affirmative at Ottawa was defeated by a 3 to 0 decision.

In this first series of debates, both of Baker's and Washburn's teams won, thus tying these two schools for first place. Ottawa won one set of decisions and lost one, thus giving this school second rank, while the College of Emporia and K. S. A. C. lost both ends of their debates thus tying for the cellar positions.

Since the first debates, the Aggie teams have been working hard and consistently, and it is expected that they will make a considerably better showing than in the last contests.

"The men have been doing exceptionally fine work in practice lately," says Don L. Burk, coach of debate at this institution. "They are going to put up a lively fight tonight, and we may expect them to bring home the bacon."

CASE SPEAKS TO THE ENGINEERS

Prominent Neb. U. professor Tells of Ag. Engineering.

Professor L. W. Case, head of the department of agricultural engineering at Nebraska university, spoke to the engineering seminar Thursday afternoon on "The Advantages of the Agricultural Engineering."

Professor Case showed to the engineering students the increasing field of the agricultural engineer and the greater advantages that are to be secured in that division of engineering today. He gave to the seminar figures of the salaries that are being received by agricultural engineers and how the average salary is being increased.

Professor Case is a pioneer and leader in agricultural engineering. He is a past president of the American society of agricultural engineers and past grand president of the Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity. Since he has been in Nebraska university that institution was the first in the United States to grant a degree in agricultural engineering. Since Professor Case has taken the head of the department of agricultural engineering in that college it has become one of the best equipped departments in the United States.

A banquet was held in Harrison's hall last night by the local chapter of the Sigma Tau in honor of Professor Case.

Miss Betty Hart, freshman in home economics, will spend the week end at her home in Topeka.

Kiser Is the New A. H. Man.

The department of animal husbandry has secured the services of R. W. Kiser, '14. He will have the title of superintendent of land and live stock.

Mr. Kiser will have absolute charge of the labor, land and live stock of the department, which is not under experiment condition. Mr. Kiser will have an office in the stone barn of the college.

MEN WANTED FOR THE TRACK TEAM.

It is the desire of both the Aggie coaches that more athletes turn out for track. At present there are few new men and only a few of the last year's team on the squad.

There is now on this year's squad only four of the victorious team of 1915. Since that time this branch of college athletics has lacked support and the result has been the loss of several real stars by going to other schools.

The Aggie track schedule is light this year when compared to what it has been in former years. The first meet comes April 28, with Baker on the home field. May 4, the team meets K. U. at Lawrence. The third and last meet is with the Kansas Normals on the college field.

THIEVES STILL AT WORK.

Graded laboratory note books have been reported stolen from the forage crops department. The books are placed in the laboratory and there is no guarantee that the owners will get their books. Students having well graded books have had them stolen. If the thieves who take these books would leave theirs in exchange it would be appreciated by those who are left "holding the sack."

A Freshman's Dilemma

"The struggles and agony of the guy who is working his way through college exist in novelettes written by boob writers more than they do in the mind of the fellow who is turning the trick," said the senior who had worked his way, as he reached for his pipe.

"But look at the college activities in which he is denied a part," protested the freshman who had tried working his way for one term and was about to give up in despair. "You have to be on the jump all the time while the other fellow has time for tennis, hiking, and dancing."

"Oh, cheese that stuff!" the student who had worked his way exasperated. "Of course a student who is w. h. w. has not the time for all the pleasures that he could enjoy. But he has a mighty big advantage over the fellow who isn't. He is held down to regarding the practical side of his school life. He has to. He realizes that if he does not get something that will be a financial asset later on that he had better quit and earn a full wage. The guy who is getting his check every month sometimes forgets that. I've known dozens of 'em who have."

"But the social side of college is just as important a part of a college education—meeting people and all that," contended the frosh.

"Sure it is. I wouldn't give two whoops for the grind who is so wrapped up in himself that he could not break away for some social stuff. But what I am saying is that you show a decided inclination to specialize in it. That does not go with earning your expenses. You have tried in your brief career of three months to emulate the social elite of our college community who haunt the popular restaurant and front porches at every opportunity and then study if they have time. And you have apparently been ashamed of the fact that you had to wash dishes and do a little other work on the side."

"Well the guys look down on you just a little if you do let them know it," rejoined the frosh, heatedly.

"Hang 'the guys,'" ejaculated the senior who had w. h. w. "You got all peeved because I told the fellows from the fraternity that was rushing you that you had not got back from washing dishes one evening when you had told me to tell them, in case they called for you, that you were up town. You've got the wrong idea, little one. I've known lots of frat guys during my decade in college. Surprising as it may be to you, they are a common lot of people who sometimes work themselves. And some of them wash dishes, and run typewriters, and milk cows, and do other kinds of real manual labor. Of course they make a mistake once in awhile and take in a fool like you who was born without the proverbial silver spoon or a backbone. The guy who looks down on you, because you work, is so small that he can be disregarded by any honest man."

"But that is not saying that the fellow who w. h. w. does not have to stay outside the bunch who are really enjoying their college life," retorted the angry frosh. What pleasure is it for a fellow to be at it from six in the morning until after dinner in the evening and then have to study until midnight lots of times. I don't see where the chance for getting in on the social side is."

"Did you come to college with the intention of absorbing knowledge?" asked the senior. "Didn't you expect to make some sacrifice for the opportunity that was literally shoved right under your nose? And as for pleasure. Why, it's more pleasure to wrestle with an interesting college subject, to feel that you have the approbation of your instructors, to know that you are fitting yourself for a specific line of service than any evening ever spent at a social function. When you get so that you dislike to leave your work to go to a social function, instead of putting them first, you'll be a student. Otherwise, you will belong to the class who just stick around."

"Your idea of pleasure," continued the senior, "is pleasure gained without effort—little staccato thrills when a rapid, drug store countenance returns a coquettish smile for you cheap wit, the fool pleasantries of a co-ed whose folks sent her to college because they got tired of her at home and the illusion that you are becoming cultured because you have learned to turkey trot and one step."

"And by the way, that girl that you called up last night to tell that your brother was here is going to find out in a day or two that you had the other girl at the dance and that will upset you for finals and rob you of some more pleasure."

"Your idea of pleasure is as spineless as your attitude toward the fellows that you say look down on you for working your way. Now, say, are you sure that you are not a long lost heir? But really, freshie, if that's your idea of pleasure and the lack of that makes you become discouraged, you'd better give up the idea of ever becoming educated and not prolong the agony for four years. For once you arrive in the inner circle of the select group toward which you aspire, you'll find—nothing," and the senior who had w. h. w. applied a match to his cold pipe.

The frosh took his advice.

The Fraternity Pup

I am the fraternity "pup." As I lie here before the open fireplace, head on forepaws, watching the dying embers, I am reminded that I am growing old. Mine has been an easy life. Never have I had to worry about my next meal or my bed for the night.

Well, I do remember the day when as a puppy I was presented to "the boys" by one of the "old men." Little did I dream then of the events that were to be milestones in my future life. I have seen pledges come and go—pass into seniority and then out into the world, bearing the stamp of their fraternity. The return to the "house" of these old men is hailed with pleasure by myself and the rest of "the boys."

I have had to do the bidding of many masters—but I have tried never to show partiality. Still I have my favorites. My only hardship is my weekly bath. To be forced to stand in a bath tub, submitting to a scrubbing by an obstreperous pledge, is an indignity. I retaliate by rolling in the dirt as soon as I am out of the house. Occasionally I get the roving fever, inherited from my ancestors, and run away. A three or four days' spree is enough and I am always glad to return.

My greatest pleasure is hiking. I will follow a knapsack, a greasy skillet, tin cups, anything with the odor of a campfire about it, anywhere and in any kind of weather. I love the freedom of the open country, the frying bacon, the odor of steaming coffee and the pleasant warmth of the fire. Also I know that a well behaved dog keeps his nose out of frying-pans, or utensils of any kind. I am rewarded for my wisdom with a feed, when my masters have satisfied their hunger.

Everybody wants to take my picture. Always wanting me to pose, when I want to be running about. I always consent, especially if some pretty co-ed sits with her arm about my neck. Still, I think kodaking awfully boring.

Next to hiking I like to fight. I know I shouldn't, but it's in a bulldog's blood. For this reason the boys rarely allow me to follow them about town. I have yet to meet a rival who can defeat me. Probably I will some day for I am growing old—but, so far, so good.

I hear the scraping of chairs, which means that dinner is over, and that the cook has a big plate of leftovers for me, so I'm off for the kitchen.

An Irishman but a short time in this country, and was unaccustomed to the names of various articles put forth at the average boarding house, was served "Hash." When it was brought he carefully surveyed it and said, "Here, take this back and let the fellow eat it who chewed it. I won't."

In Society

A wedding of interest both in college and town circles took place at the home of the Rev. Edward J. Kulp of Topeka, when Miss Ida E. Rigney became the bride of Mr. Fred C. Migliario.

The reason for the wedding taking place at Topeka was due to the illness of Mr. Migliario's mother. The bride was beautifully gowned in wisteria silk taffeta embroidered in gold braid. After the wedding the couple returned to Manhattan where Mrs. I. N. Rigney, mother of Mrs. Migliario, gave an elaborate wedding dinner for the immediate family. Mr. and Mrs. Migliario left Wednesday evening for New York City. They will later return to Topeka where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Migliario is a graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural college and later became instructor of domestic science in this institution where she has taught until recently. She was popular among the faculty and the student body and will be missed by her many friends.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mary Teresa Degan of Atchison and Mr. George I. Walsh, the marriage to take place April 17. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Degan. She was born and reared in Atchison and educated at Mount St. Scholastica's academy. She is one of Atchison's most attractive and accomplished young girls. The groom is a graduate of the county high school at Effingham and the Kansas Agricultural college at Manhattan. He is engaged in the insurance business with headquarters in Wichita, and is a young business man of genuine ability.—Atchison Daily Globe.

While in the city they will visit the Armour packing house, Loose-Wiles Biscuit company and confectionery. Monday evening the girls will attend a local theatre and hear the Galli church singer. K. S. A. C. CO-EDS WANT TO BE RED CROSS NURSES

More Than 100 Have Requested to be Enrolled in the Classes now Being Organized.

The K. S. A. C. co-eds are not to be outdone when it comes to Loyalty. As an outcome of the organization of the Red Cross chapter here Monday night more than 100 girls have sent in their names with requests to be enrolled in the Red Cross classes now being organized.

A class of "First Aid to the Injured" was formed Tuesday, with a membership of twenty-five. Already enough names have come in to warrant the formation of another class in "First Aid." Then another class, "Elementary Hygiene and Home Care of the Sick" has an enrollment of twenty with as many more waiting for arrangements for another class. These classes meet twice a week. The one in "First Aid" meets on Saturday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock and on Monday evening from 7 until 8:30. "Elementary Hygiene and Care of Sick" is held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

The course in First Aid comprises ten lessons and the one in Elementary Hygiene fifteen lessons. All physicians and nurses who teach these courses must be approved by the Red Cross Department at Washington. Miss Lulu Kennedy, instructor in domestic science, is the only Red Cross nurse in Manhattan, and only has the time for one class, so that the second class in Elementary Hygiene will be delayed until the approval of an instructor can be secured from Washington. The courses consist of lectures and practical demonstrations. Having completed the work the girls will be given certificates. To receive a certificate the member must attend eighty per cent of the lectures and pass the final examination.

An impression has gone out that in taking this work the girl pledges herself to serve in the army hospitals. This is not the case. She will not be called at all unless she sends her name in to the bureau of nursing service at Washington. In that case her name would be placed on the available list, and she would be pledged to answer a call any time within two years.

Some of the girls are taking the Red Cross work that they may enroll in the base hospitals during the war if they are needed. The majority are taking it that they may be of service at home and get the benefit of the practical instruction. Names for the organization of a third set of classes have begun coming in. Miss Anne Cahoon, Miss Lulu Kennedy, and Mrs. W. A. Cochel have charge of the formation of the classes.

K. S. A. C. RANKS THIRD CLASS.

Because It Doesn't Have an Officers' Reserve Corps.

Contrary to general understanding the Kansas State Agricultural college ranks in the third class of educational institutions, according to Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets.

All land grant colleges having a reserve officers' corps constitute the senior division or first class. There are 38 such institutions. The second class or junior division is composed of all secondary schools such as high schools and academies having an officers' reserve corps. The third class includes all schools not having an officers' reserve corps. K. S. A. C. comes under this last classification.

"We do not know how this will affect us as considered by the war department," said Captain Mathews. "This army classification may be the cause of our losing the title of distinguished institution."

Deans of Women Convene.

The deans of women of the various educational institutions of the state held a convention at the college Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The convention was held under the direction and supervision of Mrs. Mary P. Van Zile. The convention proved one of great interest to those who attended.

The delegates in attendance were Mrs. Philblad, of Bethany, Mrs. Mitchell, of the manual training school at Pittsburg, Mrs. Brown, of K. U., Miss Twiss, of Washburn, Miss Whitney, state normal, Miss Riddell, College of Emporia, and Mrs. Mary P. Van Zile, of this college.

Scabbard and Blade Pledges Twelve.

Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, has pledged the following cadets: Captains F. C. Dickinson, H. Pearson, E. F. Whedon, Fred Carp, H. I. Hollister and W. G. Bruce; first lieutenants, A. A. Grant, C. E. Sawyer, L. V. Ritter and T. F. Bright; second lieutenants, E. F. Wheatley and H. J. Henney.

Initiation for these pledges will be held Saturday night, April 14.

GERMANY WANTS RECRUITS.

New Men Will be Drilled on K. S. A. C. Campus, Says Schulz.

"Germany's" forces will mobilize this afternoon on American soil. Special drills will be held in preparation for an offensive to be begun next fall. This information came to the Collegian yesterday afternoon from what is believed to be an authentic source.

When confronted yesterday with the report, Kaiser Adolph Schulz finally broke down and confessed.

"Yes, I am issuing uniforms today," said Adolph, the German consul at Manhattan. "I expect all the veterans to be out this afternoon, and I am especially anxious to secure new recruits. Conscription will not be resorted to until the volunteer system has proven itself to be a failure. The first drill will be held at 4 o'clock on the campus."

Later—it has developed that the "Germany" Schulz referred to above is football coach at K. S. A. C., and that his call for material was only for spring football practice, and not for the purpose of opposing Uncle Sam.

AN INTERESTING CHAPEL MAY 15.

Farce-Comedy Will be Given by Public Speaking Department.

The assembly program for May 15 will be in charge of the department of public speaking. A pleasing and novel program will be presented in the form of a farce comedy. This will be the first program of such nature to be given at assembly by the department of public speaking.

Any student of the college may take part in the comedy. All those who wish to participate should see Miss Margaret Hale, assistant instructor in the department of public speaking, at once.

Students Leave School.

Among those who are not back or have withdrawn from college are James L. Estlack, sophomore in mechanical engineering; R. Hinde, junior in agronomy; Fred D. Allison, sophomore in agriculture; Orval S. Brower, freshman in agriculture; Carl Childress, school of agriculture; R. D. Medlin, sophomore in agriculture, and M. Wentz, sophomore in general science; C. E. Curtis, senior in general science; Arthur Brown, freshman in agriculture; J. J. Seright, school of agriculture; Glen Lee, sophomore in general science.

TREASON IS DEATH.

Kansas Laws Are the Most Severe of All.

This state has a set of "patriotic laws" which are probably the most rigid of any group of similar statutes in the Union. The only death penalty provided for in Kansas legislation is attached to the statute against treason, the most serious offense, in the eyes of the law, that can be committed.

Twenty-five to one hundred dollars fine is the punishment for wearing a flag, badge, or other insignia of any country at war with the United States. Raising or assisting to raise an enemy flag comes under the same law.

Any Kansan joining a revolutionary society, or apprehended furnishing arms or military stores to revolutionists or foreign enemies of the government incur a prison term of not less than one year or more than 10.

Any person within the boundaries of the state suspected of aiding in any form of treason may be apprehended, and if found guilty may be imprisoned one to 10 years.

"WHERE'S YOUR MILLION?"

An old sailor met a nice old gentleman and asked him for the loan of a match. The nice old gentleman did not use tobacco in any form and thought this a fine chance to do a little preaching.

"See here, my friend, how old a man are you?" asked the old gentleman.

"I'm 70," replied the old salt.

"And how long have you used the filthy weed?" continued the n. o. g.

"Ever since I was 15," said the sailor.

"And how much do you use per day?"

"Oh, about a quarter's worth."

"Twenty-five cents' worth a day for 60 years," shouted the n. o. g. "Why do you know, sir, that at 10 per cent compound interest with that sum you would be worth a million to-day?"

"Is that so?" asked the salt—"say how old are you?"

"I'm 75," said the n. o. g. "And I've never used the filthy stuff."

"Well," asked the old sailor, "where's your million?"

And the evening shades were gently falling.

WASHBURN GLEE CLUB

OUTSINGS MICH. U. CLUB

The Washburn Glee Club, which gave a concert here last night in the college auditorium for the benefit of the college cadet corps, is without a doubt the best club ever turned out at that school. Daniel Muller, head of the Daniel Muller School of Music, has pronounced it better than Michigan which has been known as the best in the west for years.

Their concert is different from the ordinary in that the second half is a take-off on grand opera in rag time and has scored a big hit in the many cities in this state where it has been given. The first part of the program is well balanced with a goodly number of excellent selections.

The military department is planning to use the funds raised for the building of a hiking house on the river for the use of the cadets. About $200 has already been raised and it is hoped that the proceeds from this concert will make a substantial addition to this fund.

W. J. KING AN ENGINEER FOR LABETTE COUNTY

W. J. King, who for the last four years has been assistant drainage engineer with the office of state engineer, has been appointed county highway engineer of Labette county. Up to date the following appointments have been made under the provisions of this bill: Atchison county, R. D. Coleman; Saline county, Mr. Harvey, a graduate of Kansas university; Nemaha county, Lyle Price. Mr. Price, Mr. Coleman and Mr. King are graduates of the Kansas State Agricultural college. Mr. King's appointment carries with it a salary of $2,000 per year and transportation. He leaves for Parsons to report for work April 23.

About Former Manhattan Boy.

Ray Anderson of Chicago, a former Manhattan boy, attended the Presbytery at Topeka this week where he was examined and licensed by the presbytery of Topeka, previous to ordination, which will be held at the Presbyterian church May 2. Mr. Anderson's many Manhattan friends will be pleased to learn of his success.

Louis Zimmerman, senior at K. S. A. C., was appointed by the Presbytery to work under the rural life commission, which is superintended by Dr. Warren H. Wilson.

APPOINT MORE AGGIES TO THE MARINE CORPS

Word has been received by Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of the military department at the college, that he may appoint two more Aggie students for vacancies in positions of second lieutenant in the marine corps. Captain Mathews also has received notice that eight more applicants for the marine corps reserve may be appointed from the college.

HEALTH LITERATURE DISPLAY.

The display of placards and literature pertaining to public health work, which the county health department will send to the annual convention of health officers at Kansas City next week, is on exhibition in the corridor of the court house. The public is invited to see it.

The display will be packed next Monday morning and sent to Kansas City. The county health officer urges all Manhattan people to see it before it is sent away.

SACRIFICE 25 HORSES
EACH YEAR FOR VETS.

ANIMALS COST $5 EACH ON AN AVERAGE.

Good Animals Are Used Except That They Are So Old That They Are No Longer Useful.

An average of 25 horses are sacrificed annually by the department of veterinary medicine on the altar of veterinary science. These are perfectly good animals, except that in practically all cases they have reached an age which places them on the debit, rather than on the credit side of usefulness. No diseased or dead animals are used.

The horses average $5 in cost. They are higher in the early fall and spring months, because feed, especially pasturage is more plentiful then and all horses may be needed for farm work. Horses used weigh from 800 to 1,000 pounds and are usually thin in flesh.

Old horses from Manhattan or neighboring farms are purchased. Horses which have been used to produce blackleg serum are occasionally obtained from the serum plant. The department rarely purchases more than it can use at one time. Horses dying a natural death are never used.

Not a Slaughter House. The horses are killed by bleeding. They are thrown and an incision made in the carotid artery. A tube is inserted to keep the incision open. Sometimes the blood is caught for further use. This work is done in a clean manner and does not suggest a slaughter house.

Blood taken from the animal is equal to about 4 per cent of the body weight. All the blood in the body is supposed to be equal to 8 per cent of the animal's weight, but it is not all obtained.

Seven to ten gallons of formaldehyde are used in the preservation of the bodies. The formaldehyde solution is one part of 40 per cent and four parts of water. Horses preserved in this manner can be kept for a month or six weeks. They could be kept longer, but the bodies dry out rapidly.

A colored starch solution is injected into the blood vessels, so that they may be studied to better advantage. Both the formaldehyde and starch solutions are injected by means of pressure from a gravity tank.

One Animal for Twelve Men.

When studying the muscles of a horse the men work in groups of four—two on each side of the animal. There are three groups. Group No. 1 works on the head and neck, group No. 2 works on the forelimb and chest, while group No. 3 works on the hindlimb and abdomen, making twelve men in all.

On the next animal, group No. 1 works where group No. 2 worked before, group No. 2 works where group No. 3 worked before and group No. 3 takes the place of group No. 1. On the third animal the groups make one more change, thus giving each man a chance to dissect all muscles in the body. The study of the muscles takes three horses. The men use three more horses in studying the blood vessels and nerves, so that twelve men use six horses in their study of the muscles, blood vessels and nerves.

WILL PLAY "A PAIR OF SIXES."

To Be Staged by the Seniors This Spring Term.

"A Pair of Sixes" will be presented by the senior class, commencement week, according to Chas. R. Adamson, assistant in public speaking. This is a standard play by the well known author, Edward Pepple, whose production "The Little Rebel" is even better known.

The parts will arrive in a few days and will be given out to members of the senior class who wish to try out. The tryouts will begin at once and the cast chosen within the first few weeks of the term so that the remainder may be devoted to bringing out the fine points in presentation.

THE COLLEGE GROWS BANANAS.

First Bunch of Homegrown Fruit Will Soon Be Ripe.

Home grown bananas will soon be ripe, promises W. C. Culvert, greenhouse foreman. A large stalk is now hanging in the salesroom of the dairy building. As soon as they are ripe they will be sold at a fancy price to those having a curious taste.

The fruit is one of the commercial varieties such as one is accustomed to seeing. The plant has grown to a height of 12 feet and matured its single bunch of fruit in 18 months. The bunch is almost as large as those southern grown. It has 10 hands of medium sized bananas, two dozen to the hand.

STUDENTS MISSING SOMETHING
Should Join Officers Reserve Corps in Captain Mathews' Opinion.

Students are missing a splendid opportunity in not joining the officers' reserve training corps in the opinion of Captain L. O. Mathews, professor of military science in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Members of the junior and senior classes who are eligible to the officers' reserve, may be forced to serve as privates, if the recent draft law as proposed by congress goes into effect.

The privilege of enlisting in the officers' reserve is extended to the land grant colleges. Only Juniors and seniors who have completed the required two years' training, are eligible.

Before being admitted to the reserve, each applicant is required to pass a thorough physical examination and also a mental test over the fundamental principles of military science. Each applicant who successfully passes the required examination is required to spend fifteen days in summer encampment at a military post for the five years succeeding his enlistment. During this time he is paid at the same rate as the regular army officers, which is $1,700 per annum for second lieutenants, and $2,400 for captains.

Reservists are not subject to call, except in time of war or other national crisis.

The Mean Thing.

Young Man—"Is anyone taking you out to dinner tonight?"

Maggie, (expectedly)—"No."

Young Man—"You'll be awful hungry by tomorrow, won't you?"

"THE FLYING TORPEDO."

In this play John Emerson is truly delightful in the unique characterization of an amateur detective-novelist. The story has to do with an imaginary war menace in the year 1920, with the friend of the novelist inventing a wonderful wireless controlled flying torpedo. At the Wareham theatre this afternoon and evening.

"BRIDGES BURNED."

There is a new love appeal in this production—one that strikes at the heartstrings even more graceful than did "The Black Butterfly." In this you see Mme. Petrova as an Irish lass of the independent nature. She is beautiful, sympathetic and affectionate. At the Wareham theatre Saturday.

"AND THE LAW SAYS."

This decidedly well acted piece in which Richard Bennett, the star of "Damaged Goods" gives a splendid character portrayal. The play is a strong argument against conviction on circumstantial evidence. At the Marshall theatre this afternoon and tonight.

MANHATTAN, KANSAS

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

VOLUME 28 NUMBER 35

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

PICTURES WILL BE TAKEN OF COLLEGE AND CAMPUS

TOWER EAST OF ANDERSON BUILT FOR THIS PURPOSE.

Pictures Will Be Used for Advertising Purposes—Cadets and Coeds Will Probably Be Snapped, Too.

The Kansas State Agricultural college is to have its picture taken. A 65 foot tower from which the camera man will take the photographs has been built east of Anderson hall.

The college has never had its picture taken in the proper pose. The views have always been taken from the top of some building where only a part of all the buildings could be seen, or from the water tower which gives only a back view. Recently M. G. Burton, director of home study, division of college extension, wanted a picture of the college for publicity purposes. Since a good one was not available, he decided to build a tower and have a real picture made.

Take Several Pictures.

"The tower is going to remain standing for three or four weeks and in that time we are going to take several pictures of the college and different college activities," said M. G. Burton, director of home study. "We intend to take moving pictures of the cadets and of the students going to and from chapel. If we can get the right co-operation of the college we hope to take moving pictures of other drills which will be arranged for. We will take one picture of the campus by moonlight which will make a very attractive view."

The college has all rights and privileges of the pictures which will be taken. Lantern slides and reels of moving pictures will be made and sent out over the state for the general publicity of the college. One group of pictures will be sent to R. O. Evans, Chart company of Chicago. This company is making an agricultural chart of the United States and all the agricultural colleges of the country are being given space.

Holt, photographer, will take all the pictures and has the exclusive right of the tower.

A panoramic view will be taken of all the buildings and the campus. Moving pictures will be made showing students on their way to morning classes and going to and from chapel. The cadet corps will be snapped in action, the sheep grazing on the campus will be shown, and possibly the girls of the division of home economics will be taken while on parade. One view will show the cadets in "K. S. A. C." formation.

Since it is the intention of Mr. Burton to secure several good pictures of the college, the tower will remain intact until the pictures, which will be taken soon as conditions permit, have been developed and approved.

THE JUNIOR GIRLS VISIT K. C.

Go to Inspect the Food Supply Plants and Packing Houses.

Forty junior girls enrolled in the food and nutrition classes left Monday morning for Kansas City where they will spend two days inspecting food supply plants and packing houses.

The girls were chaperoned by Miss Margaret Haggart, professor of domestic science, Miss Loula Kennedy, and Miss J. L. Cox. The party will stop at the Hotel Meubach. The establishments to be visited are the Looze-Wiles Biscuit company, the Lee Mercantile Wholesale grocery, the National Biscuit company, Armour's and the new northeast high school. Monday the girls were given a luncheon by the Lee Mercantile company. Reservations have been made for the party to attend Galli Church this afternoon. They will return tonight.

Another division of the junior home economics girls will make the same trip some time later in April.

Military Ball Friday Evening.

The formal military ball that was postponed on account of the departure of Colonel J. R. Penn will be given in Harrison's hall next Friday evening, April 20.

Tickets will be placed on sale by the captains of the various companies today. The price is $1 each. The committee expects a large sale of tickets since this event is one of the important exclusive military social events of the season.

AGGIES TRIM NORMALS.
Emporia, April 16.—The Kansas Aggies won an 8 to 3 victory over the Emporia Normals here this afternoon.

COLLEGE MEN ON STATE COUNCIL

Waters, Jardine and Johnson to Give Advice on War Matters.

President H. J. Waters, Dean W. M. Jardine and Dean E. G. Johnson, of the college, have been appointed by Governor Capper as members of the state defense council which convenes at Topeka this morning in the governor's office.

The problem of agricultural preparedness will be taken up first and then any other problems in connection with Kansas' part in the war. The membership of the council comprises some of the best known men and women in the state.

BEGIN TENNIS TOURNAMENT THE LATTER PART OF APRIL

The Team Which Will Represent the Aggies in Missouri Valley Meets to be Chosen.

Out with your tennis rackets! A tournament will be begun the latter part of this month to pick the racket artists who will represent the Kansas Aggies in Missouri valley meets this year. All those wishing to compete in the elimination are requested to see W. W. McLain, at the Y. M. C. A., or to the tennis association.

The tournament will be conducted on the courts in the city park, usually known as the Y. M. C. A. courts. A fee of 25 cents will be charged each entrant to cover the cost of the balls and the upkeep of the courts.

The first meet on the Aggie schedule is with Nebraska at Lincoln. The Cornhuskers invaded Manhattan last spring, taking the doubles and one of the singles, the other singles being won by the Aggies. Kansas has asked for a two-year tennis contract and a meet will probably be arranged for the latter part of next month, probably about May 25.

It is also expected that the Missouri valley conference meet will be held here, as invitations have been sent, and favorable action is expected.

Enthusiasm in tennis has rapidly increased since the formation of the tennis association last month, when H. W. Luhnnow was elected president, and Dee Bird, secretary. R. Knowles, star of last year's meets, is not in school this year, but all the other racket experts of the 1916 meet will compete this year.

W. C. A.

A Kansas State Agricultural college banner was presented to the 1917 conference girls from the conference of 1916 by Miss Grace Lightfoot. It was accepted in behalf of the association by Miss Florence Mitchell, junior in home economics, and chairman of the Hollister committee for this year.

Seaboard and Blade Initiates.

The Seaboard and Blade honorary military fraternity held initiation for the following men on Saturday evening and night: F. C. Dickenson, H. Pearson, E. Whedon, H. I. Hollister, W. G. Bruce, A. A. Grant, C. E. Sawyer, L. V. Ritter, E. F. Bright, E. Wheatley, and H. J. Henney. There was a large attendance of the old members, and this initiation proved to be one of the most interesting that company L has held.

J. E. Kammeyer, professor of economics, received a telegram from Washington, D. C., Friday asking his opinion as to the advisability of this government enforcing national prohibition during the war. Professor Kammeyer replied that he would vote for a "bone dry" nation.

AGGIE DEBATERS WIN AND LOSE A CONTEST

TAKE THE DECISION FROM THE COLLEGE OF EMPORIA 3 TO 0.

But Lose to Washburn Here by the Same Count—K. S. A. C. Takes Fourth Place in Ranking of Pentangular Series.

K. S. A. C. debaters won from the College of Emporia negative team at Emporia by a unanimous decision of the judges Friday night in the last series of the Pentangular, but lost to the Washburn affirmative team here by a 3 to 0 count. The question was that of the minimum wage.

The debate here was close, interesting and hotly contested throughout. It was considered that the debate was almost a draw with the edge slightly in favor of the Aggies until after the last Washburn affirmative rebuttal speech had been made by Clifford Hope. It is conceded that his peculiar, pleasing, and convincing style, and the manner in which he handled the big issues of the debate won the contest for the sons of Ichabod.

The Aggie negative team which debated here was composed of L. R. Blatt, senior; P. L. Hindley, junior; and C. J. Medlin, freshman. The Washburn team was composed of Clifford Hope, Roscoe Graves and John McHaffey.

The judges of the local contest were: T. A. McNeal of the Capper farm publications, Topeka; W. S. Heuser, superintendent of schools, Salina; and C. E. St. John, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, Topeka. After the debate Phi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic fraternity, entertained the Washburn debaters, judges and Zeta Kappa Psi, girls forensic sorority, in the Browning-Athenian hall.

The Aggie affirmative team which defeated the College of Emporia was composed of W. A. Wunsch, senior; Fred Caps, junior; and Floyd Hawkins, junior.

K. S. A. C. Takes Fourth.

The results of this contest ranks K. S. A. C. fourth in the Pentangular contest, having lost both ends of the first contest and breaking even in the second contest. Washburn college takes first place with four wins; Ottawa university second with three wins and one lost; Baker university third with two wins and two lost; and the College of Emporia last with four lost.

In the debates Friday night the Washburn negative team defeated the Baker affirmative at Washburn; the Aggie negative lost to the Washburn affirmative here; the Aggie affirmative won from the College of Emporia negative at Emporia; the College of Emporia affirmative lost to the Ottawa negative at Ottawa; and the Ottawa affirmative won from the Baker negative at Baker.

The First Round.

In the first contest the K. S. A. C. affirmative lost to the Baker negative here; the Ottawa affirmative won from the Aggie negative at Ottawa; the Ottawa negative lost to the Washburn affirmative at Washburn; the Washburn negative won from the College of Emporia affirmative at Emporia; and the Baker affirmative won from the College of Emporia negative at Baker.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB ENTERTAIN

Holds a Joint Session With the Brownings and Athenians.

An interesting and unusual program was given in the Browning-Athenian hall, Saturday night, by the Cosmopolitan club, at a joint meeting of the three organizations.

After the installation of the new Athenian officers, the meeting was turned over to the Cosmopolitan club. Interesting talks were given by Mr. Young, Mr. Ching, Mr. White, Mr. Schmoker, and Mr. Gomez, concerning the ideals and experiences of foreign-born students in America. Mr. Schmoker and Mr. Gomez talked on Switzerland and Mexico. Music was given by Grace Lightfoot, Professor and Mrs. Limper, Mr. Murgudichion, and some records were played on a graphophone.

At the last meeting of the Cosmopolitan club it was voted that the winter term officers hold through the spring term. These officers are: Rex M. Criswell, president; Philip Young, vice president; Edith Inskeep, secretary, and O. W. F. Paulsen, treasurer.

STUDENTS AND FACULTY ARE LEARNING TO DRILL

COMMANDANT MATHEWS IS GIVING INSTRUCTIONS IN WARFARE

Classes Are Open to Students, Faculty Members and Civilians—First Meeting Held Last Evening.

A small company of faculty members and students, who have completed the required amount of military drill, answered the call last evening by appearing at the gymnasium to receive instruction in infantry drill, firing regulations, field service regulations, etc.

Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant of cadets at the college, has extended the invitation to the faculty members, students, and others interested to take his work which is offered from 4 to 5 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Last evening at 5 o'clock the first meeting of a class was held by Captain Mathews, who is tutoring the candidates for commissions in the officers' reserve corps. This class will be held at 5 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, and at 9 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Many Make Application.

It is expected that these classes will materially increase in size since a number of faculty members and students have applied for commissions in the officers' reserve corps. It is estimated that approximately 60 such applications have been made.

A number of the members of the engineering division have made applications for commissions in the engineers' corps, and it is reported that all but two faculty members of the animal husbandry department have made applications for positions in the army. E. L. Claren, assistant to the commandant, who made application for captain of the commissary department has received the information that his commission will reach him in a few days.

On May 1, all men who have joined the officers' reserve corps will be assembled at Ft. Riley for training. A training camp for men who are joining the army is being established at Ft. Leavenworth.

EBURIA QUADRIGEMINATA COMES

Beetle Mysteriously Appears in Journalism Department.

Eburia quadrigeminata made his debut at the Kansas State Agricultural college when he emerged from the top of an oak table which has been used in the department of industrial journalism six or seven years.

Eburia Quadrigeminata is a borer which works in hard woods such as hickory, ash and oak. He had worked himself out of a hole he had bored in the top of the table and was becoming accustomed to his surroundings when he was noticed by Frank L. Snow, of the journalism department.

Mr. Snow took Quadrigeminata to George A. Dean, professor of entomology, who was unable to account for the insect's mysterious appearance. Another member of the entomology department stated that Quadrigeminata might have hatched from a latent egg which may have been laid some years before. Mr. Dean now contemplates writing a scientific note on this unusual habit. The insect is not a new species in Kansas but it is the unusual manner in which it appeared that makes it peculiarly interesting.

SELL BEEF FROM PRIZE STEER.

Meat of Packard, a Grade Hereford, on Sale at Dairy.

Anyone wishing to eat beef from a prize winning steer may now have that privilege. Hanging in the dairy refrigerator is a part of the carcass of the prize winning steer Packard.

Packard was a grade Hereford senior yearling steer. He was shown at Denver in January 1916, where he took first as a grade and third in a Hereford special class where grades and purebreds were shown together. Later he was shown at the American Royal and there ranked first in a class of grades.

The market in the basement of the dairy building is maintained solely for the purpose of disposing of meat and dairy products used in class for the purpose of instruction.

Glen C. Ware is spending a few days at his home in Larned.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR THE FRATS IS ANNOUNCED

New Rule in Interfraternity League Permits "K" Men to Play—First Game Wednesday.

The interfraternity baseball schedule was adopted at the last meeting of the men's Pan-hellenic. The only change in the eligibility rules is that K men may play if they play out of their regular position. This will permit a more representative strength of each fraternity, it is thought, and increase the enthusiasm shown in these games. Each team will play five games and the winner will be determined on a percentage basis. A silver loving cup will be presented the winner, who in COLLEGIAN—Parsons turn has to win it three years to retain it permanently.

The schedule adopted is as follows:

RALPH HEPPE RESIGNS AS EDITOR OF MERCURY

GOES TO KANSAS CITY TO WORK FOR ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Boyer Resigns as Collegian Editor to Take Heppe's Place—New Collegian Editor Chosen This Morning.

(By Leo C. Moser.)

Ralph H. Heppe, senior in journalism, of Newton, Iowa, has resigned his position as city editor of the Manhattan Daily Mercury and will leave Wednesday morning to take up his new duties as relief editor for the Associated Press with headquarters in the Kansas City, Mo., office.

Mr. Heppe has been connected with the Mercury since April in 1915 when he was employed as reporter. The following October he was promoted to the city editor's desk, which position he has held until the present time. Mr. Heppe has been a leader in the journalistic activities of the journalism department and among the journalism students. He was president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity; member of the Manhattan Press club and of the Beta Theta Pi social fraternity. He will continue his present assignment of studies by correspondence and graduate with the class of 1917 in June.

Boyer to be City Editor.

Arthur W. Boyer, junior in journalism, of Abilene, has resigned as editor of the Kansas State Collegian and will succeed Mr. Heppe to the city editor's desk of the Mercury.

Mr. Boyer is a popular and an active student in all of the more important literary and journalistic activities of the college. He was winner of the Inter-society Oratorical contest for 1917 and is a member of the Hamilton Literary society, the American College Quill club, the Forum, Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity, and Phi Kappa Delta, honorary debating fraternity.

Mr. Boyer represented the K. S. A. C. in the Emporia Normal debate last year and in the Iowa State college dual this last fall. He is the third city editor that Manhattan Mercury has found among the embryo journalists in the college department of journalism.

Heppe Succeeds Zeigler.

Mr. Harry E. Zeigler, '14, who is now associate editor of the Farm and Fireside, one of the best known national farm papers, was the first student city editor of the Mercury. Mr. Heppe relieved him in the fall of 1915.

The Collegian Board will meet this morning to elect a new Collegian editor who will serve for the remainder of the college year. The regular meeting of the Collegian Board for the election of the Collegian staff for next year will be held two weeks from today.

THE LAST ISSUE.

This is the last issue of the Collegian which will be published under my supervision. While I am entering upon a larger field of journalism work and one in which I am particularly interested, it is with a pang of regret that I resign my position on the college paper. I have thoroughly enjoyed my seven months' work on the Collegian and trust I have fulfilled the confidence placed in me. I have tried to give the Collegian readers a paper which would give them the news of the college, and feel that I have succeeded in a measure at least. Everything that has been said in the columns of the Collegian this year has been said in the sincere belief that it was for the greater good of the college. I have attempted to make the welfare of the college and student body my policy.

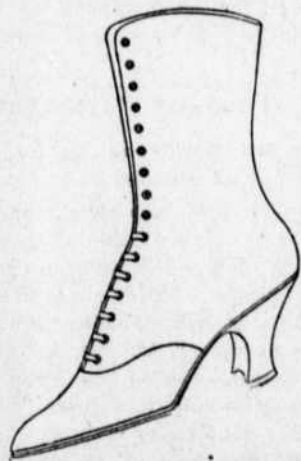

I am heartily thankful for the kind support that has been given me and trust that the same courtesies will be extended to the new editor who will be elected this morning.

ARTHUR W. BOYER.

CAMPUS CUTTERS.

The effect of cutting across the campus can now be seen on various parts of the campus and especially on that part of the campus between the fork of the driveway and the chemistry building. A beaten path is being made here which is killing out the grass and which also makes an unsightly appearance. Just east of the fork of the driveway is another beaten path where the grass has been entirely killed out.

The campus of this college is conceded to be one of the most beautiful in the United States, and many students, seemingly through a lack of pride or disrespect, thoughtlessly and indifferently tramp out the grass and mar the beauty of the college grounds. A few steps may be saved by cutting across the campus; but the energy that is required to take these extra steps won't kill anybody; nor will anything be lost by starting to school a few minutes earlier in the mornings and at noon so that it will not be necessary to cut the campus. In order to get to class on time. Pride in the college and the campus should prompt every student to show enough respect for his alma mater to the extent that such disgraceful practices will be discontinued.

THOSE FRESHMAN CAPS.

How about those freshman caps? Is it not time when the freshmen should again adopt the custom which has become a college tradition? There will be no more cold weather from now on, the weather is pleasant, and no need of being afraid of frozen ears, so why should not the freshman cap make its spring debut on the campus?

A few of the more aggressive yearlings have begun wearing their mark of distinction, but as has ever been the case, there are others who lag and hang back until compelled to conform to rules and regulations through disciplinary measures.

At the baseball game with Bethany college here next Friday would be a good time to initiate those of the first year class who, after having been given due warning, appear on the campus not wearing the distinguishing cap. How about it upperclassmen? Are you going to enforce a custom which has been established at this institution some four years since, or are you going to let the custom die an untimely death through lack of proper attention?

THE COLLEGE LOAFER.

That apathetic fellow with a cigarette hanging limply over his lower lip—you see him sitting or standing in approximately the same place every time you pass the drug store, cigar store, or pool room—he is the man we want to hit. He is the college loafer, a sponge without interest, pep, or ambition. You cannot fail to notice him, for he is an inevitable fixture of every resort which college men frequent, and where he is suffered to remain unmolested. He is the nothing who has no other function than to form a part of the chaff of the college, and incidentally, the scum of the student body.

Usually, but not always, this fellow is fairly well dressed, but is not too careful about the little details. He is always tired, often too tired to read more than the sporting news of the daily paper, and too phlegmatic to engage in a spirited argument. Just yesterday he was seen sitting in the cushioned window seat of the drug store, smoking his inseparable "pill," and gazing at the ceiling. He did not intend to buy refreshment at the soda fountain, he was not waiting for the car, nor his friend, he showed no signs of deep thought over some proposition, he was not reading nor even gossiping; he was just sitting. And he remained so for an hour and a half. This morning he stood on the street corner, leaning against the bank building, and gazing at the weather with an aimless, void expression such as you might expect of a goldfish. If only a dog had bitten him in passing, he would have been furnishing something worth while to do.

Sometimes our hero of repose meets friends of like disposition, and the restless ensemble then furnishes a woe-filled picture of stagnation of human energy. The objects of our pity sit in a row, or stand about in groups, in one of the places above mentioned, and kill time. If nothing better happens to them, we fervently wish they would get into a fight among themselves and lay each other up, so the eyesore would be removed.—Rocky Mountain Collegian.

A. A. Potter, dean of the engineering division, returned Saturday from an extensive trip over the state.

Mr. C. P. Allen has withdrawn from school for the remainder of the spring term. He leaves for his home in Coffeyville on Tuesday.

Albert H. Acre, sophomore in industrial journalism, spent the week end at his home in Wakeeney.

Ross B. Keyes, who was graduated at the end of winter term writes that he is doing some progressive farming. Since graduation he has plowed up his wheat and planted oats.

How much was your last suit of clothes worth?

That question has nothing to do with the price you paid for the clothes; it refers to what you got for it.

YOU may be financially so fortunate that you don't care what you pay for clothes; but you're certainly unfortunate if you don't care what you get for the money; and as for the man who has to be a little careful of what he spends, he really ought to be all the more careful what he gets.

And the strange thing about him is that he usually isn't so very careful. He buys clothes because they're low priced; or because they're made-to-order—so called—at a price as low as fine ready-made clothes, forgetting that the thing which makes made-to-order desirable, can't be had at a low price; or he buys what looks good to him, without knowing much about it.

What you get for your money in clothes depends on who made them. Some makers can't afford to make poor clothes; they have set so high a standard of quality, and have made so great a reputation for maintaining that quality at whatever cost, the saving by cheap materials and low grade tailoring would be too costly.

That's the kind of clothes
Hart Schaffner & Marx make

That's the reason we sell them; that's the reason you ought to buy them; it's the reason why every man in Manhattan ought to insist on having them, and no others.

Of course, a lot of you will not agree with us; but that's up to you. We're telling you something.

CLEVENGER'S NINE TO TANGLE WITH BETHANY

HEWEY TO START GAME AGAINST SWEDS TODAY.

Aggies Are Expected to Trim the Lindsborg Men—Purple Showed Improvement in Normal Game.

The Bethany Swedes will oppose Coach Clevenger's troupe of baseball artists in a little engagement at College field this afternoon. Fresh from their victory over the Emporia Normals, the Aggies are expected to out-hunt and outfield the Lindsborg athletes. No dope is available on the Bethany team, however, and its strength is not known.

"Dutch" Hewey will start the contest. In the time that has elapsed since Hewey pitched his first game of the season against Missouri he has shown rapid improvement. He has gained better control over his fast ball, and his curves, which were not breaking well in the Missouri series, now have a deceitful hop.

Coach Clevenger probably will start the same lineup that played the game at Emporia. "Dave" Wooster's triple in an opportune moment did much to insure for him his position at second base.

A noticeable lack of figures in the error column of Monday's box score forecasts better fielding against the Bethany nine. The Aggies' worst worst fault in the Missouri series seemed an inability to field the ball. Coach Clevenger believes that the hitting and fielding of the team 501 showed improvement in the Normal game.

"We were up as fast a real team down there," he asserted. "They play the game as it should be played, and we had no easy time in putting across a victory."

This work will consist of four lectures after which Mrs. L. E. Melchers will give all the girls a practical course in Bible study that will be appropriate for outdoor study.

Axtex Trim Acacias, 19 to 1.

The Axtex batters fell on Reed, the Acacia pitcher, for between 20 and 30 hits in a game which the Axtex won, 19 to 1, Wednesday afternoon. Clark Reynolds, Whedon and Wooster each gathered enough hits to win some ball games. It was the first game of the fraternity series. The Acacia battery was Reed and Bondurant. Reynolds and St. Johns formed the Axtex battery.

CLASS MEET TOMORROW.

Tracksters Will Compete for Silver Loving Cup.

The first outdoor track meet of the season will be held on College field Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The various class teams will compete for the possession of the silver loving cup offered to the class scoring the most points in the meet.

The events will be run off in the following order: pole vault, shot put, 100-yard dash, one-mile run, 220-yard dash, high jump, 120-yard hurdles, 440 yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles, broad jump, two-mile run and the one-mile relay.

The classes are apparently closely matched. The seniors and the freshmen have the majority of the stars, but the juniors and the sophomores are expected to show close competition, and may spring a surprise by walking off with the meet.

It is expected that he will be among the ranking men in the contest at Des Moines tomorrow night.

DR. WATERS HEADS THE STATE DEFENSE COUNCIL

FOOD MOBILIZATION IN CHARGE OF AGGIE EXECUTIVE.

Agricultural Preparedness Will Affect Farmers, Schools, Organizations and State Departments—Labor Problem to be Solved.

Doctor H. J. Waters was made chairman of the state council of defense at its first meeting held in Topeka last Tuesday. Thirty widely known Kansas men and women are members of this council which will direct a state wide campaign to improve food conditions and block, if possible the sky rocketing of food prices.

The council has been appointed by the Governor to work in harmony with a federal body to be named by D. F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, to conserve the food resources of the nation in the next few years.

Doctor Waters recommended the division of the food commission into six or more units, labor, agriculture, finance, and other important heads with the authority in the different lines to direct the operations of each duty.

Organizations to Help.

The state will place at the disposal of the defense organization all of the machinery, and organizations of the state in an effort to perfect an immediate state wide organization. The extension division of the college, the organization of J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture, have been offered in the present campaign. Support of the horticultural, agronomy, animal husbandry, and other departments is to be enlisted.

Governor Capper was one of the first to call attention to the imperative need of mobilization of the agricultural resources of the nation. He called for a food conference which met in Topeka the middle of last month and urged the adoption of a nation-wide movement to mobilize the food resources of the country.

Advance Money to Farmers.

As a result of Tuesday's conference bulletins will probably be issued immediately urging farmers in all sections of the state to increase their crop acreage and to direct their efforts toward the production of crops best adapted to local soil conditions. Many Kansas bankers have offered financial assistance in directing the crop campaign. As a result of the pledges of funds, it is probable that the state council may arrange for seed credit for farmers unable to provide their own seed. A similar course was worked out in 1913 and was followed by the bumper wheat crop of 1914. Practically all of the money advanced to farmers during the wheat growing campaign was repaid when the crop was harvested.

One plan advanced Tuesday will dispose of the labor question which now faces the big farming counties. Farm labor sufficient to meet demands cannot be provided. In addition to the present situation, the state must harvest its wheat crop in June. Several members of the state council have urged a solution of the labor trouble thru the dismissal of school in a number of the rural counties.

SENIORS CHOOSE CLASS PLAY.

"Pair of Sixes" Will be Given During Commencement Week.

"A Pair of Sixes," is the title of the three act comedy-drama which has been chosen by the senior class to be given as one number of the entertainments for commencement week. Tryouts for the play started Monday night and the entire cast will be chosen by the first week in May.

The play will be put on under the direction of the public speaking department and according to that department this is the best senior play that has ever been chosen by any graduating class. Charles R. Adamson, assistant in the department of public speaking and J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, will coach the play.

"A Pair of Sixes" is a modern play of twelve parts—four women and eight men. Twenty-five persons were present for the tryout Monday night but a plea for more men has been sent out. After the caste has been definitely chosen practice will be held three times a week.

Rafael Navas of Wichita called upon President H. J. Waters Tuesday.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

ADDRESS BY JOSEPH HARRINGTON TO BE A FEATURE.

Program of Special Interest to Power Plant Engineers Will be Given—Annual Banquet Thurs. day Evening.

The Kansas branch of the National Association of Stationary Engineers will hold its annual convention at Manhattan May 1 to 4. All meetings of the convention will be held in the engineering building of the college.

Forty exhibitors are expected to be present at the convention. They will display engineering specialties to the members of the association. A program of special interest to power plant engineers and to owners of steam power plants has been arranged.

The association will spend Tuesday visiting points of interest about the college and city of Manhattan. Tuesday evening moving pictures of interest to engineers will be shown in the college auditorium. Wednesday will be devoted to the business of the association. The engineering students of the college will give a parade Wednesday evening in honor of the delegates and guests.

On Thursday the association will be addressed by Joseph Harrington, consulting power plant engineer of Chicago, on the subject "Economic Combustion of Fuel." Mr. Harrington is a designer of 600 power plant installations, and is considered one of the greatest American authorities on combustion and power plant operation.

The annual banquet of the association will be held Thursday evening, May 3. Addresses will be made by prominent power users and power plant engineers. F. W. Raven, of Chicago, national secretary of the association will be the toastmaster.

FARMERS SHOULD ADVERTISE.

Davis Explains Farm Advertising to Gamma Sigma Deltas.

Farmers should advertise their products just the same as do other producers according to H. W. Davis, associate professor of English, who addressed the members of Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary agricultural fraternity at a meeting Tuesday evening.

Mr. Davis explained that advertising the farm products paid, especially when there was not an open market for the product. In this class he included pure-bred stock, pure-strain setting eggs, and other products of this type. Mr. Davis also explained very clearly the different kinds of advertising that are most useful and gave examples of the kinds that should be used in various instances.

During the business meeting which followed Mr. Davis' talk, Gamma Sigma Delta elected the following officers for the spring term: I. G. Freeman, chancellor; F. H. Carr, vice chancellor; M. W. Converse, scribe; J. E. Chaffee, treasurer; W. R. Martin, marshal.

The winner of the American College Quill club short story contest will be announced about April 24, according to Miss Estella Boot, instructor in English, to whom the manuscripts were submitted.

Six stories have been received by Miss Boot. These will be given to two judges who are members of the faculty and one other judge who is not connected with the college. The names of the authors of the manuscripts will not be known to the judges until after they make their decision.

...ing to the inability of the Collegian board to hold a meeting until yesterday afternoon to select an editor to succeed Arthur W. Boyer, resigned, this issue of the Collegian has been edited jointly by Leo C. Moser and Bruce B. Brewer. The next issue will be in charge of the new editor.

BREWER IS THE NEW EDITOR.

Collegian Board Elects Successor to Arthur W. Boyer, Resigned.

Bruce B. Brewer of Manhattan, sophomore in journalism, was elected editor of the Collegian for the remainder of the college year at a meeting of the Collegian board yesterday. He fills the unexpired term of Arthur W. Boyer, who resigned Monday to become city editor of the Manhattan Mercury.

Brewer gained practical experience in journalism while working as a reporter on the Mercury last year. At times he acted as city editor of that publication. He has been sports editor of the Collegian the past year, is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity, and belongs to the Sigma Nu fraternity.

AN ALIBUS IS NEVER WHERE THINGS HAPPEN

Nerve, Bluff, Talk and Plausibility the Essential Factors.

An "Alibus" is a man who is never where things happen, and uses an alibi to excuse himself for not being present, declared Dr. J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, who addressed the student assembly Thursday morning on the subject, "Alibus."

"The 'Alibus' is to be found in the class room, we view him across the counter, and see him standing on the street corner," said Doctor Emerson. "Where words can be substituted for deeds and where a gifted tongue can make wrong seem right, there the 'Alibus' is to be found."

"I am afraid that we are getting the alibi habit. Americans can make anything look possible. An American can make persons ride in automobiles who should be riding in lumber wagons. Nerve, bluff, talk, and plausibility are the essential factors of an Alibus. It is the indiscriminating American public that makes the 'Alibus' and alibi possible."

"Today we are in war and we go about our affairs in the same natural way seemingly not realizing that Europe is in darkness and that America is likely to be in the same circumstances. America has something to preserve and the time to preserve it is at hand. We must now think of democracy in the terms of duty. The 'Alibus' has no place now. Every part of the machinery of government must move forward. Men are builders and let them cease to build and construct there comes an indifference which precedes decay."

THE JUNIORS ARE AT WAR.

Germany Must Fight Still Another Opponent.

The junior class formally declared war on Germany at its class meeting, April 17. This is in line with the suffrage ticket which was elected last week to enable the boys of the class to take part in the war.

Some of the joys have not displayed any great amount of enthusiasm over this privilege extended to them by the girls, so that this measure was passed principally to show the attitude of the executive department of the class.

The girls believe in standing behind the president and promise a demonstration in the near future that will enlist the services of the junior boys who have not already volunteered to their country's cause. The suffragette ticket in the junior class is proving a decided success and the girls are making but one request—that more juniors attend the class meetings.

Brink to the Nationalist.

Wellington T. Brink, '16, who for the last few months has been employed as reporter on the Cleveland Press, has returned to Manhattan and has taken the position of city editor on the Manhattan Nationalist.

Mr. Brink is a graduate of the department of journalism at K. S. A. C. After graduation he went to the Topeka State Journal where he was employed as a reporter. At an increase in salary he went to the Cleveland Press where he worked until taking up his present position.

OPPORTUNE HITTING WON FROM NORMALS, 8 TO 3

AGGIES POUNDED BALL WHEN HITS MEANT RUNS.

McGrath Hauled a Steady Game—Wooster's Triple in the Second Started the Bombardment.

Opportune hitting when hits meant runs won for the Aggies their first victory of the season Monday. "Bill" Hargies' Emporia Normals were the victims of an 8 to 3 slaughter in which McGrath, Reynolds and Wooster of the Aggies took leading roles.

McGrath again showed the pitching form that held the Missouri Tigers away from first base for half of a game last week. Only six hits, all coming widely scattered, were collected off the lanky twirler. He had trouble finding the plate at times, walking five of the Emporia batters.

After the Normals had jumped into the lead by scoring in the first stanza, the huge bludgeon of "Dave" Wooster got into action in the second inning, with the result that three runs were scored. Reynolds, first up, singled, and Sullivan followed with another one-base blow. Newton's sacrifice advanced each of the men and then Wooster caught one of Rehm's pitches on the end of his bat and sent it far over Cress's head in center field, sending both Reynolds and Sullivan home. Wooster scored from third on an infield out.

Reynolds was first up in both the fourth and sixth innings. Each time he singled and scored. Newton's triple in the sixth was followed by a Normal error and Newton scored.

The box score:

Aggies:	AB	R	H	PO	A	E

BOUGHT YOUR ROYAL PURPLE?

Class Book Committee Gives but One More Chance.

The student body will have one more chance to buy a copy of the Royal Purple. Because of the number of persons leaving school this term the class book committee expects to print just enough books to fill the orders that are received before May 1. Those wishing to secure a book before the sale closes May 1 may pay one dollar now and the remainder of the price of the book when they are issued.

Never in the history of the college has the Royal Purple been so well supported by advertisers as it has been this year according to O. K. Rumble, advertising manager.

"The advertising sold to local business men alone almost equals the entire amount of advertising of last year' Royal Purple," says Rumble. A number of Kansas City firms have purchased space and a very successful campaign of national advertising has been conducted."

FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1917.

IT'S UP TO YOU.

Coach Clevenger's Aggie baseball men meet the Bethany nine this afternoon. The Aggies won a deserved 8 to 3 victory over the Emporia Normals Monday, and should win today. Will you be at the game?

Baseball, it must be admitted, did not get away to an overwhelmingly good start in the Missouri series. But neither did basketball start well. The Clevenger system—a system which produced a Missouri valley basketball quintet and a football eleven which virtually tied for first honors—must be drilled into the athletes before we can expect victories.

Clevenger has done wonders for Aggie athletics. K. S. A. C. has won a place on the Missouri valley athletic map. Yet when this idolized Aggie coach pitted his baseball team against what is probably the best university nine in the valley, a mere handful of rooters were in the stands.

College athletics will live or die in accordance with college spirit. It's up to you, Mr. K. S. A. C. Student—ed you, too, Miss Co-ed—what are you going to do with college baseball?

There is nothing more pathetic than the fat professor with an artistic temperament, but it becomes exasperating when he lacks natural ability.

We have all the sympathy in the world for the professor who has to regale his classes with his past personal history,—and more sympathy for his classes who have to sleep through so much noise.

In case a selective draft system is adopted to raise an army, the Aggie baseball team will probably be drafted as a unit. It is thought that they will be especially proficient at trench warfare, where bomb-throwing is a favorite method of attack. Please don't shoot.

DRILL IN SUMMER SCHOOL?

Why not offer Military Science in Summer school? It would undoubtedly prove popular with a large number of men who would like to have some military training and at the same time feel that they cannot afford to sacrifice their summer-school work to attend one of the proposed training camps. Many teachers would welcome a chance to learn how to handle a body of people in line formations for simple drills. In that connection it is not inconceivable that even some of the ladies might enroll for drill.

President Wilson's appeal for increased production of food stuffs prompts us to suggest that the K. S. A. C. cadets drill hereafter with hoes and spades instead of rifles and swords.

The fellow who came to college to play, or in other words to get out of working at home, will not be glad if students are given a chance to go home to farm work before the end of the term. But of course there are no such students here, so?

SPRING IS HERE—HELP!

Spring has been blamed and accused of many things to wit: an increase in dormant sentimental poetry; sudden soft words on a balmy night; a general inclination to make a person romantic. The general accusation is that spring has a decidedly detrimental influence on a young man's fancy.

One is loath to believe spring guilty of all these things but now I am convinced and an accuser. And further I have the evidence. Spoken, yet, shattering evidence is stalking about the campus.

Modesty, especially as regards the habiliments of the men, has been noticeable the past few months. No guadly partitioned head dress has aggravated our optic nerves. But now, Spring, you have made your annual debut and we must suffer in silence. You have started the fancy of a few young men pirouetting and woe be unto we ordinary mortals until the time when you choose to release them from your mystic influence.

I speak, Spring, of the men who wear the egg yolk caps. Your potency has assumed astounding and unusual aspects. Unusual and astounding, I say, but really it is nerve racking and dangerous. Spring, pray explain to us these caps of the 42 centimeter noise. Or better still furnish us relief in these our trying moments.

I beseech you, Spring, be merciful unto us—ordinary mortals.

A COLLEGE LANDMARK

Could the old pump now standing at the northwest corner of the chemistry building pour forth its history as it once poured forth sparkling water for the farm house, it might rival in eloquence the rising young Deothenes of the college. Then, too, it would probably tell how it replaced the old oaken bucket which was used to draw water for the early settler.

Now a silent witness of the crowds hurrying to the veterinary and horticultural buildings, it is, no doubt, reminded of the time when the farmer boy, after stopping for a drink, trudged whistling to the pasture through the orchard which at one time stood northwest of the present site of the horticulture building.

When the farmer decided to build a woodshed in his yard, the site of the pump was chosen as the location, and thus the pump was sheltered. Here, it has been darkly whispered, in the early history of "bloody Kansas" this same obliging pump quenched the thirst of fugitive slaves while the woodshed served as a station in the "underground railway."

Later, when the state transformed the farm into the college campus, where K. S. A. C. was built to educate farmers, the well became state property. This was before the days of the individual drinking cup, germs, and sanitary fountains, and when timid freshmen, confident seniors, and dignified faculty members all drank from the same tin cup which was kept hanging on the pump.

Now, unused, the pump serves only as a land mark and instead of "underground railways" we have an underground water system which provides water for the cooking classes and microbes, unknown to the old pump, for the use of the bacteriology department.

CULTURE AND FLUNKERS.

The dean of men at the University of Wisconsin recently said that the chief cause for so many failures was that so many students came from "families of no cultural tradition."

Such students, he declared, are sent to college simply because it is the modern fashion to go to college, and not because of any great desire for education.

"There are students in the University," the dean is quoted as saying, "who have read little before entering college and do not know facts which come from just very general reading. They come from families who never have read and who have not cultivated tastes in cultural lines."

There is something of truth in this opinion, to our mind. But to assert that the situation outlined is the chief cause of failures is an exaggeration of one factor and a diminution of the importance of others.

There is too much evidence to the contrary—too great a number of exceptions to this sweeping statement—to warrant such a belief. Experience is filled with instances of habitual flunkers who come from highly cultured families, and of high-grade students whose families are far from such a standard.

We believe strongly in this oft-maligned culture. We prefer cultured persons as our associates. But we maintain that culture is only one of the factors in well-rounded environment needed, in combination with good personal qualities, to produce good students.—Ohio State Lantern.

SLANDER.

"Slander, sir! You do not know what you are disdaining. I have seen the most respectable persons almost overwhelmed by it."
 At first a light sound, skimming the earth like a swallow before the storm, very softly (pianissimo) it murmurs and purrs and sows in its course poisoned arrows. It is on somebody's mouth, and softly (piano, piano), it glides slyly into your ear. The evil is done. It is born, it creeps, it walks; and with growing power (rinforzando) it goes from mouth to mouth diabolically. Then, all of a sudden, I can't tell you how you see Slander straighten up, hiss, swell and grow tall before your very eyes. It springs, stretches its wings, whirls, envelops, seizes, carries off; it flashes lightning, it thunders and becomes a hue and cry, a public crescendo, a universal chorus of hatred and proscription. Who, indeed, could stop it!—Beaumar-chais.

An April Fool Joke Lost Him His Date

"Say, boys, let's have a little game of five hundred before we go. We have about half an hour, what do you say?"
 "All right," joined in the others, while the remaining one fidgeted and watch nervously.

Four chairs were quickly drawn around the table and several hands had been played when one of the boys remembered he did not have a handkerchief.

"Excuse me, boys, I must get that before I forget it. I'll get it while you shuffle the cards."

"Huh! we better be moving?" asked the Nervous One as he again drew out his watch.

"No, we could finish this game," there is only a couple more hands to play. I'll get my hat while you are dealing this hand." And another one of the boys got up and left, deftly drawing the door shut and turned the key of the heavy door from the outside.

"What's that?" exclaimed the nervous One as he recognized the familiar click of the lock.

"Don't know," replied the remaining one, nonchalantly, as he tilted back in his chair. "Looks like we're locked in."

By this time the Nervous One had reached the door and was frantically pleading, twisting the knob, and imploring those on the outside to release him. Finding this to be of no avail, he returned stoically to his chair and sat down, evidently thinking of things unfit for publication.

"Hello, is this Pat? Say, Pat, 'Zeig' slid down Prospect head first this afternoon and broke his nose," called Larney, the chap who engineered 'Zeig's' imprisonment, over the telephone. "He wants to know if it will be all right with you if he sends down a substitute for the evening. Will it be all right?" And so it was arranged.

About thirty minutes later a telephone call caused the release of the imprisoned one and no time was lost in covering the few blocks to his lady friend's residence.

"No, she is not here. She just left a few minutes ago with her sister."

"Thank you," and he was off again, thinking perhaps to intercept the party before they reached the church.

A crowd was in the vestibule and, glancing down over and not finding her, he passed in and was ushered down the aisle to a single vacant seat.

Settling himself comfortably, he glanced around and a flush of mortification and surprise mingled with anguish swept over his face as he met the gaze of Pat, who sat across the aisle from him. And who was her escort but the fellow who had been his partner in the game of five hundred earlier in the evening. His flush turned to crimson, as Pat met his gaze. He jerked his head and put his hand to his burning cheek, but too late. She had seen and recognized him. A sly glance from the corner of his eye caught her looking at him with a smile of amusement playing about her lips. It made him furious.

Could she be an accomplice in this infamous trick? He could not understand it.
 "Zeig" rose mechanically as the anthems were sung and similarly dropped a nickel in the collection plate as it passed by. The sermon passed entirely over his head and at its close he rose and passed out, eyes straight to the front.

The sun arose the next morning, a ball of fire, and as it cast its head above old Mount Prospect the little sunbeams played hide and seek around "Zeig's" sleeping head on the third floor. He yawned, turned over, rubbed his eyes, and got up, the anger of the previous evening still visible on his countenance as he stepped out into the hallway.

"April fool, 'Zeig,'" rang from down the corridor. And Zeig remembered.

Uncle Sam Is Calling

If you don't like to go to school in the spring; if it goes against the grain, especially at this time when rates are subject to spasmodic increases, even between meals; if you are "getting away" bad in your studies; why don't you enlist in the army or why don't you make application for a commission in the officers' reserve corps? In case you do one of the above, you will at least be sure of a meal whenever you are called to the camp.

Many students have withdrawn from school and have joined some branch of the army or the navy. Many others are preparing themselves for any exigencies which may arise. And if you happen to be a person whom Uncle Sam might draft, it would be advisable for you to follow the suit of these men.

No Scrubs Are Wanted.

But just because you are a man, do not think that the army will welcome you. No siree! You must be physically fit. The more education and drill you may have had, the more willingly will you be accepted. Uncle Sam isn't organizing a scrub army by any means.

The reserve officers' corps is by far the most popular phase of military service. Scarcely a day passes that the deans of the different divisions are not asked for recommendations by men who are making applications for commissions in this corps. Some idea of the manner of men who are making applications for commissions may be gained by the fact that in the division of agriculture alone more than fifty men have asked for recommendations.

Professors Are In, Too.

You would be surprised at the number of professors who are included in this list. The per cent of total number of professors who have made applications is but little less than the per cent of the student applicants.

Within the past week more than ten men have withdrawn from school to join the army or navy. Some are going to the aviation corps, others to the national guard, others to the marines, a few to the navy, and some to the coast artillery. Some are withdrawing to go back to the farm and raise war crops.

Don't enlist in the army of matrimony. Enlist and prepare for a war of shorter duration. Uncle Sam needs more men in the army and the army is the most advisable branch to join. It is the safe thing to do and the loyal thing to do. The college is doing all that it can to help and encourage those who are willing to make the sacrifice.

JANITORS USE DUSTLESS BROOMS

They are Being Tried Out in the Domestic Science Building.

The custodian's department is now trying out a new dustless broom and duster. The brooms were purchased upon the request of Dean Van Zile and are being used in the domestic science building.

These brooms are made from a cotton yarn so chemically treated that dust particles adhere to it instead of rising to settle upon furnishings. They are detachable from the handle so that upon being clogged with dust, they may be washed and used again.

Two dozen of the brooms were ordered. They are considered thoroughly efficient and no sweeping compound is used. However it is thought that they may not be practical as the time required to wash them may more than offset the saving in the cost of a sweeping compound. They are to be used only upon a wax floor because a rough floor would soon wear one out through the catching of the yarn.

"WAR BRIDES" NEXT WEEK.

Nazimova Takes Part of Joan in the Great Photoplay.

"War Brides," the picture which so pleased the spectators at a private showing at the Marshall theater a short time ago will be presented at the Marshall on Thursday and Friday of next week.

This photoplay, which arises to greater heights than "The Birth of a Nation," does not pretend to be a portrayal of conflict, and but one scene, that of a trench, is shown, which has anything to do with "battle scenes." It has been called, and most aptly to, a picturization of the "greater tragedies than those of the trenches."

Alla Nazimova, the celebrated Russian actress, takes the part of Joan, the widow of a young officer, and her power as an actress carries right out from the screen in a manner almost lifelike and her acting more vivid and convincing than anything as yet produced in the motion picture field.

Rapidity of action, very little actual warfare, intimate home life, perfect continuity, superb action, and rare taste in backgrounds are things which make "War Brides" a picture which appeals to all and one which everyone should witness.

CREDIT TO SENIORS

ADUATING STUDENTS WHO ENLIST WILL BE GIVEN THEIR DIPLOMAS.

VISION ON OTHERS

QUATES WILL BE CONSIDERED INDIVIDUALLY, SAID DEAN WILLARD.

Students who enlist may receive credit for their work. Such a recommendation was made by the council of deans, which met in President Waters' office April 16, but no further action has been taken regarding the matter.

The dean's statement follows: "The council of deans recommends to the president and to the board of administration that senior students who are doing passing work and would receive their degrees in June, be granted credit for the remainder of the term's work, and that their degrees be granted in absentia, if they enter military or naval service before the end of the college year."

Regarding the credits that will be allowed to undergraduates, Dean J. T. Willard, who is in charge of granting credits, made this statement: "Conditions are so diverse in respect to students who are not near graduation that no general action has been announced, but each individual case will be considered by itself for the present."

No action has been taken concerning assigning a definite grade for the work in any subject, in which a student is given credit, according to Dean Willard. It is probable that the student will be simply credited without any definite grade.

18 ANSWER WAR CALL

Students Enlisting Rapidly—61 Have Withdrawn.

War has already made heavy inroads on the college attendance. Sixty-one students, the largest on record for this time of the year, have withdrawn from school. Eighteen of these have left to enlist, 21 to help with agricultural work at home and in 12 cases either ill health or an absence of an excuse was the cause.

Fears are expressed by employees of the registrar's office that further withdrawals will follow. The officers' reserve training camp at Fort Riley is bound to take between 60 and 70 students from the school. Many students, afraid of compulsory military service or the draft system, are enlisting in order that they may have a choice in the division of the army or navy to which they will be assigned.

The coast artillery seems to be the most chosen branch of the army. Most of those who signed for this division chose the Pacific coast. Whether or not the Pacific's distance from Germany had anything to do with their choice is not known.

The Roll of Honor.

The list of those who had withdrawn from college previous to this week to join the colors is as follows: Verne McKinley, coast artillery; M. A. Smith, national guards; Fred Irwin, aviation; W. E. Smith, infantry; L. E. Brown, infantry; S. H. McCullough, navy; Howard J. Casford, national guards; P. A. Carnahan, navy; R. V. Baker, Vernon Velthe, coast artillery; M. C. Danby, coast artillery; L. D. Watts, coast artillery; Coffman, coast artillery; C. L. Gilruth, infantry; C. L. Gilruth, infantry; C. L. Gilruth, infantry.

HE'S PLANNING

Assistant Commissioner of the military department is "Watch your step!" No more can cadets address the assistant commandant as "Sergeant" Cleaton. Hereafter it must be "Captain" Cleaton.

Captain Edward Cleaton received his commission as an officer in the quartermaster division of the reserves from Secretary of War Newton G. Baker yesterday. Only 400 out of a total of 8,000 applicants were accepted.

V. F. Mead spent Sunday visiting friends in Kansas City.

MOSER, THIRD IN ORATORY

ONLY MISSOURI AND WASHINGTON LEAD AGGIE ORATOR.

Moser's Oration Was a Credit to the School Says J. G. Emerson.

Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, won third prize in the Missouri Valley Oratorical contest held at Drake university, Des Moines, last Friday night, with an oration entitled "Our Real Foreign Foe." Walston Chubb, of Washington university won first prize, and the Missouri university representative came in for second honors.

"Moser gave K. S. A. C. a splendid representation," said J. G. Emerson, oratorical coach who accompanied the Aggie orator to Des Moines. "His oration was timely and he delivered it in an earnest convincing way that held his audience throughout his entire delivery. His oration was as good in thought and composition as any oration given in the contest. A. S. Keister, professor of economics, of Cornell college, and one of the judges of the contest, said that Mr. Moser presented an economic problem in a way in which he had never thought of it before."

"Mr. Moser has been the first man to represent K. S. A. C. in both a state and interstate contest. He won second place in the state peace contest held in Wichita last March, with an oration entitled, "War—an Economic Necessity." He has made a good record for the school."

WATERS MAN OF THE HOUR

Efficient food mobilization and Dr. H. J. Waters—is not the latter essential to the former? President Waters headed the State Defense council at Topeka last week. Reports from the meeting indicate that he was the dominant figure—that the Kansans there looked to him for guidance. His practicality, his thoroughness and his personality combined to make him the "Man of the Hour."

But Dr. Waters is working in too narrow a sphere. He is larger than Kansas state, larger than the state of Kansas—he is at present a national need. We Kansans are not selfish: we would like to see Dr. Waters "drafted" to take charge of the national food situation. Once in charge, he would become a national "Man of the Hour."

A CHALLENGE TO K. S. A. C.

The War Department has ordered applicants for commissions in the officers' Reserve corps to report at Ft. Riley May 7 for training. Men from land grant colleges are especially wanted.

This is a challenge to the men in the military department of K. S. A. C. The department was organized by the government to train officers for just such an emergency as the present one. Two hundred men should be K. S. A. C.'s quota. Will the eligible men answer the challenge?

NEARS A STATE RECORD

Maid Henry Pontiac Makes Good in Seven-Day Test.

The state record for butter production was threatened by Maid Henry Pontiac, a grade Holstein cow belonging to the dairy department, in a seven-day test which has just been completed. She produced 25.02 pounds of butter, 20.16 pounds of buttermilk, from 503.5 pounds of milk. The record is slightly more than 26 ads in seven days.

Maid Henry Pontiac is the five-year-old daughter of Maid Henry, one of the college herd. She is a grade cow out of Carletta, the famous Holstein bull whose heifers are producing 65 pounds more butter than their dams. Nine of these are in the college herd.

The cow is now being fed for another seven-day test, and she is expected to make a new state record when she freshens.

34 AGGIES TO WAR CAMP

Ft. Riley Training Camp For Reserve Officers Draws Heavily On College Cadet Corps

ENTIRE STAFF TO GO

COLONEL PICKRELL AND MAJORS KENYON, BIXBY AND DUDLEY WILL LEAVE.

OTHERS WILL SIGN LATER

Large Number of Applicants Have Recommendations in for Commissions—Oath Both Binding Only as Officer in Reserves.

Aggie cadets are answering Uncle Sam's call. Up to yesterday, 34 students had signed up for the training camp at Fort Riley next month. 42 students, graduates, and townspeople had made application for commissions in the Reserve officers corps, but had not signed for the camp, and 18 students had left school to enlist.

The training camp at Fort Riley, beginning May 8, will be attended by practically every commissioned officer of the Aggie cadet corps. Some of the local officers are ineligible because they have not reached 21, the age minimum, and other have not yet signed the application blanks in Captain Mathews' office, although they already have recommendations in for commissions.

Cadet Staff To Go.

Among the cadet officers who have already signed for the camp are Col. F. M. Pickrell, Major L. H. Bixby, Captain F. M. Jordan, H. I. Hollister, Guy A. Russell, G. E. Manzer, A. L. Willis, Harry L. Dunham and W. G. Bruce, and a large number of first and second lieutenants.

In addition to the above list of commissioned officers, Major Keith Kenyon has received a commission as second lieutenant in the marine corps and Major H. B. Dudley has been assured a first lieutenant's commission in the aerial corps of the Kansas National Guard. Both Kenyon and Dudley, it is expected, will be leaving at about the same time the training camp convenes, thus taking from the local cadet corps the colonel, the three majors and seven of the twelve captains.

Those Who Are Going.

The fact that Captain L. O. Mathews did not receive his new instructions regarding the camp until April 20, has not given a number of local men time enough to sign the applications. The following have already signed:

Fred C. Lewis
Frank Gates
C. E. Champlin
Fabian C. Dickenson
Herbert P. Miller
H. L. Dunham
Wm. H. Brooks
P. A. Kennelcott
O. W. Reed

"Judging by the number of students who have already signed up, I believe that between 60 and 70 applicants will be the quota sent to the training camp from this school," says Captain Cleaton, of the military department.

"A large number have applied for commissions under the former ruling, but have not yet signed up under the new instructions."

All recommendations and examinations have been waived by the authorities. All that is necessary now is to sign an application stating the applicant's military training, his school, his age and place of birth, his citizenship, his business, and whether or not he has applied for a commission in the corps.

R. V. Adams, W. A. Ball, H. E. Baird, V. E. Budy, E. R. Chandler, W. W. Castee, W. O. Dunn, R. M. Davidson, R. W. Evans, C. F. Eckleman, Glick Fockele, J. C. Jones, H. H. Fenton, R. F. Glover, R. C. Jones, C. M. Haines, L. E. Hutto, Chas. T. Hubert, J. S. Hagen, J. V. Hepler, E. D. Kellman, T. R. Knowles, Otto M. Lowe, Clarence Lambert, H. C. McNamara, H. M. McClelland, L. A. Maury, C. W. Howard, J. B. Muggs, C. W. McCampbell, H. V. Busch, J. V. Rathbun, D. P. Ricard, Oscar Steanson, H. R. Sumner, W. A. Schuster, O. E. Smith, Fred DanDorp, G. A. Ritter, R. E. Welch, Mark Wentz and John H. Welch.

Many of the above list are former students. Others are downtown business men. A separate downtown bureau has now been organized, with Dr. Norman L. Roberts, who is to be a major in the reserve corps, in charge.

Some of the Regulations.

The complete regulations of the camp are not yet known. The government, it is said, will pay the transportation and sustenance expenses of those who attend the camp, but the men themselves must purchase their uniforms.

Regarding deposits to care for loss or damage to property, a circular of information regarding the officers' reserve corps, dated April 18, from the central department at Chicago, says:

"Upon reporting the reserve student will make a deposit of ten dollars ($10) to cover loss of or damage to equipment, proper refund being made at the end of the camp; this in addition to a deposit of $10 to cover damage to uniform, if furnished by the government."

The oath taken when admitted to camp imposes no obligation to serve beyond the period of encampment of three months, except as a commissioned officer of the officers' reserve corps.

Ten Thousand Needed.

Ten thousand officers, it is estimated, will be needed for the first army of 500,000 which, it is planned, will be called for soon. These officers will be trained at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana; Fort Sheridan, Illinois; Fort Snelling, Minnesota, and Fort Riley.

Applicants from the states of Missouri, Kansas and Colorado are to report at the Fort Riley camp.

DOESN'T MEAN YOU AND I

Selective Conscription Does Not "Select" the Fit.

Selective conscription does not "select" men best suited for army work. Captain L. A. Mathews corrected a popular impression regarding conscription yesterday.

"Selective conscription eliminates from actual service those who would be of more value in their chosen profession or work," said the commandant. "Married men, that is men who had not married before war was declared, are also exempt under this system."

The erroneous impression has prevailed that all military men would be called to the colors ahead of those who had no such training. This is all wrong, according to Captain Mathews. Selective conscription is a form of draft, and the ones chosen would be those chosen in the draw.

NO R. O. T. C. THIS YEAR

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS NEXT YEAR, MAYBE.

War Department Will Not Establish Unit Until After May Says Letter.

The Kansas state branch of the reserve officers' training corps will not be established during the present collegiate year. A communication has been received by President Waters stating that the secretary of war, Newton G. Baker, had decided that the corps would not be established at any school before the beginning of the school year.

The communication follows:

Dear Sir:

Your application of the 7th, instant, has been received. The secretary of war decided on April 9, 1917, that hereafter units of the reserve officers' training corps would be established to take effect at the beginning of the academic year, and not otherwise.

Applications received prior to June 1, 1917, will be considered in deciding what units shall be established in September, 1917.

Very respectfully,
W. T. JOHNSTON,
Adjutant General.

No promise that the corps would be established was given in the letter. The inference is drawn from the last paragraph that, although the application of this college was being considered, this application had not yet been granted.

A communication is expected by the local authorities about June 1. By that time the applications of all schools must be on file with the adjutant general, and the various units of the training corps will be established at the will of the department of war.

It is expected that whatever report Colonel Penn, who inspected the cadet corps, will make regarding the granting of "distinguished institution" will go far in determining the schools who will be granted units in the reserve officers' training corps.

CADET CORPS TO GO ON

Training of Aggie Cadets Will Continue.

The cadet corps will not be discontinued if Captains L. O. Mathews and Edward Cleaton are withdrawn from detail. At least, there was no cessation of drill during the Spanish-American war, when the commandant was sent back to his company.

A student would probably be acting as commandant of the cadet corps during the Spanish-American war, Robert B. Mitchell was cadet major and acting commandant in 1898-99, Charles D. Montgomery was cadet major and acting commandant in 1899-1900 and Charles Eastman held the same office in 1900-02.

Both Captain Mathews and Captain from this college following the first call for men, according to Sergeant Cleaton.

DON'T CARE ABOUT THE DUTCH.

Royal Purple Will Be Issued, War or No War, Says Caton.

War will have no effect on the issuance of the 1917 Royal Purple.

"We'll be out in spite of the Dutch," says William Caton, treasurer of the Royal Purple. "There's a little matter that organizations should attend to immediately, however. That is the payment for their space. All pages not paid for by May 1 will not be run."

A special "dollar now and a dollar when you get your book" campaign is now being carried on by the Royal Purple staff. By paying a dollar down, a book may be reserved. The remainder of the purchase price will be paid upon delivery.

BEANS MUST BE POPULAR.

Department of Agronomy Is Busy Answering Inquiries.

An avalanche of letters regarding the growing of beans has been received by the department of agronomy the past week. Due to the large number, individual answers have been impossible and the department has found it necessary to answer in stereotype forms of circulars.

A NEW SWIMMING CLASS.

A new class in swimming for men has been organized. The new class will meet seventh hour Saturday afternoons. The only other class was Friday afternoon at eighth hour, and due to the large number of applicants who were drilling at that hour, the new class was organized.

AGGIES IN A 29-8 VICTORY

CLEVELAND MEN WON A BASEBALL SWATTEST FROM THE BETHANY SWEDES.

Breckheisen Pitched an Air-Tight Game, Without Casualties—The Aggie Batters Collected 23 Hits and 16 Stolen Base Off Swedes.

It was some contest! Billed on the programs as a baseball game, Friday's encounter with the Bethany Swedes bore more resemblance to a track-meet. Cleveland's would-be baseball men quickly adapted themselves to the new style of play inaugurated by the Swedes, and made 29 laps around the baseball diamond in the remarkable time of eight innings. The Bethany men succeeded in crossing the finish line eight times.

The heavy artillery of "Breck" Breckheisen was mainly responsible for the minuteness of the Bethany score. "Breck" was announced as a pitcher, and before he had traveled many innings he had succeeded in convincing Coach Cleveland, the Swedes, and the dozen fans who attended the game, that he really deserved that title.

"Breck" wasn't the only Aggie star. He had to divide honors with 12 other players who swatted out 23 hits. The Aggie swatters seized upon the opportunity to fatten their batting averages with great glee. The stolen base column in the final averages also profited. A total of sixteen bases were swiped by Aggie speedsters during the farce-comedy-track-meet-baseball contest.

The Aggies scored in every inning. In the first stanza, Harvey and Guilfoyle walked and Harvey had scored. Before the Swede pitcher had yet located the home plate, Clark, tired of waiting, stepped into a pitch for a single and both he and Guilfoyle scored before the inning closed.

But the big fireworks started in the second. Singles by MacMillan and Harvey, and triples by McLeod and Sullivan were the only hits of the inning, but when the weary score-keeper tabulated the results, he found that MacMillan (2), Harvey, Guilfoyle, Clark, Sullivan, Wooster and McLeod had crossed the home plate.

The bombardment slowed down in the third and fourth innings. The fourth inning especially looked bad from an Aggie standpoint, for the Aggies almost let the round get by without making a score. MacMillan, however, scored his third run in three times at bat, and the inning was saved.

In the meantime, the Bethany boys had scored eight times. Once in a while the visitors made a hit. "Dutch" Hewey went into the pitcher's box in the sixth, and exhibited his spit-ball.

TUESDAY APRIL 24, 1917.

Some people seemingly can't hit the nail on the head without using a hammer.

HELLO!

With this issue of The Collegian, Bruce B. Brewer, former sports editor, advances to the editorial chair, a position made vacant last week by the resignation of Arthur W. Boyer.

The new editor has already made a few changes. No radical innovations, however, are contemplated. The most essential function of a newspaper is to give the news, and this goal, so consistently kept in mind by the retiring editor, will be the ideal of the new editor.

It will be our aim to give the students a clean, newsy, effervescent, full-of-life college newspaper. An effort will be made to enliven The Collegian by the introduction of college "pep," without sacrificing any of the space given to news. Live feature articles, jokes, complaints, "boosts," personal remarks not bordering on gossip, and even poetry—all these will be given space if commendable.

The presence of "big men on the hill" is a source of help and inspiration to the rest of the student body. Men with the betterment of the college at heart, and men who put their shoulders to the wheel in working for the general good of the college, are worth-while men. Without attempting to "make" any heroes, The Collegian will stand behind such workers, not only in the news columns, but editorially, even at the expense of arousing jealousy.

A newspaper, if it makes itself worth-while, should aid in moulding public opinion. It should both follow and lead. To labor for a spirit of teamwork in Aggie school life—that is the present goal of The Collegian.

The abolition of the daily chapel half hour is the faculty's most effective medicine for combating that spring disease with which the name of Cupid is so oft associated.

The Collegian might help combat the disease by publishing a list of "campus cases." Now hear the wail!

THIRD DEGREE MAKES DEBUT.

Somebody's "pep" bubbled over last week. The result was a little four-page semi-scandal sheet called the "Third Degree."

The publication's advice to the public is "Watch your step." The first issue passed the censor. Such a sheet has a place in school life here, if it behaves itself. The public reverses the admonishment and gives this advice to the publication, "Watch your step."

A fortune awaits the man who can induce woman-kind to accept dandelion bouquets.

One reason why we flunk is that we sit there feeling so sorry for the Prof's wife that we forget to listen to the recitation.

We noticed in a headline of last week's Collegian that a Pair of Sixes would be given in June. Now the Purple Masque has the right idea. Eligible Co-eds should not be faithful in a case like this. They went to step-right up and put in a bid. After all a pair of sixes and in these days when we are about to have to go back to cowhides and wooden ones, we can't let pride stand in the way.

Alas I do not want to go to war. Neither do I fancy common work. I simply want to see Old Glory soar. And wear a flag pin and a peaceful smirk.

There was an old man of Terentum Who gnashed his false teeth till he bent 'em; And when asked for the cost, Of what he had lost, Said, "Really, can't tell, for I rent 'em"

Wanted—An ideal Prof's wife. She must be intellectual (her husband will be that?) She must be able to cook (can't afford to hire one?) She must be economical (same reason?) She must have a plain, conservative taste for clothes (chaperon for "sweet things" five nights in the week?) Must not be athletic (if there's throwing to be done husband will do it?) If such a one is found she will undoubtedly answer to the name "wifey."

A senior had doubts as to the clearness of a point in his thesis. He read it to a freshman. The freshman understood. The senior doubts no more.

He kissed her on her rosy cheek. It was a pleasing smack; And quick she turned and frowned on him With—"Now, sir, take that back."

Concerning dates: There is a rumor about the campus that a new sign will soon appear in Aggieville. It will read "Consolidated Date Emporium." Good dates will be furnished both girls and boys for the modest sum of 10 cents per date. Money will be refunded during lemon season to those so desiring.

RIMES AND POEMS.

A Foolish Poem.

Oh, every man is a fool, say we, Yes, every man, Bah Jove. But every man can more foolish be If he will but fall in love.

(Although poetry is welcomed, the above sets a standard—it is the minimum. If poetry better than that can't be written, poetry will not be printed in the Collegian.—Editor.)

Pomes and Rimes.

Why don't you run a "collum" in the Collegian where every student can voice his opinion? We need opinions, and more opinions, and then still more opinions. You get to air yours in your editorials. Why not give us a chance to say something? JUSTICE.

CHOOSE THE REST HOUSE SITE

CLUB HOUSE WILL BE LOCATED NEAR ROCKY FORD DAM.

Boating, Swimming, Fishing and Accessibility are Site's Advantages.

The cadet corps club rest house will be built on a site about 200 yards north of the Rocky Ford dam, on the west bank of the Blue river. A committee from the club, accompanied by Captain L. O. Mathews, looked over the sites available around the dam, and chose a plot of ground just north of what is known as the "Bush house."

The building will be erected sometime in the near future, according to the present plans. It will be about 14 by 50 feet in size, and will be a combination of a boat house and a rest house. The rest house will be enclosed, and will have a fire place. The estimated cost is about $200.

The object of the rest house is to have a building where the college companies, and members of the cadet corps, may have organization hikes. Equipment, consisting of cooking and camp utensils, will be kept in the rest house at all times.

The site at the dam has many advantages. The placid stretch of water above the dam provides opportunity for boat races, and excellent fishing is to be had in the ripples below the dam.

Only four miles from Manhattan, the camp can be easily reached by foot, auto or bicycle. Union Pacific trains stop within a short distance of the camp site.

In addition to these methods of transportation "Cap" W. H. Sanders of the engineering department has arranged with two eastern automobile manufacturers for the use of two trucks, which are to be the property of the cadet corps.

This is a trench scene, remarkable in its vividness.

There will be but two shows each day—in the afternoon at 3:00 and evening at 8:20.

"The Spirits of Romance."

A Paramount picture presenting Vivian Martin in this exquisitely fantastic comedy drama. There are two forms of romance in this picture, the day dream, fairy book typified by Vivian Martin and the adventurous romance which we find in Herbert Standing, an old millionaire who has secret panels and peepholes in his mansion. Wareham's, April 26.

"The Darling of Paris."

Presenting Theda Bara, the most brilliant of screen artists. Suggested by Victor Hugo's romance, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." A profound human interest play, dramatic in action with Miss Bara impersonating the beautiful Gypsy girl, Esmeralda, the most delightful character in French literature. An advance price production but shown here at the usual prices. Wareham's, Wednesday, April 25.

"The Dummy."

Featuring Jack Pickford. In this he has drawn a typical American boy with a too great fondness for such heroes as Nick Carter and Jesse James, which however, when turned into right channels develops unexpected talent on his part. Don't miss this picture. Wareham's, Tuesday, April 24.

MANHATTAN, KANSAS

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

23. NUMBER 57

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, FRIDAY APRIL 27, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

11 WILL COMMISSIONS

HAVE PASSED BOTH MENTAL AND PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS.

Twenty-six Others Have Been Recommended for Admission to the Training Camp by Captain Mathews.

Eleven applicants for commissions in the officers' reserve corps will receive their commissions upon being admitted to the camp. They were fortunate enough to be examined and passed both mentally and physically, by Captain L. O. Mathews, head of the local examining board, before orders were received from the central department at Chicago that mental examinations would be dispensed with, and that commissions would only be given the successful applicants at the end of the three months' training.

Most of the men who are to receive their commissions in the corps soon are students. The list follows: Dr. N. L. Roberts, major; J. C. McClure, captain; J. H. Flora, L. H. Bixby, A. L. Willis, H. V. Pusch and Guy A. Russell, first lieutenants, and F. N. Jordan, Paul E. Palmer, E. T. Wheatley and W. H. Brooks, second lieutenants.

Since the last issue of the Collegian, 26 applicants have taken their physical examinations, and have been ordered to report at the Fort Riley training camp either May 7 or 8 without further orders. Those who have passed their physical examinations are John R. Neale, F. N. Pickrell, W. J. Clapp, A. E. Piene, F. B. Widmoyer, K. K. Snyder, A. E. Brewer, H. M. Gillespie, E. T. Dale, O. M. Thatcher, C. K. Champlin, H. W. Luhnrow, P. A. Kennicott, H. I. Hollister, J. M. Wirt, Nevels Pierson, C. E. Aubel, G. W. Sigler, Robert Schmidt and H. B. Dudley.

"A remarkable thing about the names of those who have applied is the large number of German descent," said Captain Mathews. "It indicates the stand of the German-Americans."

Captain Mathews is deluged with applications and letters. He is at his office all day. In accordance with an order from the central department at Chicago he communicates each evening the total number of men recommended by him, and the number remaining to be examined.

DAIRY OR BEEF CATTLE.

Farm Management Class Will Study Tuttle Dale Stock Farm.

Whether dairy cattle are more profitable than beef cattle for Tuttle Dale farm will be one phase of the study of the farm management class, which is to make a trip to the farm Saturday. The farm is the property of G. F. Wagner, college custodian, and is in charge of Ray Whitenack, who was graduated last Christmas in dairy husbandry.

Another phase of the class's study will be the landlord and tenant problem. Similar trips are planned for the class each week. Several have already been made.

ENGINEERS PUT OUT "EATS"

Compete With Cafeteria on Morning Meal.

The college cafeteria has a competitor. Junior students in electrical engineering are serving breakfast on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 o'clock. The morning meal is served in the engineering building to the engineers building to the engineers, by the engineers, and for the engineers who are making a study of electrical instruments under the direction of R. G. Kloeffer, assistant professor in electrical engineering.

An electric range has been connected to a meter and is being tested as to amount of current used, cost and other electrical problems. The data gathered by the class is to be used by seniors in the preparation of theses on the electrical range.

The class of 18 has been divided into groups of two. Each group is to prepare breakfast for one week without exceeding the price of 14 cents for each member.

Toast, coffee, eggs and pancakes are served and a member of the crew says that they are just like mother used to make. Dish washing is eliminated, practically, by the use of paper plates and tin cups.

If the war necessitates the practice they may devise a means of serving "hot cakes" to the troops at Fort Riley this summer.

OFF TO KANSAS CITY AGAIN.

Another Batch of D. S. Girls on an Inspection Trip.

Twenty girls enrolled in the institutional management left Thursday for Kansas City where they will spend two days inspecting eating houses, food supply plants, packing houses, and lunch rooms.

The girls were chaperoned by Miss Margaret Haggart, professor in domestic science, and Miss Nola Treat, director of the cafeteria. The party will stop at the Mehlbach hotel. The establishments to be visited are the Harvey house, the Mehlbach, the Christian Church hospital, the Armour packing house, the Emery, Bird Tea room, the northeast high school, and one or two restaurants and manufacturing plants. The party will return Saturday morning.

KEEP COOL, COLLEGE MAN

"The college man should enlist his brains, and not his brawn, for his country."

That is the opinion of Premier Balfour, of England, of President H. J. Waters, and of Captain Mathews, all men who are in a position to know our country's needs.

The warning should be heeded. It means that college men who enlist may not be doing the most patriotic service possible. It means that college men, who are superior mentally, are being depended upon by the government to do the directing and the managing, rather than to be directed and managed.

England's college men were the first to rush to the colors. They made an army that was hard to beat. They were well organized, well disciplined and fought well. But when England called for her second army, she lacked officers. Her best blood was in the trenches, where brawn is of more importance than brain. England learned her lesson too late, but she is sending advice to America.

The substance of England's advice is this:

"Use brawn where you need brawn, and brains where you need brains."

5 GIRLS IN MAY QUEEN RACE

Seniors Make Nominations for Ruler On Fete Day.

Five girls have been nominated by the senior class for the honor of reigning as queen at the annual May fete which will be held on May 19 this year. Those who have been nominated are Agnes McCorkle, Zora Harris, Merle Peaman, Vera McCoy and Margaret Mann. Preparations are now under way to make the fete this year a greater success than that of last year.

The plan of the program is an entertainment of the style of Robin Hood. The winding of the May poles and the crowning of the queen will be held in their usual order. J. A. Hull is chairman of the Y. M. committee, and Miss Hattie Droll is chairman of the Y. W. committee. Plans for the event are in charge of these two committees. Miss Ann Cahoon of the physical training department, has charge of the greater part of the program.

Ticket sale for the event will begin Saturday by the Y. W. girls. Tag day will be held on May 3 and all votes for the queen must be in by that date. Each person buying a ticket will be allowed one vote for one of the five girls which have been nominated. In addition for the vote for queen each voter will be allowed one vote for one queen's attendant. Each of the lower classes have the privilege of nominating three girls as attendants to the queen. Three attendants will be elected and three appointed by the queen.

"Keep Cool" Say Those Who Know

By President H. J. Waters.

Ordinarily you plan your course of action on the basis of advantage to yourself. Now you must plan it on the basis of service to your country. Not more than five per cent of our people will be called to arms. But we are all in this war. Each must do his part, and it must be that part which he can best do. Some must fight. Some must produce. Some must prevent waste. Some must conserve health. Some must get ready to reconstruct the world when the war is over. One service is just as patriotic and important as the other. The greatest calamity that can befall our country would be for our high schools and colleges to cease preparing men and women to bear the country's largest responsibilities. For every student called to the front, another should come forward to take his place. Keep cool! Think it all through. Find what service you can best render to your country. Then act!

By Captain L. O. Mathews.

In the crisis now existing, college students should not only "keep their shirts on," as the expression goes, but should take off their hats and let their heads keep cool. The United States government is trying to profit by England's sad experience in sacrificing her best blood in the first battle, as recounted by Premier Balfour before the president and his cabinet a few days ago. Many students are losing their heads rushing to the colors as enlisted men, while the war department is making every effort to hold them at intensive military training colleges, thereby creating a source from which material for officers can be secured if the war is lasting. For every student in college undergoing military training today, there are at least a thousand men of equal physique, but of a lower mentality and with less ambition, available for the rank and file.

I have turned back into the college a great number of freshmen and sophomores, immature, but excellent material for development, thus complying with the request of the war department. A man should seriously consider before joining the colors, whether he would be of greater service in or out. If a student is a factor in the production of food or other necessities, in any way, he must be the last to volunteer. If we are fortunate enough to have universal service, otherwise known as conscription, adopted, these men will be kept in their proper places by legal procedure.

NO HALT IN ENGINEER PLAN BAKER WAS BEATEN, 78-26

WAR WILL NOT CAUSE POSTPONEMENT OF BIG DOINGS

Charlie Chaplin Will Prove That He is an Engineer in Chapel Tuesday.

Even though war has thinned out the ranks of the engineers to a considerable extent, they have completed and expect to carry out their plans for the first week in May. Next week will be taken up by the engineers for the first annual engineers week held at K. S. A. C.

The plans at first outlined will be carried out in general. A few changes have been made to make room for other events. The engineers will hold chapel on Tuesday and following chapel, there will be open house in the engineering building. The chapel program will consist of a band concert by the engineers band, which is composed of the majority of Burr Ozmert's military band, and of proof by Charlie Chaplin himself that he is an engineer and is proud of it.

Then Comes the Parade. On Wednesday night at eight o'clock will be staged the first engineers electrical parade at Manhattan. The parade will start at the engineering building and pass along the principal streets of the city. Each of the five engineering divisions will have two floats beside several extra floats including a float given by the home economics division.

Instead of having the half holiday on Thursday as originally planned, it will be given to the engineering students on Tuesday afternoon. This change has been made to enable all students to hear the address of Joseph Harrington, one of the foremost engineers of the day.

Give Ball Friday Eve.

On Friday night will be given the second annual engineers ball. Tickets for the ball may be obtained from C. A. Frankenhoff or W. E. Dickerson. The interior of the gym will be decorated as well or better than for a junior-senior. Wm. Caton, the chief decorator for the junior-senior in '16, is in charge of the decorations. The Maupin-Skelley ten-piece orchestra will furnish music.

Electrical Expert Coming.

R. H. Barber, president of the Barber-James-Dwinnell Electric & Mfg. Co., will talk before the electrical engineering student seminar Thursday, April 26th at 4:00 o'clock in A 10 on "Manufacture and Application of Electric Storage Batteries." The Barber-James-Dwinnell Co. has just recently removed their factory from Kansas City to Topeka, where they are now engaged in manufacturing storage batteries and complete electric house lighting plants.

Governor Capper has appointed A. A. Potter, dean of the engineering division at the college, as chairman of the committee who will make a special study of means by which the state resources may be conserved. They will experiment on the power plants of the various state institutions and as soon as the plan is proven, it will be made known to the public. There is a wide field for study and this committee will begin their work immediately.

The affirmative team, meeting the Warrensburg negative here is composed of Fern Roderick, Helen Mitchell and Hazel Merrill.

FEMININE ATHLETES PLAN.

Girls are Arranging Hikes and Other Things.

The second meeting of the Girls' Athletic association has been announced for Tuesday, May 5, at five o'clock. Not enough members came out for the first meeting to carry out all the proposed plans.

Two officers for the spring term were elected Tuesday. Miss Nyle LeWallen was appointed hike manager. In cooperation with the physical training instructors organized hikes will be planned which will count as credit toward winning the "K" offered by the Athletic association. The hike schedule will be announced later. Miss Ferol Stratton was chosen tennis manager. Arrangements for the spring tennis tournament will be made next week.

At the next meeting of the association the regular officers will be elected for next year and also a baseball manager for this term. The winners of numerals for basketball and hockey will be presented. The cards for recording points toward winning a "K" have recently been printed and are now ready for use. All girls who are working for the letter are asked to fill out one of the cards.

AGGIE COWS GOOD PRODUCERS.

NEBRASKA IS HERE TODAY

STEWART MEN ARE NEW TO THE GAME, AND MAY LOSE.

McGrath Will Probably do the Hurting for Clevenger—Team is in Good Shape, Says Coach.

With their first baseball team in five years the Nebraska Cornhuskers will invade the Aggie camp this afternoon for a series of two games against Clevenger's team. Getting a line on what to expect from an entirely new team such as is the Cornhusker aggregation is a difficult matter because strange things happen sometimes. It being said that the beginner always wins.

Nebraska started its season by trimming Nebraska Wesleyan in two games with counts of 4 to 1 and 2 to 1. Something much different was met at K. U. Wednesday, however, and the Cornhuskers went down in a 13 to 2 defeat.

According to Coach Clevenger the Aggie nine is in the best condition it has been in this season. While the rain recently has put the field in poor shape the coach promises that the team which faces the Cornhuskers this afternoon will be in the best condition of the season, and should humble its proud foe by a good margin.

During the past two weeks the Aggies have been showing improvement, especially an entirely different team from that which faced Missouri with such sorrowful results at the beginning of the season.

"Mac" McGrath will start the game on the pitcher's mound for the Aggies this afternoon and "Dutch" Hewey is slated for the hurter's position in the battle Saturday.

The Aggie line-up for the game this afternoon will be Harvey, 1 f.; Guilford, c.; Clark, 1 b.; Reynolds, c. f.; Sullivan, ss.; Newton, 3 b.; Wooster, 2 b.; McLeod, r. f.; and McGrath, p.

Nebraska's line-up will be as follows: Crownover, 3 b.; McMullen, ss.; Crandall, r. f.; Marney, 1 b.; Shaw, c.; Riddell, c. f.; Rogers, 2 b.; Pressley, 1 f. Pickett, p.

SHEEP ARE DOING THEIR "BIT."

Wool to Warm Soldiers Being Given Up Now.

To furnish warm uniforms and sweaters for our army the sheep belonging to the animal husbandry department are surrendering their wool. This year's crop of fibre promises to be a profitable one since the price is twice as high as usual, being now nearly 50 cents per pound. The clipping is being done by the classes in livestock management under the direction of A. E. Paterson, assistant in animal husbandry.

The classes in advanced judging derive a great training by being able to see and examine the sheep both before and after being shorn. A record of the clip from outstanding animals are being kept for basis of comparison.

SPRING DEBATERS ARE OUT

Federal Control of Railways Is Subject to Talkfest.

Spring debate tryouts will be held on June 1, 2 and 4. These dates are Friday, Saturday and Monday. The question for use is, "Resolved, That the federal government should own and control interstate railroads."

Coach Burk said in regard to the tryouts, "Many people have been asking questions about the tryouts and rules. This seems to indicate that there will be many trying for the squads. There are also several of last year's squad that will be eligible for the coming season. In all respects the outlook for a strong squad for next year is good. The time for the folks that expect to try to get busy is now."

"All who expect to tryout see me in my office in A 53 any second hour," said Coach Burk. "It will be necessary for them to make appointments for the time they are to tryout. The same question is to be used in the intersociety debates the last Saturday in May."

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1917.

THE WOMAN'S "BIT"

President Waters struck home Tuesday in chapel when he told the women that their part in the world war would compare with the part played by the men.

The women can commence doing their "bit" right now. At several Eastern colleges, resolutions have been passed against extravagance in women's dress. This action suggests to women of the West that they should awaken—that sacrifices of all kinds in the direction of economy are necessary to the successful conclusion of the war.

The action of several local sororities in cancelling their annual spring term dances is commendable. It is one instance of deep and patriotic thinking in the midst of complacency and indifference.

But why not carry this further? To a large degree, women influence the purses of men. Dinner-parties, dances and the theater are all forms of extravagance, ranking with Germany as common enemies. Why couldn't the patriotic woman suggest to the man who offers to foolishly spend money entertaining her that he give that money to the Red Cross, or that he save that money for a "rainy day," several of which are forecasted during the present war storm? Either would be a form of patriotism.

Sacrifices are necessary. That should be impressed upon everyone. The woman—or man, either—who wastes money, food or clothing in the present crisis is lacking in the higher patriotism that places devotion to country and to others above devotion to self.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME.

Opportunity is knocking at the door of many a K. S. A. C. student. The school is giving its leaders to the nation. The Fort Riley training camp takes from the school some of the "biggest" men in school life, men who have been the backbone of politics, military, athletics and school spirit in general. Other men must come forward to take their places.

The military department will suffer heaviest. With more than half of the commissioned officers already signed up to go, and with others applying, men with the executive ability to command companies, and keep the department up to its present high state of efficiency, will be much in demand. Should both Captain Mathews and Captain Claeron be called into active service, the need will be even more pressing, for that would necessitate the appointment of a student as acting commandant. Who is big enough to handle the job?

Athletics will be another hard-hit department. Almost a half of the baseball team will enter the camp. If athletics is to be carried on, and high military authorities have recommended that it should, the departure of these men will offer openings to other men. The track team will suffer also, but not so heavily as will the baseball nine.

What is true of the military and athletic departments is true of every organization in the college. Presidents of classes, societies and fraternities will leave, and the work will fall to vice-presidents and subordinates.

The point is just this: are there men in school ready and able to step into the shoes of those who depart? Are there men who can shoulder the work, who can step into the various activities and keep up the pace, without a "I'm not prepared to do this, because I didn't know the work would fall on me."

If such men come to the fore, it will be the making of them, an it will mean that K. S. A. C. school life will go on without more than a ripple. But it all depends on the remaining students.

SIGNS OF LIFE, GIRLS.

The May Queen contest is on. Misses Agnes, McCorkle, Zora Harris, Margaret Mann, Vera McCoy and Merle Beaman have been nominated.

Let's have a "hot" campaign. Let's have some of the ginger and fight that there is in such contests at other schools. Not "mud-slinging"—we don't mean that—but just good rivalry. It will help take our minds off the war.

Letters on "Who is best for May Queen" will be printed in the "Out of the Mail Box" column, provided the communications are not too long or too numerous.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Editor Collegian:

I don't know what you want in your "Out of the Mail Box" column, but if you'll take this, here goes:

Miss Agnes McCorkle is the logical May queen. She has a radiant Irish beauty all her own. She has a good disposition. She has brains. She makes friends, and never loses 'em. She has "pep" enough to mix into college affairs, and she's a "gun" when it comes to managing things. Therefore, Mr. Editor, and students of K. S. A. C., in view of the above facts, and of several hundred others that I have mentioned, I nominate for May Queen, Miss Agnes McCorkle.

Yours truly,

JUST JESTS, JOKES AND OTHER JUNK.

Good, Bad, and Worse.

The lonely owl solemnly proclaims the midnight hour as weary and footsore from climbing Wild Cat's rocky steep, and sick from devouring half cooked junk, two drowsy couples stumbled homeward from that insidious pastime, hiking.

That's Play.

The morning sun shines aslant across the room and weary hiker, abed but a few short hours, rolls over and grudgingly answers the summons of his alarm clock, calling him forth for another weary day.

That's Work.

The June bug bumps against the prof's spectacles as that worthy jubilant records a round goose-egg in his grade book at the term's end.

That's Hell.

Have You Noticed?

That the enrollment of the campus lab classes is rapidly increasing? That many students are being stricken with the sure but delicious malady known as spring fever?

That lawn and porch swings are increasing in popularity?

That many of our boys have joined the back to the farm movement?

That some students are still cutting across the campus?

That Wildcat is again luring nature's students and that the sale of weinies is increasing?

That you can hear the yellow caps almost as far as you can see them?

That the recruiting station with the girl waiting to kiss the boys as soon as they enlist is the most popular?

That some girls still get by with this gushy "coo" stuff that some people are want to call coquetry?

Advice to hungry fraternity man—"Eat the chapter roll."—Sun Dial.

RHYMES AND POEMS.
PROOFS OF SPRINGTIME.

While winter winds were blowing fierce,
O'er glistening fields of drifting snow,
The weather man informed us
The skies will soon be clear,
For winter's back is broken,
And Spring will soon be here.

The air is pungent with the smoke
Of smouldering leaves and prairie fires,
The plowboy in the distant field,
The lark on vibrant wing,
The campus dotted thick with sheep,
True harbingers of Spring.

Again the ice man makes his rounds,
With ice to keep the butter cool,
While Profs. Utt and King are plotting,
How they'll take a fishing trip.

On the field the team is planning
For another championship.

The rooky lad and sweet co-ed
At chapel time on Thursday morn,
Or any vacant hour they have,
To hear the robins sing,
Down Lover's Lane go strolling,
For 'tis wooing time, 'tis Spring.

While at times these signs may fall us,
There's one on which we may depend,
And we know that Spring is with us,
That King Winter's really gone,
When the fuzzy dandelions
Come to beautify the lawn.
W. H., '18.

MORNING DELIGHTS.

How sweet to waken in the morn,
When the sunbeams first begin to creep
Across the bed and then to turn Right back again and go to sleep.

—Youngstown Telegram.
How sweet to rouse at 1 a. m.
And bid a long farewell to slumber
And fall across a chair to tell
Some chump he's called the wrong number.

—Houston Post.
How sweet to waken in the morn—
For column men what greater bliss
Than browsing through the news to find
A "filler" that's as long as this.

—Birmingham (Ala.) Herald.
How sweet to waken in the morn
Roused by the dread alarm-clock's blast
Crawl from your bed and dress and find,
That blamed old thing's two hours too fast.

—Judge.
How sweet to waken in the morn,
Roused by their horrid clatter
To find the guys across the hall,
Have used all the hot water.

—Hellbox.
How sweet to rouse at 4 a. m.
And grind like some poor Jay,
Then journey up to class to hear
This news: "No quiz today."

CUTLED CLIPPINGS.

A headline in the University Daily Kansan contains a notice of a new apairy being built south of their gymnasium. Until we looked up the word, to be sure, we thought K. U. had solved the college dude problem by segregating them in a sort of dormitory for missing links.

Prof. F. C. Tilden of DePauw has declared himself in favor of a law providing that no school under control of the state shall ever flunk anybody. He said that he would strongly advocate such a measure in case he was chosen delegate to a constitutional convention.

Many colleges are sending out glee clubs during this season. But K. S. A. C. is doing a characteristic thing, they now have four college cows on a trip. However, they are not sent on a concert tour, so the analogy with glee clubs is not pronounced.—South Western Collegian.

But it was magnanimous of South Western to even admit a similarity, in view of the fact that their glee club is going on a tour.

Now that the K. U. Senate has passed a rule against padding, someone has stepped up with a plea for Dipping Dapper Dudes. We probably wouldn't have noticed this if we hadn't been Nipping Napper News.

These exchanges have commented upon our "no dancing for profit" rule. Possibly they are wondering how we ever come to presume that one COULD profit by dancing.

Dallas H. Linscott, who was graduated from the college last year, has taken his physical examination for a commission in the U. S. marine corps, according to word received by F. R. Rawson. He passed the examination and will receive his commission in a few days.

Until his commission arrives, Linscott contemplates joining the marine officers' reserve corps. If he does this, he will leave Pittsburg, Pa., where he is at present, for Washington, D. C., immediately.

PELT RETURNS ARE HEAVY

A Check for $76.23 Received for Hides by A. H. Dept.

An account of sales amounting to $76.23 has been received by the animal husbandry department from the C. J. Mustion Commission Co. of Kansas City, Mo. The returns were in payment for 17 sheep pelts and three beef hides that were the accumulation from last term's class in meats.

This is the second shipment this year, the first one having been sent out in the fall. Besides those mentioned, several animals have been slaughtered for various individuals. The returns indicate the large amount of meats required for laboratory material.

Y. HEARS SETTLEMENT WORKER

Miss Carr Tells of Chicago Social Work.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting Thursday afternoon was made especially interesting with a talk by Miss Anne B. Carr, a worker from Association House Settlement in Chicago. Miss Carr talked on social settlement work and told how the settlement had originated as a part of the Young Women's Christian association.

In summarizing Miss Carr spoke of the disappointments and bitter trials of the work among the young girls at the start.

"But you never can tell when the seed you sow will bear good results. The results are now very satisfying. Thirty of our first club of forty young, frivolous girls, as we then called them, have thanked us. Another point is the joy of this kind of service. An organization of this sort, located in the midst of needy people calls for all types of social workers, instructors in domestic art, domestic science, Y. W. C. A. work and gymnasium teachers."

Two hundred girls heard the talk.

FRATERNITIES CLOSE UP

Withdrawal of Ohio Ag. Students Makes Move Necessary.

Columbus, Ohio.—The three agricultural fraternities—Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Zeta and Delta Theta Sigma—of the Ohio state university here have found it necessary to close their houses because practically the entire membership of each chapter has withdrawn from school.

"We will have only two men," said a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho last night, "and they are here because they haven't a farm to go back to."

The other fraternities reacted that they would each have four men left.

AN ART EXPERT IS COMING.

Frank Parsons of New York will be here May 2.

Art in relation to the home, to dress and to advertising will be the subject matter that Frank Alvah Parsons, president of New York school of fine and applied arts, will speak on while here May 2 and 3.

"The lectures given by Mr. Parsons are put into popular form and make their appeal by being applied to objects of everyday life. They are just as interesting and instructive to men as to women," according to Miss Arminia Holman, instructor in home art.

Mr. Parsons is on his way to Lincoln, Neb., where he will speak before the western drawing and manual training teachers' association. He is a well known authority on home decorations and is the author of the book "Interior Decorations Its Principles and Practices." He will lecture here Wednesday, May 2, at 4 p. m. in the auditorium, and at assembly Thursday morning.

Mr. Parsons gives lectures to the advertising league of New York and surrounding cities. An attempt is being made to have him address the class in advertising here. Further announcements will be made in the next issue.

Columbus, Ohio.—With the end of the second day for withdrawals from the Ohio state university, the college of agriculture had experienced a male enrollment of 310 out of a total enrollment of 750. Total withdrawals number 373. The college of arts had 48 withdrawals during two days.

"Would give $100 for a good mile relay team."

That was the telegram Germany Schulz received last week from Johnnie Griffith, manager of the Drake relay carnival held at Des Moines Saturday.

This was Germany's answer: "So would I."

"Dutch" Hewey's "spitter" afforded the fans no little amusement at last Friday's Bethany-Aggie farce. The poor Swede batters nearly broke their backs swinging at some of "Dutch's" deceptive deliveries.

The "spitter," although not a fast ball, is harder on a pitcher's arm than any ball he can pitch.

"It doesn't make any difference, though," says "Dutch." "I don't expect to play ball for a living and I might as well throw the old arm away now as any time."

If McGrath pitches as he did in the first half of the last Missouri game, if "Dutch" Hewey gets control over his "spitter," and if the superior pitching of "Breck" Brackheisen was not merely a flash, then Coach Clevenger will have a trio of hurlers that will stand up against any pitchers in the valley. A team's strength is largely in its pitchers, and with the Aggie hurlers rapidly rounding into form, the Clevenger nine looks to be about due to start on a winning streak.

There is little sentiment in the valley for the abolishment of athletics. The general opinion seems to be that men who are keeping themselves physically strong are preparing themselves. "Bennie" Owen's Oklahoma Sooners, although not a valley team, have discarded their baseball bats and substituted broomsticks, in the absence of guns. Some talk emanated from Missouri that the Tigers may suspend athletics, but apparently the story was only the dream of some reporter.

PROHIBITION NOW-KAMMEYER

Means the Conservation of Manhood and Womanhood.

A Democratic caucus in congress has voted in favor of national prohibition during the period of war according to a telegram received by J. E. Kammeier, professor of economics, last Friday morning.

Professor Kammeier is one of the hundred and fifty men of the country who were requested to give their opinion of national prohibition by this caucus. Two weeks ago inquiries were sent to college professors, business men, and men of national affairs and the answers that were submitted by these men were unanimous in favor of prohibiting the sale of liquor throughout the whole country during the war.

The movement has been started by the National Defense League and the men whose cooperation has been received will be asked to exert their influence in their community toward securing national prohibition as a law. It will be presented as a bill before congress in the near future. All prohibition forces are making a big drive on the legislative body.

"Now is the psychological moment to bring about national prohibition because it is needed and there is so much sentiment in favor of it," said Professor Kammeier. "Those who op-

TWO COLLEGE MEN INJURED.

Cable Wilson and Harold Uhl Crushed Into Curb.

A motorcycle driven by Cable Wilson, an employee at the dairy barn, with Harold Uhl on the tandem, crashed into the curb of the parking at the corner of Poyntz and Park road, Sunday evening. Both of the boys were injured.

Wilson, who is the four time milker at the dairy barn of the Kansas State Agricultural college, and his friend had just returned from Wilson's home near Topeka when they decided to go down to the filling station before putting up their machine for the night.

Wilson was helped into a passing automobile and taken to the hospital where he soon recovered and was able to return to his room at the dairy barn. Uhl was able to take the motorcycle to the repair shop. The machine was not badly damaged.

HONEST MEN ARE NEEDED.

Lies and Fakes Are Out of Date, Says Cecil Howe.

To be a newspaper staff correspondent one must be absolutely honest. The day of the newspaper liar and faker is past, according to Cecil Howe, Topeka correspondent for the Kansas City Star, who spoke to industrial journalism students Wednesday morning.

"The staff correspondent is more than a reporter," asserted Mr. Howe. "He speaks for the paper. He must honestly and truly believe in the policy of his paper, and should always be ready to take the responsibility for any yarn he wants to print."

The newspapers made up the only fighting affair for human welfare until women came into politics, it was pointed out. The newspaper staff correspondent does not try to buy votes or to direct legislatures, but by furnishing information and giving advice he comes to have a large influence with politicians.

ENGINEERING WEEK IS ON

DEAN POTTER'S DIVISION IS IN CHARGE OF EVERYTHING UNTIL FRIDAY.

Charlie Chaplin Will Hold Forth in Chapel This Morning—Engineering Department Will Hold Open House This Afternoon.

Starting Tuesday at 9:00 a. m. the Engineers of Kansas State will hold sway until the last strains of the synchronizing music have left the halls of the gymnasium after the big dance Friday night.

Today in the chapel by the engineers, the band will prove that if it were not for the Charlie Chaplins, the St. Patricks, and the other engineers, there would be no band.

Immediately after the chapel the entire engineering buildings will be thrown open and everyone will be welcome. Guides have been stationed throughout the buildings who are only too glad to show and explain the wonders of engineering. One look through the laboratories will show why "engineering lab" is almost as attractive as "campus lab."

"Here Comes the Parade."

Wednesday evening will witness the biggest, the best, and the most wonderful exhibition of engineering feats ever seen at Kansas State in the way of a parade. The parade will start at 8:00 P. M. from the engineering buildings and will make a circuit through the streets of the city and back to the engineering hall. This parade will be headed by Charlie Chaplin who will endeavor to keep out of the way of the energetic little tractor which has been made by the students in the machine shops.

The Engineers band the "cream of the best college band in the West," will make known its existence by furnishing music, to the time of which, all the engines will proudly march.

The "Home Engineers," the most important of all classes of engineers, will follow the band and will lead the other engineering department floats. This float will rank as one of the best floats of the parade and will show why the "Home Engineers" are so dear to all.

The Mechanics with their flashy revolving mechanisms will appear next in line. They will be followed by the milling engineers who will escort a baby mill. This mill is a complete flour mill in the miniature and the millers will display their skill in the manufacture of flour.

Perpetual Motion

The Electricals will defy the laws of the universe and clearly show that, at last "perpetual motion" has been attained. The Junior Electricals will demonstrate their cooking achievements and their handiness about the household.

At last the Architects have built a house. They will proudly exhibit it. Last but not least the Civils will demonstrate their warlike spirit even though it be on the ocean.

Herrington Talk

Tuesday, Mr. Joseph Herrington, one of the foremost engineers of America, will address the Engineering students. Mr. Herrington is an engineer of a wide and extensive experience and will have something that will be worth hearing.

Friday will be the grand climax to the festivities. Promptly at 8:30 the music will start and the biggest Engineers Synchronizer will be in progress. This will be the grandest event ever at Kansas State and will be a fitting closing event.

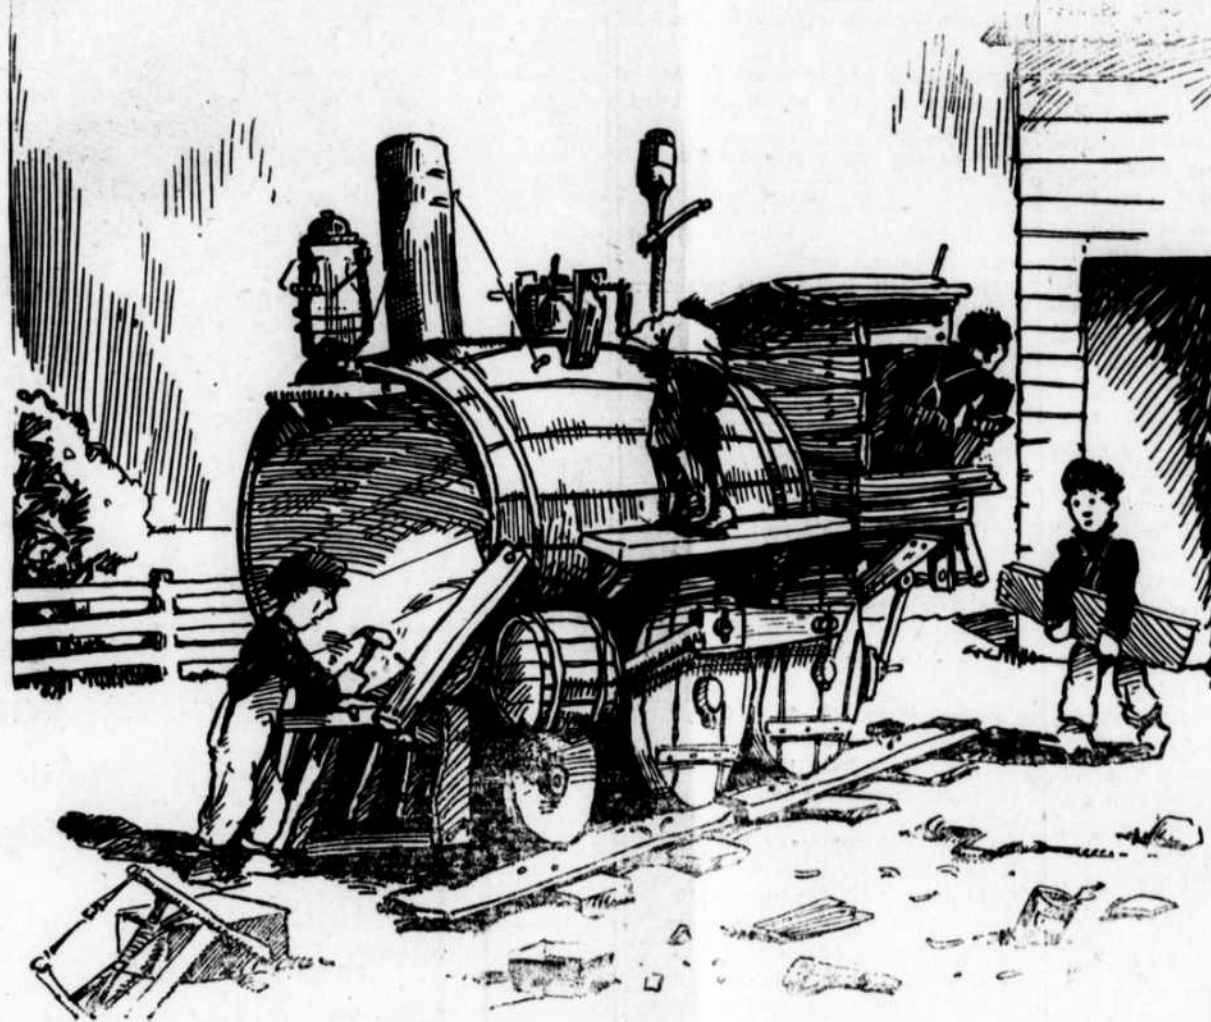

STUDY K. C. LUNCH ROOMS.

Miss Nola Treat Chaperones Twenty D. S. Inspectors.

The lunch room management and institutional management classes went to Kansas City Thursday to study different methods of conducting lunch rooms. The class of 20 was accompanied by Miss Nola Treat, director of the cafeteria.

At the Mehlbach hotel where the party stayed, hotel management and hotel buying were explained by the manager. Other places visited were the Emery, Bird, Thayer tea room, the Harvey house in the Union Station, the Christian Church hospital, the Armour packing company, the National Biscuit company, and a number of cafeterias.

On Saturday the H. D. Lee Mercantile company entertained the party at luncheon.

ENGINEERS OF THE FUTURE.

The success of the Engineering week is due to the untiring effort of the various committees in charge. These committees embody nearly every Engineer in College.

I. O. Mall is general manager for the entire week. He is also parade manager. J. S. Gullledge is in charge of the chapel exercises. The dance is in charge of W. N. Caton. R. H. Oliver is Publicity Manager. Keen Umbehr is the official yell leader.

C. D. Hultgren has charge of the supplies. G. A. Sellers is the boss of the open house affairs.

The question of finance has been left to C. A. Frankenhoff and W. E. Dickerson. The Collegian is in charge of O. K. Rumbel.

DR. REISNER TO COLUMBIA

Head of Department of Education to Leave K. S. A. C.

Dr. E. H. Reisner, professor of education and acting head of the department of education and the summer school, has resigned his position here to accept an appointment as lecturer in History and principles of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. Mr. Reisner is planning to teach the same subject in the summer school in Teachers College which is in session from July 9 to August 17.

E. L. Kent, associate professor of education who succeeds Mr. Reisner as director of the summer school will also be acting head of the department of education.

The classes that Mr. Reisner would have taught will be in charge of Dean James Swift of Washington University of St. Louis, Mo.

Expressing regret for he and Mrs. Reisner, Mr. Reisner remarked, "We have spent a most delightful four years here and leave only to accept a greater field of opportunity."

WHO WILL BE MAY QUEEN?

No One, Not Even "Hiser Ups," Know Who Is Running.

The May Queen campaign is progressing in uncertainty. Whether or not there are three or five nominees is not known, nor will it be known until the special meeting of the senior class convenes this afternoon.

Misses Agnes McCorkle, Vera McCoy and Zora Harris are sure to be in the race. Whether or not the rumors that Miss Merle Beaman and Miss Margaret Mann have withdrawn from the race are true is not known nor will it be known until this class meeting. In other words, the seniors "aren't putting out a thing" on the race.

Voting on candidates will close Thursday, when the results will be tabulated and the name of the new May Queen made public.

ATHLETES ARE ENGINEERS

HAD TWO REPRESENTATIVES ON VALLEY QUINTET.

And There is a Good Supply of Freshman Material for Next Year's Teams.

An engineer is an engineer regardless of how he combs his hair or where he is placed. In athletics he doesn't stop to figure out the true course of a projectile when he makes a forward pass, or to consider the momentum of a moving body when he takes the last hurdle in the 220 yds. Put him where ever occasion demands and he makes good. Possibly he possesses some mechanical intuition which is lacking in the great common herd. There is a something that makes him good.

In athletics at K. S. A. C. he does his part. Sometime between halves in basketball game you might ask Van Trine how many feet of number "20" wire should be used in making a motor that would supply sufficient current for 'seven 100 watt lamps. If he wasn't in too big a hurry he might stop and figure out the answer. "Slim" Fullington would be glad to tell you how much pressure would have to be applied to the head of a 10 penny nail to cause it to bend or to drive it one-half inch into a pine board. "Wamego" Leonard, '16, basketball "K" man figured stress in a steel bridge with as much accuracy as he shot goals. Now there are some engineers!

George Was an Engineer.

George Ferrier, '16, the pill pitcher of precision was an engineer and when he wasn't drawing plans for draw bridges and churches he could be found playing baseball.

J. H. Welch, '16, and John Bixby, '18, are men who put the engineering "K" in track. They have successfully figured the velocity of their opponents on the track and then have accelerated that velocity just enough to beat them. They can do such work with knowledge of engineering they possess.

Promising Freshmen Coming.

Now these are a few of the men who are making good in K. S. A. C. athletics. There are a large number of engineers in athletics this year who have not made letters but are prospects of the future. There is a crop of freshman engineers in athletics whose demonstrations seem promising and oracular. Just wait—these engineers have helped us engineer a Missouri Valley championship team and they are going to locomotive our athletic team to some more deserving successes. Watch the engineers!

Y. W. To Hear Miss Oswald.

Miss Nellie Oswald, of Kansas City, will speak on "Women in the Professions" at the regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday afternoon.

ENGINEERS SOLVE PROBLEMS

THESES ARE WRITTEN ON VARIETY OF SUBJECTS.

A Number of Designs, All Practical, Being Worked Out by Engineers.

Each engineer, before graduation, is required to work out some original problem or design pertaining to his respective course, as a thesis. The end of the school year is not far distant so the seniors are busily engaged with their theses. The problems and designs, upon which they are working are many and varied. They range from the complete design of a ten story hotel to electric socket appliances.

The problems which the electrical engineers are working out are very practical. E. V. Kesinger and F. H. Nash are working on "Electric Water Heaters." They are gathering data on the time required to heat different quantities of water and the cost of operation of electric heaters.

G. A. Cunningham and P. C. Rawson are gathering data on electric ranges, including power consumed and time required to attain a certain temperature as compared with other kinds of heaters.

R. S. Kirk and W. C. Ernsting are working on a farm lighting plant to be operated by a windmill. A storage battery is to be used in connection with the plant in order to give continuous service.

Conduct Lighting Test.

R. B. Leydig and H. A. Williams are conducting tests on the lighting plant of a neighboring town. They are especially interested in obtaining data on the storage battery equipment which is used in connection with the plant. The generating equipment is only operated about five hours a day, the storage battery carrying the load the remainder of the time.

The title of the thesis upon which L. G. Tubbs and C. A. Wallerstedt are working is "Rating of Series Motors for Intermittent Service." The rating depends greatly on the speed at which the motor is operating and the time it is in operation.

Foo Yoen Lim and P. R. Lemly are working on "Electric Socket Appliances."

L. K. Varcoe is running a test on the Delco farm lighting plant. He will determine both the commercial and thermal efficiencies of the machine. He also intends to determine the cost of operation and the upkeep of the plant.

R. H. Oliver, C. D. Hultgren and William Klooz are making a commutation test by the use of the oscillograph. They will attempt to find out what effect commutation has upon the wave shape of an induced E. M. F. and also the resultant current. They also wish to determine the current distribution in the brushed, discover whether it spreads through the brush at the point of contact with the armature or whether it spreads out fan shape as it advances up the brush to the pig tail, or what its actual distribution is. The results obtained will be very helpful both in the operation and design of dynamo electric machines.

A Distant Stage Recorder.

The senior civils have chosen some difficult problems to solve. George Gray and Harry Tyrrell are installing a distant stage recorder on the Kansas river. The instrument consists of a float at the river which is electrically connected to a recording meter placed in the engineering building. By this means, the height of the river at any time may be observed and by knowing the height the rate of discharge may be calculated.

R. W. Haeger and T. Bright are designing a bridge to span Wildcat creek. Their purpose is to design a bridge which would be suitable for the Manhattan interurban line to use at the point where it crosses the Wild Cat.

A. E. Dyatt and G. A. Russell are making a design of a power plant for a combination irrigation and power project. This design includes a diversion dam, a storage dam, and a high pressure pipe line.

J. A. Novak and J. H. Flora, seniors in milling engineering are each designing a complete flour mill.

Architects are Designing.

The seniors in Architecture are each designing a building of some kind. J. A. Hull is designing a bank building, O. K. Rumbel is designing a church, S. E. Barnes is designing a high school building for a town with a population of 10,000, and O. B. Githens is working on the plans for a ten story hotel incorporation into the plans a fireproof construction and modern conveniences.

Of the senior mechanical engineers W. E. Paterson and G. A. Sellers have designed an all-gear-head engine lathe. They are now working on the construction of a model.

C. C. Brown and L. L. Luper are working on "The Thermal Conductivity of Insulating Materials," while W. N. Caton and A. C. Arnold are testing "Petroleum Substitutes."

Miss Eula Butzerin, temporarily employed in the division of extension to give instructions in home nursing, and Miss Alice Poulter, specialist in home economics, division of extension, will hold an extension school in Bern next week for the purpose of giving instructions in home nursing and food preparation.

WAR CREDIT TO ALL

THOSE WHO GO TO FARM, AS WELL AS THOSE WHO ENLIST, INCLUDED.

NO GRADES TO BE GIVEN

STUDENT WILL MERELY BE CREDITED FOR WORK DONE, SAYS STATEMENT.

Electives Probably Will be Substituted for Pre-requisites—Those Who Withdraw Must Make Regular Reports to Deans.

Credit for work in which he is passing will be given to every Aggie student who withdraws from college to enter either the military or the industrial branch of the United States army. For the past week students have been given credits individually but not until yesterday afternoon were any general plans announced by Dean J. T. Willard, who has been placed in charge of the matter by President Waters.

National service in the army, navy or productive industries will be considered sufficient excuse for withdrawal and credit, according to Dean Willard's statement. Reports will be required from time to time, however, in order to assure the authorities that no student has withdrawn merely to obtain his credit without having completed the course.

No definite grade will be assigned to the courses from which the student withdraws. Notation that the work has been credited because the student withdrew for patriotic service will be made by the registrar.

Electricity for Pre-requisites. The matter of crediting pre-requisites is left with the deans. It is probable that little credit will be given where work is required in a course, but an equal amount of credit in electives may be granted by the dean.

Announcement was made by Dean Willard last week that seniors who enlisted would receive credit for their work. His latest statement affects those who actually enlist, those who enter the Fort Riley training camp and those who enter farm or other industrial work.

Dean Willard's statement follows: "Any student leaving college in order to perform a national service in the army, navy or productive industries will be excused from attendance for the remainder of the term, and granted credit toward graduation to the extent of as many term hours as are represented by the courses in which the student is doing passing work at the time of such excuse."

"In as much as many of the assignments include courses which are prerequisite to others, the student's dean shall determine in each case the subjects against which the credits allowed shall be applied."

"The registrar will make a record showing the facts in each case."

"It is not intended that students who are slackers in spirit shall be permitted to take advantage of this recognition of patriotic sacrifice in order to get credits without rendering real service to the country. A student so excused will be required to make reports to the college authorities at such times as may be deemed necessary."

EXCURSIONS BRING STUDENTS.

High School People Who Visit College are Inspired to Attend.

Excursions made to colleges by high school classes under the guidance of their instructors inspire the young folks with a desire to come to college, thinks Walter Burr, of the extension division. In citing an instance, he remarked that out of a visiting class of 20, three came to this college. One of these three is now in Columbia University, another is now instructor in a college and the third is teaching school and is planning to bring her class for a trip to K. S. A. C. May 1. Probably the only reason that these people attended at Manhattan was because they were impressed with the college and the interest that others took in them. Mr. Burr encourages more alumni and students to plan similar trips.

TUESDAY, MAY 1, 1917.

ISSUED BY ENGINEERS.

This issue of the Collegian, as may be gathered by a careful perusal of its columns, has been engineered by, for and of, the engineers. This is Engineer's week, and the engineers have endeavored to take charge of everything in the college. If the week doesn't go to suit you, blame the engineers.

ENGINEERS ARE HERE TODAY.

Special Program Arranged for National Meeting.

Elaborate plans are now complete for the entertainment of the Kansas members of the National Association of Stationary Engineers who will hold their annual convention in Manhattan May 1 to 4.

The engineering building has been re-arranged and now presents a gain appearance for those who wish to explore its many interesting features. Booths have been arranged and equipped with both electrical and steam specialties. Special exhibits will be made by members of the association. All power users and power plant engineers will be welcome guests to the convention.

Automobile rides, inspection trips, luncheons, banquets and movies have been arranged for the benefit of the delegates and guests. Wednesday evening in the college auditorium will be shown "The King of the Rail," a movie story of the electrical locomotive and pictures of the Panama canal showing its electrical equipment and mechanical devices.

Joseph Harrington, a prominent combustion engineer of Chicago, will lecture to the engineers and others who wish to hear him in the college auditorium at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, May 3. Mr. Harrington has had wide experience in power engineering and is one of the greatest American authorities on combustion and power plant operation.

The annual banquet of the association will be held Thursday evening in honor of the delegates and guests. Addresses will be made by prominent power users and power plant engineers. G. W. Raven, of Chicago, national secretary of the association, will be toastmaster.

"The Devil's Pay Day."

A gripping story of a great domestic problem, approaching the divorce question from a new angle. Adapted from George Hivley's popular magazine story, "The Toll of Vengeance." Franklin Farnum and Leah Baird take the leading roles. At the Marshall theater this afternoon and evening.

Diamonds For Graduation Gifts

No Graduation Gift could be more suitable or more pleasing than a diamond; and the selection of a diamond from Askren's not only a gem of quality, but also a saving on the cost.

Askren
The JEWELER

AND HOME ENGINEERS, TOO

FAIRER SEX HAVE A DEPARTMENT ALL THEIR OWN.

The Regular Engineers and Home Engineers are inseparable.

One of the most popular departments on the hill is that of home economics for that is the department from which the home engineers are chosen. Every engineer, be he a civil mechanical or an architect, desires the co-operation of the home engineer. Not only are these home engineers popular with the engineering men, but they are also popular with the Ag's, the Vet's, the general science men and men of other institutions. This fact is evidenced by the number of happy romances which our college has witnessed.

The home economics department first had its beginning in 1873 under President Anderson's administration. At this time, sewing was taught in the old armory by Mrs. Cheseldene. Then the department numbered one sewing machine, one teacher and fourteen girls. In October, 1876, the first cooking class was held in what is now the chemistry annex.

Mrs. Kedzie in Charge.

From 1882-97, Mrs. Kedzie was the lower that controlled the development of home economics at this college. During this time, a kitchen was established in the basement of main hall. Here the girls served ten-cent lunches to the students of the college at noon. They also skimmed the cream and made butter from the milk which the boys in the agricultural department brought them.

In 1908, Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile was put at the head of the foods department. A year later, she was made dean of the foods and clothing departments.

Last year, Dean Van Zile made the following report of the home economics department: Value of equipment, $18,000; number on faculty, 32; enrollment, 1,100. Contrast this with the one sewing machine, the one teacher and the 14 girls of 1873!

The motto of the department is not to minimize the practical, but to combine the practical with the scientific.

INSPECT THE K. S. A. C. MILL.

Junior Cooking Classes "Going Through the Mill."

The junior cooking classes have now "gone through the mill." After visiting Kansas City factories they are now inspecting home establishments.

Three classes accompanied by domestic science teachers spent two hours each in the milling department Saturday. The different processes of milling was explained by Miss Lelia Duntun, instructor in milling industry.

NOTICE TO UPPERCLASSMEN.

All upperclassmen and graduates are requested to enroll in the military department for drill in order to fill in the depleted files of the cadet corps.

Furthermore, since all except ten of the cadet officers have resigned to attend training camp, it is the desire of the Commandant that all men who formerly held commissions in the cadet corps to report to him for assignment to duty.

L. O. MATHEWS, Commandant.

"Aladdin From Broadway."

An exquisite modern romance of youth and adventure and mild mystery and enchantment of the east. A charming comedy drama of laughter intermingled with thrills. An "Arabian Nights" tale up to date. At the Marshall theater Wednesday afternoon and evening.

CULLED CLIPPINGS.

Now the Rocky Mountain Collegian tells us that they are building a concrete walk to connect main hall with the bug house. Well, its only a step for a lot of us from College to the bug house and we got there without the facilities of a concrete walk.

The Iowa State Student states their second butter exhibit is now in progress. We Kansas Aggies smile at that, but the time may not be far distant when we too will regard butter as a curiosity.

We have been missing Archie Beers at club meeting since he quit college. Rocky Mountain Collegian.

We've been missing Beers here too, since he quit coming to Kansas.

The Baker Orange dares to advertise a French play and a German play in adjoining columns.

The old salt went to buy a car. But cranking gave his grain a jar. He couldn't work his word-dispenser. He said, "I want a self commencer."

RIMES AND POEMS.

She wears a veil hooked over her nose,
She keeps her white shoes neat and clean;
And now she has some brand new hosiery,
The thinnest things that were ever seen.

I have a sweetheart that I love full well,
I try to keep her from all harm;
But when I asked her if she loved me,
She said she didn't give a darn.

Spring Farce.

She—I sort of wish I had a pin to wear awhile this year.
He—If you'll promise me to return it, I'll give you mine, my dear.

The public—My land! what do you know?

She's wearing his frat pin.
The public—(After a month or so)
He's got it back again!

Needles and pins, needles and pins,
No sister will help you her brother to win.

"Alas!" we heard Prof. Emerson sigh,
"My hair has established an alibi."

"I am a lucky sort of chap"
Said Fullington one day.
"I see shows from the balcony.
And sit in the parquet."

Country girl comes to school,
Eyes bright, nerves cool.
Thinks she'd like to up and try
Everything that strikes her eye.
Joins a club and tries to do
Everything that strikes her eye.
Dance till midnight, studies late
Skips breakfast, class at eight.
Committee meetings help to keep
Mary Green from getting sleep.
Welsh rarebit, late hours,
Eyes dim, digestion sour.
Campus lab, picture shows,
Reserve vitality slowly goes,
Finals threaten, she must do
A term's work in a week or two.
Mary saw the turn of fate,
Mary knew it was too late.
Drop-skip comes from Dean,
Nervous breakdown, Mary Green.

He kissed her on her tinted cheeks,
He kissed her on her nose—
They were about to get engaged
When he stepped on her toes!?!?!?

JUST JESTS, JOKES AND OTHER JUNK.

We know a senior who just needs one more frat or club pin and he will have enough to go around his waist.

Prof. Davis—Tell me what you can about Spencer.

Stude—Well, he was born a poor man and—

Prof.—What! didn't he have any childhood?

This was in Psychology class when they were discussing the practicability of mental telepathy.

Bunice—But it is really possible to get an idea into somebody else's mind.

Prof. Dunn—I hope so. That is what I am trying to get into yours.

Statistics prove that there are 166,987,000,002 dramatic sketches in existence, where a young lady, from the introduction to the climax, makes vehement love to what always turns out to be a dog. Heaven forbid that the Collegian ever be so hard pressed for jokes as to have to use such a substitute!

There seems to be some kick about wearing flags pasted on the collar. It is a sort of cheap patriotism. The English girls wore a band around their ankle with the words "Have You Enlisted?" The tops of these white shoes would make an excellent background for some kind of patriotic insignia.

People may be potatoed-rich, bean-to-death, Castle-kissed, campus-labed, Eunny-hugged, and pigeon-walked, but just wait until the enlisting-kissing beauties are picture-showed.

Forethought sprinkled with a few kind words is one of the best preventative of broken friendships.

Attractiveness may be defined in the terms of a campusologist as that species of the female sex with a face as white as powder can make it, a gleaming front, and a stretch of white silk hose from shoe top to the skirt line.

Even though a pretty girls offers one kiss to the fellow who gets the war bug, there are some fellows who would ask for a second helping.

Just because the fellow with the "G" notebook didn't call for it immediately after the beginning of the term is no sign that some other fel-

Concerning dates. A college rule regulating dates as follows would simplify matters. Freshmen shall have not less than one date per term, or more than one each month. Sophomores must have one date each week except that of mid-terms and finals. Juniors shall have a date a day or an average equivalent to that. Seniors are not to be governed by date rules until the last term of their college life. At this time they must be either engaged or married.

The foregoing rules to apply to girls as well as boys. Consult the Consolidated Date Emperium.

"As Men Love."

Don't fail to see House Peters and Myrtle Stedman in this picture.

The story deals with the enduring friendship of one man for another who have shared each other's joys and sorrows and joys since boyhood, but which is torn asunder by a frivolous woman, who marries one, but who believes she is in love with the other. Wareham. Thursday, May 3.

My, My, What Language!

"My love," said the beaver passionately, "come and live in my newly built house on the stream."

For a moment the beaver maid was silent, then coyly slapping her tail on the bank, she whispered "Then you do give a dam for me after all!"—Rocky Mountain Collegian.

Let the mowers howl, and the crows growl, and the howlers howl, and the geese go it; behind the night there is plenty of light, and things are all right and—I know it!—Anonymous.

ENGINEERS ARE IN DEMAND

Large Number Already have Obtained Positions.

A large percentage of the senior engineers have made definite engagements for work after graduation. The demand for trained engineers far exceeds the supply.

Among the seniors in electrical engineering W. T. Klooz, G. A. Cunningham, E. V. Kessinger, F. H. Nash, and R. B. Leydig are going to the Doherty company. These men will be located either at Denver, Colorado, or at Bartlesville, Oklahoma, for a preliminary training of one year after which they will be assigned permanently to power plants in Kansas and neighboring states, which are owned and controlled by the Doherty company.

The representative of the Doherty Company came here this year with the idea of taking only two men, but since leaving has wired back at different times that he would take the additional men.

Two Have Been Assigned.

A. M. Butcher and J. G. Phinney of last year's class have recently been assigned to the Doherty plant at Caney, Kansas, to study methods of increasing the efficiency of gas consumption in engineering plants.

W. C. Ernsting and R. H. Oliver will go to the General Electric Company. These men will be given a course of training at Schenectady, New York, and may then be transferred to the district offices of this company or to some of the public service organizations who look to this company for men.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company will take L. G. Tubbs and L. R. Varcoe. Both the General Electric and Westinghouse Companies were willing to take at least five men from this institution this year but we haven't the men to supply the demand.

The Western Electric Company's representative offered positions to every one of the four men who interviewed him. C. A. Wallerstedt, P. C. Rawson and H. A. Williams accepted these offers.

R. S. Kirk has been employed by the Automatic Electric Company of Chicago. This company makes and installs automatic telephones and equipment.

C. D. Hultgren will go to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, formerly the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Company.

Among the seniors in Mechanical Engineering, G. A. Sellers and C. C. Brown will go to the Western Electric Company of Chicago and W. E. Paterson to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, as efficiency engineers. The field of the efficiency engineer is a new one but one growing in importance very rapidly.

Many of the other engineers have positions with large companies. Many of them are going into business for themselves and still others are going to take more time for study in other schools. Never before have the engineering graduates been in such demand. Each year new fields are being opened to the engineer and greater opportunities presented.

"The Prison Without Walls."

The Paramount pictures present Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman in this characterization.

Wallace Reid, always supreme in a story which has a great deal of action, delivers a sympathetic and forceful part, in which he is seen as a young prison reformer. A Paramount comedy. Wareham's, Wednesday, May 2.

DEBATERS IN EVEN BREAK

Each Negative Team Won in Aggie-Warrensburg Talkfest.

The last intercollegiate debate of the season for this college was a girls' event Friday evening between the Warrensburg Normals of Warrensburg, Mo., and the Aggies, resulting in a victory for the negative team at both places.

The advisability of appointing a permanent commission to regulate the price of food stuffs was the question discussed.

The Aggie winning team which debated in Warrensburg was composed of Miss Gussie Johnson of Wichita, Miss Stella Gould of Willroads, and Miss Jewell Sappenfield of Clifton.

The affirmative team which met the Warrensburg negative here was composed of Miss Fern Roerick of Attica, Miss Helen Mitchell of Manhattan, and Miss Hazel Merillat of Enterprise.

CHASE SUBMARINES TOMORROW.

There's a War Scene in the Engineers Parade.

A submarine chaser will appear in the parade tomorrow, the product of the fertile brains of the civil engineers. Although these boys are not mechanically inclined their production suggests originality and mechanical ability. A realistic battle between the boat and the chaser will be a feature. Clyde Keys will pilot one machine and Andrew Dyatt with Roy Reese expect to manipulate the other.

"The Bottle Imp."

Featuring Sussie Hayakawa, the famous Japanese actor. This story is laid in Hawaii and is of a fanciful character, and will appeal to everyone. The setting of the story gives us some exceptionally beautiful scenes. Don't miss this Paramount picture. Wareham's, Tuesday, May 1.

STARS KNOWN AND UNKNOWN IN "INTOLERANCE."

There are great stars in D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance," which will be seen at the Marshall Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, May 7th and 8th. who, if that had been their only appearance before the public, would die "unwept, unhonored and unsung." Did you know that Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree appears as an "extra" in one brief scene? Did you know that DeWolf Hopper was a part of one of the mobs, and that Douglas Fairbanks appeared in some of the scenes? They did this just to be in the picture which they knew would be a world-wide sensation. It was just a quiet tribute to the great producer.

On the other hand there are unknowns who now are revelling in eulogistic criticisms. The most remarkable case is that of Constance Talmadge, who before she appeared in "Intolerance," had never been heard of. As the Mountain Girl of Siciliana she is second in public favor only to Mae Marsh. Although Bessie Love, "the bride of Cana," is now well known, she had never been heard of when she was cast by Mr. Griffith for the scene of the Marriage at Cana.

The company presenting "Intolerance" in Manhattan carries a symphony orchestra of thirty and a Chorus, which insures a correct interpretation of the beautiful musical score written especially for "Intolerance."

THE SENIORS INSPECT K. C.

ELECTRICAL, MECHANICAL AND AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS "LOOK OVER" CITY.

Municipal Pumping Plant was Visited First, After Which the Inspectors Went to Swifts and Visited the Boiler Room and Looked at Girls.

On Thursday morning, April 5, the entire senior classes of electrical, mechanical and agricultural engineers started for Kansas City. A slight correction should here be made for the entire class was not present at the outset. At Topeka, "Swede" Hultgren was picked up and seemed none the worse for having safely conducted one of our home engineers to her home. At Lawrence, "Tiny" Klooz boarded the train after having enjoyed a fine visit with his "brother," Kaiser Bill! Ernesting was waiting at Argentine. Presumably he had been home for a visit with the old folks. "Bob" Leydig and "Shorty" Williams were also among the late arrivals.

A safe arrival at Armstrong was accomplished at 11:15 o'clock a. m. Armstrong was the destination because the union station is on the other side of the state line and Armstrong is nearer to the place we wanted to visit first.

To Pumping Plant First.

The first institution to be visited was the Kansas City, Kan., municipal pumping and purifying plant. At this plant, electricity is furnished for the street lighting of Kansas City, Kan., and for the pumping units. The steam generating plant contained four coal burning furnaces and boilers with overhead coal bunkers and two oil burning furnaces with boilers. The oil burners were not being used when we were there.

Water From the Missouri.

The water used by Kansas City is pumped directly from the Missouri river. As the water enters the storage and settling tanks it is as muddy as a small child's first mud pie. The water then passes through five storage, settling and purifying tanks where the majority of the coarser particles of sediments is removed. Lime and alum is added to the water while in these tanks.

The water then passes into other smaller tanks where the water is forced through sand beds and other chemicals are added to purify the water to suit the analysis taken every few hours. Two men in white uniforms superintend the purifying processes. When the water leaves the plant it looks almost like sparkling spring water.

Found Courtesy and Girls.

Another place visited, is the Swift Packing company's plant. At that place we were treated with the greatest of courtesy and were given a lunch at the midway point of our inspection. It might also be stated that Swift's have the best looking group of girl employees seen while in Kansas City. We were allowed to view them for only short intervals for Professors Reid and Seaton are married.

Swift's have an up to date boiler room with overhead bunkers, chain grate stoker fed furnaces, and are equipped with accumulator flue gas analyzers. By using the chain grate stokers and overhead bunkers, three men could do the work requiring twenty-five or thirty men using the old system.

Give Yells and Get Eats.

The second place visited is the Witte gas engine works. We arrived here at lunch time by previous arrangement and were "stokered" by the president, sales manager and engineer of the company. Several talks were given as well as some Aggie yells.

In the Witte engine works, all machine work was done with the aid of jigs to make every piece able to be duplicated without trouble. All cylinders were bored out on a vertical boring machine in two operations.

Speed at Ford Plant.

The third place visited, was the Ford assembly plant. The most noticeable thing at this plant, is the speed and hurry. The speed and hurry of the guides was even very noticeable. Possibly due to the nearness of quitting time.

In this plant each man had one particular thing to do and in the majority of cases this thing was not of very varied character. Most of the workmen could perform their operation and never look at their work. At one end of a long room, the rear axle of a Ford was placed upon a slide where the axle was slowly moved along by a chain. As the chain progressed, new parts were added by men standing on either side of the chain. At the other end of the chain were placed four revolving wheels spaced in such a manner that the rear wheel of the Ford dropped into a depression between the power wheels and the Ford was cranked by the turning of the rear wheels.

(Notice the absence of the word car or automobile, in the above paragraph.)

At the Southwestern mills, the latest and most modern example of milling, was seen. Here they have an analyzing and baking laboratory, the flour for which is furnished by a miniature mill exactly duplicating the work of the larger mill. All piping and most of the machinery was constructed of tin and sheet iron instead of wood. All floors, walls, pillars, etc., were of concrete.

At the Kansas City terminal station or union depot, we were surprised to find that about half of the station was under ground. The station is equipped with an absorption type of refrigerating outfit for cooling the dining hall, candy booth, drug store, etc. The power plant was quite complete with analyzers, etc., but not so large as the next point of interest which we visited. The plant is the K. C. R. R. substation and Metropolitan generating station. This is the last place visited and following this we began to drag back to Manhattan by twos, threes, or any way to get back. A visit to the theatre should not be forgotten although the Profs did not condescend to attend.

The Metropolitan Street Railway Plant supplies the electricity for street cars an electric lighting of Kansas City. It is delivered to the various sub-stations for general distribution at 6,600 volts. 14,000 K. W.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, MAY 4, 1917 FRIDAY

PRICE FIVE CENTS

69 GOING TO FORT RILEY

LARGE NUMBER OF AGGIE STUDENTS AND PROFESSORS ARE AWAITING ORDERS.

Response Has Exceeded First Expectations of Captain Mathews—Applications to Go Are Still Pouring In.

The Fort Riley training camp will take 69 Aggie students, graduates and professors. That number have had their applications accepted, and have also passed their physical examinations. They are now awaiting orders to report at the post during the week of May 7.

The response to the call has exceeded the expectations of the local officers. When orders were first received to receive applications, a maximum of 60 applicants was thought by Captain Mathews to be the largest number obtainable at this school. With applications still pouring in, the number has passed the 70 mark, when those who have already been granted their commissions are counted.

All candidates who have received their certificates of suitability must remain at their home address until they have received from the camp commander a post card notifying them that they have been chosen for attendance at the camp and authorizing them to report at camp.

The title, "Approval Card, 2D Ind." on the application blank has been erroneously taken to mean that the applicant is privileged to attend the camp. This is all wrong, according to Captain Mathews, and applicants should wait until they have orders direct from the post that they should report.

Those Who Have Passed.

The names of the 43 men who have been passed upon for the camp, in addition to the names of the 26 which have been published in the Collegian, are: Joseph M. Williams, C. E. Manzer, Russell V. Morrison, Leland C. Allis, Edward N. Wentworth, Herschel Scott, Harold L. Copeland, Harry L. Dunham, John T. Pearsch, Jack Lilly, Marshall P. Wilder, Herbert P. Miller, G. P. Hacker, Arthur G. McQuary, Glenn D. Paddleford, Lew H. Wallace, Charles D. Christoph, Fred Emerson, R. R. Hewey, Elmer H. Schulz, J. H. Smith, B. E. Foster, Frank M. Hills, Ray R. Lesh, Ollie W. Reed, Charles W. Tisdale, Clarence A. Fickel, Lewis Whisler, H. S. Wise, P. I. Abbott, E. Chilson Bennett, C. E. Freeto, C. E. Enlow, R. E. Vermatte, P. F. Griffin, J. E. Williamson, Raymond Campbell, Emil Carlson, L. S. Hobbs, Isaac F. Gates, D. R. Hooten, C. E. Black and William B. Hutchinson.

WHAT! A HANDSOME MAN?

He's Tall and Dark, Southern and a "Perfect Prince."

"Hello there, why in the world don't you girls brush some of that flour off of your clothes? Have you been inspecting the flour mill? That's where we're—"

But the young lady never finished her sentence. She and her crowd were simply overwhelmed by those coming from the opposite direction. "Oh—be SURE to get the tall dark one."

"My goodness, yes, he's a perfect prince."

"He's wonderfully good looking."

"And he's southern too. I could tell that right away."

"And his voice—"

"And he's so interesting—"

"Why I just know now that he's the best looking man on the hill—"

"He's married."

"Why he is NOT!"

"Why I know BETTER."

The co-eds of the first bunch held up hands in desperation. "For Mike's sake stop raving and tell us what some of you mean—"

"Why, our kuide, stupid, our guide through the mill." And then it began again.

Saturday the domestic science girls of the food and nutrition classes were shown through the mill in groups, that they might learn something of the process of milling. The flour bedecked ones leaving the agricultural hall had just left their handsome guide and of course it was nice and fitting that they should instruct their next group of class mates and sister co-eds in the selection of an efficient and instructive guide.

But the worst part of it is that they do not know his name. Oh, girls what WAS that, Mr.—Mr.—What did our instructor say was the name of the man that would take our bunch?"

But, sad as it may seem, no one had just exactly caught it.

"Anyway, I saw the monogram on his watch fob—that was J. N. P. I guess that helps a little."

Find Value of Sweet Clover.

The dairy and agronomy departments are planning to conduct feeding experiments on the value of sweet clover as a pasture, this summer. F. S. Turner, senior in dairy husbandry, will have charge of eight Hostein cows, which will be used in these experiments on the "Ag" farm.

PREPAREDNESS AND YOU

Conscription has passed, which means that every able-bodied man not subject to exemption will sooner or later be called to the colors. The man who is prepared to take his place in the ranks as a well-drilled recruit will not remain long as a private—he will soon be a "non-com" or an officer.

Patriotic young men who have an opportunity to prepare themselves should do so. Such an opportunity is open to every student who attends this school. The fastly-thinning ranks of the cadet corps have been opened by Captain Mathews to every student who wishes to enroll in military training.

Very few juniors or seniors are busily engaged during the eighth hour. As a rule, the period is wasted. This hour spent in drill would entail little added labor, but might prove of infinite value to both the student and his country later.

This school is sadly behind in the number of upper-classesmen who are taking drill. Other colleges have already fallen in. Some institutions make it compulsory for all students to drill, one going so far as to shorten each morning class hour fifteen minutes, and giving the hour gained over to drill for all. And this is in addition to the regular three hours per day which freshmen and sophomores are compelled to drill.

The Collegian hopes there is enough red blood and patriotism in the students here to fill in the ranks of the cadet corps by volunteers from the upper classes. If Captain Mathews' call for volunteers is not answered as it should be, the Collegian would like to see a rule passed providing for compulsory training for every able-bodied male student in the school.

FIRST AID IS ORGANIZED.

Dr. Seiver Opens Class on Mondays and Saturdays.

A class in "first aid" under the instruction of Dr. C. M. Seiver was organized Monday night with a membership of twenty. The members had asked for the class for some time but it was necessary to wait for organization until Dr. Seiver had received his official commission from Washington.

The first lesson was in the form of a lecture on what to do in the case of sudden accident along with a little practical experimentation in the taking of pulses. At the next meeting of the class a lesson on the use of bandages will be given, part of the members being the patients and the others the "First Aiders."

This class meets Monday evening from 7 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock, and Saturday afternoon from 4:30 o'clock until 6 o'clock.

THE CALL TO THE STARS AND STRIPES

By Walter W. Houghton.

How proud we are of the Stars and Stripes
As they float in the bright sunlight,
How proud we are of this emblem of ours,
This Emblem of Honor and Right.

Those stars are the symbols of broken hearts
The tears that a mother has shed,
When she knows that her son on the battlefield,
Was left with his country's dead.

Those stripes that wave in the morning breeze,
Were dyed in the crimson flood,
That flowed from a ghastly, gaping wound,
A dying patriot's blood.

For blood was the price of our freedom,
Yet gladly the price was paid,
And the world today is better by far,
O, when will their memory fade?

And we cheer as our Emblem floats above,
As it beckons to us from on high,
It is calling to you, it is calling to me,
A challenge to do and to die.

Then into our heart comes a still small voice,
A voice from the other world,
And we see the boys of Sixty-three,
And the Stars and Stripes unfurled.

We hear the voice of the bugler,
And the soldiers martial tread,
Then we think of ourselves on a shell swept field,
With the mangled forms of the dead.

For some of us on the battlefield,
Will take our last long sleep,
And soon will go to a watery grave,
Down in the briny deep.

But all cannot shoulder a rifle,
There's other work to be done,
By the toll of the man behind the plow
Will this war of wars be won.

There's many a way we may answer the call,
That comes to me and to you,
There's many a way we may show our love,
For the colors, Red, White and Blue.

Then list to the call of the Stars and Stripes,
And serve where you may serve best,
With an honest heart, do your humble part,
And trust in God for the rest.

FRED CARP THE NEW MAJOR AGGIES MEET KANSAS TODAY

IN REORGANIZATION, FORMER CAPTAIN HEADS BATTALION.

Four Large Companies Are Formed—Commissioned Officers Are Assigned.

The reorganization of the cadet corps, made necessary by the withdrawals from college, was effected Wednesday afternoon. The corps was organized into a single battalion with four companies, each of which is nearly twice the size of the former companies.

Fred Carp, junior in animal husbandry, has been appointed major of the battalion. Major Carp received his commission in the cadet corps last fall as a Lieutenant and was soon made a captain.

The other staff officers are W. H. Hills, captain and quartermaster, J. A. White, first lieutenant and quartermaster and Bruce B. Brewer, second lieutenant and adjutant.

The officers of Company "A" are W. E. Patterson, captain; G. C. Ware, first lieutenant and H. J. Henney and J. A. Black, second lieutenants. Company "B" officers are E. F. Whedon, captain; C. E. Sawyer, first lieutenant; and F. Yost and H. Cross, second lieutenants. The officers of Company "C" are O. T. Bennett, captain; L. B. Vorheis, first lieutenant, and C. P. Neiswender and W. L. Thackeray, second lieutenants. Company "D" officers are A. M. Harvey, captain; L. W. Ritter, first lieutenant, and A. W. Foster, G. F. Hicks and Floyd Hawkins, second lieutenants.

Recital by Miss Jones.

Miss Patricia Abernathy will present Miss Geraldine Jones in a piano recital at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the auditorium. The program will be as follows: Sonata F Major—Mozart Grieg. Toccata. Scherzando. Romanza. Gigue—Wilm. Silberquest in Chamounix-Thal-Bendel. Pollacca Brillante—Weber.

TRACK SQUADS TO ENGAGE IN DUAL DUAL COMBAT.

Dope Favors Kansans—Captain Wilder, Shaper, Billings and Enlow Are Aggie Stars.

Germany Schulz and fifteen Aggie track men left this morning for Lawrence to meet the Kansas track aggregation in the annual outdoor dual track and field meet. All indications point to a victory for the Kansans, as the Lawrence men triumphed over the Aggies in the indoor meet, and little additional material has shown up since that meet in the Aggie camp.

The departure of Holroyd, who can sprint the century in ten seconds flat, took a sure point winner from the Aggie squad. He was also a good bet in the quarter mile and was the anchor man of the relay squad. Holroyd forsook the track field to enter the field of matrimony.

Dodrill, star discus man, and a probable first place athlete in the Jayhawk-Aggie meet, left college last week, joining the "back to the farm" movement.

The Aggies' best chance for points in the contest this afternoon seems to be the shot put. Both Billings and Shaper have pushed the 16-pound iron ball over 40 feet of earth, and they may be good enough to land both first and second place. Captain Wilder is an almost sure point-maker in the hurdles, although he will run up against stiff competition. Beatty, who pushed Wilder in both hurdle events in the meet with Baker last week, may also score in the kangaroo events.

Essick and Grandfield look good for places in the century and 220-yard dashes, although the presence of Holroyd would probably have meant a first place. Tillotson is counted on to show the Kansas two-milers a stiff race. K. U. excels in the long distance races, and a second place would almost satisfy Aggie rooters.

Enlow in the discus event is another probable point-winner. He will also enter the pole vault and the relay. Weimer will enter the high jump, an event in which he competes with Treweeke and Rice, two of the best high jumpers in America. Eggerman and Vorheis will enter the mile, Chaffee and Frankenhoff the 880-yard dash and Barnes will run with Tillotson in the two mile. The relay team will be picked from Captain Wilder, Enlow, Essick, Grandfield and Osborne.

Girl Tennis Entries Due.

The schedule of matches for the girls' spring tennis tournament is to be made out and posted by the middle of next week. Any college girl who wishes to enter the tournament is asked to call at the gymnasium and sign up.

POSTPONE AGGIE-TIGER FRAY

Rain at Columbia Causes Re-arrangement of Schedule.

Columbia, Mo., May 3.—The first game of the Kansas Aggie-Missouri Tiger baseball series has been postponed on account of rain. By a triangular arrangement between Coach Clevenger of the Aggies, Athletic Director Brewer of Missouri, and Coach "Phog" Allen of the Warrensburg Normals, the Aggie-Tiger series will be played Thursday and Friday, and the Aggies will meet the Normals Saturday.

The original schedule of the Aggies called for games with Missouri Wednesday and Thursday, with the Warrensburg Normals Friday, and with the Haskell Indians Saturday.

Clevenger's athletes are in fine trim for the games with the Tigers. The inability of the visitors to hold outdoor practice for the past week has only made them more eager to get on the field.

McGrath will probably be Clevenger's hurling selection, although Hewey may start the first encounter. In order to allow him to work the Saturday game with the Normals. It will be Hewey's last appearance in an Aggie baseball uniform as he enters the Fort Riley training camp next week. Either Giltner or Stemmons will start the game for the Tigers.

Even should the sun and wind work on the field today, the grounds will not be in excellent condition for baseball. It is probable, however, that unless rain is falling at the time of the game, that play will commence.

COLLEGE SOCIETIES TO DEBATE.

Government Ownership of Railroads to be Argued.

The college literary societies and sororities will hold their spring term inter-society debate May 26. Government ownership of the railroads will be the question debated. Each organization will be represented by an affirmative and a negative team. Only one experienced person will be allowed on each team. This person must have participated in only one college debate. The debaters will be given five minutes for constructive speech and three minutes for rebuttal.

The following is the schedule of the boys' team: Hamilton, affirmative, versus Webster, negative; Franklin, affirmative, versus Hamilton, negative; Webster, affirmative, versus Athenian, negative; Athenian, affirmative, versus Alpha Beta, negative.

The schedule for the girls' teams will be Ionia, affirmative, versus Eurodelphian, negative; Eurodelphian, affirmative, versus Sorority, negative; Sorority, affirmative, versus Franklin, negative; Alpha Beta, affirmative, versus Browning, negative; Browning, affirmative, versus Ionia, negative.

GIBBONS TO MANAGE COLLEGIAN.

Unanimously Chosen to Succeed J. M. Boring—Brewer Re-elected.

George C. Gibbons, of Muskogum, Ohio, junior in agronomy, was unanimously elected business manager of the Collegian at a meeting of the Collegian board in Prof. N. A. Crawford's office Tuesday morning. He will take the position held by J. M. Boring this year. In the event Mr. Boring attends the Fort Riley training camp, Mr. Gibbons will be acting business manager for the remainder of the college year. He is a member of the Acacia fraternity.

Bruce B. Brewer, who was recently elected editor of the Collegian to fill the unexpired term of Arthur W. Boyer, was unanimously re-elected to the same position.

P. L. Mann spent the week end at his home in Hastings, Neb.

AGNES M'CORKLE IS QUEEN

PRETTY PHI PI WILL REIGN DURING THE MAY FETE FESTIVITIES.

Victor Received 468 Votes Out of 774 Cast—Misses Pauline Richards, Grace Lightfoot and Esther Charles Are the Attendants.

Miss Agnes McCorkle is Queen of the May.

The patriotic combination of red-dish hair, white complexion and blue eyes proved too much for the other contestants in the May Queen race, and Miss McCorkle ascended to the queenship yesterday in a landslide that gave her 468 votes out of a total of 774 votes cast. Miss Vera McCoy, with 193 votes, was runner-up and Miss Zora Harris, with 109 votes, was third in the race.

Miss McCorkle, who is a senior in home economics from Holton, is a member of the Phi Beta Phi sorority and of Xix, the senior women's political fraternity. She has always entered into school affairs and functions, gaining a popularity that is best attested by her overwhelming victory at the May Queen polls yesterday. In the tryouts for the lead in the senior play last week, Miss McCorkle won the place from a number of other applicants.

Miss Pauline Richards won an equally-popular victory in the race for junior attendant to the Queen. She received 427 votes, snowing under her opponents. Miss Grace Lightfoot, with 35 votes, was chosen sophomore attendant, and Miss Esther Charles was elected freshman attendant with 39 votes. Because of the fierce fight put up by the junior contestants, most of the freshmen and sophomore votes were thrown into the junior race, making the votes of Miss Lightfoot and Miss Charles seem light in comparison.

A Robin Hood play has been planned by the Y. W. C. A. for May Day, the nineteenth of the month, in attempt to depart from the usual May Fete exercises. In this play Miss McCorkle will play the leading part of Maid Marian. A king, a queen, a Robin Hood and children acting as wood sprites will be other characters in the May Day festivities.

ART IN RELATION TO IDEALS

Doctor Parsons Tells Students Art is Demand for Beauty.

The first essential element of art is that it must be perfectly suited to the ideal for which it exists, is the opinion of Dr. Frank Alva Parsons, president of New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, who addressed the student assembly Thursday morning on "Art and Its Relation to Everyday Life."

"Art in common things is something that is needed because of the demand for beauty," said Doctor Parsons. "Art is not confined to any age or persons. It is a universal and practical thing. Art is a factor in life which changes the viewpoint."

"The strongest thing in art education is environment. It is just as easy to do a thing right as it is to do it wrong. The first thing in creating art is to have an idea. Persons now want to imitate and reproduce and have no original ideas. The Greek artists never imitated but created their own ideas. Nine-tenths of the pictures painted today are not so far as art is concerned."

"Man knows intuitively that he is a spiritual being as well as a physical one. On the instant that he realizes the relation between himself and a greater power he becomes a greater power for service."

ADVERTISING IS AN ART.

So Says Doctor Parsons, Addressing Journalism Students.

Advertising without a doubt is the greatest art of this age, declared Dr. Frank Alva Parsons, president of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, when speaking to the students in industrial journalism and home economics in the college auditorium Thursday morning.

"Advertising is expressing the qualities of an article to the people who may want to buy it," said Doctor Parsons. "Expression formerly belonged to words. We believed that if we must tell any one something we must use words. But we are a cosmopolitan people and words are now only arbitrary things."

FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1917.

U-boats are knocking the oats out of our boats.

PATRIOTISM AND COURTESY.

Courtesy to the flag and to the national anthem is one of the essentials of patriotism. It may have been lack of knowledge of how to act, or it may have been mere carelessness, when students began flocking out of chapel Tuesday morning while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." In either event, it was neglect of one of the cardinal duties of a citizen.

Those who left were not the only offenders. Others, seemingly half asleep, managed to stand up, slouching on one leg or leaning on the seat in front. Only a few respected the anthem enough to stand at attention.

Men are not the only offenders against the colors and the anthem. On the military parade grounds, women students seldom stand when "The Star Spangled Banner" is being played. Whether their negligence is due to a feeling that they do not belong to the military department or not is not known. They should be impressed with the fact that their observance of the ordinary rules of patriotic practice is not mere respect to the Aggie cadet corps, but respect to the flag and the anthem of a nation.

Real, true patriotism comes from the heart. The man who gets the "war bug" and visits the recruiting station every day may be said to be patriotic, but if he forgets himself in the presence of his country's emblems he is showing a lack of respect.

It is not necessary to stand when "America" is being played, but every citizen, regardless of sex, should stand at attention when the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

The man who boasts he "can read a woman like a book" usually refers to a book of blank pages.

CONCERNING THIRD DEGREES.

Perhaps the following story will be of interest to several Aggie students: After trying two other printing offices yesterday morning a practical joker in an Aggieville clothing establishment entered into the following telephone conversation:
 "Hello, is this the Nationalist?"
 "Yes."
 "When are you going to send up those Third Degrees?"
 "Is this the Palace?"
 "Yes."
 "Why, I'll see that they are sent up right away, if they haven't already started."

Editorial comment is unnecessary. The Collegian offers the story to its readers merely for the human interest attached to the joke.

A perplexing question confronting a certain fraternity which is losing more than half its membership next week is how the few remaining members can look after "the girls they left behind them."

IT WAS OVER BEFORE IT BEGAN.

The May Queen contest was over and settled before many of us were aware that the contest was on. Would not a longer campaign and a little more publicity have developed more "pep" for the event, and, incidentally have sold more tickets for the fete?

The respective candidates were just beginning to warm up for an interesting little campaign, and another week, or even two or three days, would have given them a chance to inject a little life into the scrap.

NOTICE.

Due to the resignation of G. R. Hovey and Charles Enlow, two new members of the Collegian board will be elected Friday, May 11. Petitions with 20 signatures must be presented for each candidate at Prof. N. A. Crawford's office before 1 o'clock Monday. Subscribers to the Collegian are eligible to vote at the election, which will be held at the window opposite the postoffice, from 1 o'clock to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

A NEW ZOOLOGY ASSISTANT.

J. B. Rogers, Former K. U. Student, Takes Wehrle's Place.

J. B. Rogers, of the University of Kansas, has been appointed assistant in the department of zoology, to fill the position made vacant by the resignation of L. P. Wehrle, who goes to Cornell university to continue his work in advanced biology.

Mr. Rogers was graduated from K. U. in 1916 and has been doing research work in the department of zoology at the university. Mr. Rogers is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity, and comes to this college highly recommended.

Couldn't Make Inspection.

Rain prevented the class in advanced farm management from taking their trip to "Cattle Dale Stock Farm" last Saturday as planned. Instead they walked out to the farm of Jessie May and made a survey of the farm and its plan of operation. This method of study will be practiced for the rest of the term.

Doctor Coulter is one of America's foremost botanists. He is the author of several text books now in use in agricultural colleges and universities throughout the country.

L. W. Brikt, who was called home on account of his father's sickness, early in the term, spent Sunday in Manhattan, accompanied by Mr. P. J. Swartz of Wichita.

C. P. Thompson, specialist in animal husbandry in the division of extension, will assist I. N. Chapman, county agent in Leavenworth county, in his live stock work Thursday.

J. C. King, freshman in agriculture, has returned from Fort Logan, Colo., where he failed to pass the physical examination to enter the coast artillery. Mr. King expects to resume his college work.

H. B. Walker, drainage and irrigation engineer in the division of extension, will go to Oskaloosa to attend a hearing there Friday for the purpose of establishing drainage district No. 1 at Valley Falls.

E. R. Newby, registrar of Oklahoma university, visited in Manhattan, Tuesday and Wednesday. He is the division inspector of the Simka Nu fraternity and was making his regular inspection while visiting here.

The Athenian literary society will follow out the plan for engineering week by allowing the engineers who are members of the society to put on the complete society program tomorrow night in the society hall.

Edward C. Johnson, dean of the division of extension, will go to Chicago Friday to attend a conference of the deans of the extension divisions of the various colleges for the purpose of organizing for the food conservation campaign.

Floyd Wilson, '10, visited friends in the horticultural department for a few hours Monday. Mr. Wilson teaches manual training at Mitchell, South Dakota, and was on his way to Lincoln, Neb., to attend a manual training conference.

READY FOR INTOLERANCE.

Great Spectacular Workers to be Shown at Marshall.

Today at the MacLaren Drug company the seats go on sale for the engagement next Monday and Tuesday, at the Marshall theater, of D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance," that extraordinary amusement offering which has made the sensational hit of the present season in New York, Chicago, and every other city where it has been presented.

The spectacular wonders of "Intolerance" never have been equaled possibly never will be because of the appalling cost of the production. Only a director like Mr. Griffith, who has had millions of dollars at his command, could have attempted the resuscitation of Ancient Babylon, a city famed for its colossal architectural structures, its grandeur and its life of prodigal luxury. This Babylonian episode, which cost more than any entire spectacle ever before produced, represents but one-fourth of what that eminent dramatic critic, Ashton Stevens, was pleased to call "The greatest show in the world." In every way, including a symphony orchestra and chorus of voices, the production to be seen here will be the same as the one that ran for six months at the Liberty theater, New York.

"MARY LAWSON'S SECRET."

Here is a photo mystery story in which the secret is kept until the finish and featuring Charlotte Walker one of the really well known stage stars, and who in private life is Mrs. Eugene Walker. At the Marshall theater Saturday afternoon and evening.

Prof. Porter—"Mr. Andrews, your explanation of that problem is about as clear as mud."

Young Andrews—"Well, it covers the ground anyway."

The latest thing out in patriotism is the red, white and blue cap. What next? One may now wear a flag cap, flag collar, flag handkerchief, any number of flag pins, and may carry a flag in each hand. But if the girls take up the fad the consequences can hardly be predicted.

Current History Into Squads.

The current history classes have been divided off into squads of four. Each squad is to keep posted on some certain phase of the war and current happenings. Some of the subjects to be studied are: economic preparedness, Red Cross news, news of the western line of attack, South American politics during the war, the human side of the soldiers' life and inventions.

CLASSES LOWER THE H. C. L.

Plans are made in College Blacksmith Shops.

An implement shortage can be met in a small way through the aid of classes in blacksmithing. There are samples of a 12-inch plow and smaller ones which were made by short course men last winter. These articles give the student training as well as furnish a practical commodity.

Various wood turned articles are on display and for sale. Double trees, single trees, brackets, hall-trees, book-cases, tables and miscellaneous articles may be procured from the display rooms of the shops where they are on exhibition.

NOTICE TO UPPERCLASSMEN.

All upperclassmen and graduates are requested to enroll in the military department for drill in order to fill in the depleted files of the cadet corps.

L. O. MATHEWS, Commandant.

Determine Food Values.

Experiments are being performed in the greenhouse by the soil fertility classes to determine the relative value of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium as plant food elements and also the value of nitrogen fixing bacteria on legumes.

Wheat and corn are being used to test the relative importance of potassium, phosphorus, and nitrogen while cowpeas and soy beans are used in the bacteria test.

ALL BUT FOUR SHAMROCKS GO.

Fraternity Practically Wiped Out by Departure of Nine.

Probably no other organization of college students at the Kansas State Agricultural college have been quicker to respond to the President's call for volunteers, than the Shamrock fraternity. All of the men except four have given their services to some department of Uncle Sam's military organization.

G. E. Manzer, Clarence Sigler, Carl Snyder, Ralph Randall and Howard Lindsley have joined the officers' reserve corps; Dustin O'Harrow the signal corps; Carl Vermillion the coast artillery, and Mark Upson and L. K. Saum the ranger service.

A. C. Hancock, corresponding secretary of the fraternity, who will remain here, will publish the Shamrock Leaf, the official fraternity publication. This paper will be published semi-monthly and will contain letters from the members and news of the college.

The patriotic response of this fraternity causes it to temporarily disband.

AGGIES IN AN EVEN BREAK

WARRENSBURG NORMALS WERE DEFEATED, BUT MISSOURI WON.

Tigers Defeated the Cleveland Men in a 4 to 2 Mud-Battle, But Heavy Hitting Won a 6 to 2 Victory in Saturday's Contest.

The Aggies broke even on the Missouri trip by trimming the Warrensburg Normals Saturday 6 to 1, after having dropped a close 4 to 2 battle to the Missouri Tigers.

The Warrensburg victory was the result of heavy and opportune hitting. The Aggies connected with the ball when hits were needed, and put six runs across the plate with but eight hits.

Clark's playing featured the contest. The Aggie first baseman, scored three runs, pounded out two hits, one a double, and accepted 12 chances at the first sack without a bobble.

The Aggies opened in the first inning, Guilfoyle singling after Harvey had grounded out. He advanced to third on Clark's single and scored on a passed ball. Clark, who had worked himself around to second base by pilfering second and going to third on the passed ball, scored on an error.

In the third inning Harvey led off with a single and Clark's ringing double brought his home. Clark completed the circuit on Reynolds's single.

Harvey was hit by the pitcher in the seventh inning, and took second on Gunn's error. Guilfoyle's single scored him. Clark lived on a fielder's choice, again stole second and scored on Sullivan's single.

Hewey had the Warrensburg batters at his mercy throughout the contest. Although he struck out but two, he allowed a paltry three hits.

The box score.

A double by "Bunny" Morris in the sixth inning won the Missouri contest for the Tigers. Morris, reputed to be a poor hitter, stepped into one of McGrath's pitches for a two-base blow, scoring Stemmons and Farmer. The hit put the Tigers away to a 4 to 1 lead which an Aggie rally in the seventh failed to overcome.

The contest was played in a field half covered with water. Lakes and pools were numerous in the outfield, and good baseball was impossible.

The Aggies started the scoring in the second round when Sullivan singled, was advanced to second on Newton's sacrifice and scored on Wooster's single.

The other Aggie score came in the seventh. Reynolds was safe on MacMillan's errors, stole second and scored on Sullivan's single.

PREPARE FOR SERVICE

Conscription will get you if you don't watch out, and it may find you unprepared to play your rightful part. By drilling with the college cadet corps you men who have not had drill, or have grown "rusty" on drill movements, will prepare yourselves for something better than the role of a private.

You'd better drill. It's for your country's good, and for yours.

Drill and be patriotic!

CALL OFF TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Nebraska's Tennis Players Have Withdrawn From School.

Because every Nebraska tennis player has left school, the Cornhusker athletic authorities have been forced to call off the tennis tournament with the Aggies, scheduled for Friday and Saturday of this week. Both enlistment and the "back to the farm" movement are blamed for the departure of the Nebraska artists.

Tuesday the class in apiculture under the direction of J. H. Merrill will attend a demonstration in transferring bees from an old hive to a modernly equipped quarters.

The demonstration will be given by Dr. G. L. Tetrick, an experienced bee keeper at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Guy Varney, 319 North Fifth street. Special attention will be given to comb surgery, or the fitting of old combs into new frames.

AGGIES AND ST. MARYS TODAY

Catholics Reputed to Have a Clever Baseball Aggregation.

Cleveland's baseball men meet the St. Marys collegians this afternoon in a game that should prove close and interesting. The Catholics have a habit of turning out topnotch baseball aggregations, and their team this year is said to be no exception.

Whether Hewey, McGrath or Breckheisen will start the contest is not known. Hewey has made application to be received at the Fort Riley training camp and may be given a chance to make a farewell appearance in an Aggie baseball suit.

The regular lineup will probably start the game, but if the Aggie swatters fall on the visiting hurlers for a large number of hits and runs, substitutes will probably be sent into the game by Coach Cleveland. The game will start at 3:45 o'clock.

Mr. Edgar L. Noel, of Glasco, Kan., and Mr. Amrose Folker, of Jewell, Kan., were week end guests at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house.

ENGINEER PARADE SATURDAY

BRILLIANT ELECTRICAL DISPLAYS FEATURE BEAUTIFUL FLOATS.

Charlie Chaplin Inspected, But Was Not on the Job Close Enough to Prevent a Slight Accident—Large Crowds Watched Parade.

The engineers paraded! The parade, which was to have taken place Wednesday night but had to be postponed on account of bad weather, started from Anderson Hall at the college Saturday night at 8 o'clock. It passed through the residence section until it reached Poyntz avenue where it turned eastward and went through the business section. Then it turned south to Houston street and thence westward again.

The assembly of floats and mechanical devices, showed in a unique manner how fertile is the mind of the engineer and what wonderful things he can accomplish. The system of lighting as worked out by the engineers made a beautiful appearance and when the parade reached Poyntz avenue the street lights were turned out to lend a greater effect to those of the floats.

A slight accident occurred as the parade started on its journey from the college. The seniors seemed to have forgotten that there was such a thing as the law of gravity and had failed to put a brake on one of the floats. Consequently when it started down college hill it gathered speed and tried to climb the curb. Failing to do this the motor was broken and had to be replaced by another before the parade could continue on its way.

The different floats were lighted by the electricity generated by dynamos installed on the wagons by the engineers. The lighting was unique and on several of the floats a beautiful effect of colored lights was seen. The most speedy feature of the parade was the tractor "made complete in K. S. A. C. Shops." This tractor consisted of a one and one-half horse power engine geared to a small truck. It was capable of carrying four men. It headed the parade and at other times was carrying Charlie Chaplin around the line of inspection, or chasing bicycles out of the way.

Charlie Chaplin was an engineer! He was chief inspector of the evening. His position kept him very busy and he was forced to carry a lantern to see that all the lights were properly burning, so he said.

Next in line of parade came the band wagon carrying the engineer's (2) band. The home engineers were given their proper place of honor and a float decorated in white was prepared for them. The large float with the rotating lights was the greatest undertaking of the engineers so far as difficult work was concerned. The connections on this float were rotary and four attempts were made before a successful connection could be secured. But the engineers did it.

The milling engineers were there to show the old and the new way of making flour. The modern electric stove and the electric washing machine were there, contrasted with the old methods. Nor were the sculptors and architects to be denied their place. They had a float decorated with the rule and T-square. And behind them came the house modeled and built by K. S. A. C. architects in K. S. A. C. shops.

The U. S. dreadnaught was there but the sea fight which was predicted did not take place for the reason that the German submarine did not make its appearance.

K. S. A. C. in a Debate Text.

The department of public speaking just recently received a book entitled "Intercollegiate Debates," edited by Egbert Ray Nichols of the department of English of the University of Redlands, California. The book is a collection of all intercollegiate debates made last year. Those of K. S. A. C. are included as the first debates on the original subjects used last year.

Fred Merrill, assistant professor of horticulture will be absent from classes Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday doing state council defense work among the potato growers of

THE CAMP DECISION TODAY

APPLICANTS FOR FORT RILEY CAMP ARE BEING "WEED-ED OUT."

Out of 4,000 Applicants, 2,500 of the Most Fit Will be Chosen—Captain Mathews Acts on 217 Applications to Attend.

Today tells the tale with 127 men who have applied through Captain L. O. Mathews to attend the training camp at Fort Riley. First notices to attend the camp at the reservation are being sent out today by Colonel Tyrene Rivers, commandant, according to word received yesterday.

The "weeding out" process will probably eliminate a number of the 127, all of whom have passed their physical examinations. Only 2,500 men can be accommodated at the camp, which opens May 14, and Colonel Rivers and his staff are busy determining which shall be chosen.

Four hundred men will be mustered into the camp daily, according to the present plans. This will distribute the work throughout the week for those in charge.

The capacities of the local examining board have been taxed to the limit the past few days, passing upon applicants who desire to attend the camp. Of perhaps 225 men who have applied, 127 have been recommended by Captain L. O. Mathews and have passed their physical examinations under Major Robins.

The decision to pay these men who attend the camp a salary of $100 a month, in addition to food and clothing, has been the prime cause of the added interest manifested the past week. Added to this is the fear of conscription.

Rejections because of physical deformities have been more numerous among the latter applicants than among the first who applied, according to the records. Two causes, the comparative absence of college men. Whether or not the comparative absence of college men in the later applications has a bearing on the number of rejections, or whether more rigorous standards are being adhered to, because of the large number of applicants, is not known.

Fifty-eight men have passed their examinations during the past three days, almost as many as have given through during the entire previous period of examination. The names of the successful applicants, excepting those whose names have previously been published in the Collegian, are Arthur W. Crocker, George A. Lockhart, Matthew Guilfoyle, Roy I. Gentry, V. E. Bales, John M. Boring, Luc E. Piero, Franklin W. Ryan, Joe R. Speer, Orlo D. Small, Oliver A. Broberg, Martin D. Brunner, A. C. Berry, George S. Hine, Ray W. Scott, H. E. Porter, B. F. Barnes, Edgar L. Noel, Charles D. Avery, J. E. Taylor, W. L. Thacker, L. F. Root, E. C. Miller, E. F. Shaw, T. F. Johnson, G. D. Keel, Glenn Keith, S. M. Mitchell, T. K. Vincent, R. O. Lawrence, H. C. Thompson, Paul L. Mann, Edward D. Wells, J. R. Branham, K. Durham, W. P. Gaiser, R. P. Van Zile, Claude W. Diehl, R. C. Murphy, A. E. Hylton, T. G. Fletcher, Millard Crane, L. E. Stinging Holds No Terrors for K. S. A. C. Girls.

There are at least two girls in college who are not afraid of being stung. Of a class of 12 in apiculture two of the members are girls. They are required to make hives and other bee equipment as do the other members of the class.

Each one of the class is assigned a separate problem to work out in connection with the management of bees. One of the girls is working on the problem of the queen raising and the other is building up a weak colony in order to get them in good condition before the honey flow.

Both expect to put the work into practical use when finished.

Walter W. Houghton, junior in animal husbandry, was elected to membership in the Franklin Literary society Saturday evening.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR WOMEN.

Miss Oswald Tells Y. W. There Are Eight Million in Professions.

Beginning with the statement that there are nine million women in the United States today who are earning a living for themselves, Miss Nellie Oswald, a woman lawyer from Kansas City, spoke to the regular Thursday afternoon meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on the "Woman in the Profession."

"Today women have positions in all but nine of more than the three hundred listed occupations. Her possibilities are practically unlimited if she has the determination, aptitude, and fitness, for the profession which she chooses. Every woman who really counts for anything in the world today is interested in some work. I congratulate the girl who has to work her way through college. She really has an aim and a determination."

Miss Oswald told of the opportunities in law in medicine, in journalism, in photography, architecture, arts and crafts, in library work, and in social service. She especially impressed upon the girls the need of making up the mind to meet the world when going out to earn a living and not to expect too many deferences.

AGGIE PROFS. ARE DOING "BIT."

Greater Production in Kansas is the College's Objective.

The college is working hard to increase the production of Kansas this year. While Doctor Waters and Dean Jardine have been assisting in preparing a program for the Council of Defense, other men from the college have been and are working to increase production.

The horticultural department is sending out a reater number of men. Professor Albert Dickens has spent the week in orchard inspection work and will be in Wichita tomorrow. F. S. Merrill is working among the truck growers at the present time while G. O. Green is out on a three weeks trip in orchard work.

Dr. Hobbs of the veterinary department starts on a demonstration trip for the prevention of hog cholera today and calls for other men are arriving daily.

OPPEN A D. S. TEA ROOM.

Practical Experience in Serving is Object of the Work.

A tea room to be conducted by the lunch room management class in the domestic science building was opened Wednesday noon.

The work is under the management of Miss Lenore Richards, instructor in institutional cookery. The meal is served to members of the faculty from 11:30 o'clock to one o'clock. The purpose of the work is to give practical experience to the class in management of different kinds of serving.

A VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE

Senior High School Girls Invited Here This Week.

Letters have been sent out by the extension department to every high school in the state of Kansas, about 490 in number, inviting one senior girl from each high school to be present at a vocational conference to be held here May 10, 11, and 12.

The idea of this conference is to put before the girls the chances of the woman in a profession today. Representatives of a great variety of occupations have been chosen to address the girls. Miss Bennett of the Occupational Bureau of Chicago will make three talks. There will also be a woman agriculturalist from outside the state. Other speakers will be Dean Van Zile, Dr. Belle Little, Miss Haggart, Miss Birdsall, and Mrs. V. I. Iles and additional speakers from other departments.

Moser to Swift and Co.

Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, has completed arrangements with Swift and Company whereby he will take charge of a new branch of publicity for that concern with his headquarters at the Chicago offices.

Mr. Moser will take up his new duties on June 25.

Miss Ellen Speiser, senior in home economics and Miss Esther Speiser, a special student, left Friday evening for Superior, Nebr., to attend the funeral of their uncle. They expect to return about Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

KANSAS REPEATED, 73 TO 36

JAYHAWKERS WON A SECOND VICTORY FROM THE SCHULZ MACHINE.

Running on a Muddy Track, None of the Athletes Approached Former Records—Aggies Took Three Firsts and Seven Seconds.

Contesting on a track made heavy by the numerous rains of the past week, the Aggies went down to a 36 to 73 defeat before the Kansas Jayhawkers at Lawrence last Friday. Three firsts and seven seconds were the portion of the Schulz athletes, while the Kansans won eleven firsts and six seconds.

Despite the one-sided score, the close races of the meet made it an interesting contest. In the two-mile race, Stater and Howland, Kansans, and Tillotson, Aggie, alternated in taking the lead until the last two laps, when Stater and Tillotson began to leave Howland behind. By the time the two men entered the straightaway on the final lap, Tillotson was 20 yards behind. Staging a wonderful sprint on the muddy track, Tillotson all but overtook his weakening opponent, and was less than five yards behind at the tape. Another ten yards and the race would probably have been Tillotson's.

Captain Wilder left the field an entire hurdle behind in the 220-yard low hurdles, but lost the high hurdles to Beatty, his runningmate.

No records were threatened in the meet. Rodkey's time of 2:08 minutes in the half-mile was exceptional considering the condition of the track, as was O'Leary's mark of 53:4 in the quarter-mile.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Davidson, Kansas, first; Osborne, Aggies, second. Time, 10 3-5.

1 mile run—Sproull, Kansas, first; Eggerman, Aggies, second. Time, 4:52.

High jump—Rice, Kansas, and Miller, Kansas, tied for first. Height, 5 feet, 6 inches.

Shot put—Billings, Aggies, first; Casey, Kansas, second. Distance, 38 feet, 1 inch.

120-yard high hurdles—Beatty, Aggies, first; Wilder, Aggies, second. Time, 17 1-5.

440-yard run—O'Leary, Kansas, first; Welsh, Kansas, second. Time, 33 4-5.

Broad jump—Johnson, Kansas, first; Crutzmacher, Kansas, second. Distance, 21 feet, 10 inches.

Discus throw—Zelger, Kansas, first; Enlow, Aggies, second. Distance, 118 feet, 9 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Wilder, Aggies, first; Casey, Kansas, second. Time, 29 flat.

Half mile—Rodkey, Kansas, first; Murphy, Kansas, second. Time, 2:08 2-5.

220-yard dash—Davidson, Kansas, first; Enlow, Aggies, second. Time, 24 4-5.

Pole vault—Pattison, Kansas, first; Enlow, Aggies, second. Height, 11 feet.

2-mile run—Stater, Kansas, first; Tillotson, Aggies, second. Time, 10:37.

Relay—Won by Kansas (Welsh, Crowley, Sproull and Rodkey). Time, 2:52 4-5.

Dr. J. A. Reiley, K. C. A. C., referee and starter.

A FIREPLACE FOR HIKERS.

City Welfare Association Provides Place for "Wienie" Roasts.

Why walk to Wildcat for hikes and picnics when such a good place is provided for the people of Manhattan in the city park?

The brick fireplace, in the south central part of the city park has been the source of many questions. It seems that many persons do not know the purpose of it.

It was built several months ago by the City Welfare association, for the convenience of hikers and members of picnic parties. It is provided with iron grates on which things can be cooked. Wood is furnished by the city. This fireplace cost the association $20.

CAPS, PADDLES, ETC.

Freshman caps—where did we hear those words before?

Somewhere in the memories of most of the upperclassmen there is the remembrance of having worn certain cloth insignia perched on top of their heads back in the days of their freshman-hood. But where are these insignia now? A careful search of freshmen's brain (?) receptacles the other day failed to locate a single freshman cap.

In the old days, we are informed, it was the custom of upperclassmen to line up and swing pieces of timber at the departing forms of speeding capless freshmen. But that was in the days when freshmen caps were a novelty, and rigorous methods were necessary.

Then followed a period when yearling classes had enough school spirit to wear the caps without such punishment.

That brings the situation down to date. The present freshmen class evidently does not possess any such school spirit. But, there is a baseball game this afternoon, a track meet Friday and another Saturday, and—

Need old customs be revived?

The parade should start immediately after the baseball game in Aggieville.

And, by the way, there wouldn't be any need for a parade if the freshmen would surprise everyone and appear with caps, would there?

A TEST OF HOSPITALITY.

The invasion of the high school track men this week will test K. S. A. C. hospitality. Probably a hundred track athletes will be the guests of the school, the town and the students this week end. What treatment will be accorded the visitors?

A great number of those who will come for the state high school meet will enter college next year. Probably the question of just which college to enter is still in the balance. A good handshake, a smile and an "I'm glad to see you," may tip the balance in favor of Kansas State.

And it isn't merely the effect upon those who come that must be kept in mind. These visitors are the cream of the several high schools over the Truth about good clothes

If you're going to believe everything you read, or hear about clothes, you'll not get very good ones; but you won't have to pay much for them; there may be some comfort in that.

If you depend on your own judgment of quality, you won't be much better off; you may fool yourself into thinking you can tell by looking and feeling whether a fabric is all-wool or two-thirds cotton, but you're just fooling yourself, that's all.

It's fair to assume that every man who buys clothes wants good clothes; no matter what price you pay for a suit, $9.98 or $50, or the high-priced custom tailors $75 or $100, you want to get good value for your money. That's really the only business-like way to look at it. When you have your clothes made to measure you pay part of the price for a sense of gratification at having them made to measure; a sort of comfortable feeling being exclusive; even if it isn't very exclusive, you may have the feeling; and it costs you something.

The remainder of the price is in the clothes, and the dealer's or tailor's profit. Maybe you can figure out how much real clothes value you get in very low priced made-to-measure clothes, or in high-priced ones, for that matter. You can judge for yourself how much value you'll get in a ready-made suit at $9.98 or $12 or $15.

We sell Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes at $20, $25, $30 and up

We handle these goods because we know they represent greater value for the price we ask than any other clothes made. We know where to get the $9.98, $12, $15 goods; we know who makes it, and how it's made and what it's made of; they tell us; there's no deception about it. Some of it is worth the price; but the price isn't high enough for good clothes.

The price of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes is enough to insure quality; and not too much to give big value. That's why we sell them; and if you're wise, that's why you'll buy them.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, MAY 11, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

A 13-1 VICTORY FOR AGGIES

FOUR ST. MARYS PITCHERS KNOCKED OUT OF BOX IN SEVEN INNINGS.

Seven Errors by the Catholics Contributed to Their Downfall—
Hewey Hurled Farewell
Game as an Aggie Pitcher.

Playing errorless ball and pounding out hits when safe blows meant runs, the Aggies were the victors in a 13 to 1 slaughter over the St. Marys Catholics on the college field Tuesday. Seven errors by the Catholics contributed to their downfall. The game was called in the middle of the seventh inning to enable the visitors to catch a train.

Hewey started the game in the box, and allowed only three single, all in the second inning, in the five innings he was on the mound. After the second inning only two Catholics were able to reach the first sack. Magrath took the mound in the sixth inning and Hewey finished the game in right field. The Catholics obtained only one hit off the lanky twirler in the two innings he was in the box.
Neither Hewey or Magrath allowed a batter to reach first on walks, while the four pitchers used by St. Marys allowed the Aggies eight passes, four of which were given to Guilfoyle.

Captain Harvey, first man up in the first stanza, connected with the ball for a three bagger over Seifer's head in left field and scored on Reynolds' sacrifice fly to right.
The Aggies knocked Riordan from the box in the second inning, after which they had easy sailing, collecting four runs in the fifth and six in the sixth. The Catholics used four pitchers, all of whom were at the mercy of the Aggie sluggers.

The Catholics obtained their only run in the second inning after two men had been retired. Bretz singled to center, stole second, and scored on McGlynn's single to right. McGlynn was tagged at the plate.

Five stolen bases were collected off St. Marys. Wooster stole home in the second. In the sixth inning the Aggies clouted the ball for three hits, scoring six men.

This was probably the last appearance of Hewey, Guilfoyle, Sullivan and Wooster, as they are likely to leave this week for the training camp at Fort Riley.

H. S. Seniors Present a Play.

The senior class of the Manhattan high school will present a play entitled, "My Friend From India," tonight at the Marshall theater. This is a difficult play but the cast has been carefully selected and much training has been done in getting the play ready to present. Miss Florence Heizer, of the English department of the high school, who has had much experience in dramatics, is in charge of the play.

MERRILL BUSY WITH BEE WORK.

Besides Work Here He is Delivering Lectures over the State.

J. H. Merrill, assistant professor in entomology, is as busy as a bee.
Besides his work at the college he has a number of trips to make through the state. He has been doing some work for Manhattan people in transferring their bees into modern quarters.

The first of the week he will give demonstrations on the treatment of bee diseases at Chapman at a meeting of the beekeepers of Dickinson county. Friday he will deliver two addresses at a meeting of the Arkansas Valley Beekeepers' association at Nickerson.

May 14 he will address the Northwestern Beekeepers' association at Chapman. This is one of the three divisions into which Kansas is divided for the purpose of handling beekeepers meetings.

A TEST COMES TOMORROW

Tomorrow's state high school track meet will furnish a test for K. S. A.
C. hospitality. Students from the visitors' home towns must take the situation in hand, and pull for a large, freshman enrollment next fall. The athletes and those who accompany them must be impressed with K. S. A.
C.'s greatness, bigness and practicability.

Conscription, farm work, and the officers' training camp threaten to make inroads on next year's enrollment. A large attendance at tomorrow's meet, a royal individual welcome to every visitor, and a display of good school spirit will do much to counterbalance next year's prospective decline in enrollment.

How will K. S. A. C.'s hospitality survive the test?

STILL ROOM FOR YOU

Congress has agreed upon 21 years as the minimum age limit for conscription. Every man eligible to be drafted should be prepared to give the most he has to his country.

There is still room in the college cadet corps for upperclassmen with patriotism enough to sacrifice a few hours a week for the good of their country.

Drill and be patriotic!

SO THE SENIORS "SNEAKED."

Old Established Custom Sends Them
Hiking to Eureka Lake.

In accordance with an old established custom, the entire senior class played "hooky" from college Wednesday.

At class meeting Wednesday morning the members agreed unanimously to continue the custom this year. As a consequence, many of them were seen playing tennis, strolling among shady nooks in Eureka park, while a few of the more studiously inclined were in their rooms busily "honing" on midterm quizzes.

The instructors seemed reconciled to the plan. They merely remarked on their absence, chalked down a few "goose eggs" for their recitation grade and continued the classes as usual.

"Little Women" Coming Next Year.
"Little Women," played by the original New York cast, will be given at K. S. A. C. next October under the direction of the departments of public speaking and music.

The play is taken from Louisa M.
Alcott's story, "Little Women." It has had a successful run in New York the past season.

"This will give everyone the opportunity of seeing a first class production of a great play, with only a few alterations in stage setting," said J.
G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking.

Law Lectures at the College.

Many students and teachers will be interested in learning that George Clammer, a local attorney, has consented to lecture to the class in Farm Law each Tuesday and Thursday at the sixth hour in room 53 of the library building. He will also lecture to the class in Business Law at the seventh hour each Tuesday and Thursday in room 3 of the library building. This is a rare opportunity for students and teachers to hear a course of practical law lectures from a practicing attorney of good experience. Visitors will be welcome to these lectures.

Collegian Reporter Writes That the Men Were Given a Good Dinner the First Day and That Drilling Will Commence Monday.

Forty-six Manhattan men, practically all of them students, graduates or professors in the college, have received notices to report at the officers' reserve training camp at Fort Riley. Whether or not this is the entire number that will be chosen is not known, but such is the conclusion drawn from the card of one of the successful Manhattan applicants, which had the number "2148" stamped upon it. Only 2150 were to be received, according to a statement handed out from the camp officials the first of the week.

The list of those called includes a number of the foremost men in the college. E. N. Wentworth, professor of animal husbandry; H. E. Porter, assistant professor of mathematics;
and C. E. Aubel and Herschel Scott, fellows in the animal husbandry department, are among the members of the college faculty who are to report.
College football prospects for next fall were hit hard with the announcement that "Eddie" Wells, All-Missouri valley fullback and also All-Valley guard in basketball, had received one of the little cards which are permission to enter the camp.
Captain M. P. Wilder, C. R. Enlow, and J. E. Tillotson of the track team are to report, as well as "Dutch"
Hewey, star varsity pitcher.

The entire list is as follows:
Herschel Scott, Ollie Wm. Reed,
C. E. Aubel, Paul Gaizer, Isaac
Frank, A. A. Grant, Philip A. Kennecott, Raymond Campbell, C. K.
Champlin, Chas. Ranger Enlow, Arthur B. Sperry, Elmer Hauser
Schultz, Joe R. Speer, John Milton
Boring, Vernon E. Bates, Harry L.
Dunham, C. E. Freeto, C. A. Fickel,
T. G. Fletcher, Jack Lilly, G. E. Manzer, Arthur W. Crocker, Wallace J.
Clapp, Glenn Keith, Herbert Switz,
M. E. Wilder, Edward Wells.

R. W. Hemphill, R. P. Van Zile, H.
E. Porter, B. L. Mann, A. C. Berry,
M. D. Brunner, O. W. Broberg, A. J.
Hollister, C. E. Dale, Ed M. Gillespie, J. E. Tillotson, N. Pearson, F. U.
Pickrell, L. C. Allis, T. P. Hacker, G.
R. Hewey, E. N. Wentworth, J. N.
Williams and J. D. Pearson.

New buildings are rapidly rising at Fort Riley to accommodate those who are to attend the training camp.
Six barracks, each 147x20 feet with accommodations for 166 men, and three new mess halls, each 112x20 feet, including the kitchen, with a seating capacity for 168 men, have been completed. These have been built within the past week and more are to be constructed.

Fort Riley Training Camp, May 10.
—The first day of the officers' reserve training camp opened with but a small number of applicants ready to be mustered in, but by noon trains and interurbans were loaded bringing in the men from which Uncle Sam's "first 10,000" officers will be picked.

As near as can be ascertained from talks with officers and from official reports, the following system is being used: On arrival, new men go to the recruiting office and are assigned to a company. They are then issued two blankets each and escorted to the barracks of their respective companies.

Each cot was found to have a good spring and the mattress is encased in a sack. On each cot is found an extra mattress bag, pillow, pillow-case and four sheets. The men made their own beds, and had little to do the remainder of the day.

A mighty good dinner, with a menu consisting of canned corn, roast beef, gravy, creamed potatoes, good light bread, oleomargarine and coffee (with cream), was served this noon.
For dessert hard boiled rice and raisins was on the menu. There was very little table etiquette, and D. S. teachers at Manhattan would have fainted at the manner in which the men got rid of the food. Negro waiters added a touch of civilian life to the meal.

Uniforms and other equipment will be issued all men as soon as a company is recruited. The first company, composed largely of Manhattan men, will soon be filled and the new "duds"
will then be given out.

Manhattan people and college people seen on the grounds today were Dr. N. L. Roberts (soon to be a major), "Pete" Bates, M. P. Wilder,
"Hap" Dunham, O. W. Reed, F. N.
Pickrell, "Cap" Russell, L. H. Bixby,
E. F. Wheatley, A. L. Willis, F. N.
Jordan and H. Wise.

There will be nothing to do but look at the sights until Monday, when the men will be down to actual drilling. Most of the men are sitting around in the barracks, telling stories, playing cards, and otherwise amusing themselves.

Ten Go Into Alpha Zeta.

Initiation services were held Monday evening by the Alpha Zeta honorary agricultural fraternity. The initiation took place in the Alpha Zeta room in Anderson hall and was followed by the annual spring banquet.

Alpha Zeta is a national organization and its purpose is to promote better agriculture. Students specializing along some line of agriculture only are eligible and must have completed at least five terms of college work.

The following men were initiated:
G. Y. Blair, W. W. Bell, R. Campbell,
D. E. Curry, B. E. Gleason, G. F.
Hicks, I. K. Landon, L. V. Ritter, Oscar Steanson and E. F. Whedon.

26 Girls in Tennis Meet.

Twenty-six names have been entered for the girls' spring tennis tournament. On account of the rainy weather and also the unfinished condition of the courts no further progress has been made. The matches will be posted by the first of next week.

MISS OREM IN PIENE'S PLACE.

New Instructor to History Classes
While Piene Trains for Service.

Arthur F. Piene, assistant professor of history and civics, left the college last Wednesday to join the officers reserve corps at Fort Sheridan, Ill.
Mr. Piene is a thorough scholar, an efficient teacher, and a polished gentleman. He leaves a host of friends here who wish him well in his new self-sacrificing service.

In the readjustment of the work in history and civics, the department is fortunate in securing the services of an unusually well qualified teacher to complete the work of the term.
Miss Wilma Orem will take two classes. Miss Orem specialized in history while a student here, and last year she won her master's degree from the university of Michigan, where she specialized in history and allied subjects.

PRESENT MISS Y. W. S. TRAVELO

Represent Different Types of Girls to Which Y. W. Appeals.

Miss Y. W. C. A.'s Travelogue was presented to a large and appreciative audience at the regular Thursday afternoon meeting of the College Girls' association.

In view of the fact that the Young Women's Christian association is found everywhere, give girls were featured, each one representing a different type to which the Y. W. C. A. appeals. Miss Irene Miller was the College girl. She told of the Big Sister work among the freshmen. Miss Donna Faye Wilson represented the City girl, the working girl. Miss Mary Dakin posed as the daughter of the Plains. The Country Girl was portrayed by Miss Velma Carson. Miss Hattie Droll was featured as the Foreign girl, the stranger at the gate.

The Y. W. C. A. octette sang
"Sweet Miss Mary," "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," "Back to Hollister" (original), and "At the Close of Day."

There will be no meeting next week on account of the College May fete, which is given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y.
M. C. A.

MODES OF TRAVEL WERE SHOWN

"King of the Rails" Pictured Development of Transportation.

"The King of the Rails," a moving picture showing the development of means of travel and transportation up to the present age, was shown to the students at student assembly
Tuesday morning. The picture is one that had been shown at the auditorium to the state branch of the National Association of Stationary Engineers during the convention held here last week.

The picture began by showing the earliest modes of travel where men had to walk and had no means of transportation. Then came the time when man discovered that he could move things by dragging or rolling them and the primitive wagon or ox cart was built with the oxen furnishing the motive power.

Later the power of steam was discovered and the first locomotive was built.

Lastly was shown the making of the electric locomotive from the molding of the steel to the assembling of the finished parts.

What Vets Do in Ireland.

An interesting account of the veterinary schools in Ireland, and how that science is practiced in the United Kingdom, was given by Tom O'Riley, junior in veterinary medicine, in an instructive talk before the first May meeting of the Veterinary Medical association held at the Y. M. C. A. building Monday evening.

Hamp Is Roasted Eggs.

Roasted eggs headed the list on the Hamilton Ionian menu at Wildcat
Saturday night.

The societies celebrated their annual egg roast under ideal weather conditions. The afternoon was spent in playing games and picking flowers.

Give a Hike for H. S. Seniors.

At a meeting of the Manhattan high school alumni held in the old chapel Tuesday morning, it was decided to stage a "hike" May 26, on which the present high school seniors would be the guests of the alu-

HIGHS IN A MEET TOMORROW

PAST PERFORMANCES OF ATH-LETES FORECASTS BREAK-ING OF RECORDS.

Neeley, Leslie and McKown Have Already Bettered State Marks in District Meets—"Mike"
Ahearn is Starter.

Records are due to fall in the state high school track and field meet tomorrow. In the list of 71 entries from 17 schools are names of a number of scholastic athletes who have bettered, tied or approached marks made in former meets.

The star performer of the afternoon probably will be Neeley, a speedster from Abilene. Neeley ran away with most of the honors in last year's state meet, and in the fifth district contest last week, running on the grass he traveled the 50-yard dash in the record time of 5 2-5 seconds. This clips a fifth of a second off the state mark held jointly by "Sol" Butler of Hutchinson, Jeter of Wichita and Collier of Marquette.
Neeley also established a mark of 23 4-5 seconds in the 220-yard dash on the heavy Abilene track. This ties Collier's state record. Leslie of St. Johns went the same distance in two-fifths seconds better time, however. The battle between these two dash stars should be interesting.

Moore of Spring Township, high jumped 5 feet 8 inches, within an inch and one-half of Trewicke's high school mark. E. McKown of Pratt, mounted 11 feet 4 inches in the seventh district pole vault event. This is five inches better than the state mark, also held by a Pratt athlete, Axline, who made his record last year.

Fred Shepardson of Wichita, with a heave of 109 feet, came within two feet of the state discus mark made by Schultze of Norton in 1915. While first and second place entries have been sent in from each of the districts, the records of only three of the meets are available, making it possible that even better records than the above have been made.

Athletic Director Clevenger, Coach
Schulz and E. A. Bauer, who are in charge of the preliminary arrangements, are unanimous in the opinion that the meet will be one of the best in years. Last year only one record was broken, but all indications point to a general lowering of run records and a raising of field marks.

"We need a large crowd to give the meet its proper sendoff," says Clevenger. "A good impression on the visiting athletes will mean that a number of them will come here to school next year. Besides, the athletic department is largely behind the meet in a financial way, and every student's admission money is needed."

The first call for the meet will be at 2:15 o'clock. The meet will commence promptly at 2:30, the 50-yard dash, the pole vault and the shot put being the first events on the program. Admission will be 25 cents.

Prof. "Mike" Ahearn will act as starter and head official and "Bees"
Cushman will be clerk of the course.

Pi Kappa Delta Initiates Six.

Six new members were initiated into Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debate and oratory fraternity, Wednesday afternoon.

The initiation services were held in Hamilton Literary Society hall at 6:30 o'clock. From here the party went to the College Inn where dinner was served. After dinner the members held a line party at the Marshall theater.

Those initiated into Pi Kappa Delta were H. Clyde Fisher, Hamilton; Fred Carp, Athenian; Paul L. Findley, Hamilton; A. F. Swanson,
Franklin; H. H. Nelson, Hamilton;
Calvin J. Medlin, Athenian.

The Vets Visited Kansas City.

The senior veterinary students, accompanied by Dr. L. W. Goss, professor of pathology, left Tuesday morning for Kansas City on a meat inspection trip. They visited Swift & Co., Morris & Co., and the Cudahy and Armour's packing houses. They returned Wednesday evening.

R. H. Heppie, former city editor of the Mercury, who went to Kansas City recently as relief editor for the Associated Press, has been placed in charge of the Topeka office of that organization, and began work there this morning.

FRIDAY, MAY 11, 1917

GOOD-BYE, FELLOWS.

One by one little post cards are calling you who have signed to go to the Fort Riley training camp. Twenty-eight Wednesday, almost an equal number yesterday and perhaps some more today—one by one you men, among you some of the staunchest, the most loyal and the strongest fighters K. S. A. C. boasts, are leaving us for a greater work, that of fighting, perhaps even of giving your lives, for your country.

Fellows, we're jealous, we "left overs" are. Some of us wanted to go just as badly as you did. Some of us, weren't physically fit, some of us came under the age limit, others had dependents we couldn't leave and still others of us applied, were passed, and our names were in the bottom of the pile over at the fort.

You're the lucky ones—you fellows who received the call—and our eyes are on you. We'll watch you all the time, we'll be down at the post occasionally for a visit, and we're backing you to the limit, sure that you'll make good.

When conscription calls, many of us will fall into the ranks as privates. Over us we don't want weaklings and numskulls, we want men such as you, energetic, brainy and well trained.

You MUST make good—that's all there is to it. And why shouldn't you? You have the eyes of every Aggie upon you: incentive enough for any man.

Remember, you represent both US and U. S.

Good-bye, and MAKE GOOD.

Of course there are two sides to every question—yours, and the wrong one.

A SLACKER, MR. FROSH!

Always it has been the custom for freshmen to wear their caps at the annual high school track meet. And always it has been the custom for upperclassmen, who by appropriate legislation have decided on the cap rule, to enforce the rule by appropriate administration.

Again we ask: Need old customs be revived?

The answer is: No, not unless Mr. Frosh is a 'slacker.'

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT.

Not all who passed their physical examinations to be admitted at the Fort Riley training camp will be called, according to latest press reports. Yet almost 100 students withdrew from college to attend the camp. Did they not act on the spur of the moment, heedless of advice given to "keep cool?"

These students should re-enter college, even though they have been out for almost two weeks. The only alternative is to return to the farm, and many do have farms to which they can return.

TRIMMED VINES PRODUCE WELL.

Ninety Dollar Profit Obtained From Small Patch.

Barbered tomato vines are producing an immense quantity of fruit at the college greenhouse, and are still loaded with a promising harvest.

Four equal-sized benches, 500 square feet in all support the luxuriant growth that made necessary the trimming of the leaves so that light could penetrate to the growing fruit. The benches contain plants set 6, 12 and 18 inches apart, for the purpose of determining which distance apart would produce the most. Those farthest apart are doing the best, by far, according to W. C. Calvert, greenhouse foreman.

Aside from this experiment, Mr. Calvert has discovered a remedy to prevent blossom-end rot, a very difficult growth to combat.

Up to date about 600 pounds of tomatoes have been sold at 15 cents per pound. For 500 square feet, $90 is not a bad profit especially when the crop is not more than half harvested.

"DOC" IS GATHERING THE KEYS.

Yales and Carlines Must be Turned In to Custodian Wagner.

Gathering in the keys—sounds similar to the old revival song, doesn't it? However, "Doc" Wagner feels like losing his religion, at times, while revising his list of more than 500 keys.

Notices are being sent to all departments requesting that they report who now have keys and who are to be held responsible for them in the future. There probably are many that are not on any record at this time which must be accounted for later.

Keeping track of these is not only one of the many little duties that fall to the lot of our friend "Doc," Yale, Corbin and two grooves of Lockwoods are used on the hill, and are controlled by four different master keys.

TEACHERS ARE IN DEMAND.

Department of Education Finds Positions for Fifty.

More than 50 teachers' positions have been filled through the agency of the department of education already this spring. Practically all the agricultural students are placed at present, the demand for which exceeds the supply. The greatest call is for agricultural students with manual training experience.

Most of the men who graduate take up work other than teaching. Some go to farms and others accept positions as managers or enter the employ of the government.

CULLED CLIPPINGS.

A Sunflower reporter when discussing the appearance of a certain actress as she came upon the stage, said:

"When Ruth Stough struck the stage there was an appreciative giggle from the audience." We are wondering if it was a part of the show or if Ruth tripped.

A headline in the University Oklahoma Daily states that dates may be had all during the week. Will the co-eds of O. U. please send us Aggie girls the secret of the plentiful supply?

Bob Morris of Okla. who recently passed the state pharmaceutical examination has withdrawn from school to enter the drug business. Why should any one capable of practicing pharmaceuticals want to run a drug store?

"Presbyterian Endeavors to go Picnicking."—K. U. Daily. Wonder what stopped them.

It seems that the custodian at the Fort Hays Normal is Wagoner, too.

Prof. Pynch entertained his botany class at a formal monthly test, on Thursday A. M. The hall was tastefully decorated with bugs, skins, amphibian remains, wholesale vertebrae, and a bi-domed calf. Prof. Porter poored, and among those conspicuous for their absence were, L. Yazzel and A. Saough.—The Sunflower.

We believe that anything worth doing is worth doing well. That's why we are doing the best cleaning and "pressing in town. Phone us at 649. Aggieville.

MAKE TROPHY OF PIGSKIN.

Ball From This Year's K. U.-K. S. A. C. Battle Is Being Mounted.

The K. U. half football that was secured after the tie game last year is being mounted by W. H. Ball, assistant in woodwork. It is being placed on a hardwood face about 18 by 20 inches square. The score and date of the game will appear, probably in the crimson and blue of our opponents.

Coach Clevenger will place it on display with various other athletic trophies where it may be seen in the course of a few days.

CLERGY TO WORK IN SUMMER.

Rev. Walter Burr has Plan of Utilizing Minister's Vacation.

That the 3000 clergymen of Kansas will probably enlist in the great army of producers, is the prediction of the Rev. Walter Burr, director of rural service in the division of extension. Mr. Burr has volunteered to assist in filling silos during his vacation late in the summer.

"If each pastor would give his one month's vacation toward farm production an amount of work equivalent to that of 250 men working for an entire year. Many ministers have already laid plans to do this and I think the majority will support the plan.

An American Boy Honored.

J. A. Sims, of Americus, who is at Manhattan attending the Agricultural College, was elected athletic manager of the sophomore class at a recent meeting for the election of officers, as reported in the last number of the Kansas State Collegian, the official organ of the State Agricultural college. There is considerable honor and prestige attached to this office, as there are about 500 members of the sophomore class.—Emporia Gazette.

Insurance Business Heavy.

War and insurance seem to go together. This may not be a general belief, but if the bulk of business is any criterion the former statement is true. All those writing insurance in Manhattan report a heavy increase in applications during the past two weeks. The fact that one enlists does not alter the terms of a policy, it is said.

"THE SECRET OF EVE."

Mme. Petrova features in this picture. A splendid portrayal of the spirit of self sacrifice that exists in every woman—the spirit that makes a true sweetheart, a wife, a lover. Wareham's, Saturday, May 12.

RIMES AND POEMS.

Why Smile?

Bad luck will overtake you after while

You're sure to get a cold or grip And pay the doctor for a trip

To fix you up fit as you please So you can catch a new disease

And pay more bills—and lose the pile

You're hoarding up—Why smile?

Why Grin?

Some crook is waiting round to rope you in

Some evil eye is resting on your cash

And fate stands smirking, waiting for the crash

To tumble down your plans and hopes

And hangmen stand with ready knotted ropes

Behind life's veiling curtain dark and dim

You may be the next—Why grin?

If all the boys go off to war And all the damsels tarry

K. S. A. C. is going to be A female cemetery.

There was a young sophomore named Kols

A tulip pure white he once stole In his coat out of sight

Went the tulip so white And now there's a blot on his soul.

Poor Willie has to go to war (its sad) Its not a bit of fun, what's more

(Oh ladies) No girl to join the weeping corps! (Is Hades)

JUST JESTS, JOKES AND OTHER JUNK.

When she smiled it seemed that all good things of heaven and earth must come to her. She danced with the grace of a sylph and her entire manner was just shy and retiring enough to attract and yet bold enough to command.

We danced through one entire number without breaking the silence, I being almost afraid I would be awakened as from a pleasant dream should I speak to her. Then when I took her to her next partner I spoke my pleasure of having had a dance with her. She answered me in a voice of the deepest base.

It was proven that he loved her When downward they had sat; He never moved a muscle Though she smashed his new spring hat.

A certain prof her on the hill Don't like the ukelele But we will wager anyhow, He'll get to hear one daily.

NOTICE.

(To four people prominent in college society) There will be a dance in Ogden May 20, 1917.

Happy, happy, little coed Tripping lightly down the hill On high heels so long and spindly I see not how you help but spill.

I hunt and peck hunt and peck, Said the embryo journalist with a sigh; But I will learn it yet, by heck, If another typewriter I have to buy.

A recent current current history Flunkie felt something of sweet revenge, when she happened to be on hand the other evening to witness the performance of I. Victor Iles, when he got down on his hand and knees to pick up several hundred quiz papers which he spilled all over the south cement steps.

Zeno C. Rechel in a recent interview, says that although he loves the United States, there never was any fighting blood in his family and that there is less now, and while he enjoys target practice he hates to be there. "I shall offer my services to the president—however I do not feel that my country will need me until after the Hamp-to egg roast. I hope the war can be postponed if my dates conflict, as the next roast I attend may be "somewhere in France."

Clipped from the Centralia Journal, and an editorial too!

Mrs. Cora Robinson went to bed last Sunday to take a course of treatment for ulcer of the stomach. She has been quite sick a part of the week but is more comfortable as we go to press.

A misplaced comma in the following story, ruined the editor with two girls at least: "The two young men spent the early part of the evening with two young ladies, and after they left, the girls got drunk."

The power of suggestion has worked in the case of Harold Snell, after writing butter advertisements, he walked into the cafeteria and stabled three times his usual amount.

RATS IN FEED EXPERIMENT.

Use Found for Rodents in Old Ag. Building.

Rats—100 of them—in the basement of the old agricultural building have a mission. The rats are used in running feeding experiments by the experiment station. The animals are of the white variety and have but few of the repulsive characteristics commonly associated with rats.

The reason for using rats in such experiments is that the cost is considerably less, space is economized, and the results are more accurate than could be obtained with larger and more costly animals. At the same time a greater variety of experiments can be run concurrently and with a larger number of animals.

SPORT.

Improvement over the hitting of last year is shown in the batting averages of this year's Aggies. Four Aggies, MacMillan, Sullivan, Captain Harvey and Reynolds are pounding the ball above the coveted .300 mark, and the batting average of Hewey, Griffith, McLeod, Newton and Clark are not far behind.

Sullivan leads the regulars with a slugging percentage of .375. MacMillan has the highest average, .429, but he has played in but two contests. All the regulars are hitting above the .200 mark. Captain Harvey, Gullfoyle and Clark lead the base pilferers, each having stolen four bases. MacMillan is next with three stolen sacks.

Last year's baseball men hit the ball at an average of only .143, which is .068 points under the average of this year's team.

The averages follow:

	G.	Ab.	R.	H.	Sh.	Av.
MacMillan	2	7	4	3	3	.429
Sullivan	7	24	6	9	2	.375
Harvey	7	33	8	11	4	.333
Reynolds	6	24	6	8	2	.333
Hewey	6	17	3	5	1	.294
Griffith	2	7	4	2	1	.286
Clark	7	30	10	8	4	.267
McLeod	6	19	4	5	2	.263
Newton	6	23	2	6	4	.261
Richardson	2	4	1	1	1	.250
Wooster	7	19	5	4	1	.219
Gullfoyle	7	25	7	5	4	.209
Magrath	4	11	1	1	0	.091
Breckheisen	1	3	0	0	0	.000
McCollum	1	1	1	0	0	.000

Two base hits, Clark, Reynolds, Sullivan, McLeod and MacMillan. Three base hits, Harvey, Sullivan, Wooster 2, Newton, McLeod, Hewey. Home runs, Harvey, Newton, MacMillan.

The athletic situation is dwindling down until the Aggies are about the only school represented by a baseball team. Kansas, St. Marys and Missouri are still in the running, but word was received yesterday by Athletic Director Clevenger from Dr. E. J.

Stewart, the Nebraska mentor, that the Cornhusker athletic board had decided to abolish athletics for the remainder of the school year.

Docor Stewart's letter cancels the games with the Aggies to be played at Lincoln May 16 and 17.

A scarcity of athletes has caused the indefinite postponement of the Normal-Aggie track meet scheduled for Friday afternoon on college field. The departure of Captain Wilder, Holroyd, Dorrill, Tillotson and Enlow has weakened the Schultz team to the extent that few point makers are left, and Coach "Bill" Hargis reports an equal scarcity of material at Emporia.

The matter of granting letters to those who have competed will be taken up at the next meeting of the athletic board.

One member of the Aggie baseball team is "strong" for the Missouri University Red Cross association. While in Columbia last week he developed a sore toe and went up to a doctor to have it lanced. There happened to be at this time a class of university girls receiving instruction in first aid nursing from this doctor. The doctor seeing a good chance for clinic operated on the man while girls watched. The best looking girl in the class wrapped it up and it has not hurt since.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Dear Editor of The Collegian:

I do not know what to do. I have been receiving the attention (in English Lit. class) of two young men and it has come to the point where I must choose one of the two. Both are of equal strength, grace and manliness. Both have the same courtesy and tact. But as to beauty, dear editor, I feel that one must excel the other. And so I leave it entirely to you to decide for me which is the prettiest and most beautiful of the two. Their names are W. K. Charles and C. F. Church.

Doubtfully yours,
ELIZABETH AGNES COTTON.

Editor of the Collegian:

So far I have noticed that there are very few students writing letters to be put in the "Out of the Mail Box" column. I think that it would be a fine thing if more students would send letters to this space. It seems to me that this is a fine thing because it gives the student a chance to express his opinion publicly and yet is not making himself conspicuous.

K. S. A. C. needs more enthusiasm throughout and especially at this time of the year. There is no better way to get a little pep among the students than to start a discussion of something that interests every one. Every student has opinions and if he wants other people to know about them here is a good chance to air his ideas. There need be no scandal started but just a little healthy enthusiasm is what we need.

INTERESTED.

Editor Collegian:

The patience of Job was tried with a third degree of pestilence in Bible times, but Job has one thing to be thankful for: he missed the ukelele pest. If Webster was here to define a ukelele, he probably would define it as a musical apology or a would-be musicians last resort.

As "like begets like" the ukelele falls into the hands commensurate with its musical powers. Just like tom cats and other midnight musicians, the ukelele pest sallies forth after all danger of being detected is past and waits that wicky, wacky, woolly weirdness, that wabbles from moans to groans, upon a sleepless and defenseless public.

One of the pest's favorite haunts is the Central school house, and as a spokesman for that part of town, the writer wishes to state that you have our sympathy and curses. If you could only hear yourselves as others hear you, you might be more considerate but if you are determined to become a street musician, let the writer suggest that you write home for your Jews harp.

HIGHS SMASHED 5 RECORDS

EVANS OF OSAGE CITY, LOWERED TWO OLD MARKS AND TIED ANOTHER.

Ideal Weather Conditions and a Near-Perfect Track Sent Records of Former Meets Dwindling—Neeley, Star Abilene Tracker, Did Not Compete.

Five high school run records went dwindling Saturday. In their places, five new marks were set up by athletes competing in the seventh annual high school interscholastic meet, which was won by Wichita with a total of 25 points. Every run record except the half mile was bettered or equaled.

The meet started auspiciously when Wheaton of Spring Township was clocked at 5 1-5 seconds in a preliminary heat of the 50-yard dash, which is two-fifths of a second better than the old record which has stood since 1913. Upon measurement, the distance was found to be four inches short and the time was disallowed.

Evans, wearing the colors of Osage High, was individual point winner with 15 points and individual record breaker, setting up new marks in the 50-yard dash and the 220-yard dash, and tying the record of 10 1-5 seconds in the century dash. His time of 5 2-5 seconds clipped one-fifth second off the 50-yard dash record, and he broke Colliers' record of 23 4-5 seconds in the 220 yard dash when he traveled that distance in 23 seconds flat.

Rogers of Topeka finished fifty yards ahead of the field in the mile run, setting up a new mark of 4:41:3 minutes. The old record of 4:45:3 was made three years ago by Dirkling of Alta Vista. Rogers came within two-fifths of a second of the half-mile record made four years ago by Rodkey, the present Jayhawker captain.

Moore of Wichita, was the other record breaker. His time of 53 1-5 seconds in the quarter-mile bettered the former mark of 54 2-5 seconds held jointly by McCready of Wichita and Neefley of Enterprise. Miller, Bruce, Rogers and McCallen, running for Topeka clipped exactly two seconds off the old relay record. The Topekans time was 3:40:4 minutes.

Neeley, a star dash man from Abilene, was declared ineligible to run in the meet because he had competed against high school athletes as a student in the eighth grade, thus having completed his allotted four years of competition.

Ideal weather conditions and a track in the best condition it has been in this year aided the athletes in their record-breaking.

Of the 37 schools entered in the meet points were made by the following: Wichita, 25; Topeka, 22 1-2; Osage City, 20; Spring Township, 16; Abilene, 15; Ford, 8; Parsons, 7; St. John, 5; Norton, 4; Great Bend, 3; Logan, 3; Oskaloosa, 3; Solomon, 3; Manhattan, 2 1-2; Pleasanton, 2; Valley Falls, 2; Winchester, 2; Alta Vista, 2; Alma, 2; Ulysses, 2; Scranton, 2; Clay Center, 1.

The summary:

50-yard dash—Won by Evans, Osage City; Hinshaw, Ford, second; Wheaton, Spring township, third; Olsen, Fourth. Time, 5 2-5 second (record).

100-yard dash—Won by Evans, Osage City; Hinshaw, Ford, and McCallan, Wichita, tied for second; Grandy, Wichita, fourth. Time 10 1-5 seconds. (Tied record.)

YOUR COUNTRY OR YOURSELF

Upperclassmen who refuse to drill are selfishly putting their own comfort above the good of their country. In this crisis, every man, woman and child should be doing his "bit." The "bit" of the unprepared man is to be preparing himself. Such an opportunity is open to K. S. A. C. students, who are privileged to enroll in the Aggie cadet corps.

Remember, it's love of self versus love of country.

Drill and be patriotic.

PRESENT "THE HIGH CALLING"

Congregational Society to Appear in Play by Dr. Sheldon.

The Goodfellowship Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church will give a dramatization of "The High Calling," by Charles M. Sheldon, D. D., Friday night, May 18, at the Congregational church. This society appeared last year in the successful play, "Back to the Farm," which will be remembered with pleasure by all who saw it. The play they present this year is of a high quality. Miss Vida St. John, Miss Beulah McNall, and Harry H. Nelson of last year's cast appear this year in important roles.

Dr. Sheldon is the author of "In His Steps" and is a well-known, much loved story writer. This story, "The High Calling," was dramatized by Mrs. Cora M. Carrier for the young people of Dr. Sheldon's church in Topeka. It was given before two large enthusiastic audiences. This is the first time it has been given outside of Topeka.

The admission price is 25 cents.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO AMOS

Chemistry Assistant Has Hand Blown Blown Off in An Experiment.

H. H. Amos, lecturer assistant to H. H. King, associate professor of chemistry, met with a serious accident at the close of a sixth hour chemistry class Monday afternoon, which resulted in blowing off practically all of his left hand as far as the wrist.

The lecture had been on aluminum and magnesium of which one experiment was on the mixing of magnesium and potassium chlorate to make flash light powder. A small amount of the mixture was left in a stock bottle and in some way, which no one knows, was ignited while he held it in his hand.

A terrific explosion resulted, which blew off his left hand. Dr. Marie Greene and Dr. C. M. Siever, college physicians, were called and he was given emergency treatment and was later taken to the Charlotte Swift hospital.

Mr. Amos was graduated from this college at Christmas and is doing graduate work at this time.

4 AGGIES TO THE U. S. ARMY

NAMES OF KEITH, MACMILLAN, SWEET AND MILLER ARE APPROVED.

Applicants Will be Given a Physical Examination in Chicago in July, After Which They Will be Commissioned—Pay of Second Lieutenant is $1700.

The names of Glenn Keith, Roscoe I. MacMillan, Joe B. Sweet, and H. B. Miller have been recommended by President H. J. Waters and Captain L. O. Mathews, commandant, to the war department as honor graduates of the college, thus placing them in line for appointment as second lieutenants in the regular army. The war department some time ago advised President Waters that the college would be entitled to ten more applicants for second lieutenancies, and Captain Mathews has picked only four candidates thus far.

The other six are still open, according to Captain Mathews. Applicants should see the commandant at once if they desire the positions. Only seniors and graduates who can qualify as "honor graduates" are eligible.

All that the four recommended students now have to face is a physical examination, which will be given in Chicago some time in July.

The pay of a second lieutenant under the present wage scale is $1700. A chance for rapid advancement is offered to the applicants because of the present war situation.

OPEN MILLERS' SHORT COURSE

Wheat Buyers From Three States are Registering for Instruction.

Wheat buyers, millers and flour salesmen from various parts of Kansas, Missouri and Texas began arriving yesterday to attend the fifth annual short course in wheat and flour testing which is offered by the department of milling industry at the agricultural college here. The course will continue until May 26.

The work will consist of a course of lectures with discussions and laboratory practice. Instruction will be given in methods for determining absorption, gluten (wet and dry), total protein, moisture, ash and acidity. Those in attendance will be given opportunity for as much laboratory practice as time will permit.

Those who have registered are: T. F. Grimm of the Kaw Milling company, Topeka; A. W. Shelley of the Caldwell Milling company, Caldwell; R. I. Smith of the Wolf Milling company, Ellinwood; George L. Inds of the Inds Milling company, St. Louis, Mo.; P. H. Sprout of the Williams-Morton Intercoastal Mills, Topeka; L. L. McNally, Texarkana, Tex., and Evert Storey, Altona, Kan.

Mr. Lange of Buhler, Kan., and Harry Hunter of Attica are expected to arrive in Manhattan this evening. An attendance of approximately 20 persons is expected.

HAZEL EYES ARE A MISTAKE.

Eyes are Blue, Says Aggie Psychology Instructor.

All eyes are blue, said Charles F. Dunn, instructor in psychology, last week. Contrary to the common belief that there are several kinds of pigment present in eyes of the various colors, there is only blue pigment present.

The deep blue eyes which novelists have raved about are due simply to intensity of blue pigment and not to any extraordinary depth of the eye itself. The equally famous nut brown eye color is caused also by blue pigment. In this case it is the blood coloring matter underlying the blue which gives the color.

The various shades between blue and black are due to the amount of blue pigment overlying the blood coloring matter.

Pink eyes of the Albino are due to absence of pigment over the small blood capillaries.

THREE ENGINEERS PROMOTED.

Departure of Captain Hobbs Makes Re-organization Necessary.

The departure of Captain L. S. Hobbs of the engineering company for the Fort Riley training camp has caused three promotions in the engineering company. J. R. Sparks becomes captain, F. C. Zeigler is first lieutenant, R. S. Talley becomes second lieutenant and C. C. Key is the new first sergeant.

TO SHORTEN TERMS?

EVANS OF OSAGE CITY, LOWERED KANSAS COLLEGES CONSIDERING SPLITTING SEMESTERS AND STARTING LATER.

PLANNED AS A WAR MEASURE

STUDENTS CAN ALTERNATE WORKING ON FARMS AND ATTENDING COLLEGE.

Meeting Will be Held Sometime in Near Future to Determine Course Kansas Colleges Will Pursue—Plan Was First Suggested at Meeting in Washington.

The college term may be shorter next year. A movement is on among presidents of Kansas institutions to split the semesters in two, thus allowing a maximum of enrollment of young men from the farms, without interfering in any way with the farm work.

The two main points of the new plan are the shorter term and the postponement of the first day of college until after the harvest. This might mean that the college year would not start until November.

The work as outlined for next year would be doubled up so that subjects could be completed in a single term. Under this plan, a course which was planned for four hours a week would become an eight-hour course. Credit for a four-hour course would be given on the student's punch-card.

The plan as briefly outlined above was first suggested at a meeting of more than 120 college heads at Washington. President H. J. Waters was in attendance.

When the presidents of Kansas institutions returned from the meeting they planned a meeting of state school heads to consider the plan. The date of this conference has not been announced. In the meantime, deans and professors in the various institutions are being asked to criticize and improve upon the plan, so that a definite course can be taken when the Kansas meeting is held.

That some war measure of securing the attendance for a part of the year of those who are engaged in agricultural work will be adopted is practically assured. It is probable that out of the host of suggestions made for bringing about this end that the plan of splitting the semesters in two, and of having the college year start after the harvest, will be the course which the meeting will adopt.

MOSER WON QUILL CONTEST.

Paper on "On to Berlin" Took the First Prize—Bergen Second.

In the annual short story contest conducted by the Quill club first place was awarded to Leo C. Moser, senior in industrial journalism, whose subject was "On to Berlin."

Walter Bergen, sophomore in industrial journalism, and Rex Criswell, sophomore in agronomy, tied for second place. Mr. Bergen's story was "A Prairie Flower," and Mr. Criswell's "The Metamorphosis."

Third place was won by F. E. Oakes, sophomore in agronomy, with a story on the subject of "Courageous Tommy."

Eight persons took part in the contest. The judges were John D. Cooke, and Miss Annette Leonard, of the English department, and Mrs. Max Wolf. A gold medal will be given to Mr. Moser.

A CARNIVAL SHOW IS IN TOWN

Isler Company Will Be Here for a Week—Is Located in Barber's Grove.

The Isler Carnival company arrived in Manhattan yesterday for a week's stand and have located in Barber's grove just across the Poyntz avenue bridge.

The feature attraction of the carnival is the Silodrome, in which a motorcycle rider circles the perpendicular sides of a silo at a rapid rate of speed, doing trick work and fancy riding.

The Isler company has a reputation for clean shows and the carnival is a home state production, originating in Chapman, Kan.

A WAY OUT FOR MISS CO-ED.

Purse She Sells her Dessert.

It was lunch time and Miss Co-ed was hungry for she had had an eight o'clock class and no breakfast. At the cafeteria the salad was unusually inviting and the desserts were good. The bill came to twenty-four cents. She found a table and began her repast. Then, with a gasp, she felt suddenly in her pocket. She realized that she was wearing her sweater and that her money was in her coat pocket at home. Not seeing anyone around whom she knew she began to search through her sweater pockets. There were to be found a pencil, several handkerchiefs, a powder puff or so, some notes and finally a dime in each pocket. But that was not TWENTY-FOUR cents.

Nor could she write out a check, as that was a recent ruling. Then a bright idea came to her. She could sell her desert back. So she had to part with the perfectly grand banana cream pie.

And then her bill was nineteen cents.

RED CROSS NURSE ADVISES

Age, Sex and Environment Influence Disease, Says Miss Kennedy.

The nurses training class under the direction of Miss Loula Kennedy, a Red Cross nurse, brought out some interesting facts at the last meeting. Some of these were as follows:

Disease is influenced by age, sex, occupation, habits, climate, and environment. Few diseases are inherited. The so-called inherited diseases are caused by a predisposition to disease and an inherited weakness of cells which are unable to resist germs. To avoid disease avoid the germs and observe absolute biological cleanliness and hygienic rules. Infancy and old age are the most susceptible ages.

At the ages of 12 to 18 occur the least deaths.

Tuberculosis is more prevalent between the ages of 18 and 25. Few persons over 45 will take it although 90 out of every 100 persons get the germs.

The death rate from measles is much higher than is usually supposed since it is reported under the name of some complication brought about by measles such as pneumonia, abscesses, or tuberculosis.

Infectious diseases are not air borne and if absolute sanitary conditions are observed will not be transmitted only by breathing or by expelling from the mouth by coughing or spitting.

Most germs enter through the mouth and nose and leave the body in the same way.

According to the life history of other animals the life of man should be 150 years. Instead it is 45.

SENIORS IN A POKER GAME?

"Pair of Sixes" Held by Winner—But It's All in a Play.

"A Pair of Sixes,"—no, it doesn't mean a pair of number six shoes or a couple of six-cylinder cars. It means a pair of sixes such as one might have a faint remembrance of having held in a poker game providing that they played the terrible game.

The seniors are going to present "A Pair of Sixes" commencement week and show how a man became an unfortunate victim of circumstances by losing to an opponent who held the fateful pair. According to coach C. R. Adamson, the play is a "scream." It is a laugh from the start until the last curtain drops.

The entire cast has now been chosen and regular practice is started. Ira (Buck) Freeman will play the part of Nettleton and O. K. Rumble takes the part of Johns. Nettleton's business partner, Miss Agnes McCorkle will play the part of Florence, Johns' fiancée. Miss Emily Lofnick is Sally their stenographer, and Carl Hoffman is the office boy. "Duke" Turner is Kronne the bookkeeper. Miss Nina Mae Powell plays the part of Mrs. Nettleton and Miss Laura Ramsey has the part of Coddles, the maid of all work. H. A. Hoffman impersonates Vanderbilt, the lawyer, and Bob Osborne is the energetic Tony Toler, the salesman.

Red Cross Meeting Thursday.

A meeting will be held in room L 40 of the domestic science building Thursday at 6:45 for the organization of First Aid, Dietician and ambulance classes in the Red Cross society.

FRATERNITIES ARE HARD HIT

FOUR GREEK LETTER ORGANIZATIONS HAVE CLOSED THEIR TABLES.

Only Eight or Ten Men left in some of the Fraternities—Condition is caused by Enlistments, Training Camp and "Back to Farm Movement."

Greek letter societies are feeling the effects of the war. The high cost of living, enlistments, the officers' training camp, and the "back to the farm" movement have thinned out the fraternity ranks to the extent that two sororities and the same number of fraternities have closed their tables.

The Pi Kappa Alpha and Acacia fraternities are the hardest hit of the men's organizations. Both have discontinued serving meals to their members.

"We have but eight men left out of a membership of 24," said a member of the Pi Kappa Alphas. "With such a small number remaining, we found it more economical to board ourselves individually."

Only six or seven of the Acacias are expected to be left when the exodus is complete.

The Chi Omega and Alpha Delta Pi sororities, although neither is losing a large number of members, have also closed their tables.

"H. C. L. is to blame," said a Chi Omega.

Although but nine out of a former membership of 31 are left at the Sigma Phi Delta house, that fraternity expects to continue serving meals to members.

"Our table will not close until June 22," is the statement of one of the members of Sigma Phi Delta.

The Fort Riley training camp called a number of the leading fraternity men of the school. Of the 46 Manhattan men who were called, nine were members of the Sigma Nu fraternity. Notwithstanding the fact that only ten or eleven members will remain, the Sigma Nus intend to continue their table.

The Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon fraternity lost the next largest number of men, three, to the training camp. Several other fraternities lost one or two members.

Withdrawals from school forced the Shamrock fraternity to close up several weeks ago. Only four Shamrocks are now in school.

DISCOVER ALL-AROUND MACHINE

Experiments Being Carried on Every Day On Campus.

A combination of lawnmower, dandelion eradicator and stock feeder is being operated by the college. A striking characteristic of the apparatus is the fact that the smaller the territory to be covered the more men it takes to work it successfully.

One hundred of these combinations were in operation in front of the domestic science building Friday morning, the only difficulty seeming to be to keep them within bounds. However by the use of four men they were kept at work until the grass was closely clipped, every dandelion had disappeared and 100 sheep had been served to a good share of their noon meal. Then with their lambs following them they were allowed to scatter to more promising fields.

STUDENTS HAVE SMALL POX

Adamson and Norton are Sent to the Contagious Hospital.

Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician, has put up the following notice in Main hall:

"Two of our students, Charles Adamson and O. L. Norton, are in the contagious hospital sick with smallpox. It is very important that all should interest themselves in the prevention of this disease. For that reason I urge upon you the necessity of vaccination which is recognized the world over as the only sure cure."

Mr. Adamson and Mr. Norton were taken to the hospital Sunday.

Doctor Siever refused to make any other comment concerning the situation.

Tennis Entries Are Due May 19.

All entries for the girls' tennis tournament must be in by Saturday, May 19. Any girl interested in the all-college tournament is asked to call at the gymnasium at once. The matches will be drawn and posted by Monday, May 21.

WE DID BEAT K. U.

"I was thinking some of going to K. U. until I saw the real difference at these track meets. Now—"

The speaker, who was one of the high school athletes who smashed a record in the scholastic meet last Saturday, wagged his head decisively, and left the rest to be imagined by his listeners.

But the listeners wanted to know the rest. The talk had been on the school which the young man was to choose.

"Well, there's a different feeling up here," he continued. "I had lots of friends down there, but they never even said hello. Up here, a dozen or so fellows that I had never even seen before came up and introduced themselves. The welcome made me feel at home, and I've sure enjoyed my stay."

The "glad hand" does win out. Probably three-fourths of the athletes who came up for the meet Saturday had the same feeling of the speaker we have quoted. They like that "different feeling," and the royal welcome given the visitors should bring results next fall.

PITY THE MOTHERS.

Boys and men are leaving school and home to fight for their country. We call them heroes. But back at home they are leaving behind the real sufferers—their mothers.

Yesterday, today and tomorrow, strong, healthy men are leaving—for what? for where? and when to return? A hasty decision to go and a quick good-bye to the "home folks"—that's all it means to them. But after they're gone, tears trickle down the cheeks of the mothers they have left—tears that ask what kind of men these soldiers will be when they come back from, if they come back?

It's a big task these mothers face, reconciling themselves to the passing of their sons into strange and unknown environments. Congress is slowly but surely coming to the aid of the mothers. Liquor and other evil influences will soon be "taboo" around army camps. Then, and only then, can a mother smile as she sees her son go off to war.

It isn't only the fear that their sons will die—it's more the fear of the possible effect of vice, "booze" and evil companions—that brings worry to these mothers—the true heroines of our wars.

The JEWELER

Sometimes you hear a person giving others the third degree and saying all manner of things against them—calling them moss-backs, etc., and that they are about fifty years behind the times. Many times however, this characteristic that people have which makes others call them moss-backs is common sense. Would-be reformers love to bask themselves in their own sunlight until the moss has grown too thick on their own back to be rubbed off. And when a little of it is rubbed off it hurts.

CONSIDER THE CO-ED.

Did you ever stop and think of the college girl's situation in this war? She has just about as many notions on the situation as the average fellow has and perhaps a little finer type of idealism, but how can she express herself? It must be hard these times to be trotted off to dates and smile when there doesn't seem anything in particular with which to be pleased at for you. The men have the prospect of a stirring summer on the farm, or in the ranks or the training camp, but with the exception of a few hard-fought-for places in Red Cross ambulance units, the woman has little work worthy of her mettle. Her education is liable to be hindered and she shall first suffer from the financial strain of it all, yet what can she do save to scratch lint and fold cheese-cloth as any eight-year-old or any Slavic peasant woman could do, or else teach others as ineptuous as she to clip and sew until their heads ache.

We honor her for keeping cheerful and loyal.—Knox Student.

AND THEY ARE ALL PEEVED.

Co-eds Don't Like It a Bit Because Erroneous Report Got Out.

The K. S. A. C. co-eds are real mad. A report has gone out that all the Star Athletics have left college and just when they were ready to begin their inter-class baseball contest too.

However, as soon as May day practicing and exercises are all over, which will be the last of the week, baseball practice will be begun in real earnest. The freshmen, sophomores, and junior girls have reported well for the tryouts for the inter-class games. The senior girls are being asked to report at the gymnasium as early as possible in the week, as their present representation is small.

The following girls have signed up for freshman baseball: N. Baker, A. Sandman, N. Lewallen, H. Howe, N. Payne, F. Mirick, N. Corbet, R. Meyer, C. Higgins, M. Hoyt, J. Mel-drum, M. Wilson, F. Lovett, M. Parker, and A. Roenigh.

The sophomores are: L. Tipton, A. Conrow, R. Thomas, E. Gwin, C. Taylor, F. Stratton, M. Crumbaker, L. Vost, N. Farrish, and H. Taylor.

The following junior girls are candidates for places: H. Boyd, L. Whearty, R. Huff, M. Sjolander, L. Lehman, T. Been, E. Wood, A. Olson, L. Beverly, N. Hunt, E. Anderson, C. McGuire, B. Gordon, and E. Kirkpatrick.

The seniors who have reported are: N. Pope, V. Whitmore, V. Cutler, L. Ramsey, and A. Neer.

IS A DISTINCT ART.

Acting in the "Movies" Requires More Than Personal Charm.

Mrs. Vernon Castle, the best known woman in America, is enthusiastic over her work before the motion picture camera in "Patria," the play of romance, at the Marshall theatre today.

"Many people imagine," she says, "that all one has to do to gain fame as a screen artist is to be possessed of a certain amount of grace and personal charm and exhibit them before the camera. That is a great mistake and that is why there are so many failures.

"Acting in the movies is as distinct an art, and requires as much study and perseverance as it does to become a great dancer or a great actor in the spoken drama. I have devoted as much attention to learning the details of acting for the screen as I did to learn dancing.

"Any girl who desires to make motion picture acting her profession will find horse-back riding, swimming, golfing, motoring, canoeing, and even aviation, most valuable assets."

Spring Debate Tryouts Soon.

Spring tryouts in debate for girls will be held first, second and fourth of June. The subject for discussion is government ownership of railroads.

"Wanted"—Gentleman or Lady, to travel and appoint "Representatives" for a "Large eastern house" of national reputation, experience not necessary. "Good salary and traveling expenses." One or two references required. Give present or former occupation, also time and place for interview. Address "Manager," 1130 Vattler St.

"PRINCE" AFTER EXCITEMENT.

Two Runaways in One Day Record of Horse in Dairy Dept.

A runaway horse broke a new wagon last week, but the driver escaped with a few minor bruises. "Prince," the big bay horse belonging to the dairy department, had too much "pep" for H. E. Packard who attempted to haul some ice from the dairy building to the barn.

Having loaded up his ice, Mr. Packard drove north down the road past the greenhouse, Prince began to trot. As they neared the New Ag building, a trace came unhooked. This caused the wagon to lurch when the other trace took up the slack. The horse playfully took advantage of the situation—and the fun started.

The speeding animal came around a graded turn of the road in "great form." The driver, trying to stop the horse, pulled so hard that the wagon was drawn by the lines and bits. However, when "Prince" headed from the road at a second turn, Mr. Packard gracefully dismounted in a flying leap to the hard surface of the road just as the front wheels of the wagon struck a low embankment.

Fortunately, no injury, except a few slight bruises, was suffered by Packard. He arose immediately to find "Prince" standing at the door of the dairy barn "smiling" at the broken axle of the new light wagon from which he had just disengaged himself.

This was the second affair of the kind in one day for the horse, for he had broken the monotony for Sam James by running, not six hours before breaking up his "play" wagon.

WILL MAKE SORGHUM 'LASSES.

Kansas Farmers Must Have Some Sweetness.

The planting of a few acres of cane and the making of old-time molasses will become a common practice this year on many farms in Kansas. Letters are coming to the extension division of the Kansas State Agricultural college proposing that small co-operative clubs secure mills and evaporators.

"Such clubs were common years ago in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and some other states, and are likely to be revived in these states as well as started where they have never been found," said Edward C. Johnson, dean of the division. "Those who are interested in this subject should write the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin No. 477, 'Sorghum Sirup Manufacture.' The extension division of the agricultural college is prepared to furnish a list of manufacturers of small mills and evaporators needed for this work.

CAUGHT FISH ON A HIKE.

Dairy Men Caught "About" Forty Pounds, So They Say.

The faculty members of the dairy department, together with the seniors in dairy husbandry, went on a camping and fishing trip to the Wild Cat Saturday afternoon. They stayed Saturday night and returned Sunday morning. Their camp was located about five miles straight west of the college, on the Wild Cat. They caught about forty pounds of nice cat fish.

The following men were in the party. Prof. O. E. Reed, W. E. Tomson, N. E. Olson, L. H. Fairchild, Carl Huffman, H. W. Schaper, W. W. Wright, L. R. Brooks, Robert Osborne, D. A. Hine, F. S. Turner, and J. R. Dawson.

MANHATTAN HIGHS WIN, 3-2.

Take Hotly Contested Game From Junction City Nine.

The Manhattan high school baseball team won from the Junction City team, 3 to 2, Friday afternoon in a hotly contested game played at the city park. The game was one of the best played by the local team this season. The local battery, Otto and Hytton, played exceptionally well.

This is the last home game for the Manhattan team. One more contest will be played—Junction City high school team at Junction City. So far the Manhattan nine has played four games and won three of them. The game at Junction City will close the season for the local men.

SODDING THE ATHLETIC FIELD.

Bermuda Roots Being Planted in Effort to Make Field Best Possible.

Work on the new athletic field which was begun last fall by the student body is now being resumed. The football field was worked until the ground is in perfect condition, and then Bermuda roots were planted. Experts say that this will make the best sod possible.

It is the plan of President Waters to make this field one of the best football fields in America, so he stated in an address made in student assembly last winter, and it begins to look as if his goal will be reached.

RIMES AND POEMS.

A TRUE STORY.

A freshman at church one night, Met a fair co-ed,
"I wonder if with you I might, Have a date some night," he said.

The little damsel seemed much pleased,
And answered him with a smile,
"Won't you please call tomorrow night,
I won't know for a little while."

So home the little freshman went,
And with fond anticipation,
Waited the coming of the morrow,
And thought of this fair creation.

New this fair little damsel,
Had given her telephone number,
But her own sweet little name,
The freshman forgot in slumber.

So when he called up next night,
And waited in eagerness,
He had forgotten her name—oh sad plight,
That freshie was sure in a mess.

"What can I do?" the freshman thought,
And said words that should be in cipher,
Then this thought came quick as a flash,
"I know, I'll just describe her."

But his fertile mind was of no avail,
The matron could not see,
And though the freshman wept and wailed,
A date that night could never be.

But on the campus the next day,
They met—these two fond doves;
And a date was made with no delay,
Oh what things can be surmounted by love.

R. L. F.

She said she had a date,
He believed her—and called again
On Sat. She said she had to study,
He believed her—and waited a week
And planned a hike. But she went home,
So he believed—Undaunted though
He asked her out to dine—She could n't go,
He understood—And straightway thought of Kodaking. But she had friends from out of town.

He swallowed that. Then asked her
To a dance. She said she'd go.
He could hardly believe it.
But something happened and they
Each went with other persons.
He said it was him. She knows it
Was her. Would you believe it?

Horrors! Horrors! Did They Osculate?

May Day and the custom of hanging May baskets has come and gone. For some it will be a day soon forgotten while for others it will be a day long to be remembered. For those who have reason to remember the day, and especially the night, the remembrance and thought may be very pleasant. For instance—two sorority widows from a house which might be located on Thirteenth street as well as on Poyntz avenue, will think back to that night with delight.

Presumably on a dare from the boys they were with, these two girls rang the door bell of a fraternity house. Of course, they never suspected a thing! (?) Well anyway they were caught in the act and had to pay the toll, indignantly (?), to a bunch of men who are very exact in their demands. And if some of these young men collected double toll why whose business is it but the girls? It's a ten to one bet that these two girls wouldn't be satisfied if every week in the year began with May first. BUT—

There's another side to this May basket custom—witness the case of three unsuspecting, (no question mark after this), young men: It was the evening of the thirtieth of April in a room on Fremont street. Four young men were discussing the evening of the morrow and the osculating custom. One of these young men remarked that no girl could hang a May basket on his door and get away with it. 'IT' in this case refers to the kiss. The assertions of the other two were similar.

The night of May first found these three men doing anticipatory guard duty. Their vigil was not to be without its reward—O! no—the fourth man had taken care of that particular. The maid in due time made her appearance. The basket was hung, the bell given a twist, and the retreat was well under way when six daring arms hindered the further progress of the young lady. To be sure she resisted but to no avail. The die was soon cast.

The young men, satisfied with their accomplishment, released their victim. At a safe distance the 'victim' removed a hat and in a rather husky masculine voice asked if all enjoyed themselves and bid them a good evening. It was a boy! And it's a safe bet they will remember the evening and if Father Time could arrange the calendar so that the month of May would begin with the second day it would be an accommodation to three young men.

"THE ADVENTURER."

College Instructor Slightly Injured

Miss Araminta Holman, home art instructor at the college, was severely burned about the face and neck and considerable property was damaged when a furnace exploded at the home of Miss Holman and Miss Treat, 1612 Laramie street, at 9:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Miss Holman went into the basement to light the furnace, which is an oil burner. When she opened the furnace door and struck a match an explosion occurred, the flames shooting out of the open door and enveloping her. The fire department was immediately called but before the blaze could be extinguished approximately $35 damage had been done. The damage was covered by insurance. Miss Holman was not seriously burned and is getting along nicely today.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR FLOWERS.

College shipped One Consignment as Far as Pennsylvania.

College grown flowers were worn in several states Sunday. Many orders were shipped to distant points. Among them is an order of white carnations to Landstörne, Pa., and another to Mount Gilead, Ohio. Dozens of carnations were sent out over the state, so that the supply for home trade was short.

Besides having a run on flowers, the green house is out of tomato plants after having sold more than 14,000 to individuals. The college has set out 110 of each of the eleven varieties grown which number is not included as having been sold. Several hundred more will have reached sufficient size for planting next week.

A Canning Demonstration.

Otis E. Hall, state club leader, gave a demonstration in the Methodist Episcopal church Monday afternoon to the Mother-Daughter Canning club recently organized in Manhattan.

MAY DAY IS ON THE WAY.

College Campus Will be a Forest on the Day of the Fete.

The college campus will be turned into Sherwood forest on the afternoon of May 19 when Robin Hood and maid Marian with their followers will hold forth.

At 4 o'clock all the rural folk and villagers of this vicinity may gather on the campus to view the pageant and see the May Queen crowned. The May poles will be wound and the jesters will perform.

Everything will be there that will take all who see the affair back to the times of Robin Hood. Even the little booths will be at hand with their men and maids to serve all that hunger or thirst.

"The Tale of Two Cities."

Don't fail to see our old favorite, William Farnum, in the picturization of Charles Dickens' famous story. This is certainly the best production William Farnum has ever appeared in. He is surrounded by truly impressive atmosphere, and the dramatic moments hold beautifully with many intense scenes which hold and grip.

There are some wonderful sets and thousands of people were employed in taking of the battle scene. This picture has been shown everywhere at advance prices, but we are showing it for two days at our usual prices. Wareham's, Wednesday and Thursday, May 16 and 17.

"THE COST OF HATRED."

This picture presents two of the most popular screen stars, Kathlyn Williams and Theodore Roberts. This strong, virile story of the lifelong search of a great, passionate, domineering personality for revenge, and the fulfillment of the search, is indeed a thrilling drama. Beulah Marie Dix, the celebrated novelist, has written this story of dramatic power. Also, Paramount Bray Pictograph. Wareham's, Tuesday, May 15.

Miss May Carley and Elton Calkins, instructors in the music department, went to Blue Rapids last night to judge a musical contest. There were entertained over night by members of the faculty of the high school and returned today.

Better than ever—May Day.

Miss Mary Baird, instructor in the college extension department, returned last week from Caldwell where she has assisted Miss Mary Wright in conducting a sewing school the past two weeks. Miss Frances Brown, extension director, spent two days at the school.

A. M. Doerner, instructor in landscape gardening, has returned from Kansas City where he attended a civic planning convention at the Hotel Huehnelach. This was a big affair. Representatives from the major cities in the United States and from Canada were present. While there Mr. Doerner studied the boulevard and park system of Kansas City. He has now gone to Kents to plan the landscape for the high school there.

MRS. VERNOR CASTLE

IN "PATRIA." The society serial supreme, a patriotic drama of romance and society with thrills enough to satisfy the most ardent lover of melodrama and the only photoplay of its kind ever shown on the Orpheum circuit. Don't miss the opening chapter of "Patria" featuring the best known women in the world, Marshall's, Tuesday, May 15.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Dear Editor:

Isn't it too bad? Tell me: Why do folks persist in being crooked in order to get by? Don't people realize that habits formed in college will follow one throughout life?

Just this last quiz week I watched dozens of students cribbing from notes and text books. Prominent students, too. They're getting so proficient that the prof never sees, or if he does, is afraid to call them.

Many students go to the classroom prepared to cheat. I have seen an entire six weeks' work elaborately outlined on small cards the size of one's hand. These were used secretly during the quiz.

Students who deserve "P's", very often get "E's" through dishonest methods. And honor organizations receive them with open arms. The honest student has only a fighting chance. He has the consolation, however, of knowing that in later life only a square deal will win a square meal. FUTURIST.

Editor Collegian:

Since you have given the public the privilege of expressing their opinion through your columns, I would like to say a word.

Since the warm spring evenings have come, various noises have also come into existence. I refer to the already worn out ukelele concert on every street corner, under every tree, and even under the windows of some of the Professors on the hill. Can it be that the time has come when no one can sleep in peace? The cat that prowls at night and disturbs our slumbers is bad enough, and even then we are privileged to throw a shoe or even use a gun to subdue the unearthly noises. But what of the ukelele player who pours forth a wall that is infinitely worse? Courtesy and the civil law prevents such drastic action with them, but what are we to do? The musical mind that finds its expression in the whine of the ukelele must have been warped at an early age.

Can't you suggest a cure? SUFFERER.

Drill and the school drills with you, take agriculture and you dig alone. —Daily Texan.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, MAY 18, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

ALL SET FOR THE MAY FETE

MISS AGNES McCORKLE WILL BE "QUEEN FOR A DAY" TOMORROW.

A Robin Hood Spectacle, in Which the May Queen Takes the Part of Maid Marian, Will be the Leading Feature of the Festivities.

"Queen for a day"—that will be the role of Miss Agnes McCorkle tomorrow. Attended by Misses Pauline Richards, Grace Lightfoot and Esther Charles, Miss McCorkle will reign as goddess of the May day festivities which will be held on the college campus beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

A clever Robin Hood sketch, in which Miss McCorkle will play the leading role of Maid Marian, is the main feature of the afternoon's festivities. The queen and her attendants, Robin Hood and his men, the milkmaids, the fairies, the Maypoles, the hoby noises and jesters and a few others, will be in the parade that will begin the fete.

Then there will be the crowning of the May queen. This will be attended with all the ceremony and dignity that the occasion demands. The Maypoles will be wound as a part of the latter half of the program.

Miss Cahoon and Miss Loring, both of the physical training department, have been working hard to make the affair the most successful ever presented here. A complete rehearsal was gone through Wednesday evening, and individuals have been practicing for their parts for the past week. It is planned to have the fete start promptly at 4:30 o'clock, making it possible for the affair to be over by 8:30 o'clock at the latest.

Refreshments will be served at little booths on the grounds.

The costumes for the affair were made by the domestic science department.

CHINA IN NEED OF HELP.

America Can Aid by Solving Problems of Oriental Nation.

America's greatest opportunity to help China is to aid her in solving her commercial, political, educational and religious problems, is the belief of Dr. Charles K. Edmunds, president of Canton Christian college, of Canton, China, who addressed the student assembly Thursday morning on "China and the New Civilization."

"China is the largest, oldest and most conservative nation in the world and she is now awakening to modern civilization," said Doctor Edmunds. "She is in a mesh of international relationships and it is a question whether or not she will come out of the mesh with her integrity."

The education of China is its only hope as it is attempting to take on the new civilization, is the opinion of the speaker. Unless the material help which is given her comes in a way in which it will reach the spiritual life of the people it will only hasten the destruction of the country. Confucius has been the great teacher of the Chinese but this religion gave them no conception of a higher being or a future life.

"Sixteen institutions have been established in China under foreign auspices and have foreign teachers," continued the speaker. "Of these six are wholly American with American instructors. Canton Christian college is the only institution which is non-denominational. Five hundred and ninety students are in attendance. Of the teaching staff 25 are Americans and 35 are Chinese."

T. H. Parks, specialist in entomology in the division of extension, went to Marshall county Monday to assist F. B. Williams, county agent in that county, in his orchard spraying work.

Robert Lancaster, '16, has received the appointment as county agent of Minidoka county, Idaho. He will be under H. W. Hockenbaum, state leader of county agents.

C. I. Felps, bridge engineer for the state highway commission at Topeka, writes that he intends to apply for a commission in the engineers' officers' reserve corps.

Miss Marcella Seelher of Great Bend returned to her home the first of the week after a short visit with Miss Florence Hawkins, junior in home economics.

DEBATE FOR NEXT YEAR IS ON.

War Will Cause no Halt in Tryouts—Tryouts This Spring.

Sure there will be debate next year! That means that there will be tryouts this spring despite the war. These tryouts come off on Friday, June 1, from 1 to 5 o'clock, on Saturday, June 2, from 1 to 5 o'clock and on Monday, June 4, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 9 o'clock.

These tryouts are for boys as well as for girls. The speeches will be five minutes for the constructive and three minutes for the rebuttal. Fifteen minutes before the speakers go before the judges they will be given a list of ten questions. From this list they may choose as many as they wish.

The question is the ownership of interstate railroads by the government. Material can be found on the subject in the library. This is the same question as the one to be used in the intersociety debates on Saturday, May 26.

Already there are a large number of people who have sent in their names for the tryouts. All who intend trying must send their names to Mr. Burk through the college postoffice or see Mr. Burk in his office. The list of his office hours is on his door.

CONSCRIPTION IS HONORABLE

Fearing that if they wait for conscription, they will be called unpatriotic, thousands of young men—many of them college men—are rushing to the colors. And all because they think it a disgrace to be "conscripted."

"What a mistake they are making," said a man high in college circles yesterday. "If Uncle Sam called for volunteers, the country's best and bravest men would respond. The slacker—the very man we could most easily spare—would stay at home."

"Conscription is merely calling upon every man in his turn, with favoritism towards none. The over-patriotic man does not have to pay for his patriotism with his life without the same chance that the slacker possesses."

But there are many who do not heed the warning of those who know. Enlistments from the ranks of college men are still numerous. Asked why they enlist, the men answer, "We'll be conscripted anyway. We might as well go now."

Again—what a mistake! Conscription is a democratic means of raising an army. Conscription is honorable. Why fear it?

BALES HAY IN SMALL BUNDLES.

Ann Arbor Model Packs Sample Grades of Hay.

Hay for watch charms! That is not exactly the case, but a baler in the farm machinery laboratory makes a bale almost that small. The baler is an Ann Arbor model.

The little machine works perfectly and bales prairie hay proportionately as fast as the large machine. It is anchored to the floor and driven by means of an electric motor and belt. The principles of construction can be studied as readily from this model as from the more costly machines.

With the little machine the agronomy department will bale the sample grades of hay that have been sent to Ralph Kenney, assistant in farm crops. These samples were sent by the Kansas City Hay Dealers association. It includes the various grades of prairie, alfalfa, timothy and clover-mixed. When these samples are used in class work they will give the student a practical knowledge of hay grades. The Kansas City market has a system that is very popular. It is less rigid than either St. Louis, Memphis or New Orleans.

• Bruce to Tonganoxie.

W. G. Bruce, senior in agronomy, has accepted a position in the high school at Tonganoxie. He has planned a four year course in agriculture which has been approved by the division of extension. This is the first high school to have a four year course in agriculture.

A. E. Lawson, '16, field editor for the "Rural Spirit," a farm paper at Portland, Oregon, went through Manhattan Tuesday enroute from Portland to Kansas City to visit his parents.

HARD AT WORK AT FT. RILEY

WOULD-BE OFFICERS AT TRAINING CAMP GETTING TOUCH OF SOLDIERING.

The Men Arise at 5:15 O'Clock and "Taps" Blow at 10 O'Clock—Organization Is Rapidly Being Completed and Men Are Assigned to Squads.

Special to Collegian.

Fort Riley Training Camp, May 17.—"Toughening up" exercises to get the men into shape for the hard work of the next three months have been the features of the opening days of the officers' reserve training camp. A regular schedule of drills and instructions has been ordered, but all of the companies have preferred taking hikes and setting up exercises in order to get in shape as soon as possible.

Final organization of companies is practically complete, and the companies are beginning the instruction. Almost all uniforms have been issued, although there are shortages in certain sizes of some articles. Rifles and other equipment have been issued to most of the companies, and the issuance will probably be completed by the end of the week.

Temporary non-commissioned officers have been appointed in most of the companies. In the future all squads will march together and be quartered in the same squad room. The senior non-commissioned officer being at all times responsible for the conduct of the men.

A regular regime for each day has been ordered. The temporary schedule is 5:15, reveille; 5:30, assembly; 5:50, breakfast; 6:20, first call; 6:30, assembly and sick call; 11:30, recall; 12, dinner; 1:20, first call; 1:30, assembly; 4:30, recall; 4:30 to 5:30, study; 5:45, retreat; 5:50, supper; 6:30 to 7:30, study hours; 9:15, tattoo; 9:30, call to quarters; 10, taps.

The many hasty calls are confusing to most of the men, but none seem to have difficulty in recognizing the mess calls. The food continues to be excellent, both in quantity and in quality.

'DAVID HARUM' HERE MONDAY

Picture Play Will be Presented to Secure Funds for Levine.

A chance to "kill two birds with one stone" is given Aggie students Monday afternoon or night, when they may both attend a superior photo play and contribute to the upkeep of an Aggie representative in the Canton Christian college at Canton, China, with an outlay of only 10 cents. "David Harum," one of the most famous photo-plays produced by Charles Frohman, will be presented at the college auditorium. The proceeds, above the actual expenses, will go to the maintenance of C. O. Levine, who is an instructor in the Chinese institution.

William H. Crane, who for several years starred in the stage production of "David Harum," makes his first appearance in motion pictures in this quaint portrayal, which is taken from the book by Edward Noyes Westcott.

Last year a sum for Mr. Levine's maintenance was raised by popular subscription. Realizing that the college students were "subscribed to death," as a member of the committee put it, a decision was reached to raise the money in a different manner this year. A downtown theater owner's co-operation made possible the securing of "David Harum" from the Famous Players Film company.

Dean W. M. Jardine delivered a commencement address at Natoma high school last night. His subject was "Opportunity for Service in Kansas." Miss Sarah Brown, a former student in home economics, has returned to her home after having spent the week here as the guest of Miss Eva Kell.

George O. Greene, specialist in horticulture in the division of extension, left Sunday on a demonstration trip in Chase, Pawnee, Harvey and McPherson counties. The first apple blotch spray will be applied on the trip.

L. C. Williams, assistant in the division of extension, judged the Washington county oratorical and declamatory contest Friday evening. Eight high schools were entered in this contest.

WAR JOBS FOR 150?

K. S. A. C. MAY TRAIN THAT NUMBER TO BE ORDNANCE ENGINEERS.

ENGINEERS ARE IN DEMAND

DEPARTMENT RECEIVES TELEGRAM FROM WASHINGTON CONCERNING WORK.

Recommendation of National Council of Defense Must be Acted Upon by Congress Before Intensive Training Course is Instituted.

Intensive training to fit Aggie engineers for a new duty to their government is a possibility in this college. A telegram asking if 150 engineering students could be trained in the K. S. A. C. engineering division to become ordnance inspectors for the government has been received by the engineering division from Morris L. Cooke, chairman of the storage committee of the council of national defense.

The defense council's plan is to place the 150 students in intensive training for eight weeks, commencing about June 15. They would then become officers in the ordnance department. As yet, the idea is nothing more than a plan of the defense council, and awaits approval and appropriations from congress before action can be taken.

The ordnance department of the government requires men trained along mechanical engineering lines. Ordnance department officers have supervision of shops used in the construction of munitions and other war supplies, the inspection and purchase of such supplies, the distribution and upkeep of the munitions and machinery in the field.

A large portion of the engineers in the ordnance department are non-combatants, and do not go with the army, remaining in the arsenals to have charge of the gathering of munition supplies.

The offer wired to this college by Mr. Cooke is taken as an indication of the engineering department's standing. Only certain schools were included in the recommendations. The Aggie engineering department is ready to aid in every way in preparing engineers for the ordnance service according to the head of the division.

ARE SHOWN HOW TO FARM.

College Farm Mechanics Department Starts This Work Today.

In order to counteract the scarcity of farm labor the engineering division of the Kansas State Agricultural college, through the farm mechanics department, has innovated the plan of training the high school boys of Manhattan for farm work.

Thirty boys have signed up for this work, which starts this afternoon. The farm mechanics department has secured 10 acres of ground west of the college where the boys will be given instruction in the art of farming.

They will be taught how to plow, handle and harness horses, take care of and handle farm machinery, and other work that one must do on the farm. The 10 acres of ground will be double disked, plowed and then planted with the corn planter. The boys who have had experience with the engines of automobiles will be given instruction in the handling of gas tractors.

All the various farm implements and machines will be used in giving instruction. These will be furnished by the farm machinery department. It is planned to have the boys work in squads, the first squad to receive instruction from 10 to 11 o'clock in the morning and from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon every day for a week.

Owing to the scarcity of horse power, the business men of Manhattan have started a subscription to provide the necessary funds to pay for horse hire, the horses to be used in the class instruction in giving the boys farm training.

C. D. Marquis, sophomore in agronomy, left yesterday for his home in Chicago. He, with 18 others plan to go to Wyoming within the month, and take up claims.

ON A TRIP TO FORT HAYS.

Professors and Students to Study Advanced Farm Management.

R. I. Throckmorton, associate professor of agronomy and W. E. Grimes, assistant professor in agronomy, left this noon on an annual class trip to the Hays Experiment station. They were accompanied by the following members of their classes in soil survey and advanced farm management: Wood Bass, Blaine Crow, J. H. Cushman, F. E. Dowling, R. F. Griffin, C. E. Hedstrom, H. W. Lehnaw, W. W. Wright, H. H. Zimmerman, C. O. Granfield, O. T. Bennett, F. A. Coffman, G. R. New and C. D. Thomas. The boys intend to know something about the soils and farm management problems of western Kansas, when they come back Sunday evening.

Broberg's Promoted.

Harrison Broberg, '11, who had charge of the work of E. P. Murray company, consulting engineers of Kansas City, was visiting friends in the department of engineering last Tuesday. He was on his way from Fort Riley where he had been consulting with Mr. Murray who has joined the officers reserve corps. Mr. Broberg has been employed by the E. P. Murray company for about six weeks and was placed in charge of the work when Mr. Murray joined the officers reserve.

PROF. KENNEY TO PARAGUAY

Offer From Central Products Company Takes Crops Assistant.

Ralph Kenney, assistant professor of crops here since January 1, 1914, is leaving Manhattan tomorrow to accept a position with the Central Products company of New York operating in Paraguay, South America. Mr. and Mrs. Kenney expect to visit in Ohio for two weeks. They will sail from New York June 1.

Mr. Kenney's departure is rather abrupt—he decided within ten days. Two weeks ago the Central Products company wrote to Dean W. M. Jardine for a man and Mr. Kenney was recommended. Within three days a communication came to Mr. Kenney asking him to come to New York for an interview at the company's expense. He returned last Saturday after spending a week on the trip. His own terms were accepted. This week he has spent in preparation for leaving.

The Central Products company owns more than 1,000,000 acres of land in the western part of Paraguay. It is now building the first packing plant in the interior of South America. The plant is at Asuncion. They will operate a refrigerator boat line on the Plata river from this inland town to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Mr. Kenney, assisted by Paul Welch, of Ames, who has had charge of the dairy herd for the governor of Cuba, will supervise the dividing of the company's land into small ranches. They are to determine the size of the ranches, and advise what forage can be most profitably grown. One main object desired is to produce a better class of killing cattle than is possible from the native grass alone.

HAROLD AMOS DOING WELL.

Injured Man Still Weak From Loss of Blood.

Harold Amos, who lost his left hand in an explosion of flashlight powder in the chemistry department at the college Monday afternoon, seems to be doing well today. It is reported from Charlotte Swift hospital, although he is still weak from loss of blood.

The farm bureau of Leavenworth county has been active in promoting better drainage on the farms of its members. Since last fall complete plans have been made for drainage systems on thirty farms. These have been prepared by H. B. Walker, irrigation engineer of the division of extension of the agricultural college.

J. W. McCulloch, assistant entomologist, returned Wednesday from Gridley and Burlington where he went to investigate an outbreak of the corn flea beetle in that part of the state. R. E. Reppert, a graduate student, will be sent there Saturday to continue the work.

P. E. McNall, assistant in farm management in the division of extension, went to Troy Monday to assist W. R. Cherry, county agent in Doniphan county, in his farm management work.

MCLEOD'S TRIPLE WON GAME

TIMELY BLOW IN EIGHTH BROKE TIE, AND THE AGGIES WON, 6 TO 4.

Magrath Was Effective Throughout, But Errors Were Numerous—Clements' Home Run in the Seventh Put Indians in a Tie With Aggies.

In a game marked by hard hitting and many errors, the Aggies won from the Haskell Indians here Wednesday, 6 to 4. The heavy wind which swept across the field was accountable for most of the errors.

Magrath, the lanky Aggie twirler, held the Indians to five scattered hits, while his teammates were pounding Kilbuck for nine blows. Magrath allowed but one Indian to reach first on balls, but the Aggies collected five walks off Kilbuck. Magrath struck out five of the visitors and four Aggies were struck out by Kilbuck.

In the first inning Harvey walked, Clark singled and Reynolds hit for three bases, scoring both Harvey and Clark. In the fourth stanza, McLeod drove out a three banger and scored on Harvey's sacrifice fly to right.

The Indians made their first count in the first inning with a hit by Clements and two errors by Newton and Sullivan. They scored two more runs in the fifth. Kahlot singled but was caught stealing. Clements reached first on a fielder's choice and scored on Davis' three banger, Davis scoring on an error. The visitors tied the score in the seventh, when Clement hit to center for a home run.

In the eighth inning Newton doubled and scored on McLeod's triple to left. McLeod scored on Harvey's single.

This was the third straight victory for the Aggies.

PRESENT "THE HIGH CALLING."

Christian Endeavor Society to Appear in Sheldon's Play.

The dramatization of Dr. Charles M. Sheldon's, "The High Calling," will be given here at the Congregational church Friday evening by the Goodfellowship Christian Endeavor society. The play was given to two crowded houses by the young people of Dr. Sheldon's church last year.

The cast is being trained by Mrs. Wilma Kammeyer Thompson, who has trained a number of Manhattan home talent performances. Last year she trained the presentation of "Back to the Farm," by this same society. Her training assures a worthy presentation. Those who have parts in "The High Calling" are: Miss Vida St. John, Miss Ruth Harding, Miss Beulah McNall, Miss Jessie Bailey, Miss Estelle Melner, Miss Della Nelson, Robert Kerr, Harold Snell, Roscoe St. John, H. H. Nelson, Otto Githens, Dale Pierce and Earl Teagarden.

H. B. Walker, drainage and irrigation engineer in the division of extension, will go to Valley Falls Thursday to investigate a 5000 acre drainage district near that place.

ALL OUT FOR THE FETE.

The May fete tomorrow should find Mr. K. S. A. C. Student and Miss Coed present "en masse." A student enterprise of this sort is deserving of the support of every man and woman in college.

The funds collected May day go to one of the most worthy causes to which a college student has an opportunity to contribute. The Christian associations have been and are working to elevate the moral and social ideals of the students. Their work has brought results, and aid should be given them to enable them to continue along the same lines.

Your attendance at the May fete tomorrow will show that you appreciate the association's work. Also, the fete will more than be worth the money.

Question: Did the Fort Riley training camp have anything to do with the sudden demise of the Third Degree?

PAY UP ERE YOU DEPART.

In the hurry of withdrawing from college, many students have forgotten to "clean their slates" with merchants, organizations and friends. Numerous little debts which in the aggregate total quite a sum have been left unpaid by those who have gone. Room rents, dues to organizations and board bills, if they are not paid by the one who owes them, are often chalked up to the "profit and loss" columns.

Such conditions should not exist. As a matter of personal honesty, students should at least make arrangements for paying later. It is best, however, to "clean the slate" before departing.

LET OUT THE SECRET.

Discover What Was the Matter With the Choir.

The terrible secret in the otherwise unblemished life of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, motion picture's mightiest minstrel of mirth, who is to present his first Paramount Arbuckle comedy, "The Butcher Boy," at the Marshall theater today, is that in his early youth he was a singer. His fond parents never suspecting in those days that their young hopeful was destined to become one of the highest-salaried funmakers the world ever knew, had their minds set on his following a musical career and expressed the keenest disappointment when he was dismissed from the church choir because its leader had discovered what was the matter with the choir.

WAR CALLS ON SCIENTISTS

EXPLORATION AND RESEARCH NECESSARY, SAYS COULTER.

Service of Science is Understanding and Applying the Knowledge.

Science is being called upon as never before to help this country meet a great emergency, is the statement made by Dr. John M. Coulter, professor of botany in the University of Chicago, founder and editor of the Botanical Gazette, and member of the national council of research recently appointed by President Wilson, in an address at the annual meeting of the Phi Kappa Phi, Kansas State Agricultural college, on Tuesday, on the subject, "Science and the Public Service."

"Our government recognized the importance of science a year ago when the national research council was appointed," said Dr. Coulter. "To this council have been referred the problems the various departments of the government have encountered in their preparations. The government realizes that although science may be called upon for such services in an emergency, its real service is much more fundamental and permanent."

"Nowhere are the ideals of science higher and more nearly realized than in this country. We are no longer the pupils but the colleagues of our foreign brethren. American science is competent to keep the torch of science aflame."

"We extend the boundaries of human knowledge is the first service of science. It sets up as its goal the understanding of nature. Nature may be likened to a great masterpiece enjoyed by those who know how to appreciate what it means."

"Scientific exploration is a luxury. In one sense, just as is music or art or literature, and must be recognized in the same way as a response to a high human impulse—the impulse to know, the impulse which is developing the human race into greater intellectual efficiency."

"Applying the results of science to human welfare is the second service of science. This has been called 'applied science,' the science of our first ideal being distinguished as 'pure science.'"

"To summarize the whole situation, the service of science is first to understand nature, that the boundaries of human knowledge may be extended; second, to apply this knowledge to the service of man that his life may be fuller of opportunity; and third, to use the method of science in training man so that he will be able to solve his problems and not be able to solve his problems and not be their victim."

"Such results suggest that science through exploration, through practical service, and through education, is to be regarded as the most important factor in developing a nation."

"MAYBLOSSOM."

Pearl White, the nation's favorite is the principal in this production. The scenes of "Mayblossom" in colors are laid in the south in ante-bellum days and the play well acted and directed. The coloring was all done by hand in France and by French soldiers, in various hospitals, and is not to be excelled.

HALSTEAD'S

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Editor Collegian:

I have never in all my life written a letter to any one's "E Plurebus num" column, but the vile attacks that have been made in your "Out of the Mail Box" column on that sweetest of all musical sounds, the Wacky-Wicky-Wocky Woo of the ukelele, have caused me to fall down from my perch and beat this out on my typewriter. Why in the name of—well, why do you print such rotten literature as has been written against the "uke."

I won't launch into a long, windy defense of the "uke." It doesn't need 't. But I do ask that you keep your columns clean of any such venomous attacks against my favorite amusement in the future.

What do you want a clothing store to do for you?

If you were to answer that question you'd probably say, "All I want a clothing store to do for me is to sell me clothes when I want them."

If that really were all you want, any clothing store would do; but that isn't all you want. If you come to this clothing store, you'll see how much more we do for you; and you'll see that all of this "more" is what you want too.

Merely selling clothes is the easiest thing we do; selecting the right clothes and other things to sell is less simple, because that requires some knowledge of qualities, some careful judgment in selecting, some care in getting the goods at the right price. It involves something more than satisfying our own taste in such matters; we have to satisfy the tastes of thousands of other men; what we like may not always be what you like. But in matters of suits and overcoats, there's no need of being especially cautious in buying, either for you or for us. We buy for you and that settles every question of quality; of all-wool fabrics, of price. We know it's safe to guarantee satisfaction with such goods because we know the goods.

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

THE QUEEN LOOKS ON, AS SPRITES AND WOOD
NYMPHS PLAY.

Shepherdesses and Flower Girls,
Archers and Milk Maids, All Make of the Merry May Fete
a Memory That Never Fades.

Lovers of entertainment of Manhattan and the college were taken back into the old days of Merry England for a short time Saturday afternoon when the seventh annual May Fete of K. S. A. C. was presented by the students of the college under the direction of Miss Anna Cahoon and Miss Ethel Loring, of the department of physical education.

The results of weeks of hard work was given to the spectators in the form of an entertainment by Robin Hood and Maid Marion in the Sherwood forest. Under the careful direction of the committee on arrangement consisting of Miss Hattie Droll, Miss Stella Strain, Floyd Hawkins, C. R. Brown, Ray Forree, and Homer Cross, the college campus was made to represent a festive ground such as Richard the Lion Hearted would have been glad to celebrate the crowning of his Queen of May.

Miss Agnes McCorkle was the "queen for the day" and was led to her throne attended by Miss Pauline Richards, Miss Grace Lightfoot and Miss Esther Charles. Robin Hood and Maid Marion were there in royal attire sitting to the right of the queen. Jesters, dancers and horse racing furnished the entertainment for the queen and her guests.

The dancers and May pole winders entered the forest in the form of a spectacular parade. The queen on her beautiful float drawn by a team of horses led the procession. Robin Hood's band and the attendants to the queen followed in proud line of march.

Then followed the dances of the wood nymphs, shepherdesses, flower girls milk maids, and archers. The dance of the flower girls was especially beautiful and attractive, but the archers with their bow and arrow dance made a most pleasing spectacle.

Lastly came the "youths and maydons faire, the May poles gaye to winde." These were wound by the members of the different literary societies. At the end of the May pole dance came a pleasant surprise for all. Old Glory had been carefully hidden under the ribbons of the poles and after the last dance, while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and while soldiers and civilians stood at attention, Old Glory was unfurled, giving the fete a climax that was appreciated by all.

ARE AFTER ROOTS, NOT WORMS.

Athletic Field Will be Sodded With Roots Taken From Campus.

No one is going fishing. Those men who have been digging up the lawn at the southeast corner of Fairchild hall are not anglers. Instead of searching for worms they have been collecting the serpentine underground root stalks of Bermuda grass that grows there.

These roots are the most efficient means of propagating this grass. Bermuda is a hardy perennial that grows where English bluegrass will not furnish a permanent sod. The roots have been dug for the purpose of setting the athletic field and the lawn of the engineering building with a hardy sod.

Scabbard and Blades Leave.

The members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, have been separated to a great extent due to the war. Keith Kinyon and John Sellon have gone to the naval training school at Port Royal, S. C. There are eight members attending the officers' reserve training camp at Fort Riley, and eight members remain in college. Scabbard and Blade has a large representation at Fort Riley. There are members there from all of the companies, of the state represented.

Phi Kappa Delta Elects.

Phi Kappa Delta, national honorary debate and oratory fraternity, elected officers Friday for the coming year. Those elected are A. W. Boyer, president; Paul L. Findley, secretary, and H. Clyde Fisher, treasurer.

GOOD NEWS FROM SOUTHWEST.

Students Must Learn "Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

We see by the Southwestern Collegian that the freshman of Southwestern will be compelled to memorize "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" before they will be given credit for college work. Whether or not this is a pun on the freshman, some fellow with the right idea originated the joke. If it were only the freshman that had not yet memorized these two grand old songs there might be an excuse for them because it is not expected that infants know everything.

But, at K. S. A. C. there seems to be a number from all classes who have not yet gone so far as to differentiate between the two songs or to be able to recognize them when they are played. This was shown the other day when the program for the May fete was being practiced. The band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and it was not until Miss Cahoon, who had charge of the fete, had told them to stand that some of the spectators received the inspiration to rise to their feet. This is an institution with military training incorporated in its curriculum yet we fear that a visitor would never know the fact until he saw the cadets in uniform.

COME AGAIN, MR. T. C. MAN

Mr. Fort Riley Training Camp Man, we want to see you again.

We tried to welcome you Saturday, tried to give you the "glad hand." You were made at home at the May Fete, which profited—and we don't mean it profited merely financially—by your presence. We showed you over our campus. We tried our best to open our doors to you. One fraternity, you know, entertained twenty-seven of you over the week end.

We feel you are one of us, Mr. Training Camp Man, and we tried to show it by giving you a real welcome. And why?

Just because we want to see more of you in the future.

Come again, Mr. Training Camp Man.

AND THE END CAME TO GEORGE.

Tears Flowed From Alpha Delta Eyes
as Rabbit Was Interred.

George, the Alpha Delta rabbit, died Saturday morning at 8:20. Several friends and relatives were at the bedside.

The funeral was held Sunday at 2:30 o'clock from the chapter house. The services were in charge of the Rev. D. Skinner. The music consisted of a solo, "Farewell to Thee," rendered by Miss Josephine Sullivan. Miss Muri Gann acted as chief mourner. The pall bearers were Miss Mary Elizabeth Hagenbuck and Miss Alph Christman. Many beautiful floral offerings were sent by the sorrowing friends. Among those especially noticeable were a large cross of snowballs from Miss Erba Kaull and a spray of Spirea Von Houtte from Miss Gertrude Uhley.

Interment was made in the Alpha Delta cemetery immediately south of the chapter house.

"HANDS OFF" IS THE WORD.

Smallpox Vaccination Produces Sore Arms—Watch Out.

These little patches of white cloth under the semi-transparent sleeves are not beauty spots. They are the visible marks of a smallpox vaccination. If one should be touched ungently the chances are that the victim would retaliate with a right up-percut to the jaw of the unfortunate who went so far as to show his ignorance of the conditions of a vaccinated arm when the vaccination is "taking." And they sure are taking about now.

Brownings Hold Debate Tryouts.

WOODLAND PLAYERS COMING

SATURDAY AFTERNOON CLASSES WILL BE EXCUSED FOR PLAYS.

"Much Ado About Nothing," "Blue Stockings" and "Everywoman" the Three Plays to be Presented this Year—Tickets on Sale Monday.

Plans for the coming of the Elsie Herndon Kearns company of outdoor players are rapidly being carried to a completion. The Y. W. C. A. is working hard for the success of the affair, and permission to dismiss students from Saturday afternoon classes that they may attend the plays has been obtained.

This company is the same company which was known as the Ben Greet Players and who played here two and three years ago. This year Ben Greet is in England and the company is playing under the new name.

The company is under the direction of George Carleton Soune, the leading player under Ben Greet. The entire arrangement of costuming and lighting under his sole direction, with an entire new equipment, will hardly fail to excel all past efforts.

Miss Kearns is proclaimed by the press and public to be one of the most talented exponents of Shakespeare's women in the past decade. She took the part of the leading woman in the original Ben Greet Players. She will be remembered by the older students as Katrina in "The Taming of the Shrew," given here two years ago.

The first entertainment will be Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." This will be given Friday evening, June 1 on the College Campus just east of the auditorium. Saturday afternoon the company will present Moliere's "The Blue Stockings." On account of the heat, this will be given in the auditorium. Saturday evening the audience will assemble again on the campus and will witness the production of the morality play, "Everywoman."

In case of inclement weather, all three entertainments will be given in the auditorium. Classes will be excused Saturday afternoon in order that all may attend the matinee.

Tickets for the three performances may be obtained from any of the Y. W. C. A. girls for the price of one dollar. The single admission for the two evening entertainments will be 75 cents each. The matinee will be 50 cents.

Tickets will be reserved at the downtown Palace Drug store and the Co-operative Book store in Aggieville beginning Monday, May 28. Patrons wishing to have their tickets reserved may do so by sending them to the Y. W. C. A. office at the college.

GRANT ATHLETIC LETTERS.

Board Will Take up the Matter at Meeting This Afternoon.

The matter of granting letters to baseball and track athletes will come up before the athletic board at its meeting in Coach Clevenger's office this afternoon. Neither Coach Clevenger nor Coach Schulz would make public their recommendations for honors, as the board has taken no action on granting letters to athletes who left school before the completion of the athletic season.

Clevenger will present his financial report for the track and baseball season at the meeting. The attitude that Aggie representatives will take on fall football, and the athletic situation in general, at the valley conference meeting at Ames Friday, will also be decided at the board meeting.

Pictures From Westinghouse.

The department of electrical engineering has recently received a handsome gift from the Westinghouse Electrical company consisting of five large pictures of views of the plant at Pittsburgh, Pa. Among the views is a picture of George Westinghouse, a reprint of one of the electrical locomotives manufactured at the plant, and a bird's eye view of the entire plant.

Many of the members of the College club, who are training at Fort Riley, returned Sunday for a visit. Those who came over for the day were Charles Cristop, C. E. Aubel, E. N. Wentworth, H. E. Porter and Marshall Scott.

BE DISCUSSED AT CON-FERENCE MEETING.

Valley Athletic Officials Favor Continuation, but Finances May Hinder Some Institutions—The Javelin May be Added as a Field Event.

The status of fall football will probably be settled at the meeting of the Missouri valley athletic faculty representatives, managers and coaches at Ames Friday. W. M. Jardine, faculty representative, and Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director, will be the two Aggies to attend the meeting.

Sentiment among valley athletic men seems to be strong for continuing all sports during the war. This sentiment was strengthened when Gen. Leonard Wood, a foremost army man, stated that athletics should go on, as physical preparedness is counted by army officers as important towards winning the war.

The financial problem, however, is one that the valley conference officials must face. The chances are that if the four-term plan is adopted by colleges and universities the enrollment at the beginning of the school year will not be as heavy as usual.

"It's a problem that will be sure to come up for discussion," said Coach Clevenger yesterday. "The Aggie representatives will be instructed how to vote at the meeting of the athletic board tomorrow."

Whether or not tennis and cross-country running will be counted as valley sports will also be discussed. The javelin throw, an event which was recommended by the coaches of the valley at their meeting here last November, may be passed upon by the faculty representatives, who vetoed the recommendation at the November meeting.

The conference will be held in conjunction with the valley track and field meet May 25 and 26. It is probable that no Aggies will be sent to the meet, but a final decision will be made at a meeting of the athletic board today.

A VISIT TO HEALTH OFFICE.

Public Health Classes of College Instructed by Dr. Montgomery.

A visit to the public health department of Riley county was enjoyed last Tuesday by the classes in sanitation and public health. Dr. J. C. Montgomery, county health officer, gave a most interesting talk on the work of the department and its aim, which is to make Riley county the healthiest county in Kansas. He also showed charts and the exhibit prepared for the public health meeting held a short time ago in Kansas City.

"Dr. Montgomery's help was highly appreciated," said Miss Louie E. Kennedy, the class instructor. "We wish him every success and would like to co-operate with him in every way possible."

NOW THE GIRLS CAN SWIM.

Pool is Now in Condition—a Water
Carnival Soon.

The girls' swimming pool which has been out of order, since the first of the term is in condition now and all swimming classes will be resumed.

Miss Loring, instructor in physical training, asks that all girls who expect to take part in the swimming carnival to be held within three weeks begin practice immediately. The eighth hour on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday are set aside as practice hours for the pool.

Build a New Lathe.

G. A. Sellers and W. E. Patterson, seniors in mechanical engineering, have designed and built an engine lathe, driven by an individual electric motor. This lathe was tried out last Saturday and found to be superior to any other of the lathes in the college shops. It embodies the very latest and best practice in machine construction.

Carlson Is in Cincinnati.

Prof. W. W. Carlson, of the engineering division, is representing the college at a meeting of the American Society of Engineers, at Cincinnati, O., May 21 to 25. The Cincinnati meeting will deal mainly with machine shop practice, a subject in which Professor Carlson has specialized.

AGGIE ALUMNI TO THE COLLEGE

T. R. Knowles, '16, Writes of a Number Who Are Entering.

T. R. Knowles, '16, electrical engineering, who has been with the Westinghouse Electrical company at Pittsburgh, writes to C. E. Reid, professor of electrical engineering, that he has applied for a commission of ensign for engineering duty only.

Knowles also told of other alumni who graduated with the Class of '16, electrical engineers, who have applied for commissions in the army. Charles Hilbert, who has been with the General Electrical company since graduation, has taken the examination for entrance into the coast artillery in New York City and is said to have passed with a good standing. H. D. Linscott, with the Westinghouse Electrical company at Pittsburgh, reported at Port Royal for service in the marine corps May 4. J. S. Hagan with the Westinghouse Electrical company at Pittsburgh, has applied for enrollment in the engineering corps.

"We are strongly in favor of the course at K. S. A. C. despite the fact that we all get away as soon as we can," added Knowles.

SHORTER TERMS UP MAY 28

College Heads Will Decide on Co-Operation With War Council.

The four-term, nine-weeks-a-term plan will come up for a decision before the meeting of the association of Kansas colleges in Topeka, May 28, when heads of the various institutions in the state will discuss co-operation of the schools in national war service. The meeting has been called by Dr. Frank Strong, chancellor of the University of Kansas and president of the association.

At this meeting, various plans for next year will be discussed. Among the number of suggestions made thus far, the idea being worked out by local college men, embodying four nine-week terms and a later opening day next fall, appears to be the most feasible.

Eighteen schools comprise the state association, including a nomination of colleges, the three state normals, the agricultural college and the university. At a recent meeting of the association of state universities with the national council of defense, in Washington, it was asked that the state associations work out an efficient plan of university co-operation with the government.

FARM TRAINING FOR H. S. BOYS.

College Conducts a Laboratory to Teach Use of Machinery.

The engineering division is conducting a training course for the Manhattan high school boys, to teach them how to care for and how to handle machinery. Over 30 Manhattan high school boys are receiving this instruction every day. The boys are very enthusiastic over the part they are to play in the conservation of our food supply.

From ten to fifteen acres of college land is being used for this work. There are two classes, one from 10 to 12 a. m. and 3 to 5:30 p. m. These classes are being conducted by Prof. F. A. Wirt and W. H. Sanders. These courses have proven so successful that similar courses are being planned in other Kansas towns.

BUT FEW VOLUNTEERS ENLIST.

Not More Than 15 Recruits During Last Week.

The recruiting officers have secured but few volunteers in the past week and the officers are at a loss to explain the sudden cessation.

The regular army recruiting officers were averaging 15 recruits a day for about two weeks and the militia was doing well but during the past week both organizations secured not more than 15.

The militia company now has 114 men and 150 are desired. Captain Frank believes he will have no difficulty in securing the desired number by the time the company is called out but he would prefer that they enlist now so they may have time to get their uniforms and equipment before the call.

Many branches of the regular army are still open for enlistment and the recruiting officers are in their office at the postoffice building from 8 until 10 o'clock every day.

Miss Edith Kelley and Miss Margaret DeGraff spent the week end at Miss DeGraff's home in Holton.

Miss Elsie Wofenbarger, junior in home economics, spent the week end with relatives in Abilene.

The Aggies collected another run in the sixth inning, when Gullfoyle walked and scored on Clark's single to center. In the eighth inning Sullivan singled to right and scored on Griffith's double. Steak Goes to Fort Riley.

John T. Steele, junior in general science, has withdrawn from college to take up electrical work in the barracks at Fort Riley until he receives his commission as electrician in the navy yards.

Several important investigations in the different divisions of the college were interrupted because of the fact that several students conducting them were called either to the colors or to the farm.

COLLEGE TRAINING TELLS.

Thorough gentlemen they were, these khaki-clad officers-to-be. In groups of from two to two dozen they left Fort Riley Saturday noon, Manhattan-bound coming at K. S. A. C.'s invitation to K. S. A. C.'s gala day. And when these visitors—probably 400 strong—left town that evening and Sunday, there remained a well-defined impression in the minds of students and people of Manhattan that they had rubbed shoulders with real men, gentlemen of good breeding. And Manhattan liked it.

How different they were from the ordinary civilian's conception of a man who wears the khaki! A common tie among young men thrown into a new environment is usually productive of mob-like actions, "kid-dishness," and a feeling that the visitors must make themselves overly-conspicuous. Not so with the men in question. There was a distinction somewhere—these were unusual men.

Far from having a negative effect, the Fort Riley men were also far from being nonentities; they were a tremendous asset to the fete. In the interim between the arrival of the crowd and the beginning of the day's festivities, there might easily have been a feeling of unrest and weariness amounting to boredom.

But the officers-to-be took charge of that situation. On the north side of the roped-off rectangle a group of uniformed men from the Colorado School of Mines broke the silence with their college yell. From a khaki-clad group on the other side came an answering yell from Washburn men. Soon the spirit had pervaded each of the groups, and students and alumni of seven or eight colleges and universities, interrupted occasionally with the old "Jay Rah, Jay Haw" of the Kansas Aggies, changed the over-hanging silence into a succession of staccato-like or long drawn out college yells. Thoroughly inspired and nearly carried away by the beauty and grandness of this unique setting, the spectators finally saw through the secret—THE MAJORITY OF THESE GENTLEMEN SOLDIERS WERE COLLEGE MEN.

The discovery was the explanation of the men's conduct. These were men such as K. S. A. C. sent to the fort—capable college men who have discarded their books to take up a new role for which they are just as well fitted; that of being gentlemen and soldiers.

The college man had stood the test, and stood it well, too. Just as he is a leader and a gentleman in business circles, in society, in statesmanship and in the professions, he is a leader as a gentleman as a soldier.

The training tells.

The Collegian is in receipt of a blank form for making application for the purchase of Liberty Loan bonds. Thanks, Uncle Sam.

KEEP UP ON THE TIMES.

History is in the making. Battles, proclamations, revolutions, names of statesmen and generals, and industrial and financial conditions, all brought into prominence by the world war, are occupying the front pages of newspapers nowadays. What does the average college man and woman know of these things which happen out of their own narrow sphere?

The college-bred man or woman is supposed to be advanced in knowledge farther than one who has not the advantages of a college education. He is supposed to be able to talk intelligently on almost anything at almost any time. An important part of his training is his knowledge of current events.

Keeping abreast of the times is as important to the college man or woman as is ability to speak German or make candy. Five or ten minutes a day is the price an ordinary person must pay for a fairly thorough understanding of world events. Five or ten minutes is the price and think of the knowledge he can purchase.

A pretty good day and date to remember—Tuesday, June 5, conscription registration day.

GOOD-BYE TO TWO MORE.

While we have been making heroes of the Aggies who are in training at Fort Riley we have almost neglected two other men—both of them MEN, too—who have left to serve Uncle Sam in another branch of the service. Keith Kenyon was a "mixer" into everything that was for the good of K. S. A. C. He was everybody's friend, and no one's enemy. And Johnnie Sellon had a heart as big as a bucket and ideals as high as the sky. Both are to become second lieutenants in the marine corps.

Although you've gone, we'll say good-bye to you, Keith and Johnnie. You are both going to be missed here at K. S. A. C.

A public speaking professor sprung this one: "The waffle—a non-skid pan-cake."

Good Health Ruined Him—He "Flunked"

After a Night of Grinding, Ruddy Cheeks Failed to Touch the Prof's Heart and the Student Drew an "F" in the Finals.

A comely physiognomy, combined with a strong and healthy body, recently caused a tremendous disappointment to their owner. The student was somewhat back in his work, and when the week finals arrived, spurred by necessity, he attacked several notebooks and other assignments, one evening after supper.

The more he worked the more there seemed to remain to be disposed of. It was absolutely essential that some of the work be accomplished by the first hour next morning.

Consequently, the cool dawn bathed the fevered brow of the ardent student before he had finished. Never had he put in a solid night of toil before, and took great pride in the accomplishment. All night he had felt the blood receding and leaving his cheeks. He had felt his eyes grow hollow and dark-ringed. He knew that when he went to class in the morning, his professor would be touched and awed by the marks of toil which had impressed themselves upon his careworn features.

In fact, he banked on that hope. Finally it was time to go to breakfast. He decided on a cool plunge before tackling the meal. He looked in the mirror.

Alas! His cheeks, that felt so pale and drawn, were ruddy and fresh. His eyes, on which he had placed great reliance as procurers of sympathy, were as clear and bright to look at as they were weary by the feel. In fact, he looked as if he had indulged in ten or twelve hours of sleep.

Wherefore, he flunked. He was too healthy.

Heavy Demands for Bulletins.

Kansas farmers want to raise better crops this year as evidenced by the abnormal demand for bulletins this spring. It takes one student three hours a day to address the bulletins asked for. The bulletins most in demand are those on spraying orchards, setting incubators and how to properly plant potatoes.

R. W. Haeger, senior in civil engineering, has withdrawn from college to accept a position as draftsman in the state highway engineer's offices at Topeka.

"SLEEPING FIRES."

RIMES AND POEMS.

Comes a dreadful funny feeling
In every human heart,
When friend that's thought a lot of
Is going to depart.

Creeps a tear into the eye
A sob breaks in the throat,
The voice once stern and rumbling
Takes on a tender note

All for a friend that's leaving
An old chum or a beau,
Not for—the girl I left behind me,
But for—the boy that is to go.

With Customary Obsequies.

Time was when war and I were unacquainted;

Time was when I refused to take a stand—

A peaceful youth, by martial rage untainted,—

No gentler bard than I in all the land,

Time was when poems mildly pacifistic

Would fall without an effort from my pen;

Time was when I was gay and optimistic—

Ah, me! I was a fair young neutral then!

When asked to dine by a person of quality

Mind and observe the most strict punctuality.

For should you come late, and make them wait

And the victuals get cold you'll incur sure as fate

The master's displeasure, the mistress's hate.

And though both will perhaps be too well bred to swear

They'll never wish you, I need not say where.

A Mistake.

The other night

I went to the theater

And the orchestra played

And he thought it was the national anthem

And stood up.

And I did too.

Darn him.

Said Stiffin Friz—

We have our Red Cross nurses

And nurses cross and red

Now all we need

And all indeed,

Is a rookie to smooth his head.

In the land of dreams and fancies,

Where one may reign supreme,

I like to take my joy-rides,

And believe things as they seem.

Far faster than the motor,

Driven by expert hand,

I find my way to happiness

In a never existing land.

I dream of things that I would have,

And those that might come yet.

Why dream of things that might have been

When 'tis better to forget?

I throw all past to the four winds.

As my motor sweeps me fast,

Into a world that's all my own

And I leave behind the past.

College and gold have no place in dreams,

Neither has fear nor hate.

For I'm dreaming of the best of all—

Tonight, tonight and that date.

A POEM.

Capless freshmen all remind us

We should never take a chance,

And, departing, leave behind us

Patches in our Sunday pants.

Eat Kellogg's Cornflakes, Shredded Wheat,

Puffed Rice and Quaker Oats,

But no'theless, whatever you eat,

Use Ivory Soap—it floats.

You'll smoke a Pall Mall cigarette

If you would be in style,

And one thing to remember yet—

Drink Horlick's all the while.

You must buy Ridpath's History

And "Happy Married Life"—

And there is Webster's dictionary

And "How to Keep a Wife."

—Tar Heel.

A Remodeled Poem.

Oh, Uncle Sam, Oh, Uncle Sam,

Now what are you going to do?

You said that you could whip the Dutch,

But still it's up to you.

And if you don't get a hustle on,

There is one thing you should know,

They'll be raising plants for sauerkraut,

Where the sunflower used to grow.

Oh the Kaiser's cows are grazing,

Where the sunflower used to grow.

How long they will pasture there,

Nobody seems to know.

But if we judge the future

As by the years ago,

There will be no feel for Bill's old mule,

Where the sunflower used to grow.

The Answer.

Oh they are poking fun at Sammy

And the land where the sunflowers grow.

But this is idle prattle from those who do not know.

The Kansans, they move slowly but Sam will see the time,

When there will be chalk for his Jayhawk in the valley of the Rhine.

Oh, they'll all be Yankee coppers in the streets of old Berlin;

And we'll make a mighty swagger when we run those Germans in.

We'll eat the Kaiser's sauerkraut and we'll drink the Kaiser's wine;

And we'll plant the precious sunflower in the valley of the Rhine.

The favorite of the screen, Mary Pickford, features in this production of unusual heart appeal, charm and thrills. "PATRIA."

This, the second chapter of the Fashion Romance of Society and Preparedness, starring the best known woman in the world, Mrs. Vernon Castle, deals with the attempt to steal $100,000,000 and what follows upon it. In addition to "Patria" a Black Cat Featurette and the current Pathe News will be presented. At the Marshall theater, Tuesday, May 22.

Jimneys may come and autos may go but the college mail wagon goes on without ceasing.

Automobiles, motorcycles, coal wagons, and delivery wagons all are seen on the hill at various times but the vehicle which brings the most real satisfaction to the student body is the little "one boss guy" that carries the college mail.

Five times a day for two years D. M. Boucher, the mail carrier, has driven up the hill, loaded or unloaded Uncle Sam's burden, and driven back down the hill. He it is that brings the letter from home with a "God bless you" from mother and a welcome check from father. Or it may be a letter from the girl that was "left behind" or a bold, scrawled envelope which is not opened before prying eyes. Sometimes he brings a package which may be anything from a box of home-made candy to your forgotten rubbers.

Unnoticed by the busy crowd on the hill, could the mail carrier see the eager expression on the faces of freshman and seniors alike as they crowd around the postoffice window, he would know that he is perhaps the most welcome person on the hill, although neither he or the students are conscious of the fact.

Once a month the faculty and college employees breathe a sigh of relief when the pay roll comes in. But listen! Although Mr. Boucher has handled thousands of pieces of mail, he has absolutely nothing to do with "flunk slips."

Sleep and Slumber Right in Classes!

"It Isn't Time to Get Up Yet," the Common Answer Now—The Professors are Planning Retaliation!

The latest fad on the Hill is the class nap. Everybody seems to enjoy it except the professor, and he actually doesn't know what to think.

Is there an epidemic, is it in the air, or is it just put on? The young man sits in the front row to "get in good." Whilst the professor talks wisdom this eager young student nods in approval, apparently. But to the astonishment and dismay of the instructor when the lecture is quite finished the young man obviously keeps on nodding his approval. He turns from the impolite slumberer and ventures a question at another member of his class. "Miss Wide-awake what can you say on the first topic?"

There is a pause. "—or— why— Hello—." The commotion following this is sufficient to arouse any other person who is contemplating a short snooze.

"Had a dandy little sleep in class today. My, yes, the 'prof' turned off the lights to show us some slides. And when he had finished I wasn't the only one that had been asleep either."

"Why I have just been over to the D. S. Some of the girls over there have an hour off as they are sleeping like they had been drugged." And so runs the conversation, while no one offers suggestions nor explanations for the many little siestas.

A certain young man was enjoying a before-lunch nap in a fourth hour chemistry recitation class. "Fellows we'll sneak off and leave him," was the word passed along. The get-away was successful enough but by the time the outside steps had been reached the napper was following along, whistling his cares away.

No wonder that the professors are dumfounded when informed by their most brilliant students that "It isn't time to get up yet," that "The alarm hasn't gone off yet," that "They don't have any first hour this morning," and various other excuses when a perfectly sane question has been asked.

"Margaret, what did you mean by going to sleep in class today?" asked one co-ed of another.

"Oh, Jessie, did you see me? And you were clear at the back of the room, too—" (J. hadn't seen her at all, but was just teasing as M. was one of the most serious students usually.)

It has been rumored that the professors are going to hold a secret meeting to decide upon measures to be used to do away with this little springtime fad.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

My Dear Editor:

Here are a few items that will, in my estimation, bear thought and meditation on the part of some of us.

Why is it that when a young man is to be entertained, the good music (when present) is put away and the popular music with the ugly covers and trashy words is left upon the piano to be sung and resung? He surely would appreciate a little of what is good.

Why is it that some of us are apparently true friends to certain persons on certain occasions, while on other occasions we practically ignore the same persons as friends? Do we not admire the one who always has the same friendly sincere spirit towards us?

Why is it some men want to be approached by the women? Is it because they have become so accustomed to it?

Does the man truly admire the woman who continually uses slang? One would not think so.

How can the honest student compete with those who are not honest? It certainly is not fair, but is it not better to fail than to just unfair means of gaining a grade? Such has been the case in some instances. The professor does not always know the truth concerning the case.

What is worse than to be considered and stamped as a society "butterfly" with nothing of the sense and the value of the better life we were meant to live? This idea would likely be changed "If You Knew Me and I Knew You."

ONE WHO WONDERERS.

Editor Collegian:

Some of the college boys have left to enlist, some have gone home to help. They have both gone for good crowds and numbers that it will be necessary to close down the college and not enough have gone to seriously injure the work of any class. But if something could just be said to the fellows who are still here that would stir them up and make them get to work. You don't hear anything from them any more except "Well, what's the USE?" "College has been out for three weeks." "I didn't even buy all my books this term." "We may be let out early anyhow." Yet they intend to stick it out and they go around listlessly from class to class. They are not only not getting anywhere themselves but it is the general spirit of "What's the use?" that they give to the whole student body. If they are going to college let them go right.

STUDENT.

Trials and Troubles of a Page of Notes

Re-Copied, Re-Modeled and Re-Arranged, the Sheet is Tired of College Life and Pleads for a Rest.

I'm just a page of typewritten notes. My name—but really I've had so many I don't know which to give. That's the thing I want to tell you about—my many names, and how I came to get them.

I was made a senior in the year 1910. And I served that senior well, too. One day while I was outside my loose-leaf cover I saw an "E" on the front page. That senior cared for me, also, because he never left me in classrooms one minute except when he was there, and when the term was over he carried me home with a smile. He took me from my cover and with my mates filed me away. That was really methodical senior, if I do say it myself. I've seen some since that, who weren't so particular, and take it from me, it doesn't pay to be sloppy with your work.

Well, when my first boys passed on in the spring of '10, he willed me to his roommate, a junior. And then my troubles began. Since that day I've been recopied, remodeled, and rearranged. I've been put into simple English, translated into simplified spelling, done in long hand, backhand, and mimeograph. My cover has been changed a dozen times. I've been laid on the shelf until "finals," to be studied like mad for hours. In fact I've been thru the mill in general.

In the laps of fair co-eds I've rested while they talked of dances and dress. On the ground I've stayed for an hour while the boss was doing drill. I've been carried thru Aggieville a hundred times and have listened to facts and fun—but mostly fun.

Now I am tired. But I heard today that my usefulness is about over anyway. Next year my subject will be no changed that I just can't be used, except for reference. Maybe, the some foolish freshman will try to get me by. If he does I hope I'm caught and he gets stung. I've been a fraud most all my life and I'm sick of it. Tomorrow—but I can't for I'm only a typewritten sheet securely fastened and I'm so old my muscles are stiff. Before I leave your friend, hear me. Play square. I've been over the road and I know the works and it doesn't pay, it doesn't pay.

"Owing to the unprecedented demand this year, the difficulty for paraphraser is not in finding jogs, but in choosing between them." Why not news items like this?—Ohio State Lantern.

Well, several reasons, really. But thanks for it anyway.

AGGIES TO FAVOR ATHLETICS

Representative to Valley Conference at Ames Were So Instructed.

College athletics will continue, as far as the Kansas Aggies are concerned. The athletic board at its meeting Tuesday instructed Dean W. M. Jardine and Athletic Director Z. G. Clevenger to vote in favor of Missouri valley sports next season, if the question is brought up at the conference meeting at Ames today.

"We will be weakened by the departure of two or three stars," said Clevenger yesterday, "but I can see no reason for discontinuing sports. Athletics is just the thing to calm the students. It will take some of their attention from war problems, and direct it to their school and their school work."

Emerges from Oak Table in Journalism Practice Room.

Eburia quadrigeninata made his debut at the college when he emerged from the top of an oak table which has been used in the department of industrial journalism six or seven years.

Eburia quadrigeninata is a borer which works in hard woods such as hickory, ash, and oak. He had worked himself out of a hole he had bored in the top of the table and was becoming accustomed to his surrounding when he was discovered.

The beetle was taken to George A. Dean, professor of entomology, who was unable to account for the insect's mysterious appearance. Another member of the entomology department stated that the quadrigeninata might have hatched from a latent egg which may have been laid some years before. Professor Dean now contemplates writing a scientific note on the appearance of the borer. The insect is not a new species in Kansas but it is the unusual manner in which it appeared that makes it peculiarly interesting.

T. H. Sparks, specialist in entomology in the division of extension, left Monday for a spraying demonstration tour in the southern part of the state. He will visit Miami, Lyon, Leavenworth, and Jefferson counties.

CHRISTIANITY NOT A FAILURE.

Rev. R. M. Lehigh Divides Question Into Three Parts, and Answers Each.

By dividing the subject, "Is Christianity a Failure?" into three parts, the Reverend R. M. Lehigh, student pastor of the Methodist church, who addressed the regular Thursday afternoon meeting of the Y. W. C. A., proved that it was not.

"Is the God that Christianity interprets for us a failure? Is the man himself a failure? Is the social relation of man to man a failure?" asked Mr. Lehigh. "If we can hold our faith and say 'no' to each of these, then we can answer 'no' to the big general question."

The next meeting of the Y. W. C. A., May 31, will be the Senior meeting.

ON WITH COLLEGE SPORTS

The athletic board spoke the sentiment of K. S. A. C. students when it instructed Prof. W. M. Jardine and Athletic Director Z. G. Clevenger to vote "Yes," when the continuation of college sports comes up for discussion at the Missouri valley conference meeting at Ames this weekend.

Athletics is for the college what advertising is to the business man. It benefits the athlete by building up for him a physique and a "stick-to-it-iveness" that will carry him through the big battles he must fight in after-college life. And it benefits the student body by inspiring into each student the college spirit, without which he would be a nonentity in college life.

Weigh athletics in the balance. What disadvantages caused by war conditions can overbalance the advantages to the college, to the athlete, and to Mr. Average Student?

On with athletics!

NO WOMEN SLACKERS NEEDED.

Miss Rice Calls on Alumni Women to Prepare for Peace.

Any young woman who neglects the opportunity in this war time to prepare for the rebuilding of the world will be a world slacker, in the opinion of Miss Ada Rice, secretary of the college alumni association.

Miss Rice points out that at the close of the war there must be a rebuilding of national and international life. This will call for the best qualities of leadership and the best training, and in this work the college woman can play a part of great importance.

College women must not wait until the end of the war for service, however, states Miss Rice. The time is now at hand," she declares, "when the world must depend upon woman for carrying forward progressive movements." She urges college women, particularly the graduates of the Kansas State Agricultural college, to take an active interest and perform active service in the big movements now in progress.

Twelve baseball "K's" and thirteen track "K's" were awarded at a meeting of the athletic board, Tuesday, of the twenty-five events scheduled for this spring's athletics, only nine ball games were played and only four track meets were held. AGGIES REGISTER FOR DRAFT

SIXTY NON-RESIDENT STUDENTS ENROLL AT OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK.

When Blank is Filled in, and Five Cent Fee is Paid, Blank is Forwarded to the Home Precinct of the Student—Description is Taken.

Conscription is already enrolling Aggie students.

Nonresident students of the masculine gender between the ages of 21 and 31 are calling at the county clerk's office at the court house and having their record taken for the national authorities.

The cards, filled out by the clerks at the office, are sent to the registration officers of the precinct where the person registering lives. It isn't at all hard to go through the necessary process to the satisfaction of the government. So far there have been more than 60 who have done their duty so far as the registration is concerned.

Some of the questions asked of the applicant are:

Where do you live? When were you born? Natural born or not? Where born? Color of your eyes? Hair? Height? Build? Any dependents? Occupation? Any reason why you should not be drafted?

On the reverse side of the blank is a place for the recording of physical defects, the name of the registration clerk, and date of the registration.

Upon payment of five cents the office of the county clerk will send the blank to the precinct of the applicant and the receipt will be returned to the address of the registered person.

CO-EDS IN A TENNIS SERIES

First Round Must be Completed by May 30—30 Have Entered.

To prove further that all the star athletes didn't go marching off to training camp or back to the farm, 30 K. S. A. C. co-eds have entered the girls' tennis tournament.

The matches have been drawn and posted in the girls' gymnasium. The preliminaries must be played on or before May 30, the second on or before June 5, third by June 9, the fourth by June 11, the semi-finals by June 13, and the final match by June 15.

For each match there must be a line man and a referee, chosen by the contestants from the list of players. The referee must hand in the score of the games to the gymnasium office immediately or the game will be defaulted. Balls and rackets are to be furnished by the players. Two sets out of three must be played for each match. Failure to play off the match at the appointed time forfeits the game to the opponent. The court may be chosen by the players.

The following girls are scheduled for the tournament:

1. Louisa Dennen, Esther Joss.
2. Dorothy Hammond, Ravina Brown.
3. Ferol Stratton, Addie Sandman.
4. Bess Gordon, Florence Evans.
5. Hattie Bryan, Verla Dahneke.
6. Thelma Denn, Mildred Roadhouse.
7. Sibyl Blackburn, Margaret Etzold.
8. Esther Charles, Ruth Huff.
9. Addie Middleton, Dora Grogger.
10. Elizabeth Wadley, Sarella Herlick.
11. Ruth Thomas, Anna Roefigh.
12. Mildred Arends, Grace Gish.
13. Hattie Carris, Bethel Nelson.
14. Alma Wilkin, Betty Cotton.
15. Phoebe Buzard, Josephine Sullivan.

ALIEN DOES NOT FEAR DRAFT.

Not Compelled to Enroll, F. A. Moyston, Engineer, Registers for Conscription.

One of the 60 students who have enrolled for conscription at the county clerk's office was an alien, and consequently not subject to draft. He is Frank A. Moyston, aged 25. His home address is Morant Bay, Jamaica, West Indies. He is an Indian and a subject of England. He is a student in electrical engineering.

J. S. Hughes, assistant professor of chemistry, left the last of the week for a visit with his mother in Ohio. His small son Raymond will accompany him.

A FARM STUDENT SEMESTER?

SPECIAL PROVISION MAY BE MADE TO CARE FOR AGRICULTURAL WORKERS

College Would Begin September 10 for Regular Students, but Farm Students Could Enroll for 18 Week Course Nov. 12.

A special semester of 18 weeks, lasting from November 12 to March, may be the concession made by K. S. A. C. to secure the proposed attendance of men needed on the farm part of next year. The proposed plan was explained by W. M. Jardine, dean of agriculture, at a called meeting of the agricultural students Wednesday afternoon.

"We want to arrange our schedule so as to keep you boys in school," said Dean Jardine. "The sentiment all over the country is to continue our schools."

The special plan as proposed by the schedule board is for the regular semester to open September 10 and to last 18 weeks, as provided in the original plans of the schedule board. The extra session, it is thought, will enable those who farm to attend school for at least one term during the school year. If some of those who enroll in this special semester so desire, they may enroll in a second semester, and finish it by attending summer school.

Only one week's vacation will be allowed for Christmas under the new plan. The time is of too much value, it is explained, to allow a longer period.

Back Strong Next Fall.

After explaining the plan, Dean Jardine asked how many of the students present would be back next fall. Almost all answered in the affirmative. About 5 per cent intend to withdraw before the end of this term, and less than 10 per cent of those present stated that they did not expect to return at all.

Everything possible is being done, it is said, to prepare a schedule that will benefit those who have work to do.

SOCIETIES IN A CONTEST.

Ten Dollar Prize Goes to Organization Selling Most Tickets.

Before buying your ticket to the Woodland Players remember your best friend among the girls' literary societies.

An active contest is going on among these societies for the sale of tickets for the plays to be held on the college campus June 1 and 2. The contest is competitive both among the different societies and within each society. The freshman, sophomore, junior and senior members, each under the direction of a captain, are working for first honors in each group. The literary society gaining the greatest number of sales is awarded a prize of ten dollars, to be used in any way the members desire.

The company of Woodland Players is coming here under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association.

"DAVID HARUM" WAS ENJOYED.

Benefit Show Monday Pleased Two Large Audiences.

"David Harum," a photoplay featuring William H. Crane in the principal role, was shown at the auditorium Monday afternoon and evening. The story of "David Harum" with his genuine American humor was reproduced delightfully in this picture and was enjoyed by goodly crowds both afternoon and evening.

This show was given for the purpose of raising money for the maintenance of C. O. Levine, the Kansas State Agricultural college representative at the Canton Christian college, Canton, China.

Big Tractor Show at Fremont.

The engineering division has received notice from A. E. Hildebrand, manager of the National Tractor farming association, that there will be only one national tractor show this year, and that this show will be held at Fremont, Neb., August 6 to 10. This is expected to be the biggest in history. It is advocated that owners as well as prospective buyers, should attend this show. Great benefit may be derived from this show it is said as it will be more for the purpose of exchanging thoughts rather than for the purpose of seeing the different tractors.

FARM BUREAUS IN FOOD DRIVE.

Members Perform Effective Service in Interests of Production and Economy.

The 17 farm-bureaus in Kansas that have county agents are proving effective in the great drive for increased production and economy organized by the state council of defense.

In Chase county the county chairman, C. M. Gregory, as well as all the members of the county committee are members of the farm bureau and the farm bureau organization will be used in the work done there.

In Miami county the president of the farm bureau called a county wide meeting for the first of this week. The county commissioners and a representative from each bank in the county will meet with the officers of the farm bureau to plan the campaign which is to be conducted.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP ON

Kansas, Missouri and Aggie Artists Battling for M. V. Title.

The annual Missouri Valley Conference tennis tournament will be held this afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. courts in the city park. Only three schools, Kansas university, Missouri university, and the Kansas Aggies, will compete for the championship of the valley. This tournament is being held under the auspices of the athletic department of the college.

John Ellis, of Pratt, and Daniel Bird, of Great Bend, both juniors in animal husbandry, are the Aggies' entries in the tournament this afternoon. It is also possible that McHugh, a sophomore in general science, may appear as the singles. Uhles, and Cowgill, the K. U. entries. Newell and Garner are the Missouri entries.

The games will begin at 2:30 this afternoon and will continue until some time Saturday. The admission will be 25 cents. Tags are on sale today for this tournament by students of the college.

AN END TO MILLERS' COURSE.

Two Weeks' Term Terminates Saturday—Foreign Men Present.

The millers' annual two weeks, short course in the college closes Saturday. The purpose of this course is to study the qualities of flour for bread making purposes. Tests are made for gluten, protein, moisture, acidity, ash, water solubles, fat and crude fiber.

The class is composed of millers, mill managers and traveling salesmen and office men for milling companies. One of the men travels in South America, Central America, and the West Indies. Another member of the class is a middle aged Austrian who has been in America only seven years.

Miss Florence Russell, a former student here, and Miss Ruth Carey, both of Stafford, are the guests of Miss Blanch and Miss Jewell Sappenfield, sophomores in general science.

17 WENT ON TRIP TO HAYS

Two Ag Classes Enjoyed Week-end at Experiment Station.

The classes in advanced farm management and in soil survey, spent the week end at Hays last week. Seventeen men made the trip, there being eight in the former class under W. E. Grimes and nine in the latter class with R. I. Throckmorton.

The party left Manhattan Friday evening and returned Sunday. While at Hays the experiments and operation was studied, even so closely as to arise at 5 o'clock to observe the beginning operations of the 30 workmen employed at the experiment station.

A survey of the representative types of farms in the vicinity offered a field for investigation. A large wheat field a big stock farm and one diversified farm, having both livestock and grain, were visited. There the soil types, with reference to their adaptability for growing different crops, were closely examined. The working out of plans of efficient management for these farms will comprise a part of the required work of the classes that made the trip.

Meals were procured at the station but not enough rooms were available to house the party. Knowing this, each one on the trip took his own blanket in which he slept. Everyone seemed to enjoy their week end because of its diversion. These classes will each take a separate trip yet this term, one to Herington, and the other, probably to Topeka.

GIRLS' "BIT" IN THE KITCHEN

PATRIOTISM CALLS ON CO-EDS TO HELP SOLVE THE FOOD PROBLEM.

Teaching Classes in Home Economy One Way to Aid, is Advice Given College Girls—Classes are Organized to Train Community Leaders.

"Make of the housewife's apron a uniform of National Service."

It is the duty of every patriotic college girl to be willing in this time of crisis to assume additional responsibility.

This is the substance of the directions given to the college girls at a mass meeting held in the Y. W. rest room Thursday for the purpose of helping the college girl to answer the question, "What can I do?"

In order that she may help solve the problems of conservation of the food supply, clothing supply and problems of public health she must co-operate with the council of defense.

One way to do this is for her to organize and teach classes in home economy in her home community.

The home economics division is planning to organize leaders classes in the following courses: food preparation, home dietetics, food preservation, household management, conservation of health, home nursing and economics and hygiene of clothing. All classes are open to seniors. All except home nursing are open to juniors and food preparation, household management and economics and hygiene open to sophomores and freshmen.

VETS BEAT THE AGS, 5 TO 1

Magrath was Effective Throughout, and His Support was Good.

Hard hitting enabled the Vets to win a 5 to 1 victory over the Ags on the college field yesterday afternoon.

Magrath pitching for the Vets allowed the Ags only two hits and struck out three men. Captain Harvey, who was in the box for the Ags allowed eight hits, five of which came in the fifth inning. Harvey struck out nine men and allowed only one walk.

Neither team scored until the fifth stanza. In the Vets half of the inning, Harrington, first man up singled, Magrath doubled, Coffee singled, scoring Harrington. C. Griffith took first on a fielders' choice, which caught Magrath at the plate. Richardson singled scoring Coffee and Griffith. Richardson scored on a single by Wooster. In the Ags half of this inning Hines, first up, was hit by a pitched ball and took first. He stole second and scored on Swingle's single to left. This was the only Ag score of the game. In the fourth inning the Vets scored another count, when Newton singled and scored on Barger's double to center.

The line-ups were: Vets—Magrath, p; C. Griffith, c; Barger, 1b; Wooster, 2b; Richardson, 3b; Newton, ss; Harrington, lf; Breckhelsen, cf; Coffee, rf; Barnes, rf. Ags—Harvey, p; Guilfoyle, c; Clark, 1b; Hines, 2b; E. Griffith, 3b; Sullivan, ss; Swingle, lf; Foltz, cf; and Snapp, rf.

AGGIE PROF. IN RECORD RUN.

G. R. Pauline Makes 27 Miles on Gallon of Gasoline in Contest.

A college man may make a national record. George R. Pauline, superintendent of the heat and power plant, tested his car Wednesday and made what may be a record run. He drove 27.6 miles on one gallon of gasoline. This was seven miles farther than any other Manhattan Maxwell ran.

ATHLETICS' FINAL BOW.

The last athletic event of the present season comes this afternoon. Tennis artists from Kansas and Missouri will compete with Aggie players for the championship of the Missouri valley. The tournament, which is the climax to a wonderful athletic year, should be attended not only by rapid followers of the tennis game, but by students who wish to see Aggie athletics in its final bow of the season.

Funny, isn't it, that the H. E. division should be the S.H.E. division?

DO YOUR REGISTERING NOW.

Register now for conscription, you men who are away from home. Your names must be at your home precinct June 5, registration day, and it is safest and surest that you have your names sent in ahead of the rush.

Putting off registration may mean that you will be too late. Secretary of War Baker says those whose names are not on the precinct books at 9 o'clock the evening of June 5 will be subject to arrest.

Better register today. It's safest.

OUCH! THAT'S MY SMALLPOX ARM

And it hurts, too, if it takes, Say 250 Aggie Students.

Look out! Look out!! LOOK OUT!! Get off my arm! Oooooo??!! Sore? Yes mam! I'm sore all over. I ache. I feel sleepy. I don't care I don't want to. I haven't the time.

That's how I feel. WHY? Crazy, I've been vaccinated. What for? What difference does it make?

It all feels the same. Oh, yes, I guess most of it's done for smallpox and typhoid.

Well, anyway, they've done it to between 250 and 300 others.

Students, I hope it hurts the rest as bad as it does me.

I don't care. I guess you'd be cross, too, if it'd "took" on you.

Debate Tryouts Soon.

The collegiate debate squad tryouts will be held on June 1, 2 and 4. The number of people trying is on the increase but there is room for more. Information regarding the exact hours of the tryouts can be gotten from Mr. Burk, coach in debate.

Society Debates Tomorrow.

The intersociety debates will be held tomorrow. The society winning first among the boys' societies will be awarded a pennant by Don L. Burk, coach of debate. Mr. Burk will also award a pennant to the girls' society winning first place.

Paraffined Cards as Markers.

Water proof cards are being made at the agronomy department to be placed on stakes at the agronomy farm explaining the contents of each plot. The cards are written with typewriter and then dipped in paraffine.

Hinde Trains 20 Recruits.

Word has been received from R. R. Hinde, '18, that he is drilling a class of 20 civilians at Leavenworth besides his regular duty. He is in Co. I Signal corps, barrack 230 Fort Leavenworth.

Wm. Anderson, '98, formerly instructor in mathematics in this college with his wife are visiting her parents. Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brady. He will be remembered by some as a staunch supporter of college athletics, having been connected in various capacities with the athletic board.

A drunken man threw his arms around a telegraph pole, then began to feel the pole with his hands. Round and round he went. Finally he gave up and muttered, "No use. Walled in."—Ladies Home Journal.

RIMES AND POEMS.

I sit by the doorway at evening time when the day has grown still and cool,
And watch down the path as in long ago I watched for you after school.
And it seems that the gate will surely swing and you will come marching thru
With your gun at your shoulder, your sword at your side, as my little boy used to do.

That gun was of childishly rude design, that sword was a thin-shaved stick,
But the aim was as true as the gun's that is new, the sword as proud as a click
When it dangled and slapped at your bare brown knee; and your step was as firm and true
As when you went marching away that day, my little boy used to do.

Our flag floats proudly, and we must to all;
Our sons must be up and away today to answer our country's call, strive for the freedom it brings
But I shall be glad when the gate swings wide and my own boy comes marching thru
To be folded again in his mother's arms, as my little boy used to do. K. K.

TAKE THIS, WILL YOU?

We oft receive a sharp rebuke For wasting art upon a "uke"
Never mind—
The one who kicks worse than the rest,
Once carried son-sen in his vest.

A visitor from Boston Was coming up the hill.
He saw our auditorium And hearing voicing trill,
Exclaimed, "O see the silos, Such a rural atmosphere—
Why calves just hawl for silage, And they're hungry now, I fear."

I stood on the bridge at midnight Across from the carnival tents,
Satan said "go"
My conscience said "no"
Only seniors and college Profs.
Step through that fence.

We like the cafeteria,
Their pie and cottage cheese,
BUT do NOT like the chewing gum
I get upon my knee.

For underneath the tables
On every board and crack
The whole co-ed contingency
Has left its sticky track!

Henry was a young mosquito
Alice was a flea,
He asked her to marry him
And live on some one's knee.
But Alice had a father who Owned half a pup
He said who married Alice
Would have to keep her up
To the life she'd always lived
This aristocratic flea
No child of his should ever live
On some one's skinny knee!
But she defied her wealthy dad
And left her native dog—
Now they're drilling for existence
On the back of one old hog.

A Calendar for Quiz Week.
Monday—There is still time if you begin today.

Tuesday—Don't try to be humorous on a quiz paper. Save your wit till after you've flunked.

Wednesday—Don't try to cram for three solids, get a good sleep and you can at least guess intelligently.

Thursday—Begin to plan on making up your credits at summer school.

Friday—Try to hold out till Saturday.

Saturday—Nothing can be had now after what you've gone through with, hurry up with that last quiz and you'll be through.

Sunday—Go ahead and collapse, if you want to, its Sunday.

Receive a Hay Bailer.

The farm mechanics department has received a new model Ann Arbor hay bailer. This machine is made on a small scale, and will be used only for experimental purposes. The size of ball will be 9x5x4 inches in size. This machine will be used co-operatively with the forage crop department. The exhibition hay of all varieties will be bailed on this machine.

Second Year School of Ag.

The spring term officers of the second year school of agriculture class are Miss Ethel Manwarren, president; Miss Titus, vice president;

Ralph Snyder, secretary; Miss Bon-durant, treasurer; Miss Hartly, marshal; Mr. Norton, assistant marshal; Miss Cox, class historian, and Harry Bradley, reporter.

Change.

The Old Man: See Here! You've spent $1,200 this semester and your report shows overcoats in every subject. This state of affairs cannot be continued, and I want to know right now if there's to be any change?

The Young One: Well, I have 30 cents with me now.—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Her hair was a wavy brown and curled about her face as if it were a beautiful frame just made to better show her perfect complexion. Her eyes were drops of bright dew on a rose, her face, the rose itself. Her mouth, twin Cupid bows of cherry red above a chin flawlessly modeled with a tiny dimple in the center.

Don't believe all you hear about potatoes and beans these days. They're much the same as when they were back home on the farm. They're just had the misfortune to be written up by college papers—which could make spinach popular, if they were to try. They've been compelled to do it so long.

Sigma Nu.

MEMORIAL DAY · MCMXVII

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

WAR is always a tragedy; we think of that side of it first usually. But long after its tragic elements have been softened by time, its heroisms are a flaming memory.

This is as it should be; for the tragedy is a matter of events and of time; but heroism is a spiritual and eternal force.

The nation still celebrates Memorial Day, paying our tribute to heroism; there will never come a time, we hope, when such a day, and such homage, will be discontinued.

This has nothing to do with the buying and selling of clothing; which is one reason why we want to say it just now

IT IS DEEDS THAT COUNTS

WORLD HAS NO USE FOR MAN WHO MERELY EXISTS.

Service is the Keynote of Modern Business Success, Says Marow W. Morrow, Advertising Expert.

The world does not depend upon the mere existence of an individual, but upon what he can do, is the opinion of Marow Morrow, advertising manager of the Capper Publications, of Topeka, who addressed the student assembly Tuesday morning.

"The farmer or the newspaper man is not chartered by the state like our railroads," said Mr. Morrow, "but the farmer gets the deed for his farm from the state and the newspaper man gets his good will from the public. The good will of the public is gained by the service which an individual gives to the people.

"Good will is the big thing and it is what holds one to a public service. One owes to society something for this good will. It is often said that the farmer is the most independent man in existence but the farmer no less than any other man owes service to society. Business is business but it is our business to make the world's business our business."

Service At Home, Too.

Service for the next few years will not consist entirely in going to the trenches, pointed out the speaker. It is the duty of the people to produce just as much before and after a war as it is during the war. The country is growing in opportunities and the business of service is worth the trying for any one.

"It was not until 29 days ago that France and England realized the greatness of the task that is yet before them in conquering Germany," stated Mr. Morrow. "More people will die from shot and shell. Is it within the next twelve months than will die from shot and shell. It is the price which will be received from our productions during the next few years that will count? It is not all together for purely business reasons that the students are going to college. They do not come here for the mere purpose of learning to make a living, but of learning to give service to the world."

"THE WEAKER SEX."

Thomas H. Ince presents Dorothy Dalton, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum, in an absorbing production with tense dramatic moments. This is a human drama with interesting angles which will appeal to any one. Dorothy Dalton appears as a woman lawyer and is called upon to defend the son of the man she married who is prosecuting attorney and consequently is forced to appear against his son through a sense of duty. At the Wareham, Saturday, May 26.

Queen Sophia of Greece, a sister of the kaiser; expects to make arrangements with him for a safe journey home.

A Fishpond in the Greenhouse.

A fishpond for goldfish in which water lilies and other water plants will be grown is being constructed in the south department of the college conservatory. This lakelet is to be 30x5x3 feet in size. No project of this sort has ever been tried here before. By this means, species of plants may be procured for class work that have not been studied here. Aside from its practicability the pond will add to the beauty of the greenhouse.

DANCES IN ATHLETIC HANDS

NO MORE PROFIT IS TO BE MADE BY MANAGERS UNDER THE NEW RULE.

"Padding" of Expense Accounts is Cause for the Latest Edict—All Profits Are to be Turned Over to a College Fund Hereafter.

Managing dances for profit has come to an end. The proceeds of the so-called "subscription" dances must be checked in with the athletic department hereafter. This ruling has been made by the head of the committee on student affairs.

Allegations that students were "padding" the expense accounts and were not returning a complete report of the receipts are responsible for the change.

A ruling made at the beginning of the winter term required managers of dances to refund their profits to those who attended the dance. Refunds were handed out for the first two or three dances following the issuance of the ruling, but ways and means were soon devised to escape payment. The rule was soon a dead letter, the dance managers interpreting the refund law to mean that students must make application for their part of the profits.

In the new plan, all profits will go into a fund. Just what will be done with this fund is not known. It is proposed to reimburse the dance managers for their losses, but this plan has not been definitely decided upon. A dance last Friday, it is said, was a ten dollar loss to the manager, while it is said that Saturday's dance resulted in a profit.

The athletic department will only have a supervisory capacity. None of the proceeds will go to the department.

TEN SENIORS TO THE ARMY

Recommendations as "Honor Graduates" Made Yesterday.

Ten seniors were recommended for commissions as second lieutenants in the United States army yesterday. The names of four of the ten had received the approval of President H. J. Waters and Captain L. O. Mathews last week.

The names of those whose names were sent in are: R. L. MacMillan, Kansas City; Glenn W. Keith, Belleville; H. B. Miller, Kansas City; J. B. Sweet, Manhattan; Jay H. Cushman, Emporia; Harold W. Luhnaw, Oak Park, Ill.; Thornton F. Bright, Manhattan; L. C. Teeter, Wamego; John W. Barker, Pratt; and R. C. McGarragh, Mulvane.

The recommendations were sent in to the war department in compliance with a request received by President Waters two weeks ago, asking for ten more "honor graduates" from this institution.

All examinations except the physical are waived for the ten men. They will take the physical examination at Fort Lavenworth, July 23.

PYRENE SAVED AG. BUILDING.

Saturday Morning Blaze Was Quickly Extinguished.

Fire in the basement of the New Agricultural building was discovered by Joe Novak at nine o'clock Saturday morning, and was immediately extinguished by means of a Pyrene chemical extinguisher before any serious damage was done.

While Mr. Novak was doing class work in the department of milling, he smelled the smoke of burning wood. Tracing the scent he proceeded to the basement in time to find a small blaze among the supporting timbers beneath the first floor. By crawling in the small space between the floor and the ground he succeeded in applying the chemicals to the slow eating flames.

The fire is thought to have started from a short circuit of the power wiring which entered the building at the place where the fire started.

Few were in the building at the time and what might have been a serious fire was averted by the miller's keen sense of smell, and quick action in meeting the emergency.

St. Marys Seniors Here.

A dozen seniors from St. Marys high school visited the college last week. The class was given a day's vacation in which to visit any school they chose to come here.

SO THE GIRLS CAN'T SWIM.

Pool Will Not Hold Water and Mermaids Are "Peeted."

Mermaids and water nymphs suffer great disappointment because their swimming pool has refused to retain the liquid media, economically.

The pool in the women's gymnasium has been giving trouble indefinitely. Recently, the tile on the floor of the pool being loose, it was taken up, together with the two inches of concrete in which it was imbedded, and all apparent leakages in the base were plugged. The pool continued to leak. The drain valve was then taken out, examined and carefully reset, but a great waste of water still occurred. A loss of approximately 10,000 gallons in twenty-four hours, which lowers the depth of the pool "three bricks" seeped out Friday.

The pool will not be filled again until this loss is stopped. The whole base will probably be removed and reset to accomplish this.

The athletic department is discommoded, the girls are "peeted," the repair department is nonplussed, and the merchants are disgruntled because the swimmers have no need for their bathing suits and are returning them for a refund. There will probably be no more swimming this term—now who is to blame?

A VACATION FOR TOMORROW

College Cadets and Band Will Head Memorial Day Parade.

College classes will be dismissed tomorrow in honor of Decoration day and no regular college duties will be expected of the students. The cadets and cadet band will not get off for all day, however, because they must help with the parade in the morning.

Promptly at 8:15 tomorrow morning the parade will be formed at the corner of Fifth and Poyntz avenue. The college band and the cadets will lead the parade, followed by Company I, K. N. G., the Boy Scouts, and other organizations of the city. The cadet corps will fall in at 7:45 in the morning at the Central school grounds.

The parade will march east from Fifth on the south side of Poyntz to Second street, counter march on the north side of Poyntz, thence to the cemetery. After the service at the graves the organizations will proceed to the entrance of the cemetery where the Women's Relief Corps will officiate at the dedication of the new Memorial gateway which has been erected to the memory of the Union soldiers.

Afternoon services will be held at 2:30 p. m. at the Marshall theater. Immediately following these services at the theater a floral tribute will be given to our navy's dead, by the ladies of the G. A. R. and the Sons of Veterans, at the Kaw river bridge.

GILA MONSTER IN MUSEUM.

Only Poisonous Lizard in Existence Added to Aggie Family.

Another peculiar animal has come to make its home with the live species of the K. S. A. C. museum. The name of this animal is Gila Monster, which according to Lee R. Dice, instructor in zoology at the college, is the only poisonous lizard in existence.

The Gila Monster has poison glands in the lower jaw but is not able to force the poison out of the fangs by contraction of the poison sacs. Consequently after biting in order to inoculate the victim the animal flips over on its back to enable the poison to run out of the sacs.

This specimen was sent to the zoology department at K. S. A. C. by H. F. Tagge, '15, who is living at Globe City, Arizona. Mr. Tagge states that Gila Monsters are plentiful in that part of the country.

A HIKE NEAR EUREKA LAKE.

Hamiltons and Franklins Play Games on Annual Event.

Twelve 220-volt bulbs furnished the light for the Hamilton and Franklin debaters in the woods north of Eureka Lake, Saturday night. The current for the lamps was generated by a gas engine and dynamo hauled to the scene on a motor truck.

The Franklins were compelled, because of muddy roads, to substitute an interurban car for the engine upon which they take their annual ride. From the lake the party hiked north into the woods where the afternoon was spent in playing games, principally horseshoes.

A CALL TO MATHEWS SOON?

ORDER INDICATES EARLY DEPARTURE OF COMMANDANT.

Military Department Matters are to be Straightened Out by Tomorrow, Says War Dept. Edict.

Military department matters must be in shape to be turned over to some one other than Captain Mathews, the present commandant, after May 30. A preparedness order received by Captain Mathews yesterday stated that he should be ready to leave at any time after that date.

Although no time for his departure is stated in the order, it is probable that he will receive a call soon to report at one of the reserve officers' training camps to aid in the work of whipping the would-be officers into shape. In any event, he will not be here any longer than this year. An order received so close to the end of the school to have the departmental matters in shape so that he can report immediately is taken by Captain Mathews to mean that he will be recalled from his detail here in the near future.

Should Captain Mathews be called before the end of the school year, E. L. Claeron, captain of quartermaster, U. S. R. O. C., would be the acting commandant. There is also the possibility that Captain Claeron will receive a call soon. That would mean that a student would probably be placed in command.

Major Fred Carp would probably receive the appointment. Precedent for such action is found when students headed the department during the Spanish-American war.

No army officer will receive a special detail to have charge of any college military department, according to Captain Mathews. The service is already lacking in competent men who can train recruits, and they can not be spared for any other work than preparing men directly for battle.

SCABBARD AND BLADE OUT

Orders from Headquarters Discontinue the Fraternity.

Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity, has been disbanded for the period of the war. Word was received today from L. C. Boss, major and adjutant of the national organization, that the calling of most of the fraternity's membership to the several training camps had caused the national officers to take this action.

An effort will be made to keep the permanent addresses of the members in order that the organization may get back on its feet when the war is over. Sixteen companies, with a total membership of nearly 500 members, compose the fraternity, which was organized in 1905 at the University of Wisconsin. The local chapter was installed June 1, 1914.

Active members of the local chapter of Scabbard and Blade are H. J. Adams, O. T. Bennett, A. M. Harvey, W. H. Hilt, T. R. Pharr, Earl Taylor, W. C. Bruce, T. F. Bright, H. J. Henney, C. E. Sawyer, Fred Carp and E. F. Whedon.

The John Deere Plow company will demonstrate its line of cultivators to all those who are interested enough to come out and witness the event. All afternoon classes in farm machinery will be assigned to attend the demonstration.

STOCKMEN MEET HERE JUNE 1

HUNDRED SOF VISITORS ARE EXPECTED FRIDAY.

Murdo McKenzie and P. W. Gobel Are Among Prominent Speakers Who Are Coming.

Hundreds of Kansas and other stockmen are expected to attend the fifth annual cattlemen's meeting to be held at the college June 1.

One of the speakers will be Murdo McKenzie, of San Paulo, Brazil, manager of the leading land and cattle company of that country. Mr. McKenzie was formerly manager of the well known Matador ranch and president of the American National Livestock association. He will speak on "South America as a Customer and a Competitor."

P. W. Gobel, president of the Commercial National bank, of Kansas City, Kan., and of the American Banking association, will speak on "Financing the Cattle Industry." T. H. Ingwersen, of Chicago, for 25 years a cattle buyer on the Chicago market, will discuss "The Cattle Buyer's Viewpoint." W. R. Stubbs, president of the Kansas Cattlemen's association and former governor, will be a speaker.

Waters and Capper Preside. Dr. Henry J. Waters, president of the college, will preside at the morning session and Governor Arthur Capper in the afternoon.

The visitors will be taken on an automobile trip to the agronomy farm where the field experiments will be explained. An opportunity will be given to inspect the dairy herd and other college stock.

The results of experimental work conducted at Manhattan in which 84 head of cattle are being used will be given. A comparison is being made between the feeding value of corn and barley and also between alfalfa hay and sweet clover. The comparative value of the influence of the different methods of curing alfalfa in fattening cattle is being ascertained.

TRAINING CAMP FOR NEGROES.

Captain Mathews Has Been Authorized to Receive Applications.

A training camp for colored people will be established at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, according to a communication received by Captain L. O. Mathews, which authorizes Captain Mathews to receive applications for the camp.

The camp will open June 18, but applicants will be expected to be on hand by June 15. All notices of approval will probably be in the hands of the applicants by June 9.

One thousand civilians and 250 negroes from the regular army will be trained at the camp. Applicants should be at least 30 years of age, although younger men will be accepted. A number of the men will be commissioned to take charge of the colored people included in the draft.

WILL SUMMARIZE THE PLAYS.

Professor Conover to Discuss Woodland Plays at Third Hour.

Summaries of the three plays to be given by the Woodland Players on the campus Friday and Saturday will be given by Prof. Robert W. Conover today in the old chapel at third hour. All classes in the English department will be excused at that hour to hear Professor Conover. All other students in the college who desire to hear these plays discussed in advance are cordially invited to attend.

SOCIETIES WIN PENNANTS.

Franklins, Athenians and Brownings are the Lucky Three.

Three literary societies succeeded in winning pennants in the inter-society debates. The pennants were offered to the societies winning all of their contests.

The societies which averaged 100 per cent are the Franklins, the Athenians, and the Brownings. Each society was represented by two teams, a negative and an affirmative. The teams were composed of three persons, each, and no team was allowed more than one experienced debater. Each person was given five minutes for constructive and three minutes for rebuttal speech.

The question was the same as is to be used in the college tryouts June 1, 2 and 4. It is: Resolved, that the U. S. government should own and control the inter-state railroads.

The decisions in Saturday night's debates were: Franklin negative won from Eurodelphian affirmative; Franklin affirmative won from Hamilton negative; Athenian negative won from Alpha Beta negative; Browning affirmative won from Ionian negative; Browning negative from Eurodelphian affirmative; Eurodelphian negative won from Ionian affirmative, and the Webster negative won from the Hamilton affirmative.

ARE THE BEN GREET PLAYERS

Woodland Players Have Many Familiar Faces.

Playing under a new name, many faces familiar to Manhattan audiences will appear in the casts of the Elsie Herndon Kearns Company of Woodland Players which comes to Manhattan on June first and second under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association of the college. Playing the part of "Everywoman" in the 15th Century morality play by that name, Elsie Herndon Kearns will be remembered for her remarkable interpretation of the part of Katrina in the "Taming of the Shrew" presented by the Ben Greet Company in the college auditorium two years ago. Miss Kearns succeeded the famous Edith Wynne Mathison in the role and has made the part famous through her interpretation of it. Ben Greet spared no pains or money to get the very best available stars for his excellent company and for three years previous to the organization of her own company, Miss Kearns was his leading lady.

Miss Kearns' co-star, George Carleton Sommes is also well known to Manhattan and college audiences. Since Mr. Greet's return to England, the entire production of the plays of his original company has been under Mr. Sommes direction. The entire arrangement of costuming and lighting is in his charge. Mr. Sommes will be seen this season as Benedick in "Much Ado About Nothing" and as Trissotin in the "Blue Stockings." In speaking of his interpretation of this part at Waco on May 18, the Baylor University press says of him: As Trissotin, the fashionable poet, George Carleton Sommes has scored a tremendous success."

Miss Elizabeth Patterson will be remembered as Viola in "Twelfth Night" and as Hermia in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." She will play the part of Belise in the "Blue Stockings" on Saturday afternoon in the college auditorium, and of Margaret in "Much Ado About Nothing" on the campus Friday evening.

Hubert Osborne, young poet and actor, made his professional debut with the Ben Greet players, playing Cousin in "Everywoman." He appeared in the casts of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" with which the Astor Theater of New York was opened to the public. After a season with Julia Marlowe he went under the management of Henry Savage, with whom he remained five years. This season he will appear as "Death" in "Everywoman," and as Verges in "Much Ado About Nothing."

L. C. Williams, assistant in the division of extension, gave a lecture before the members of the garden clubs and their parents at Maple Hill Friday on the subject, "Production and conservation of garden products."

Miss Ruth Beggs, a junior in home economics, spent the week end visiting with Gladys Hoffman in Kansas City, Mo. Miss Hoffman has been out of school this term because of the sickness of her mother.

Oh you honey and biscuits! That's what the members of the agriculture class, taught by J. H. Merrill, assistant professor in entomology, said last Thursday noon. Honey and hot biscuits were served to six members of the class by one of the girl students, H. H. Bryson and W. F. Martin, seniors in general science and horticulture, tied for first place in the biscuit eating contest, having twelve apiece to their credit before the supply of biscuits vanished.

VALLEY ATHLETICS TO GO ON

VALLEY CONFERENCE VOTES UNANIMOUSLY IN FAVOR OF COMPETITION.

Attempt Will be Made Next Fall to Keep Expenses at a Minimum and to Encourage Intramural Athletics—Dean Jardine Elected President.

Representatives of the school affiliated with the Missouri valley conference decided to continue intercollegiate sports competition next year despite the war at a conference meeting held at Ames Saturday. The coaches first agreed on the stand and a similar vote resulted when the board of faculty governors met in the afternoon.

Retrenchment policies will be worked out only in the expense of competition. It was announced. Intramural competition will be encouraged to an extent greater than ever before.

Dean Jardine President. William R. Jardine, dean of agriculture, was elected president. W. G. Manly of the University of Missouri, was elected secretary.

The sentiment of the conference representatives was unanimously in favor of continuing competition. It was said that the board of governors will endeavor to work out some policy this summer which will aid in the reduction of the expense of competition. This probably will mean that teams will be scheduled to make only short road trips and that the conference will be divided into competitive divisions again. It also probably will mean that a reduction in the numbers of players carried on squads will be made.

Intramural athletics will be encouraged along extended lines, the conference members decided. This will mean that considerable time will be devoted to the training of the entire student body of the schools and that internal competition will be devised to make this work interesting and encourage all students to participate.

ARE YOU A BORE?

Do you monopolize the conversation wherever you go with a breathless account of your own affairs?

Do you live over some trip you have taken with a friend until those around you never want to visit the regions you discuss?

Do you tell pointless jokes?

Do you talk round and round a subject before you finally get up to the point you want to emphasize?

Do you interrupt another's conversation with "That reminds me—" or "By the way—?"

Do you insist on pointing out every place of interest, which is interesting to you, but not to a stranger?

Do you talk about mutual acquaintances and the ask your hearer's opinion upon them?

Do you chatter on for the sake of filling up a silence?

Do you take delight in explaining the why, wherefore and when of something in which your companion may take slight interest?

Do you fill up conversation with stories of people whom your audience does not know, never will know, nor has any desire to know?

Do you jump at every opportunity to trace a person's family connections an ancestry to the fourth generation?

Do you read the letters at the movies for the benefit of the entire theater?

Do you annoy a concert by beating time to the music or humming with the singer?

Do you talk shop out of shop hours?

Do you laugh at your own jokes before any one else has a chance to do so?

Do you tell the point of another's story before he has a chance to emphasize it?

Do you say, "Oh yes, I've heard that before," and take away the pleasure of another's story?—Irish World (New York).

The Old Cottonwood,
The Campus Guardian

I stand on guard at the parting of the ways. Night and day, rain or shine, you will find me at my post. Here I will stand till death.

I have defeated fiery droughts, and have battled with the storms of years even though I do bear the scars of a lost limb. I have seen professors come and presidents go. I have seen buildings go up one at a time, electric lights established and cement walks replace cinder paths.

It is my duty to separate the crows from the engineers and the farmers. Sometimes I am lenient with them and allow them to walk up the hill together with the knowledge that it is only a few more steps until "she" must hurry to her home decoration class and "he" to his farm mechanics.

Sometimes I fear that I may be too lenient for even though I do send each on his way, often as I peep through my uppermost branches I see Miss D. S. and Mr. E. E. strolling leisurely to chapel. And often in the spring they even become so bold as to actually pass beneath my warning branches.

But I cannot leave my post. However, my friend, the maple over in Lovers Lane tells me that he hears whisperings other than that of the pines and cooling other than that of the doves, and I have heard it hinted by the south wind that some of the recent "back to the farm" movements are to receive their "first aid" from some of K. S. A. C.'s girls.

However that may be, I will stay on guard. My name is Cottonwood.

The Day After.

Jack—"Who is that fine-looking girl that just bowed to you?"

Tom (gloomily)—"Oh, that is my sister."

Jack—"Why old chap, I wasn't aware that you had a sister."

Tom—"Well, I wasn't aware of it myself until last night.—Indianapolis Star.

RIMES AND POEMS.

OPTIMISTS.

"With gout my legs
Are puffed," said Reed;
"I'm glad I'm not
A centipede."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"My throat's so sore,"
Said old man Baff;
"I'm glad that I Am no giraffe."
—Detroit Free Press.

"My aching ear,"
Said Hiram Toole,
"Makes me rejoice
I'm not a mule."
—Springfield Union.

"My nose hurts so,"
Said William Kant,
"I'm glad I'm not
An elephant."
—Houston Post.

"My teeth ache so,"
Said Billy Kelt,
"I'm thankful I Am not Roosevelt."
—Daily Kansan.

"It hurts to shave,
Quoth Sammy Pews,
"Just think if I Were Justice Hughes."
—Oberlin Review.

"My splitting head,"
Said Billy Boff,
"Makes me feel glad I'm not a soph."
—Exchange.

"My chance to get,
To heaven's nil.
But at that I've one,
On Kaiser Bill."

THE FALL OF THE TIGER.

The evening sky with red was streaked
As through the village alley sneaked
A form bowed low, with tear-stained face
Betokening some dire disgrace—
'Twas a Tiger.

Behind him pranced in fendish glee
A jolly crew. 'Twere good to see
The way each one would him assail
And give a twist unto the tail.
Of that Tiger.

And every twist would bring a yell:
It made the Tiger think of—well
Of many things that might have been
Had he not strayed into that den
Of Wildcats.

This is not "bunk" I'm giving you—
And next fall's brood of Wildcats will
The Tigers' tails keep twisting still—Oh! Missouri.

So sing aloud—let praises ring,
For a winning team is sure the thing
That puts the "pep" in every one—
Even coeds—just as it's done
In Kansas.
—C. H. R.

Who would be
A mermaid fair,
Singing alone,
Combing her hair
Under the sea
In a golden curl
With a comb of pearl
On a throne?
—Tennyson.

I would not be
A mermaid there
Singing alone
And combing my hair
I'll stay on land
Where no submarine
Can knock the hairpins
Out of my hand.

Each time I try Aesthetic dances,
I'm taking Anesthetic chances.

"Don't touch me" screams the young girl,
With her blue eyes full of hate.
This is no melo-drama—
It's the smallpox vaccine.

One by one the Boys Go 'Way.
One by one the calls are coming.
One by one the boys go 'way,
They have heard their country calling.
"Come defend the U. S. A."

One by one we miss their faces
From the class room on the Hill
As our ranks grow daily thinner
And will grow yet thinner still.

Some have gone to join the navy.
Some the aviation corps—
The officers' reserve took many.
But the farm is calling more.

We will read in glaring headlines
Of the deeds of valor brave,
Of the boys that cross the water
Or the Blue Coats on the wave.

Bards will ever sing their praises
When this cruel war is o'er—
When peace on earth no more is broken

By the cannon's flash and roar.

But those going to sing the praises
Of the boys who sweat and toil,
And at home must serve their country,
Humble tillers of the soil?

One by one the calls are coming.
One by one the boys go 'way.
They have heard their country calling.
"Come defend the U. S. A."
—W. H., '18.

At night when I long to be slumbering,
When my eyes are heavy with sleep,
When the Tom-cat returns from his revels,
And Silence her vigil should keep—
O'er the breeze comes a mournful twanging,
That fills my soul with rubeke,
Till I long to rise and throttle,
Some fiend and that twanging euk.

What does it take to win a debate?
Grit, and the courage to study late,
A level head and some good hot air—
Just keep on peggin' and you'll get there.

It's Breakfast in Five Minutes Now

Breakfast between bells is getting to be quite an accomplishment.

The cafeteria breakfast hour from 7 o'clock to 8:30 accommodates a list of students who would otherwise go without this morning meal and others who do not care to be tied down to a regular set breakfast time. If there is a quiz on for the day by the new breakfast plan there is time to cram and brush up for it in the morning. And then for the breakfast sprint, remembering all the while that a first hour class awaits.

When Jim or Mary steps outside the house it is anywhere between 7:32 1-2 and 7:41 1-4. Some mornings everyone appears to be in a great rush. It must be later than he thought. He walks a little faster, each moment expecting the toll of the big bell. And then it begins, just as he measures the distance as half-way up the walk. He grasps the cafeteria door, and flings it wide, and scoots to find an empty pigeon-hole for his books. They are all taken and the others, rushing as madly as he, are forging ahead of him. The door is good enough for his books then.

Dashing inside the serving room he passes along the food receptacles until he comes to the toast. He seizes a piece and then remembers that has need of a tray. So he excuses his way back and procures one of them. He offers his tray for the bacon and eggs and again remembers that they appear more appropriate on a plate. Next in order is the little square of butter floating in the big pan. If no one would look he would just naturally grab one of those pesky pieces in his hand and not have to spear around for at least a second.

Coffee calls for the last stop. And he is in such a hurry that this liquid works up so much momentum that it finally is equally divided in amount between his saucer and cup. A place is finally found. Oh yes, a knife and fork might be of some use. And then his meal begins.

As the last big bell tolls out he is about to finish. Then he deftly pushes his tray under the proper window and hies him off to First Hour.

V. W. MEETING BY SENIOR GIRLS.

Talks, Decorations and Music in Older Girls' Hands Thursday.

The senior girls are to have complete charge of the Thursday afternoon meeting of the V. W. C. A. May 25. Invitations have been sent out to all senior girls, whether members of the association or not, to be present.

The seniors are to decorate the association room, furnish special music and provide speakers for the afternoon. Talks will be made by Miss Mary Wiebe, Miss Merle Beamen and Miss Stella Blaine.

All college girls are invited to attend.

FRESH VS. SCH. OF AG. TODAY.

First of Interclass Series Contests Will be Played.

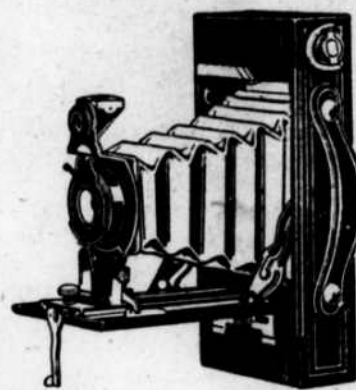

Interclass baseball starts this afternoon, when the freshmen meet the school of agriculture nine. On Thursday the freshmen will play the sophomores and the juniors will battle with the seniors. Varsity men are eligible to compete, but can not play in their regular positions.

The dope on the series favors the juniors, who have more Varsity men than any other class. The freshmen have been playing together all season, however, and should put up a good fight for the championship.

CULLED CLIPPINGS.

The K. U. Daily runs an editorial picturing the awful effects of late hours and too much good times on the co-ed—Then it wants to know if it pays. At K. S. A. C. no one would ask such a question.

"Some men are born lucky while others plan picnics according to the weather predictions."—Indiana Daily Student.

And others pick in the nick of time.

"There is no doubt that some of our students would achieve better results if they devote less time to the 'extra curricular' activities."—Ohio State Lantern.

Now the Oklahoma Daily wants to know—"How many soldiers are you writing to? Why isn't it just as much fun to write to a blacksmith?" Nobody knows.

We are waiting for some one to advance the theory that to flunk in German is the highest sort of patriotism."—K. U. Daily.

But what ought to happen then, to the person who flunks in French?

In order to support war-orphanas the sorority girls all over Kansas are giving up their spring formals and donating the fund to the good of the cause. Well, isn't it better for the girls?

Talcott Williams of Columbia says: "that it is not unpatriotic to be drafted in this war." Why no, we may as well expect to be drawn into it.

Waste of time is discarded in the waste basket of failure.—Arizona Wildcat.

Every paper in the exchange list has more to say about the Red Cross than the Collegian, but the Kansas Aggie girls have been preparing for just such work for many years.

Poor fellow, his algebra was hard for him, and he had gone through a terrible quizzing. Finally the disgusted teacher yelled, "Don't you even know what degree that is?"

He leaned wearily against his board, and sighed, "It's the third degree, I think."

P. S. The teacher never even caught the joke.

Among the ags who took the trip to Fort Hays was Ben Griffen, 'sans hat.' And among the section gang along the way was a real college lid. It happened this way. You see the boys were trying to show the occupants of the coach that they were college fellows, so Ben threw his hat at the man up front, but the hat sailed right on past and out the window. They say he stole a cap from a scarecrow and wore that during the rest of the trip.

If you don't know the answer, just say Hello, or Hello, Hawaii, and smile sweetly. That is the way Ruth Thomas does and the teachers can't help but like her.

The tower that has stood sentinel east of Anderson hall will be removed. The last panoramic picture has been taken. There are now two views of the college that include all the campus. One was taken before the trees leaved and the other shows the campus arrayed in foliage.

"PATHE."

Mrs. Vernon Castle will appear in Chapters 2 and 3 of this delightful romance on account of our inability to show Chapter 2 last week. Both chapters will be given this week.

College Soldiers Work
While Fair Women Weep

SCENE I.

Porch of sorority house at K. U.
Arrival of postman, panting and breathless. Drops huge mail bag, overflowing with fat letters, postmarked Ft. Riley, and wearily mops his brow.

Shrieks. Business of all the sisters at home descending, clad in pink and blue aprons, hair on curlers, and unwhitewashed skin of the natural variety. "Any for me? Any for ME? ME? ME? ME?"

Sister getting there first grabs the bundle, and proceeds to distribute while the others hover near. "That's all," announces the distributing sister unsympathetically, holding up the last letter, and having reserved one for herself.

A psychologist, if present, would make notes of joy, triumph, doubt, uncertainty, gloom, anger, jealousy, and meditated revenge, on the faces around him.

SCENE II.

The sisters go inside. Those with letters read them, while the others console themselves with the morning paper, or playing "What makes you make those flirty eyes at me, when they don't mean-what-they-say," and say things like these, between times: "Well, when Jack does write, I'll wait twice as long as he did, before I answer it." Then the petite blond pipes up, "Well, I know Bill is simply punk on writing letters. He just hates to write, so I am not expecting a thing! Anyway, I am not expecting one before Thursday."

SCENE III.

The others, having finished their letters, proceed to discuss war—and warriors. The unlucky ones leave the piano and paper, and go in to hear the latest from the front. "Just think," Mary is saying, as she folds up two letters addressed in the same writing, "Ed says that he scrubbed floors all his spare time yesterday, and that he got up at five-thirty, and that—"

Marie interrupts. "And Boots says they vaccinated him on one arm for typhoid, and the other one for small pox, and that he is awful sick, and that they have to march anyway, and that fifteen fellows fainted, and fell right out of the line—and—Oh! Isn't war awful?"

"It's simply inhuman. I know John isn't strong—"

"And they all have to wear wrist watches!"

"Eleven o'clock. My gracious, it can't be! I've got to go."

"Me too!"

Meeting breaks up. Business of shuffling for the stairway.

STUDENTS ARE REGISTERING.

Signing Up at County Clerk's Office for Draft.

The county clerk and his office force have been busy for the past few days filling out registration cards for those who are attending school here and have their permanent residence elsewhere.

Since there is little classwork at the college today a continuous line of students has been filing into the clerk's office and at 3 o'clock this afternoon 170 non-residents had registered.

The cards of the non-residents are sent to their home voting precinct and a registration receipt is returned to them. Every man from 21 to 30 years, inclusive, must register June 5 or show a receipt stating that he has already registered at his regular place of residence.

As Nowadays.

Horrible Accident To Prof. X's "Uke"

Just as we are going to press news comes of a horrible accident which happened at 9 o'clock this evening when Prof. X fell and broke his ukelele. The doctors report that the accident will probably prove fatal to the ukelele.

Prof. X was strolling down Poyntz avenue on his way to serenade his latest sweetheart when a small poodle rushed out barking vigorously and started chewing on various parts of Prof. X's anatomy, whereupon the assaulted gentleman kicked at the beastie in a very unladylike manner.

Prof. X thrust his foot vigorously in the direction of the poodle, but that intelligent beast dodged, and while Prof. X had his right foot suspended somewhere in the region above his head, the purp made for the other foot. Prof. X immediately removed the besieged appendage and attempted to place it beside the one in midair. Just as he had achieved this, he lost his balance and came down heavily upon the ukelele which he was clutching with both arms.

Prof. X has a wide circle of friends in the college here who join us in expressing our sincere regret for this misfortune.

VISITS THE KARAKUL RANCH

DR. NABOURS IS CARRYING ON EXPERIMENTS WITH SHEEP.

Animals Were Brought Over from Asia by Aggie Professor, who is in Co-operation with L. M. Crawford.

Dr. R. K. Nabours, professor of zoology, visited Karakul ranch in Chase county last week where he is carrying on some interesting experiments with Karakul sheep in co-operation with L. M. Crawford of Topeka.

An effort is being made to breed up the flock of 300 as nearly as possible to pure bred and the results so far are satisfactory.

The young lambs produce beautiful Karakul, Astrakan and Persian lamb furs. These sheep are natives of Bokhara, Central Asia. The flock being used in the experiment on the Karakul ranch range from one-half to full blood. A considerable number of them are 7-8 and 15-16 Karakul with a greater number 3-4 pure bred.

At the time of the outbreak of the war, Doctor Nabours was in Asia and had secured a number of sheep for importation to be used in experimental work but because of the war it has been impossible to bring them over.

Last year on his trip around the world, he revisited the sheep and found them being well taken care of and that they had more than doubled in number. He does not think that the Russian revolution has injured the prospect and hopes to have them shipped over when the war is over.

In his trip to Karakul ranch he secured some pictures of this year's lambs. Dr. Nabours is preparing a bulletin on the Karakul sheep which is to be published by the Kansas Academy of Science this summer.

USE THE MUD ROAD NO MORE.

Cinder Path Will Take Place of Old Anderson Road.

A new road is being built back of Anderson hall. Heretofore draymen and the mailman have driven over lumps and through the mud, in order to deliver freight and the mail. But they are soon to have a cinder patch.

The new road will branch from the road that now leads to the engineering building. It will make a circle and then back to the road from which it starts. The ground thus surrounded will be parked. A retaining wall is being built to keep the soil from washing away as it has in the past.

This improvement is expected to not only be practical but to greatly beautify a spot that has always appeared ugly.

You all know "Slim" Fullington—Well, the king who turned out of the road for an ant hill has nothing on "Slim," for consideration of lesser creatures. What might have been a horrible accident is only a little story. Dewey nearly stepped on a Ford the other night down in Aggieville! He started to cross the street, when to the horror of the bystanders, there came an unsuspecting little Ford rollicking across his path. There was a breathless moment—then rather than crush the roadster, Dewey of Missouri valley fame, did one of his sensational high jumps, letting the wagon go safely under him and on down the street.

We may well paraphrase the hymn dedicated to that other Dewey, "O, dewey was the evening, And dewey was the Knight And dewey were the eyes of those who saw the heavenward flight.

A Collegian reporter called a downtown newspaper office to ask for Miss X. The conversation proceeded like this:

Reporter—Hello, is Miss X there? Office—Not now, if you'll leave your number I will have her call you.

Reporter—This is the journalism office.

Office—The general matron's office?

Reporter—No, journalism office.

Office—Germanizing office?

Reporter—No, journalism office.

An original story was being read by Miss Maclean in a class in rhetoric II this week. When she had finished reading the passage describing a love scene she remarked: "I can't imagine a proposal being so dull," and added ("and it is pure ly imaginary.")

GLASS CAN'T STAND THE WIND. Solid Oak Doors to be Installed in Ag. Building.

New solid oak doors are replacing the veneer doors in the south entrance to the New Agricultural building. So many plate glasses have been broken from the old doors, due to slamming in the draft of a high wind, that a stronger door with smaller glass is more practical, than replacing glass.

Weakness in the veneer and the size of glass placed too great a strain on the glass causing several breakages. The size of the glass has been reduced in the doors. Instead of replacing a $4 glass the new one will cost only a fourth as much and only one fourth as many are expected to break. This saving will soon pay for the new doors.

Notes and News From New Training Camp

Somewhere in Kansas, April, 1917.

Dear Folks:—

Last night we made an attack on our bed and after three jumps succeeded in capturing it, though the moonlight and beautiful spring weather offered severe resistance. No counter attacks were made though there were several outbreaks of snoring from the other side of the bed. These were only slight disturbances and bothered us but little.

A forceful, driving attack was made about seven o'clock this morning by Big Ben and we were routed entirely. However, after the first drowsiness was past we experienced little further difficulty.

One of the most severe things we have to contend with at this time is spring fever. It has many of my comrades in its grasp right now and have felt the twing of it once or twice. All of the officers have sent out words that if we do not study our best we may expect a most disgraceful defeat when the final roundup comes next June. For that reason I am doing my best to keep from falling prey to the spring fever.

There have been gas attacks made by several sectors lately but we were always able to hold our ground. No gains were made by those attacking in any instance and we were only made more suspicious and watchful. There was a time when gas was most deadly, especially if used by an insurance agent, but now we have learned how to combat it.

We made two charges yesterday. One netted us some Prince Albert pajamas and the other some B. V. Da. We do not anticipate any more for several days.

We are planning concentrated move on Civics and Solis in the near future. Our move against Embryology recently resulted in a complete routing of the enemy and a wonderful capture of the post.

Cannot give you my address but anything sent in care of the Registrar, K. S. A. C. Training camp, will reach me in due time. With love to all.

Yours sincerely,
WORK LIKE ELL.

HONORARY SCHOLARSHIP FRATERNITY HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION.

STELLA HARRIS RANKS FIRST

GENERAL SCIENCE STUDENT IS THE HIGHEST GRADING SENIOR.

Of the Nineteen Chosen, Nine Were From the Division of Home Economics—Ten Per Cent of the Graduating Class Included in the Election.

Nineteen seniors have been elected to Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholarship fraternity. Six of the nineteen are students in the division of agriculture, nine are home economics students, three are from the mechanic arts division and one is a general science student.

Miss Stella Maude Harris, a senior in general science and the only student chosen from that division, topped the list with an average grade of 1.83 honor points. Waldo F. Heppie, agriculture, was second, Miss Myrtle Bauerfield, home economics, was third, and Charles R. Adamson, agriculture, took fourth place.

The basis of choosing the new members was 10 per cent of the senior class, the seniors being chosen from each division in accordance with the number of students to be graduated from that division. Honor points, with E, G and M counting plus, P as neutral, and C, I and F as minus grades, were the basis of the grade standing.

Initiation of the newly elected members probably will not be held until the last week of college. Arrangements may be made to hold the initiation the week preceding the closing exercises, but no date had been decided upon as yet.

Notices of election to Phi Kappa Phi were sent the lucky seniors the first of the week by Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile, dean of home economics, who is secretary of the local chapter. Dr. H. J. Waters is the president.

Election of the new members was made May 11, but the notices were withheld until this week.

The seniors who are to be honored with Phi Kappa Phi are:

TO WARN STUDENTS OF TIME.

College Will Blow Whistle at Noon Hour.

The residents of Manhattan are requested not to become unduly alarmed at noon tomorrow should they hear the booming and screeching of whistle in the neighborhood of the Agricultural college.

Beginning at noon tomorrow and from now on, a whistle will be blown at the college engineering building as a warning of time. A number of years ago it was the custom to blow a whistle at the noon hour but the custom was discontinued a few years ago when the whistle was taken down.

Another whistle has now been installed and the old custom will be renewed beginning tomorrow noon.

J. V. Quigley, '16, who has been teaching in the high school at Guthrie Okla., has returned to K. S. A. C. and will spend the summer in the work of farm surveys that is being carried on by the farm management department under W. E. Grimes.

UNDER 3 FLAGS YESTERDAY.

French and British Colors Side by Side With Stars and Stripes.

For the first time in the history of Kansas, Memorial day was observed with the tri-colors of France, the Union Jack of England and the Stars and Stripes of America—the nations arrayed against autocracy—intermingled and displayed conspicuously. Never before has the state suffered the flag of any other nation to fly on the day when it honored its sacred dead. But Wednesday, united in the common cause of democracy, Kansas willingly and gladly accepted the flags of the nation's allies and proudly flaunts them in the breezes as a challenge to autocracy.

Memorial day exercises this year were playing a more than usually conspicuous part in the state's observance of the day. With the vortex of the world war rapidly drawing the nation into active hostilities peculiar and befitting solemnity marked the spirit of the exercises.

IT IS TIME TO REGISTER

Registration day only a few days off, and only about 225 Aggie students have enrolled! What is the matter?

It's a serious business, this conscription. There is little likelihood of any "I forgot" or "I didn't have time" excuse working. Uncle Sam says to register, and if he is not obeyed, jails and penitentiaries must be resorted to.

Of course all Aggie students who are of the required age intend to register. But they aren't in any great hurry about it. "Tomorrow will do," is a common remark. But it will be only a few more tomorrows before June 5 arrives, and the chance for the non-resident to register will then be gone.

A large number of Aggie students who are included in the conscription limits have gone home. But surely many times more than 225 students remain.

To be "called up on the carpet" before a tribunal of Uncle Sam's because he had not registered, or because his registration card was delayed in the mails, would mean a little more to a student than a dean's charge that the maximum allotment of "unexcused" had been overstepped.

Registration papers of non-residents must be in their home precinct by 9 o'clock, June 5.

If you haven't registered already, better register TODAY. It's safer than tomorrow.

NO HOLIDAY NEXT TUESDAY

"A Day of Work," Says Pres. Waters—Half-Holiday Tomorrow.

A half-holiday for tomorrow afternoon has been granted by President H. J. Waters, in order that students may attend the matinee performance of the Woodland Players tomorrow afternoon's play will be Mollere's "Blue Stockings."

No holiday is to be observed June 5, which is registration day for conscription.

"The students' greatest service to their country on that day will be to work," says President Waters.

College duties will not be allowed to interfere with registration in any way. Students who are to register on that date will be given plenty of opportunity to do so, according to President Waters. Most of the students, however, are non-residents, and will have registered before that date.

300 NON-RESIDENTS REGISTER.

Have But Three Days Left—Every Thing Ready for June 5.

Over 300 non-residents, most of whom are attending school here, have registered for the draft at the office of the county clerk.

The non-residents have but three more days in which to register and the members of the board in charge of the registration expect to be kept busy making out cards up until registration day, June 5.

The registrars have all been sworn in and their assistants appointed and the board now has everything in readiness for the registration.

A SEMESTER FOR FARMERS

President Waters Decides On a Special Eighteen-Weeks' Course As the College's "Bit."

IS A WAR MEASURE

PLAN WILL ENABLE STUDENTS TO ATTEND COLLEGE WHEN NOT AT WORK.

STARTS ABOUT NOVEMBER 1

Opening Date Will Be Set so That Students May Enroll After Wheat Planting, and Leave for Spring Work—An "O. K." From Topeka Meeting.

The special semester for farm students has been adopted. Beginning about the first of November, an 18-week semester will open to accommodate students who are detained for a part of the year at farm work, but who desire to spend the winter months in school. Announcement that the plan had been definitely decided upon was made by President Waters yesterday.

The special semester idea, which was presented to the students in the division of agriculture through Dean W. M. Jardine at a mass meeting June 23, has been picked by President Waters as the most feasible of President Waters by Dean Potter, are as follows:

The Calendar.

1. Practically all felt that the calendars of the various institutions should be left unchanged but that schedules should be rearranged to take care of the students who come in late. The president of Bethel college, at McPherson, stated that they were considering a calendar which would run nine weeks, eighteen weeks, nine weeks. The association voted that the present calendars of the various institutions be retained, with such changes as may be necessary to accommodate students who enter late; also that all institutions hold themselves in readiness to make such modifications in their calendars and schedules as will best meet conditions as they arise.

Christmas Vacation.

2. The majority felt that the length of the Christmas vacation should not be reduced. Several expressed themselves that the students work in stores during the Christmas holidays and that this vacation should not be reduced to one week. The matter of the length of the Christmas vacation has been left to each individual institution as a matter of calendar adjustment.

3. The council voted to give publicity to the resolutions passed at the convention of college presidents in Washington, and which bring out the fact that the young men who are

ALUMNI PICNIC IN THE GYM.

Rain Forced the Graduates Indoors, But Good Time Was Had.

The Manhattan Local Alumni association held their annual picnic Decoration day in the gymnasium. It had been the intention to have it in front of Fairchild hall but the rain drove them inside.

Seventy adults and forty-five children were present. The county agents of the state were the guests. The time was spent in visiting, playing games and having a general social time. A feature of the event was a relay race between the county agents.

A picnic dinner was served cafeteria style, consisting of sandwiches and pickles, salad, coffee, cake and ice cream.

The following officers were elected: President, W. H. Sanders, '90; vice president, Mrs. B. J. Remick, '97; secretary, Mrs. A. Pfeutze, '98; treasurer, W. E. Grimes, '13.

The members of the alumni present represented the classes from 1883 to 1916.

The second series of matches are to be played off by Tuesday, June 5.

KENT AND SEARSON GONE.

Addresses at Farm Institutes Being Given by Aggie Profs.

H. L. Kent, principal of the school of agriculture, and J. W. Searson, head of the English department, left the first of the week on a tour of the southern part of the state giving addresses at farm institutes. Monday they were in Wichita, Tuesday in El Dorado, Wednesday in Winfield, Thursday in Wellington, and Friday in Anthony. Prof. Kent has been away from the college for several weeks giving commencement addresses.

20 COUNTY AGENTS HERE.

Extension Faculty Are Learning New and Advanced Ideas.

The annual conference of Extension Faculty of the Kansas State Agricultural college is being held this week, May 28 to June 2.

The work is principally one for county agents, twenty of which are in attendance. The nature of the discussions are such that present new ideas and problems for solution.

The annual extension picnic was held last night. Today will be spent with the cattlemen and tomorrow the extension specialists will be in their offices for the purpose of giving interviews.

School of Ag. "Sneaked."

Tuesday was the third year school of Agriculture sneak day. The weather, however, sneaked up on them and spoiled some of their plans. But in the afternoon they braved the weather and mud and spent the evening upon Prospect. In spite of the inconvenience of the day a good time is reported.

CATTELEMEN HERE IN FORCE

PROMINENT SPEAKERS WILL ADDRESS THE FIFTH ANNUAL STOCKMEN'S MEETING.

Murdo McKenzie, Ex-Governor W. R. Stubbs and T. H. Ingerson Are Among the Experienced Cattlemen Who Are on the Program for the Week.

Six hundred cattlemen are expected to be here today in attendance at the fifth annual meeting of cattlemen at the college.

The program is to be divided into a morning session with Dr. H. J. Waters presiding, and an afternoon session with Governor Arthur Caperton in the chair.

Beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning former Governor W. R. Stubbs will speak on the subject, "The Kansas Cattle Supply." Following this will be given an address by Murdo McKenzie, manager of the Brazil Land and Cattle company, San Paulo, Brazil, and former manager of the Matador ranch in Texas. He will discuss the subject, "South America as a Customer and Competitor." The third number on the program will be "The Cattle Buyer's Viewpoint," by T. H. Ingerson, head cattle buyer for Swift & Company, Chicago, Ill.

Immediately after the morning session, lunch will be served by the animal husbandry department in the pavilion. At the same time a stock show and parade will be held in the wing of the pavilion not used for serving lunch. All juniors and seniors in agriculture are expected to be present to assist in the serving of lunches and the showing of livestock.

At 1 o'clock the visitors will be taken to the agronomy farm in automobiles where the demonstration work will be explained under the direction of Prof. La E. Call. After the inspection of the farm, P. W. Goebel, president of the American Bankers' Association, will address the meeting of "Financing the Cattlemen." The final number will be the announcement of the results of the cattle feeding experiments by Prof. W. A. Cochel and other members of the animal husbandry department.

A final event will be the trip to lots of calves that have been in the experiment. Some factors being determined are the comparison of soed and brown alfalfa hay as economic feed, alfalfa and silage, alfalfa and sweet clover hay, alfalfa hay and alfalfa silage, and a comparison of barley and corn as a feed.

97 H. E. GIRLS VOLUNTEER

Would-be Community Leaders Are Not "Slackers."

Home economics girls are not going to be "slackers." Ninety-seven of them have answered the call for community leaders sounded at a mass meeting of the girls by Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile, dean of home economics, last Thursday.

Although most of the girls who have enrolled have taken the required courses planned by Dean Van Zile, they are now going through a period of "intensive training" to better fit themselves for the work for which they have signed.

This is the slogan of the classes: "While honor is due to the women who leave their homes to nurse and care for the wounded in battle, no woman should feel that because she does not wear a nurse's uniform, she is absolved from patriotic service. Make of the housewife's apron a uniform of national service."

The following classes have already held their first meeting. Food preparation, Friday, May 25; home dietetics, Friday, May 25; food preservation, Monday, May 28; household management, Tuesday, May 29; conservation of health, Monday, May 28; home nursing, Friday, May 25; economics and hygiene of clothing.

The pledge which the girls are signing follows:

"Recognizing my country's need for service and my obligation because of my privilege of college training, I hereby signify my willingness to use any opportunity I may have during the summer vacation to render patriotic service. In order to be better prepared for leadership, I wish to enroll in the.....class."

E. J. Otto visited friends at college last week and plans to be present here today.

FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1917

BACK FOR GRADUATION.

Proud fathers and mothers should not be our only visitors during commencement week. This spring we have lost a large number of students, some to the army, some to the training camp and others to the farm. Although it is not probable that the former will be able to return for the week, the latter two groups should be back in force to renew relations with their Alma Mater.

And then there are the alumni. Many, having gotten all they think they can out of the college, forget that they owe us something. They are indebted to K. S. A. C. for the training that is responsible for their present success, and in return they should give us their allegiance. They should be made to feel that the day they received their diplomas did not automatically sever them from Aggie school life.

High school graduates, too, should be welcomed with open arms. The college's future lies in the new students who enroll each year. There must be future "big men" in each fall's freshman class. Commencement week is a good time to show the college to these prospective students.

Few of these visitors will come without invitations. A big "drive" should be inaugurated now, and no student should be exempt from doing his "bit." The fathers and mothers of the graduates will come—we will leave that to the seniors—but forceful letters to students who have left this spring, to alumni and to high school graduates are needed if the "drive" is to succeed.

Pick out four or five prospective visitors today, and see that they get a personal letter to visit us commencement week.

Springtime—when Mother Nature works her hardest and students seldom work at all.

THE CAMPUS BEAUTIFUL.

"It hasn't an equal at any Kansas institution."

The speaker was a visitor who, standing on the east steps of the Auditorium, was surveying a campus made beautiful by a broad expanse of green grass, by artistically placed trees and shrubs and, enclosing all, by a rough old stone fence that has been a Manhattan landmark for half a century.

"Your campus has them all beaten," continued the visitor, addressing a student at his side. "You have a hill, but not too much hill." "Back here," and the visitor's and swept the semi-circle of buildings as he spoke, "you have sturdy, stately lime-stone buildings, prettily arranged. It's all beautiful. I don't blame you for wanting to come here."

What the visitor said is what most visitors say. That our campus is a beauty spot.

The Collegian hopes that the Ben Greet players will be warmly greeted.

"THE HUNTING OF THE HAWK."

A great Gentleman Crook-Secret Service Picture, surpassing even "Kick In," with thrills, fast action, suspense and a twist at the end. William Courtney is the star in this production. He is supported by Margaret Snow and "The Hunting of the Hawk" is the best Crook play ever produced. ALSO—"Mutt and Jeff" Budd Fisher's funny folks. At the Marshall, Saturday, June 2nd.

BEN GREETS ARE HERE TODAY.

Elsie Herndon Kearns in Her Own Company on Campus Tonight.

Those who have on previous occasions at Manhattan enjoyed the original Ben Greet Players in their perfected open air performances of Shakespearean and Classical Dramas and Comedies, will be delighted to know of the opportunity of hearing the stars, Elsie Herndon Kearns and George Carlton Sommes and a strong company on June 1st and 2nd when they will present Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," Moliere's "The Blue Stockings" and "Everyman." Mr. Greet having been in England during the war and intending to remain indefinitely, it was thought wise to use Miss Kearns' name to head a company, she having been starred for the past three years. Her supporting company of 16 is a most capable one, including besides Mr. Sommes (Mr. Greet's manager and producer for five years), such well known Ben Greet players as George Hare, Elizabeth Patterson, Edwin Cushman, Rosepha Chisholm, Hubert Osborne, Henley Edwards. Miss Kearns is today the best known and the most talented exponent of Shakespeare's women. New York's eminent critic, "Alan Dale," says: "Nature has endowed her liberally with beauty, temperament and intelligence."

The equipment and costumes are the most pretentious that any open air company has ever carried. All the costumes are new, and designed by Mr. Sommes. The stage properties are unique, and the lighting, when performances are given at night is the new synthetic system. The size of the company and the elaborate equipment require special coach and baggage car for traveling.

SENIOR DAY AT THE Y. W.

Older Girls Had Charge of Meeting Held Yesterday.

The "Senior meeting of the Young Women's Christian association Thursday afternoon was made quite instructive to the underclass girls by the talks of three prominent senior girls. About 150 girls attended the meeting.

The first talk was given by Miss Stella Blain on "The Freshman and the Y. W. C. A." Miss Madge Thompson talked on "The Church and the Y. W. C. A." and Miss Mary Wible on the "Application of Association after Graduation."

The special music provided for the afternoon consisted of a piano solo by Miss Gladys Grove, a violin solo "Andante Religioso," by Miss Fern Preston, a number by the Association Octette, "Ashamed of Jesus," and a vocal solo, "My Faith in Thee" by Miss Emily Lofnick.

The next meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday afternoon June 7, will be the last meeting of the term. This and every member is asked to attend and bring someone.

SOME ATHLETES HERE YET.

Broad Jumping a Common Event on Decoration Day.

It is evident that we still have some athletes in Manhattan. Proof of this might have been seen on Decoration Day by an observer on Blue-mont avenue by watching the pedestrians.

Broad jumps, high jumps and running jumps were exhibited in an endeavor to cross the street which the rain had flooded. Raincoats and parasols were in vogue but no submarines nor airships were available hence the necessity of the broad jump.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Editor Collegian:

After all that has been said and written lately about the proper way to act when the national air is being played, there are many people on our own campus that go on in the usual way. It is a simple thing to show deference to the playing of the national air but many people ignore it. Perhaps they think that it shows independence to ignore it. It may be that they do not recognize the air but I think that is not likely. It does not follow that the person who stands at attention during the playing of the national air is more patriotic than the one who does not but it indicates to onlookers what the attitude of mind of the two individuals is.

It looks especially bad for one of the cadets, dressed in uniform, to go sauntering along when he should be standing at attention. For the benefit of some who may not know just exactly what to do when the national air is being played, it might be well to give it. All people within hearing should stand at attention until the last note is played. Those in civilian clothes should stand uncovered. All those in military uniform should remain covered and at the last note should salute.

ONE WHO NOTICED.

A SPECIAL H. S. COURSE.

Methods of Teaching General Science A Summer School Plan.

One of the new courses to be given in the summer school is one in general science for grade and high school teachers to be conducted by Professor E. V. Floyd.

"In the solutions of everyday problems," says Professor Floyd, "no one science alone is adequate."

There fore, rather than to attempt the impossibility of teaching the fundamentals of several sciences in so short a time, he proposes to outline and develop, as far as possible, problems of vital interest "to those who live and work." Such universally interesting problems as water, light, heat and air supply, food and clothing, weather, transportation and communication will be dealt with.

It will be the aim of the course to enable the student to appreciate, and make practical application of, the principles of science which are so evident in our every day, workaday life.

An effort will be made to plan the course in such a way as to reach and interest at least some of the 95 persons who do not attend college as well as the five who specialize in a scientific course, and to make practical use of science with which everyone is in contact, conscious or unconscious of the fact.

Theory will be introduced only where it is found to be practical. Scientific field trips will be taken when the subject in hand can be better solved and made interesting by such trips.

CAN VEGETABLES AT IRVING.

County Farm Bureau Plans Strike at H. C. L.

A community canning plant has been started at Irving in connection with the work of the county farm bureau. A patch of ground was offered for the season, without rent, and this has been planted to corn, beans, and tomatoes. A. H. Christensen is the local leader in charge of the work. The children of the community will have a large part in helping to carry on the work during the summer.

A New Class in Music.

Miss Easter, of the department of music, will conduct a special class Monday, June 4th at 5 o'clock for all advanced students who wish to receive instruction on ideas of teaching. All students who are interested are asked to come. This will give one ideas of teaching music and also give one the materials to use. If enough interest is shown this class will probably be continued longer than this one date.

Miss Frank Sweet, who has been teaching domestic science and art in the Goodland high school this year, is home for the summer.

NARROW GAUGE IS TO CLOSE.

The old Standby Restaurant Shuts Doors Tomorrow.

The old standby—the Narrow Gauge restaurant—will close tomorrow. Besides feeding a number of students during the school year the restaurant has been the means of giving employment for seven students who have worked their way through school. Trade is so low that to operate further is unprofitable, say the managers.

A COURSE FOR FOOD AGENTS.

Graduates of State Institutions Are Under "Intensive Training."

A ten-day emergency food training school is being conducted by the extension department. This is for the benefit of the newly selected emergency food agents who are women of teaching experience selected from graduates of K. U., K. S. A. C., the State normal of Emporia, and the State Manual training school at Pittsburg.

The training class began Thursday and will last until June 9. Classes will be conducted in nursing and health conservation, dietetics, demonstration training and food preservation.

Next week from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock in the evening a demonstration class will be conducted for the class.

A PLANT SURVEY OF STATE.

Prof. Melchers Will Pay Special Attention to Wheat Bacteria.

Prof. L. E. Melchers, acting head of the department of botany, is preparing to carry on a plant disease survey of the state. He will have the assistance of six or eight men, who will be appointed by the government. These men will act under him and co-operate with him. They will keep in touch with all plant diseases of the state and make reports to the government.

Prof. Melchers will pay special attention to the new bacteriology disease of wheat, which was reported in the state for the first time by him in 1915. All these men, ten or twelve in number, will make extensive investigations of these diseases and will all be under the supervision of Prof. Melchers.

ENGINEERING NOTES.

G. E. Warner, a graduate of the civil engineering course in 1914, is now working for the Burlington in Chicago.

Vernon Valthoon, who left college a few weeks ago and enlisted in the coast artillery, is now in San Francisco. He is thinking of applying for a commission in the officers' reserve corps.

H. B. Walker, of the department of engineering was in Blue Rapids on Monday consulting the city council of that place about the street drainage problem. He was in Marysville Tuesday consulting with the city council on drainage or a newly acquired city park.

H. B. Walker left today for Valley Falls where he will spend a few days inspecting a drainage district.

The engineering division has received a great number of inquiries for men. Men are needed in almost every line of work. It will be no trouble whatever for the graduates this spring to get positions.

What is the worse thing about this war—the "Martial arts" or the "Mars" shall air?

Here is one man who was brave enough to turn down a proposal.

They were out walking when they espied the dearest little bungalow. "Oh," said he, "what a charming home, I'd like to live there."

"Oh," said she, "you and me both."

"No," he said, "THAT would never do."

If the women who are struggling over those knitted socks could have heard the soldiers who were dining at the hotel the other night ridicule the heavy incumbrances to tromping and activity, they would start sending those "dear soldier boys" poisoned bandages.

Athletics always bring in the new students of course. But if the society editor would print the bill of fare sometimes might it not make this school seem more attractive? The exchanges that come to our desk, all go into detail about refreshments, which certainly makes the exchange reader line up in favor of the culinary literature.

A JOY RIDE AND THEN JAIL

A LARK IN A "LIZZIE" RESULTS IN A NIGHT IN THE HOLDOVER.

But a Kindhearted Friend, After 40 Minutes of Watching Through Iron Bars, Relents and the Jailor Releases the Pleading Culprit.

A prominent man on the hill was placed in an embarrassing position last night. It seems that a certain young man sought to obtain the pleasures of a joy ride along about—something thirty—last night. Having an interesting friend and fraternal brother, he decided to appropriate the car of a kindly disposed acquaintance.

About an hour later the owner of said "boat" concluded to take a little spin, but—lo and behold, the "Lizzie" was gone. In deep perplexity he stroked his hair while suspicion came into proof as a car passed. It was his own!

Fate intervened at this time, for no sooner had the stolen car passed the owner, than a police car came by. The officers were halted and told to apprehend the pilfered car that had just passed. The number was taken and pursuit began.

A few minutes later the miscreant was overtaken, but not before his friend with the two ladies had disembarked. Now, no plausible explanation could be given so the car and driver were taken to jail; however, before the "hold-over" was reached, the suspect had various and sundry alibis.

When leaving the car with the sheriff to a cell, the captive pleaded with the one who caused his arrest, but that one was quite angry and refused leniency.

Behind the cold steel bars the guilty one expostulated and pleaded with the sheriff until the owner of the stolen car was finally prevailed upon to come into the cell to see the "sorry" one.

The conference lasted some few minutes in earnest conversation—mostly explanation—but the one was firm and withdrew from the damp cell leaving the prisoner with the comforting news that he would come back again in the morning, at which time—maybe he would feel more lenient.

After leaving the guilty one with some 40 minutes of prison life, the prosecuting party had a change of heart, with his temper cooling he requested the jailor to release the man. Since no case could be made if held, the imprudent one was released—a wiser boy.

ADDRESS BY DR. MACARTHUR

WORLD IS TO HAVE NEW BIRTH OF FREEDOM.

Autocracy Must Make Way for Democracy, Says College Professor, in Memorial Day Talk.

Following the Memorial Day services at Sunset cemetery, in which the college band and cadet corps took a prominent part, Dr. J. R. MacArthur, professor of English in the college, delivered the Memorial Day address at the Marshall theater.

Dr. MacArthur said in part:

More than fifty years have passed since the disbanding of the Grand Army; and as we look upon the silvery heads of those before us whose memory and experience go back to those days, as we think of what the outcome of their struggle has meant for the nation, for the cause of civilization and of humanity, there passes through us a thrill of pride and gratitude that we have been permitted to look upon some of those who had a part in that struggle.

These soldiers have lived to see the blood red sunrise of a day, the like of which has not been since time began. For almost 3 years have the majesty of the supposedly civilized nations of the earth been grappling in the mightiest of all struggles. Land and sea and sky have been filled with tumult and startled with strange alarms.

All the inventions of our boasted modern science have been utilized to make a warfare, hellish, damnable, baffling all powers of human description. In the midst of the continent of Europe has arisen that grim gigantic monster militarism. It has stridden forward, a destruction that wasteth at noonday, a terror by night, a pestilence that walketh in darkness, crushing, blasting everything in its path.

Our nation, America, actuated by the highest ideals, unable to conceive the business of the common enemy of mankind, forbore entrance into the fight. At last, however, insulted beyond endurance, convinced that this power was amenable to no arguments based upon justice or humanity, on last Good Friday, that day commemorating the supreme sacrifice of all time, America elected to bear the cross of war, to sacrifice herself, even to the uttermost, for the cause of humanity.

In the words of our president, in his now historic address to congress, "There is one choice we cannot make, we are incapable of making: We will not choose the path of submission and suffer the most sacred rights of our nation and our people to be ignored or violated. The wrongs against which we now array ourselves are not common wrongs; they cut to the very roots of human life."

Now, from end to end of our land are heard the preparations for engagement in the great conflict. Soon the training will be over. Soon we shall hear in the streets the beat of the drum, the tramp of many feet.

And, thus, we come to another Memorial Day, a day upon which we not only look back, but look forward; a day upon which we not only remember the past with love and reverence and pride, but from the past must draw encouragement, faith, supreme confidence for the future.

Men of the Grand Army of the Republic, you have lived to witness a proud day. You have lived to see your sons, and your sons' sons, rise to those heights of sacrifice and devotion to which you rose. You have lived to see the life given to those who accused America of being rich, indolent, selfish, degenerate, of being a nation so devoid of high ideals that she would not join in a battle for the right.

In 1776, America fought for her own existence; in 1861, she again fought for existence; in 1898 for humanity, to free her enslaved neighbor; but in 1917 she fights to free the world. If the Allies win this war—and God grant they may—it means that democracy has won for all time. It means that the world's last great war has been fought.

These men whom we commemorate today are not dead. Their souls go marching on. Like the runners in the torch race of yore, they are handing their torches of liberty to these younger souls in the flesh who are bearing them forth to this mightiest of all conflicts, who are, once more to paraphrase the wonderful words of Lincoln, dedicating themselves to the unfinished work that they who fought have so nobly advanced, who are now dedicating themselves to the great task remaining, who from these honored dead are taking increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion, who are here highly resolving that these dead shall not have died in vain, that the WORLD shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

DEVELOPMENT OF INDIAN SHOW

"Captain of the Grey Horse Troop," Deals With Problem of Redskins.

The Vitagraph company's visualization of Hamlin Garland's novel, "The Captain of the Grey Horse Troop," is the first photodrama to reveal the development of the Indian race. "The Captain of the Grey Horse Troop" comes to the Marshall theater on Monday.

Early scenes in "The Captain of the Grey Horse Troop" show the Indian camps of the old days before the coming of the white men with "the stick that speaks with a tongue of fire." The peaceful pursuits of the so-called savage Redskins are presented, ranging from hunting to head and buckskin craftsmanship. The Indian's development passes in swift panorama. Shabby, dirty tepees succeed the homes of other days. Idle, lazy, cigarette smoking Indians supplant their ancestors. The photoplay speaks eloquently of the decadence of the race. At the same time Mr. Garland shows how the Redskin's problem may be met, how he may be taught farming and modern methods of agriculture.

"JUST ANYTHING WON'T GO"

Farm Writer Must Talk Farmers Language, Says Younggreen.

That the successful writer of advertising copy for farm papers can't put just any old thing over on the farmer, was the assertion of Charles C. Younggreen of Topeka, general manager of the Kansas Farmer, in an address on "Writing Farm Paper Copy" before the students in industrial journalism in the college Tuesday.

"You must talk to the farmer in his own language—from his own standpoint," said Mr. Younggreen. "You must have a proper regard for his integrity, for his broadmindedness, and for his intelligence. You must put him in the business man's class and forget forever the haysack that is so frequently the subject of the comic picture and the joke artist."

"The success of all advertising depends upon purchasing power. The average city man is practically limited as to his income and all the persuasive power in the world is useless, if one cannot show him how to increase his income so as to purchase the product. There is not one farmer in the United States whose income is limited. It is easy for the farmer to increase his production to provide the money necessary to make any legitimate purchase."

"In serving the farm population by writing copy that will develop the possibility than has the man who tries to create sales amid the sordid corruption of the metropolitan market."

"CRAWFORD OPPOSES 'UKES'"

Journalism Head Speaks With Scathing Sarcasm.

Mr. N. A. Crawford, of the Kansas Industrialist, Manhattan, expresses himself regarding the ukelele, which is rapidly becoming the most popular instrument in Topeka, our town having five or six ukelele orchestras. Mr. Crawford says:

"Old man Smith, a highly respected citizen of our little community, who shot and killed a pair of ukelele players from his bedroom window last Friday night, has been discharged from custody and granted a pension for meritorious service."—Topeka State Journal.

VOLUME IX, OUT ABOUT JUNE 15, WILL HAVE NEW

Collegian Reporter Unrath Feindsish Plot to Ruin Reputations and Defame the Names of 'Higher Ups' in the College Life.

Bigger, brighter, broader and better than ever before, Royal Purple Volume IX will burst forth upon the Aggie world about June 15, or possibly before that date. This fact, together with others, was extracted from the Royal Purple staff by a representative of the Collegian.

That "among others" statement has a significance. Cause lissun:

A plot to wreck the reputations of K. S. A. C.'s noblest and truest sons and daughters is brewing. The Royal Purple staff is at the bottom of the infamous plan. First conceived in the minds one of H. J. Adams, the plot has now assumed such proportions that the Collegian feels it is its duty as a public servant to enlighten and warn the public, that they may take heed, and watch their step in the future.

The first inkling that the tranquil life of the college might be disturbed came when the Collegian reporter burst unexpectedly into the Royal Purple office the other morning. Here's Clue No. One.

"Say, Addie, d'ju hear about that rough date had tother evening?" "Naw." This from "Addie."

"Well he had one. That'd be good stuff for that—"

But by now the Collegian reporter had made his way into the secret portals of the R. P. office, and the conversation that was ensuing was chopped off and left suspended in mid-air. His "nose for news" instinct aroused, the reporter dashed over to a desk presided over by L. R. Thomas, where he saw some suspicious looking copy. With a sweep of his arms, "Tommy" gathered the precious copy to his bosom.

Now the reporter KNEW there was a plot. Turning swiftly on Manager H. J. Adams, the reporter caught "Addie" off his guard, and before Addie could be secured, the energetic Royal Purple boss was firmly in the grip of the news-hunter.

"Is it true, or is it not?" demanded the C. R.

Well-nigh exhausted, Adams broke down and confessed.

"Yes, it's true. There will be a section in the Royal Purple—the last section—devoted entirely to personalities. We have been gathering material for the past year, and I believe that the section will be of interest to quite a number of our brave lads and fair lasses."

"As bad as the Third Degree?"

Adams at first refused to answer. Finally he nodded assent to the reporter's remark that maybe it would only be a Second Degree.

"Anyway, it will be interesting," repeated the Royal Purple manager.

And sav, he yelled as the reporter shot out of the R. P. den. "Don't forget to say the book'll be out about June 15—accent on the 'about'—because we've been bothered to death lately. Everbody asking, 'When will that book burst forth?'"

SHE WAS SOMEBODY'S MOTHER.

Edith Storey, '16, was waiting in line at the cafeteria to be served to her midday luncheon. She was smiling, perhaps because she was pleased to be with so many young people and to hear their cheerful conversation. She was a rather timid old lady to, with the marks of many years of care upon her face. Her shoulders were bent and she was a little feeble from the many deeds of kindness and thoughtfulness which she had performed for just such young people as these here waiting in line with her. Yet upon her face was that gentle look which can only rest in the faces of the mothers or those who have spent their lives in beautiful service.

Then there came another woman in line who was not old and feeble nor bowed by years of responsibility. She was young and carefree except perhaps for a few studies which might be considered as one of the excuses for her going to college. She came up behind this old, old, lady and seemed to fail to see her standing in line. She pushed ahead as the old lady was forced aside and had to wait and be served after her turn.

The old lady wasn't asking any favors but when the young woman pushed past her a hurt look came into her eyes. Perhaps she had been thinking of her own boy or girl, who knows. Young people, perhaps you do these little acts unthinkingly but remember that if you consider yourself worthy of any thing today it is due to these old folks. Perhaps if the young woman had thought of her own mother before she pushed ahead of the old, old, lady she would have waited her turn. A CALL TO CAPT. MATHEWS

COMMANDANT LEAVES TODAY TO REPORT AT FORT DOUGLAS, UTAH.

Mathews' Departure Leaves Captain Claeron in Charge of the Military Department—Dean Willard Checked Over Military Effects

Captain L. O. Mathews leaves today for active service in the army, in accordance with an order received Saturday. He will be attached to the 42nd U. S. infantry, which is now stationed at Fort Douglas, Utah.

In Captain Mathews' absence, Captain Claeron, who has been assistant to the commandant, will become head of the department. The effects of the military department were ordered to be ready to be turned over to some one else by May 30, so that Captain Mathews could leave without delay when his orders for departure came, and it was a simple matter yesterday to transfer the papers and effects over to Captain Claeron.

J. T. Willard, dean of general science, acted for the college in checking over the department affairs. He made his inspection yesterday afternoon.

No change of any kind in the administration of the cadet corps is contemplated by Captain Claeron. A special effort will be made to whip the corps into shape for the competitive drill in which individuals, squads, platoons and companies will contest for prizes. The date of the drill has not been definitely set. It is possible that the drill will be held on a Saturday, in order that officers from Fort Riley may be present to act as judges, and also that the training camp men may watch the cadet corps step through its paces.

Captain Claeron has had no intimation as to when he will be called into service. An official bulletin from Washington last week called out 61 captains in the quartermasters' reserve corps, and it is possible that the new commandant will also receive a call soon.

TO TRAIN FOR THE RED CROSS

Classes Will be Organized in the Summer School.

Red Cross training is to be given in the summer school. It is desired that the classes be organized as far as possible at the end of this term in order that no time will be lost and that the work can be started as soon as the summer term opens.

Two nurses training classes consisting of fifteen lessons will be conducted by Miss Loula Kennedy and Mrs. J. C. Ewing, both graduates of nurses training schools and well fitted for the work.

From one to four first aid classes will be organized if it is so desired. These will consist of ten lessons and will be conducted by any of the four doctors chosen by the class. Those certificated now are Dr. J. C. Colt, Dr. J. C. Montgomery, Dr. E. J. Moffit, and Dr. C. M. Siever.

There have been a few requests for ambulance training and if a sufficient number can be interested this will be considered. All of these classes are open to both men and women.

A meeting will be held before the end of this term to make plans for the summer. For further information inquiry should be made of Prof. R. R. Price, president, or Miss Margaret Haggard, secretary.

HANCOCK STILL IN THE LEAD.

But Miller is Creeping up in Collegian Contest.

A. C. Hancock, junior in animal husbandry, is leading in the Collegian contest with a total of 232.5 column inches. C. P. Miller, freshman in industrial journalism, is second with 219.5 column inches. Zenith Mullen, junior in general science, is third with 166.5 column inches, and Elizabeth Wadley, junior in industrial journalism, is fourth, with 155 column inches. There are thirty-five students in the Collegian contest.

The winner of the Collegian contest will receive a year's subscription to the Collegian as first prize. Second prize will be a two-term subscription to the Collegian and third prize will be a subscription to the Collegian for one term.

The contest closes with the June 15 issue of the Collegian.

CHANCES IN SOUTH AMERICA.

It is the Land of Opportunities, Says Murdo McKenzie.

South America offers great opportunities to the young people of the United States, according to Murdo McKenzie, of the San Paulo Land and Cattle company, San Paulo, Brazil.

"Brazil has cheaper land than can be found in any other part of the world," said Mr. McKenzie, "and there is a world of opportunity for those who are willing to work."

Cattle may be raised solely upon the native grasses, since the climate is such that no freezing weather is experienced. Hogs will likewise fatten on the grass, but there is room for improvement in the methods of production.

Land selling from 20 cents to $2 per acre in a climate as comfortable as our own, where livestock can be readily grown, is an opportunity, it is said, for those who are willing to break all home ties and take up permanent abode in a foreign country.

Mr. McKenzie is not in the states for the purpose of colonizing in Brazil, but merely mentioned these facts when asked what opportunities existed.

MAY A RECORD BREAKER.

The Coolest in 59 Years—Rainfall for Month Was 5.94.

Prof. J. O. Hamilton's comparison of government weather records today disclosed the fact that last May was the coolest May in 59 years. The average temperature for the month was 57.2 degrees. The nearest approach to this record was made in 1892, when the May average was 57.83 degrees.

The frigidly was accompanied by an unusually large amount of cloudy weather and frequent showers.

The highest temperature recorded was 90 degrees, reached May 19. The lowest temperature was 30 degrees on May 1 and May 5. On the latter dates, chilling frosts occurred but no serious damage to the early crops was incurred.

The rainfall for the month was 5.94 inches. The average May rainfall for the 59 years was 4.88 inches. The win reached a total mileage of 5,275 while the average mileage attains 7,732.

COUNTY AGENTS WERE HERE

Special Lectures Listened to by Farm Managers.

Seventy-five county agents met at the college last week for the purpose of discussing food conservation in the state of Kansas. The work of the county and district agents is expected to be an important factor in the campaign for increased food production and conservation.

Addresses and demonstrations were given each day to the meeting. Dr. W. M. Jardine spoke on "Possibilities of Increasing Our Food Production." Miss Francis Brown, director of home economics, division of extension, discussed "Plans to Conserve Food in the House." Garden demonstrations were given by Albert Dickens, professor of horticulture.

All of the time was not given to business however, because the agents "knocked off" long enough Thursday afternoon to enjoy a good rousing free for all baseball game. After the game or games had been played the agents were served to refreshments on the campus east of the gymnasium.

Prospective emergency food agents, from state institutions of Kansas, who will be in government service, will be in training at K. S. A. C. throughout the week ending June 9. They will be chosen by a committee of three members of the college faculty because of their knowledge of home economics, previous experience, and ability. More than 25 of them are here and others are expected to report for training soon. Special stress will be placed on instruction in canning and preserving.

TWO NEW MEMBERS ON BOARD

DR. MASON AND C. W. GREEN, WITH EX-GOV. HOCH, TO MANAGE INSTITUTIONS

All Are Men of Wide Experience in Managing—Green Is the Mayor Who "Cleaned Up" Kansas City, Kan.—Are to Have Heavy Responsibilities.

The management of Kansas educational institutions is to be in the hands of Dr. Willbur N. Mason, president of Baker university; Edward W. Hoch, former governor of Kansas, and Charles W. Green, former mayor of Kansas City, Kan. These three men were appointed last week by Governor Arthur Capper, who is himself president ex-officio of the board.

The board will have the largest responsibilities of any administrative body ever named in Kansas. On July 1 it will take charge of the work now done by the board of administration, the board of control, and the board of corrections. Under its supervision will be the educational, penal and charitable institutions of the state.

Resigns Presidency of Baker. The board will select a business manager, or purchasing agent, for the institutions.

Doctor Mason has resigned the presidency of Baker university to undertake the new work. He holds degrees from Ohio Wesleyan, Boston and Harvard universities, and from the University of Chattanooga. For some years he was in the active Methodist ministry, being pastor of churches in Ohio, Massachusetts, and Tennessee. He became president of Baker university in 1911, and has been

THE BAND IS TO GO

BURR OZMENT'S BOYS TO BE THE FIRST REGIMENT BAND IN MARINE CORPS.

TO CARRY COLORS TO FRANCE

Aggies Will Step Off Pershing Transport as First United States Unit to be Landed on French Soil—Men Enlisted as a Unit.

The Aggie Cadet band will be among the first sons of America to land on French soil when the boys in khaki are sent to aid the allies. Burr Ozment and his boys have enlisted as a unit in the U. S. marine service and will leave for Philadelphia to take up training next Monday, June 11.

Last Friday Mr. Ozment received a telegram from the U. S. marine station at St. Louis, Mo., asking him if he and his band could enter the service at once Sunday afternoon. Captain Eslick arrived from St. Louis to look the band over and to swear them into the service. A special meeting of the band was called when the men were told their duties as marines.

Yesterday evening 23 men from the regular band had expressed their desire to enlist and practically all of them had passed the physical examination which is being given them by Dr. J. R. Selver, college physician. The regular army band is composed of 29 men and Mr. Ozment intends to recruit his band to full membership from former members of the Aggie band who have expressed their desire to go with those who are now enrolled.

Those men from the present membership who are going are D. E. Dewey, Phil Hill, J. S. Gullledge, O. S. Brower, I. K. Landon, F. J. Scriven, G. W. Fisher, O. F. Fisher, R. R. Losh, Joe Heldt, C. L. Bonnet, K. E. Richardson, C. E. Webb, R. H. Oliver, O. K. Rumble, W. E. Forney, Wm. Knostman, E. H. Barger, C. E. Zolinger, E. W. Roney, Frank Dale, F. J. Hanna and E. L. Bell.

Several of the men have already withdrawn from college and are making hurried preparations to go home and bid the home folks a hurried good-bye. The opportunities in the marine service are greater than in any other division of army service and the fellows are glad that this opportunity has come to them. But as they sign the document that makes them men of Uncle Sam's service the smile leaves their faces for a moment because they know that they are entering something that will not be child's play.

They are going where there is need of real men and K. S. A. C. is sending these men from her ranks who will lead the way when United States soldiers land on European soil. The Aggies will lead the way because it is the marines that will first start the fighting of our army against the Germans.

The band will join the first regiment of marines which has been organized at Philadelphia. When the men arrive at their regiment they will be given one month's training, after which they will be ready to go to France. It is not probable that the Aggie men will be sent to do trench work because their duties will consist mainly of concert playing for the wounded in the hospitals of France. As soon as the war is over the men will be free to return home with an honorable discharge or may remain on marine reserve for a period of four years from the time of enlistment.

The Aggie band is one of four bands in the United States that are being taken into the marine service. Heretofore there has been only one marine band but since that war additional organizations are being enlisted. The men from K. S. A. C. were chosen on their merit as good musicians. Over the state of Kansas Burr Ozment's band has its reputation. Whether it be in carrying enthusiasm for an athletic contest or playing in concert work the men have always made good.

K. S. A. C. will be without an organization that she has begun to look to as a permanent feature on the hill. She will be sorry to say the men leave because it will be a long time before another organization shall have reached the point of efficiency that "Burr's" band has reached. But these men have been picked from many to fill responsible and honorable positions so K. S. A. C. feels proud of her band and wishes them luck as they go to play for Uncle Sam and Old Glory.

ANNOUNCE THE FELLOWSHIPS

Board of Administration Has Chosen Four New Men.

The following are the fellowships that have been granted for next year, as decided upon in a meeting of the board of administration May 22.

W. P. Tuttle, '15, University of Kentucky, has been appointed fellow in soils in the department of agronomy, beginning September 1, 1917. He will serve as assistant in soils in the department of agronomy this summer and will report for duty as soon as possible.

W. H. Stacy, class of 1917, Iowa State college, has been appointed fellow in crops in the department of agronomy, beginning September 1, 1917.

Jay Lush, class of 1916, Kansas State Agricultural college has been appointed fellow in animal genetics, department of animal husbandry. During this coming summer, Mr. Lush will have charge of the experimental work of Professor Wentworth during his absence at Fort Riley. Mr. Lush will take up his duties in the animal husbandry department as soon as his school is finished at Pratt, where he has been teaching the past school year.

Levi Horlacher, 1917, Purdue university, has been appointed fellow in animal production, department of animal husbandry, beginning September 1, 1917.

THE GRANGE PICNIC TOMORROW

President Waters and Dean Jardine Are on Program.

All Granges in the state are invited to the Grange picnic to be held on the agronomy farm of the college tomorrow.

The Grangers will gather in the morning for a basket dinner on the farmhouse lawn at noon. Following the dinner there will be a short program. Talks will be given by B. Needham of Lane, state master; A. P. Reardon of Atchison, past master; Mrs. Mabel Pomeroy of Holton, state chaplain; W. R. Yensawine, master of the Manhattan Grange; Dr. H. J. Waters, president of the college; Dr. W. M. Jardine, dean of agriculture; and L. E. Call, professor of agronomy.

Following the program, a trip for the men is planned over the agronomy farm to study the experimental work in crops. A canning demonstration and lecture will be given at the farmhouse for the women.

"DOC" WAGNER HAS RESIGNED

Veteran Aggie, for Three Years Custodian, to Go on Farm.

"Doc" Wagner, who for the past three and one half years has been custodian of grounds at the Kansas State Agricultural college, has resigned his position to take effect August 1, 1917.

His successor probably will not be appointed until the new board of administration begins its duties July 1.

Mr. Wagner has delayed for several months whether he should resign or not. He has thoroughly enjoyed his work and leaves only for business reasons. He is a partner in the "Tuttle Dale Stock farm," and desires to give all his time to the development of their herd of purebred Ayreshires.

ZETA KAPPA PSI A NATIONAL

OREGON CHAPTER IS ORGANIZED BY THE LOCAL PARENT CHAPTER.

Is Now the Only Honorary Fraternity for Feminine Debaters and Orators—Alpha Chapter Put It Here in 1913.

By establishing a new chapter at the University of Oregon, Zeta Kappa Psi, local honorary debate and oratory sorority, has become a national. Because of the early closing at Oregon, no representative could be sent to that school, but initiation services were carried on here at the same time that services were being carried out at the Oregon chapter.

A further expansion is to be made tonight, when a Minnesota chapter will be installed in the same manner.

Zeta Kappa Psi was first organized at the college in 1913 but not until May 6, 1914, was a state charter granted the organization by Charles S. Sessions, secretary of state. The charter members of the fraternity are Misses Blanche Burt, Alma Halbowr, Madge Thompson, Anna Steckelburg, Mary Polson, Edna Barber, Lillian Lathrop, and Valida Dowling.

The present members are Misses Jose Baker, president; Merle Dakin, vice president; Hazel Merrill, secretary; Stella Blaine, treasurer; Louise Ziller, historian; Madge Thompson, marshal; Fern Roderick, Donna Fae Wilson, Laura Mueller, Mae Sweet, Stella Gould and Lola Sloop.

SKINNER IS A FIRST LIEUTENANT

Promotion Comes Quickly to Former Aggie Football Captain.

From second lieutenant in the marine corps to first lieutenant within three weeks is the rapid advance made by Emmet Skinner, former Aggie football captain, who accepted a commission in the marines a little more than a month ago.

Skinner writes back that the chances for further promotion are excellent. He passed his examination for first lieutenant easily, and is now preparing for an examination some time in the future for a captaincy. He is not rushing his examinations, however, he says, as he wants to master each phase of the work before he advances.

Skinner was one of the Aggie graduates recommended by President Waters and Captain Mathews. S. R. Vandenberg, Keith Kenyon and John Selton are other Aggies who have since entered the marines.

IS COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Thompson of Ohio State, to Deliver the Address.

Dr. William Oxley Thompson, for nearly 20 years president of the Ohio State university, will deliver the commencement address at the college June 21.

Doctor Thompson has been president of the Ohio State university since 1899. For eight years previous he was president of Miami university. He is well known as an educator and a speaker.

The Right Rev. James Wise, bishop of Kansas, Episcopal church, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday June 17. His subject will be, "The Foundations of Life."

Though born abroad, Bishop Wise has spent most of his life in the middle west. He received his scholastic training in the University of Nebraska and the General Theological seminary. He has given special study to religious education.

THE BAND "SOUNDS OFF."

Enlisting as a private while men around him are trying for commissions probably comes pretty hard to each member of the Aggie cadet band. It is putting his patriotism to the severest kind of test. Going to war under any circumstances is not a matter to be thought of lightly. The bandsman's problems are just as serious as any enlisted man, for his dangers are as great.

A month ago when the proposition of the band going as a unit was first broached, few thought that the bandmen would respond if given a chance. Perhaps not even the bandmen themselves knew. But if there was any doubt about their intentions, they dispelled it yesterday when practically the entire organization agreed to enlist.

Although almost all the bandmen answered in the affirmative, those who did not agree to go should not be branded "slackers." There are, of course, greater opportunities for the men than in the band. One man, an engineer, has a chance to enter a munitions factory. He is of just as much service there as in the band. Others had similar reasons for not wanting to go.

The advantages of going as a unit will be many. The companionship formed in college will be kept up, and there will still be the old fighting Aggie spirit in the organization. If some way could be devised, it would be an advantage both to the college and to the band to have it known from what institution the band was recruited.

At any rate, K. S. A. C.'s good-by to its band will come hard. As an Aggie band, it has been a success. As a member of Uncle Sam's fighting force, may it become a greater success.

"All the world loves a lover"—except the woman he's in love with.

FROM BETTER TO BEST.

From a mediocre cadet corps, in which no one but the officers took any great degree of interest, to a crack military organization, with every man, whether he be private or colonel, giving his best, is the advancement recorded in military matters here since the advent of Captain L. O. Mathews, who leaves today for regular army service.

Two years ago the Aggie cadet corps had won its first "distinguished institution." But even with that, the seventh hour each Monday, Wednesday and Friday was not a period to look forward to with any abundance of satisfaction.

A new spirit seemed to come into the organization when Captain Mathews came. Getting used to the new khaki uniforms helped a lot. Later on the European war aided in awakening interest. It was the hard work that Captain Mathews himself put into the department, however, that made it what it is today; one of the most interesting phases of student life at K. S. A. C.

The interclass baseball series which were to have been played last week were not played because of the lack of men to fill out the various teams.

LIFE IS NO JOKE IN P. I.

HOSTILE BULLETS ARE COMMON, SAYS JACK RICHARDS.

Six Americans Were Killed and Six Wounded in One Engagement Writes Former Aggie.

Between dodging bullets from hostile Filipino rifles and caring for Germans in detention camps, "Jack" Richards, former Aggie student, is enjoying life in the Philippine Islands. In an interesting letter to Captain L. O. Mathews, Richards, who was a captain in the college cadet corps and is now a third lieutenant in the Philippines Constabulary, tells of life in the islands. The constabulary is the police organization.

Although the letter was only recently received, it was written April 20, from Zamboanga, Mindanao, P. I. The letter follows.

Dear Captain Mathews: Since arriving in the Islands I have intended to write a number of times but seemed to always have something to do when I was in the notion. Had a nice trip over here and only stayed in Manila 9 days and then came down here where I have been ever since the 21st of January. As far as climate, etc., goes, I like it fine and I really don't have much to do, but it didn't take me long to discover that the Islands are "sinking" and that I had better begin to look about for something else. I began looking about a week after I arrived in Manila and am trying for an appointment in the Army. I have my application in, and expect to be designated within the next few weeks.

All Americans that can, are resigning and going home and there won't be many left in this department after July. It seems that the policy is to give Filipinos the good stations, where there are quite large barrios and nothing to do, and send the American officers out to isolated places, some of them five days in the interior, where all the work is to be done.

Not long ago a Filipino officer was killed by his soldiers while out on patrol. The Moro want stand for being officered by a Filipino in a Moro country where the chances for him to get away are as good as they are here.

American Blood Shed.

About a month ago there was an uprising on Jolo and an American officer and five soldiers were killed, six more soldiers were wounded, and only one escaped without being cut up. The detachment killed 16 Moros, wounded 25 more but the rest of them escaped, taking six "Krag" and one shotgun. The officer was mutilated beyond recognition. I haven't heard as to whether the rest of the Moro band has been captured or not. It will probably take several months.

When the war scare came along along we took the crews off of three German boats and placed a Constabulary guard on them, took over or placed a detachment there to guard the wireless station, and now we have all the Germans in a "detention camp," but the Scouts are guarding it.

I was censor until the censorship was taken off here and established at Manila and now I have the detachment that is doing guard here at the wireless station. I mess with the Scouts that are camped across the road on their rifle range and am trying to save enough to perhaps come back to the states on.

To Try for Commission.

I am studying Spanish and other subjects that are mentioned in G. O. 61, W. D. 1915, so that I will be somewhat prepared to take the July examination for provisional appointment to the Army. Chances were never better and if I can make it I am sure I can make good.

I suppose you are expecting to be relieved at any time now, and help get these "million volunteers" ready. The few Army officers that are on detail with the Scouts here expect to go any time now. Too bad that Compulsory service bill could not be passed but perhaps we will get it yet. I am glad to hear that the other four increments are to be added to the Army this year. There will certainly be a wonderful opportunity for a man to get in now and go up rapidly if he can make good the first two years.

On the Water Wagon.

Exby keeps me informed as to what the Military department is doing, but I should be glad to hear from you and Sergeant Odeon at any time. I am "up the pole" and haven't

Mr. and Mrs. Boyle will make their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ipsen will live at Buffalo, N. Y., where the former has a position with the General Electric company. Mrs. Ipsen was graduated from Wellesley college in 1914 and Mr. Ipsen was graduated from the Kansas State Agricultural college in 1913.

DAWSON INTO ARSENAL WORK.

Another Resignation Brings Engineering Vacancies to Three.

J. A. Dawson, assistant in machine shop practice, has resigned his position in the engineering division to work in an arsenal. No one has been chosen to fill his position.

Mr. Dawson's resignation brings the total loss in the division up to three. The other two men who have resigned are in the Fort Riley training camp. No attempt is being made to fill any of the positions, according to Dean A. A. Potter, who states that they will probably not be filled until conditions become more settled.

ENGINEERS ARE IN DEMAND.

Dean Potter Has Places for a Large Number of Men.

The demand for Aggie engineering graduates is unprecedented. Requests for men have been pouring into Dean A. A. Potter's office for the past month, but none can be filled, as all the seniors secured their positions a month ago. The positions offered carry with them good salaries.

Some of the companies which are seeking men are the Westinghouse Machine Co., Allis-Chalmers Co., New York Central Railway, David Rankin School of Mechanical Trades, Agricultural College of Texas, Smith Tractor Co., and a large number of power plants over the country.

DEAN WILLARD'S MAIL FLOODED

Absentees are Writing in Their Reports on Work.

Approximately 150 of the students in the division of general science who left school in the present term have reported to Dean J. T. Willard. All who were to receive credit promised to write Dean Willard on or about the first of June regarding the work in which they were engaged.

Although a few instances of bad faith have been discovered, it has been found that most of those who were excused have been working as they had promised. There will be no punishment meted out to those who are not engaged in productive industries or are in the service. They will merely not receive credit for their spring term work, according to Dean Willard.

ZIMMERMANS IN AN ACCIDENT.

Bumpers of Gen. S. Murphy's Car Struck Motorcycle.

While crossing Poyntz avenue on Eleventh street near noon Saturday, J. A. and H. H. Zimmerman, riding a motorcycle, were hit by a motor car driven by George M. Murphey. One of the brothers was slightly injured about the left knee and the motorcycle was damaged.

Mr. Murphey was driving west on Poyntz avenue, at a rate of about ten miles an hour. The Zimmerman brothers were riding east on Poyntz and as Mr. Murphey neared Eleventh, the driver of the motorcycle suddenly turned north and tried to pass in front of the car, the bumper of which struck and upset the machine and threw the riders to the pavement.

With rare presence of mind Mr. Murphey threw on the emergency brake when he saw that a collision was imminent and his prompt action doubtless avoided what might have been a serious accident. Asked why they had tried to pass in front rather than behind the approaching car, one of the Zimmermans told Mr. Murphey that there was no clutch on the motorcycle and had he stopped the machine he would have been forced to alight in order to start again.

The Zimmermans are students at the college and live at 1220 Moro street.

OUT OF THE MAIL BOX.

Dear Editor:—

Call me a cynic if you will. I must have a say.

Which would you rather do, have the dean give you full credit on the books at the beginning of the term or work for it and run the chance of flunking? Truthfully, which is easier physical or mental work? Where would you rather be in a classroom or outdoors? Would you rather receive a commission as an officer or face conscription as a private? Do you prefer to be called brave and heroic or suspected of being a slacker? In other words, is it easier to enlist or to stay at college?

Answer these questions fairly and then say that the college man is getting a square deal. Who writes him comforting letters? Where is the poetry that has been written in his praise. Reprint the editorials penned, to show his bravery and nobleness. Repeat the words spoken of his sacrifice and willingness to keep cool and to continue working while others get the praise.

There is no record. Why? Because humanity forgets or disdains to look beneath the surface. Men praise men without knowing why they do it.

Misplaced emphasis is a common fault. It is often a shameful thing also.

Just remember that the brains of this nation are not on the farm or in the training camp—ket.

STOIC.

Editor Collegian:

Commercialize your thoughts concerning the sheep and they will seem more interesting. Is the opinion of one interested in the little animals.

The grass that was formerly mowed at great expense by machinery is now cut and transformed into products that are worth about 15 cents per pound, on the average. The two hundred sheep that we see from day to day, do this very thing.

At present the price of lambs on the Kansas City market is 18 cents per pound, the price of ewes, the mothers of these lambs, is quoted at $12.50 per cwt.

Now, is there any reason why anyone should feel offended at the innocent little sheep that is doing so much to aid the Council of Defense while placently clipping the grass that usually not only goes to waste but is a source of expense in removal?

Aside from the value of these animals on the market, they clip an average fleece of six pounds which is worth about 45 cents at present.

Another thing that could be said is, that the college flock of sheep is one of the best in the country. They are worth much more than market value which with the preponderance of evidence in favor of their usefulness should cause one to respect their happy attitude as they unconsciously work for our interests.

AN A. H. MAN.

Editor Collegian:

It seems to me that this idea of cursing the Ukes and saying all manner of things against them is getting to be something of a joke. I believe that most of the articles that are written against them are written more to draw attention, than for the reason that the writer really hates this Hawaiian invention.

I for one am getting tired of seeing something about the ukelele every time I pick up a paper. And now Professor Crawford has arrayed himself against this instrument of much discussion. Of course Professor Crawford would not write anything against the "uke" just for the mere love of writing and no doubt he has a just cause. He might have been that Prof. that broke his "uke" when the dog chased him, and has now become disgusted and disappointed with this instrument of the moonlight serenade.

Any way, Mr. Editor, I want to say that I for one will give the ukelele the right of way until another instrument comes to take the place of the Jews harp. As long as some love sick individual finds some satisfaction in trumming out his tale of love in this manner I can stand it. But here is hoping that when I get home this summer that the habit has not reached that little burg and that the fair sex will still invite you in to the piano and play a real Carle Jacobs Bond song.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

INTO LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

COLLEGE PEOPLE TO HEAR TO EASY-PAYMENT PLAN OF PURCHASING.

Two Mass Meetings, One for Faculty Members and Other Employees and the Other for Students, to be Addressed by President Waters.

College men and women will respond to the call of the liberty loan. A mass meeting of faculty members and other employees will be held this afternoon at which a plan will be explained which makes possible the purchase of bonds on easy terms. Tuesday a student mass meeting will be held during chapel hour for the same purpose.

The purpose of the meeting will be to focus attention on the liberty bonds, according to Dr. H. J. Waters. No attempt will be made to secure subscriptions. The proposition made by the First National bank of this city to allow purchase of the bonds in ten installments will be explained.

"Germany must not get any comfort out of our failure to have the loan subscribed in time," said President Waters. "Everything we do which tends to hearten the enemy will increase the bloodshed and financial expense required to win the war."

Patriotism Calls.
In addition to President Waters, Dean J. T. Willard and Dr. J. R. MacArthur will speak at the faculty meeting this afternoon.

"Patriotism and a deep sense of duty call us all to service," reads the call to the meeting. "Next in importance to the call to arms, to which our students must respond, is the call of the liberty loan. To keep the Kansas State Agricultural college at the front in active service, a mass meeting of all employees of the college is called in the old chapel on Friday afternoon, June 8, at 5 o'clock. You are most earnestly urged to attend this patriotic mass meeting."

"Since so many business concerns have made it possible for their employees to help America by purchasing liberty bonds on easy terms, arrangements are being made for employees of the college to secure the desired bonds on an easy payment plan—a plan which will appeal to every patriotic citizen."

HIGHEST GRADE TO AGGIES.

College Ranked First Last Year, and Men Will Rank the Same.

"In the inspection of college cadets last year, K. S. A. C. was given the highest score of any college in the United States and given the grade of one," said Captain Mathews, commandant of cadets, in his farewell talk to the students Tuesday morning at student assembly. Captain Mathews left Tuesday night to join the 42nd U. S. infantry at Fort Douglas, Utah.

"The military department at this college has sent three men to commissioned offices in the army, four to the marines, one to the navy and twenty to the regulars. After the war is over and the smoke of battle has cleared away it will be found that these men who go from K. S. A. C. will also be given the grade of one."

AGGIES ARE ON THE PROGRAM.

College Experts Will Address Cereal Conference.

The Third Annual Interstate Cereal conference will be held at Kansas City, June 12 to 14. Besides a number of specialists from the U. S. department of agriculture, six men are to represent the college. The experts, and their subjects, are:

L. A. Fitz, professor of milling industry, on the subject, "The Proportion of Flour and By-Products in Milling;" G. A. Dean, professor of entomology, "The Proportion of Grain and Milled Products from Insects in Storage;" L. E. Call, professor of agronomy, "Agriculture War Measures in Kansas;" Edwin C. Johnson, dean of the division of extension, "Waste in Cereal Product Production on the Farm;" G. E. Thompson, specialist in soil and crops, "Importance of Grain Sorghums in Kansas."

Clyde Key, junior in civil engineering, expects to spend the summer in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company. His work will be with the civil engineering corps, doing either construction or maintenance work.

NINE GO TO HERINGTON.

Farm Management Class on an Inspection Trip.

Nine men in the advanced farm management class, with W. E. Grimes in charge, expect to go to Herington Saturday to make a survey of farms in that vicinity.

Several former "Aggie" students will be visited while there, among them are Martin Shieds, '14, and Gehrke and Sons. Of the latter firm, three have been in attendance at the college. One is a graduate of the two years farmers short course, another has attended one year of the short course and expects to finish, while a third brother, Hiram, who is known to most students as the editor of the students' directory, enrolled in the four year college course but was married last winter while a sophomore.

This is the last trip that will be taken by the class this term.

CHOOSE THE FALL DEBATORS

A Squad of 37 Will Be Ready for the Talkfests Next Year.

The boys and girls debate squads for next year have been chosen. A total of 31 persons tried out June 1, 2 and 4, and of these 37 were selected. Those debaters who have won two "K's" in debate did not have to compete for their places.

The 21 girls who made the squad are as follows, without regard as to ranking: Miss Anna Roenig, Miss Ethel Arnold, Miss Blanche Sappenfeld, Miss Gladys Gail, Miss Ada Robertson, Miss Gussie Johnson, Miss Myrtle Gussellman, Miss Clara Reynolds, Miss Mollie Smith, Miss Helen Mitchell, Miss Lola Chaffee, Miss Elizabeth Circle, Miss Mary French, Miss Ruth Houghton, Miss Yvonne Wynette, Miss Dorothy Lush, Miss Lulu Zeller, Miss Olive Logerstrom, Miss Ella Stinson, Miss Dora Cate, and Miss Eloise Morrison.

The 16 boys who will be on the squad are H. Clyde Fisher, Calvin J. Medlin, Fred Carp, Paul Findley, T. R. Pharr, A. F. Swanson, C. O. Chubb, M. J. Lucas, Harry Moore, A. N. Burditt, Turner Barker, S. W. Honeywell, W. W. Houghton, Earl W. Frost, A. E. Herr and Samuel James.

There will be another tryout next fall to obtain more candidates for next year's squads. It can be readily seen that the men and women who have made the squads this spring, are not absolutely sure of a place on the college teams next year. They must keep ahead of any possible candidate for the positions on the teams. That means that much work must be done by the debaters this summer.

DAIRY JUDGES ON A TRIP.

Holton, Mayetta and Denison Were on Their Hilarity.

A trip was made by the advanced class in dairy judging last week. Two days were spent in inspecting the various herds near Mayetta, Holton and Denison. While at Holton the party was entertained at a banquet as guests of the Kansas Jersey Breeders' association. The next day they attended Lindscott's dispersion sale. At Topeka the state herd of Holsteins was inspected at the state asylum for feeble minded.

Those who made the trip with J. B. Fitch, assistant professor of dairy husbandry, were D. E. McLeod, Joe Gullege, I. K. Saum, J. R. Mingle, Harry Shaper, L. R. Brooks, W. D. Denholm and L. E. Williamson.

ON ANOTHER SURVEY TRIP.

Soil Experts Journey to Topeka and Vicinity Monday.

Nine men were on the soils survey trip to Topeka Monday. R. I. Throckmorton, assistant professor in soils, was in charge of the party. They journeyed north from Topeka in the morning and walked about 12 miles studying the glacial soils in this vicinity of which the Shelly is the predominant series.

The afternoon was spent south of Topeka in studying the soils formed from limestone and shale, of which the Crawford and Summit series were predominant with an occasional isolated glacial area.

THE NURSES CLASSES CLOSES.

Red Cross Certificates to be Granted Monday.

The Nurses' Training class of 20 girls which has been conducted by Miss Loula Kennedy held their last meeting Wednesday evening.

They will be given an examination Monday which if passed satisfactorily will entitle the members to a Red Cross certificate.

MISS EVANS OUT OF SERIES

FEROL STRATTON, STATE CHAMPION, ELIMINATES 1916 AGGIE STAR.

In Two Hard-Fought Sets, Last Year's Victor Suffers Defeat—Seven Co-eds Still Remain Running for the Championship of College.

Miss Florence Evans, champion girl tennis player in college last year, has been eliminated from the championship running. She met defeat at the hands of Miss Ferol Stratton, state tennis champion, in a hotly contested match this week. Miss Stratton won by 8-6 and 6-3 scores.

In addition to Miss Stratton, six other co-eds still remain in the running. They are Esther Joss, Hattie Bryan, Sarella Herrick, Ruth Thomas, Betty Cotton, and the winner of the Margaret Etzold-Kether Charles match.

The following matches were played off this week:

Esther Joss won from Dorothy Hammond, 6-0, 6-1.

Ferol Stratton won from Florence Evans, 8-6, 6-3.

Hattie Bryan won from Thelma Beem, 6-0, 6-1.

Margaret Etzold and Esther Charles, no results yet.

Sarella Herrick won from Adda Middleton, default.

Ruth Thomas won from Mildred Arends, default.

Betty Cotton won from Bethel Nelson, 6-1, 6-4.

The next round will eliminate two from the upper bracket of the drawings, and two from the lower, leaving four girls to go into the semi-finals.

Y. W. "BIG SISTERS" PLAN.

Discuss Ways and Means of Entertaining Freshmen in Fall.

The "Big Sisters" of the Y. W. C. A. for next fall held an indoor picnic supper and meeting Wednesday evening to plan for the work that is to be carried on, beginning with September. The aim of these Big Sisters, 225 in number, is to look after the freshmen who enter college in the fall.

The evening program consisted of devotional services by Miss Grace Derby, a talk by Miss Estella Root on "The Responsibility of Being a Big Sister," a short address by Mrs. L. E. Melchers, Big Sister Advisor, and the explanation of the policy of the organization by Miss Mildred Inskeep.

$100 SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED

Miss Lola Sloop Will Assist in Debating Next Year.

The girls' debating scholarship for next year was awarded to Miss Lola Sloop, sophomore in home economics, at the annual debaters' banquet held at Harrison's Tuesday evening. All the college debaters both old and new, who are now in school, with a few exceptions, were present at the banquet. At this affair each year the scholarships and "K's" are presented.

The scholarship is an annual scholarship of $100 and requires the work of the scholar for the coming year in research and coaching for the girls of the squads. It was held this year by Miss Mae Sweet, senior in home economics. Miss Sloop is secretary of the debating council and president of the Forum.

The men's scholarship, which was held by Floyd Hawkins this year, has not yet been awarded for next year, because of the uncertainty as to which of those eligible for it will be called out by the selective draft.

Those who received their "K" for debate this year were: Margaret King, H. H. Nelson, Ward Petrow, Oscar Steanson, Harry Moore, Gussie Johnson, Marie Johnston, Jewel Sappenfeld, Blanche Sappenfeld, Ethel Arnold, H. Clyde Fisher, Paul Findley, Fred Carp, A. F. Swanson, L. R. Hatt, T. R. Pharr, Lucile Norwood, Calvin Medlin, Lois Bellamy, Helen Mitchell, C. W. Howart.

Six in Violin Recital.

The last recital of Professor Brown's violin students for this term was given yesterday afternoon. It was a short but pleasing program each number being well played.

Those taking part were: Miss Clara Higgins, Helen Newman, Edith Walsh, Josie Long, Fern Preston and T. Skoog.

SENIORS BUY LIBERTY BONDS

K. U.'s PURCHASE OUTDONE BY AGGIES, WHO WILL BUY SIX.

Money Intended for a Memorial Will Be Loaned to Uncle Sam Until Normal Conditions Are Restored, When Memorial Will Be Constructed.

Patriotism ran rampant at the senior class meeting yesterday. The class brought the meeting to a final climax by voting to buy liberty bonds with the money they had intended to use for the purchase of a memorial.

The funds available for the purchase of the bonds will probably be about $300, or enough to buy six of the $50 bonds. Thus the Aggie seniors will make the purchase of a single bond by the Kansas university senior class pale into insignificance in comparison.

The purchase of the liberty bonds does not mean that a memorial will not be left. There will be one, but not until normal conditions have been restored in the country, when the $300 bonds will be sold. Then the amount, together with the interest at 3 1/2 per cent, which in itself will amount to more than $50 for five years, will be placed in the hands of a committee of three seniors for the purchase of a suitable memorial.

The seniors expect to raise the money through three sources. Gifts from the Royal Purple are expected to supply half the funds, and the remainder will be raised by assessments and by profits from the senior play.

A Temporary Memorial.

But the seniors are not going to leave the institution minus something to remember the class of 1917 for the long period of five years or the end of the war. The present memorial committee, of which C. D. Thomas is chairman, will purchase a temporary memorial. This may be a bronze or copper plate, which will explain that the class of 1917 bought $300 worth of liberty bonds, instead of erecting a memorial. The location of the plate may be in Anderson hall.

The entire matter of the erection of the permanent memorial will be left in the hands of the committee, which will be composed of a senior woman, a senior man and a member of the faculty. The co-ed will be the chairman, due to the possibility of subscription making inroads on the male membership.

Practice Economy.

In addition to being patriotic, the seniors are being economical. A memorial built now, according to one member of the class, would cost twice as much as one built when normal prices are restored in the country after the war.

REMODEL VEGETABLE HOUSE.

Benches and Steam Pipes are Being Changed Around.

The vegetable house of the greenhouse is being remodeled. The benches are being rebuilt and the steam pipes that formerly hung to the underside of the benches are now being anchored to the side of the wall. By this means the benches are expected to stand longer because of the lightening of their load.

As soon as the work is completed a part of the house will be set to "mum" the robust chrysanthemum that adorns the popular co-ed at the great football games of the fall.

CO-EDS TO EUREKA TOMORROW.

Last Hike of Athletic Association Meet in Gymnasium.

A hike to Eureka lake has been planned by the Girls' Athletic association for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The hikers will meet in the girls' gymnasium. This is a credit hike and will be the last one for the term. All girls who wish to go are to sign the announcement posted in the gymnasium.

Winship to Fort Snelling.

Ernest C. Winship, former instructor of English in the college, is now training at the Ft. Snelling, Minn., camp, according to word received by one of Mr. Winship's former associates in the department. AGGIES WANTED IN THE AIR.

Trained Men Are in Demand for Aeronautical Service in U. S. A.

College men, especially athletes, are badly needed by Uncle Sam in the aeronautical service. A plea for men capable of operating aeroplanes has been received by President Waters from Brig. Gen. George O. Squier, chief signal officer, U. S. A.

The communication follows: "Age limit for army air service has been reduced to 19 years. Your assistance in getting this information into the hands of your best military students will be greatly appreciated. Air service needs athletes who are quick-witted, punctual, and thoroughly reliable. Men accustomed to making quick decisions are highly desirable. Men who ride well, can sail a fast boat, or run a motorcycle make good air pilots."

A COLLEGE MIXER SATURDAY

FORT RILEY MEN TO BE THE GUESTS OF STUDENT ON THAT NIGHT.

Pop Concert and Dancing Are the Two Forms of Entertainment—First Regiment Marine Band to Make Its Farewell Appearance.

College students, faculty members and visitors from the Fort Riley training camp will "mix" at a get-together free affair to be given Saturday night in Nichols gymnasium. Profits from the subscription dances given by students the past three weeks have amounted to enough that the expenses of a mixer can be paid out of the accumulated funds.

A "pop concert" in charge of Prof. A. E. Westhook, and dancing, will be the forms of entertainment provided. The concert will probably be first on the program, after which Burr Ozmert's cadet band, which will be the First Regiment Marine band with in a few days, will play. It will be the farewell appearance in Manhattan of "Burr Ozmert's boys," as the band is locally known.

A special effort will be made to secure as large an attendance as possible from the Fort Riley camp. Most of the men in attendance at the camp are former college or university men, and every Aggie student who is in touch with one of the training camp men is expected to invite him to be present, although it is hoped that many will attend without invitation.

A baseball game between the Aggies and a picked team from the fort is the afternoon's bill. The officers are said to have a number of college stars and ex-league players among them, and should give the Cleveland nine a good battle. The training camp men have not accepted the challenge yet, but a notice will be posted on the Anderson hall bulletin today or tomorrow regarding the game.

If the training camp men are unable to play, a game between the Vets and the Ags is a possibility. The latter were taken to a trouncing when the two teams met two weeks ago and out for revenge. The mixer, which is to be free, will commence at 8:30 o'clock, and the baseball game, at which no admission will be charged either, will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

A WORTH-WHILE IDEA.

Very, very highly commendable is the decision of the senior class to postpone the erection of a memorial, using the money that was to be spent for that purpose for a much nobler one: purchasing liberty bonds. Whoever thought of the idea used rare judgment.

It is time for the drive on the high school students to start. A personal letter home to that student who hasn't decided what he will do next year may swing the balance in favor of K. S. A. C. Isn't it worth effort?

A college newspaper editorial writer calls on his readers to "use common sense." This brings up a question on which we have long been at sea: why do they call such an uncommon thing as common sense common?

Seniors May Prepare for War on Campus

The college is keeping pace with the warfare by various organizations and exemptions from college work to soldiers and farmers. In this day of submarines, aeroplanes and trenches it has been suggested that the seniors be given some tactics of warfare before their departure out into the battle of life. This might be extended to commencement exercises. Heretofore demurs co-eds, stately engineers, and dignified vets have all donned the black robes and solemnly marched across the stage.

A broad shouldered, six-foot, ag looks forward with apprehension to having a black gown flop about his knees as he walks across the stage to receive his scroll of scholarship, suggests a change of garb. A military uniform would probably be more appropriate to war and woman's suffrage.

A taste of submarine life might be had by a trip through the tunnel which drains the athletic field. Next the cannon might be fired, then ascending to the lower regions at the gymnasium, follow the underground tunnels to the "Vet" buildings. From this they will get an idea of the trenches.

Practical surgical experience can be had at the "Vet" building. Each member might then place a flag on the water tower to accustom him to dizzy heights.

An overland march to the auditorium would next be in order. After the address a genuine aeroplane experience might be accomplished in a slide down the fire escape with the president present to present their degrees as they descend one by one.

He had just come three days before to Fort Riley from Colorado, and really, he didn't know very much about it. This young gentleman in training was sitting on the ground behind the barracks, idly smoking a cigarette, when a major passed by. The private only glanced casually at his superior officer. The major turned sharply around. "Why didn't you salute?" he said.

"I didn't know you could salute while you were sitting down."

The chief thought he would give him another chance. "How long have you been here?"

"Three days. How long have you been here?"

In 1898, the newspapers were running jokes like this one, which probably was clipped from a paper of 1861, which in turn was no doubt taken from those of 1847, etc., etc.

"John," said the sweet young thing to her steady, "why don't you enlist?"

"Why darling, you wouldn't want me to go to war and get killed would you?"

"No, but then you might learn the use of arms."

Electricity Does Cafeteria's Work

Speaking of machinery, have you been through the cafeteria kitchen at ten thirty a. m. when practically all the machinery, electrical and otherwise, is in operation? All the cooking is done by gas or steam and the greater part of the preparation and finishing touches are done with electricity.

A potato peeler run by electricity pares a bushel of potatoes in one and a half minutes. Two huge steam soup kettles will cook from two to three bussels of potatoes at one time. Practically all the vegetables and ag root deal of the meat is cooked by steam.

No one needs to worry over hands roughened by dishwashing for an electric dishwasher operated by one person takes care of this.

But the most useful oppartus in the cafeteria is the electrical kitchen machine which operates at any desired speed. It consists of various beaters for different purposes which whirl in dep bowls.

It has beaters for bread mixing, beaters for whipping cream, beaters for making frosting, beaters for making purees for soup, beaters for mixing cakes, and beaters for mashing potatoes.

Forty or more loaves of bread can be mixed at one time. Ten cakes can be beaten by simply pressing the button. Three or four dozen eggs can be beaten in no longer time than it takes the ordinary housewife to eat two or three and without any effort.

The thick frosting on the cakes which is frequently commented upon is made in this machine. Such thick and delicious "goodness" is impossible to achieve without the aid of such an apparatus.

CAMPUS CHAT.

H. B. Walker of the department of engineering was in Clay Center yesterday conferring with the county commissioners concerning the drainage of a public road near Morganville.

The advanced stock judging class accompanied by Dr. C. W. McCampbell, associate professor of animal husbandry, left Thursday morning to attend Steglin's Hereford sale at Holton.

Victor Mead, a former student in electrical engineering who withdrew from college a month ago, is now a draftsman in the Union Metallic Cartridge Company at Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Iverett Stearns, freshman in electrical engineering, has withdrawn from school. He will return to his home in Towanda where he will work for the Bell Telephone company this summer.

Raymond Schafer returned to his home in Washington Thursday, after spending the past week attending the convention of county agents. Mr. Schafer is county agent of Washington county.

Miss Minnie Bequist and Miss Alice Foulter, specialists in home economics in the division of extension, are conducting an extension school in food preparation two and sewing two at Herington this week.

R. C. Rice, district engineer of the United States geological survey, is in Manhattan working with the engineering department in regard to locating a river gaging station on the Kaw river, near Manhattan.

The store room in the basement of the gymnasium is now being enlarged. A partition is being removed. It has been found that the room as it was before was not large enough for the storing of athletic goods.

Mr. A. Q. Miller of Belleville, chairman of the state board of corrections, spent Tuesday evening in Manhattan visiting his sons, Lloyd and Carl Miller, freshman in civil engineering and freshman in industrial journalism, respectively.

RIMES AND POEMS.

A MAY-BASKET.

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I studied weak and wear,
Over many a lesson that I should have got before,

While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
As of some one gently rapping, rapping at the outer door.

"Tis some visitor," I muttered, "tapping at the outer door.
Only this and nothing more."

I almost forgot to say that 'twas in the month of May
And I must my head with knowledge cram to prepare for tomorrow's exams.

How I dreaded the tomorrow! Vainly I had tried to borrow Notebooks from my friend Lenore. Nameless here forevermore.

And the silken sad uncertain rustling of each window curtain
Thrilled me—filled me with fantastic terrors never felt before;

So that now, to still the beating of my heart, I stood repeating
"Tis some visitor entreating entrance at the outer door,

Some late visitor entreating entrance at the outer door.
This it is and nothing more."

Presently my soul grew stronger; hesitating then no longer,

"Sir," said I, "or madam, truly your forgiveness I implore;
But the fact is I was napping, and so gently you came rapping,

That I scarce was sure I heard you,"—here I opened wide the door.
Darkness there and nothing more.

Back into my chamber turning, all my soul within me yearning
Soon again I heard a tapping somewhat louder than before.

"Surely," said I, "surely that is something at my window lattice;
Let me see, then, what therewith is, and this mystery explore.

Let my heart be still a moment and this mystery explore;
'Tis the wind and nothing more."

Open here I flung the shutter when with many a flirt and flutter,
In there flew a bunch of flowers like I'd never seen before.

Not a second I debated; not a minute stopped or waited;

Put as fast as I could make it beat it through the outer door.
Ran and ran, and ran some more.

To a shadow fleeing through space, I immediately gave chase.

Up dark alleys we availed, but with courage still undaunted,
Presently I heard a crashing as of something rudely smashing.

And on the ground there sprawled the cause of this rude brawl,
And all because of a tin can I could hear a gentle "damn!"

Only this and nothing more.

Suddenly there came o'er me fear of what I had before me
And with no deliberation and with increased acceleration,

I turned and ran some more on the way I'd come before.
I could hear footsteps close behind me, and they served but to remind me

Of the hurry I was in and of what might have been.
As at last I clutched the door, I quoth hoarsely:

"Nevermore!"

The Rain Drops (Verse Libre.)

(With apologies to Amy Lowell.)
Great big rain drops,
Liquid globs of moisture
Bursting through gray firmament
Like young ponds.
Damp, scent'd, sky-pools
Dropping on earth-grasses,
Melting the soft dust.

Great big rain drops
Cool gentle wet things, you nearly drown me!

EACH IS TO DO HIS PART

THERE MUST BE NO SLACKERS, SAYS DR. WATERS.

Universal Training Is the Best Way to Raise a Military Force—Volunteers a Failure.

It is not fair to let five per cent of the population of the United States fight this war with Germany while the remainder sit back and enjoy themselves, declared Dr. H. J. Waters when speaking to the student assembly Tuesday, the day of registration.

"Every one who does not make some sacrifice in enabling the Allies in winning the war is a slacker," said Doctor Waters. "Today will go down in history as the day when universal training was established in the United States. And I thank God that today we have established a system that has been shown by the mistakes of England to be the best way to create an efficient fighting force."

"A man cannot claim universal rights in this country unless he is willing to give a universal service. If a man is not willing to add his country with his services, money, and even life, he does not deserve his nation's protection."

"The volunteer system such as was used by England at the beginning of the war is the most wasteful system that could be adopted. It robs the nation and its industries of men who would be of more benefit to their country by remaining in productive labor."

"I want Captain Mathews as he leaves today," concluded the president, "and the band men as they leave Monday and those men who will register today, to know as they go into the war that they have every man and woman in this country supporting them in the establishment of the world wide liberty and democracy."

Track men will elect the track captain for 1918 Saturday afternoon in "Germany" Schultz's office. All "K" men on track are requested to be present at the athletic office at 3 o'clock. Those men who will not be able to be present are requested to send their vote to "Germany" so that it will reach him Friday, June 8.

The Aggie prospects for athletic teams next fall fell lower when the college band enlisted in the marine corps. "Bill" Knostman, a letter man in basketball, and a man who would much be needed next year, and Frank Dale, a member of the freshman squad, who had good prospects of making a strong man next year, are both members of the band which leaves here Monday for the front.

Coach Cleveland has not received word from the front in regard to the challenge for a baseball game here Saturday between the Aggies and the reserve officers. It is likely that they will play from what may be learned from the baseball enthusiasts at the front.

Unless war conditions should make other action imperative, it is a virtual certainty that there will be intercollegiate athletics this fall. This much developed from the conference of graduate managers, held in New York last week in connection with the meeting of the central board of football officials. All of the big eastern universities with the exception of Yale, together with many minor colleges, were represented.

Every delegate was asked to outline his views and the situation at his particular institution. At the end of the discussion it seemed to be the sentiment of those present that they should perfect their plans for intercollegiate athletic competition as extensively as conditions permit. But since there is to be a meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association in Washington in August, it was voted to take no definite action until this meeting. All the delegates were urged to have official representatives at the coming session of the N. C. A. A., which includes all the leading colleges of the country, so that this body might commit itself to some definite program and be a guide for individual colleges.—Old Penn.

Will Strason, of Oklahoma City, is visiting Miss Edna Hollenbeck, of the extension department.

It doesn't take a baseball uniform to help determine your batting average; you're making a record every day in the way you spend your money. Efficiency is the score board and the umpire is called Results. Now play ball!

You're buying clothes. Value is the ball, keep your eyes on it. Don't heed the cry of low prices, it's quality that counts. Watch out for "curves" that try to get around quality; wait for a straight one, right to the plate; quality that never wavers or dodges or falls.

It is the uniformly high quality in

THE GIRLS ARE WOODWORKERS.

Preparing to Take the Place of Men—Make Cedar Chests.

If any one has a doubt as to women being able to take the places of men who are to be called away, he might visit the woodwork department where he will find a class of girls finishing up their term's work.

They have made book cases, magazine racks, taboretts, stands and porch swings and other useful pieces of furniture. But the favorite piece of work this term seems to be the making of cedar chests. Nine girls are working hard to finish their chests before the end of the term.

Theory Into Practice.

Miss Arminia Holman, assistant in home art, had two of her classes in home decoration put their knowledge into practice by decorating two of the furniture store windows Saturday down town.

CAPS AND GOWNS HERE FRIDAY.

Seniors Who Have Not Ordered Have One More Chance.

The caps and gowns for seniors and postgraduates will arrive Friday according to the cap and gown committee. They may be secured at the Co-operative book store, as soon as they arrive.

A deposit of $3.50 is required, but $1.50 of this amount will be returned when the caps and gowns are brought back. The rental on masters' caps and gowns is slightly higher.

Several extra outfits have been ordered by the committee. Students who have not been measured should send their names to the committee at once, or, better yet, go to the book store and get measured. Their measurements will be placed on file in the order taken, and then filled as near as possible from the extras ordered.

A CONFERENCE HERE JUNE 18.

Smith-Hughes Act Will be a Topic of Discussion.

Principals, superintendents, and others interested will meet in force at the Kansas State Agricultural college Thursday, June 18, to discuss the question of organizing Kansas high schools to meet the conditions of the Smith-Hughes act, which will make possible increased activity in vocational lines.

David Snedden, professor of education sociology, Teachers' college, Columbia university, New York, will be one of the speakers. Prof. Snedden, when commissioner of education for Massachusetts, started the movement for state supported independent vocational schools. He will speak on "Current Problems of Vocational Education."

Other speakers will include W. D. Ross, state superintendent of public instruction; A. A. Potter, dean, division of engineering; Dr. W. M. Jardine, dean, division of agriculture; Mrs. Mary Pierce Van Zile, dean, division of home economics.

"CAF" FEEDS 100 THOUSAND

And Receipts at College Eating Place Near $20,000.

By figures compiled by the cafeteria and the class in accounting, some interesting data is given out.

From the opening of the cafeteria in October 1915 to the close of the summer term in July, 1916, there were 105,048 persons served and the total receipts were $19,516.95 during this time. Only two meals were served during this time up to the summer term when three were served.

The average number served per day was 431, with average receipt per capita of 18.5 cents. The average cost per capita was 17.9 cents, making a profit of six mills per person. Of the cost 62.4 percent was for food and 37.5 per cent went for labor, gas, ice, and other expenses. Light, heat and rent were free.

The accounts have not yet been made up for this year but the manager estimates that twice as many have been served as last year. At present approximately $90 are being served a day.

Y. W. GIRLS TO GO SOON.

Hollister, Mo., Is Site of This Year's Summer Camp.

"Off to Hollister" is the by-word of twelve K. S. A. C. co-eds who are to leave here Thursday, June 14, as delegates to the summer conference of the Young Women's Christian association which opens at Hollister, Mo., in the Ozarks, June 15.

The girls are now bustling around preparing for examinations that must be taken a week early, with an occasional remembrance of ten June days in the Ozarks. The delegates who are to go from this college are, Miss Mildred Inskip, Nell Wilkie, Ruth Thomas, Mary Mason, May Rich, Helen Stewart, Ravina Brown, Helen Harbaugh, Lura Harbaugh, Florence Mitchell, Pauline Richards, and Genevieve Bruce.

The summer conference is made up entirely of student representatives of the Y. W. C. A., Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Nebraska comprise the states that will send delegates to the camp. In former years the meeting has been held at Estes Park, but has been transferred to Hollister for this summer. The attendance each year averages between 400 and 500.

Colleges of the other states included in the conference have closed the year's work. Owing to the later closing of this college the delegates from here are being permitted to arrange for early finals.

EXAMS DURING SUMMER SCHOOL.

Old Work May Be Made Up—Given for Older People Wanting Credit.

Entrance examinations to be held the first Monday of the summer school will enable college students who have not yet made up their entrance requirements to finish up their old work. The examinations, which have never before been given during the summer school, were especially planned for the benefit of mature people wanting to have credit towards entering college. J. V. Cortelyou is in charge, and should be seen regarding the examinations.

Maybe They Will Be There.

To be or not to be is the motto of the apary class. They expect to attend the Northwestern Reckless association at Topeka today where J. H. Merrill, instructor of the class, will be on the program.

AGGIE BAND BOYS ARE OFF

DEPARTURE TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY—WILL STOP IN ST. LOUIS.

Crack Military Unit Will Carry the Purple and White With Them to France—A Farewell Concert Saturday—Band to Continue.

Burr Ozment and his First Regiment band of the United States Marine service left yesterday morning for Philadelphia where they will enter their period of training before they will be ready to go to France. A crowd of the loyal Aggies were at the depot to bid the departing musicians a hearty farewell and to wish them luck in all their adventures before good fortune will put them again in our midst.

The band will stop at St. Louis en route for Philadelphia and lead a parade for the Commercial club of that city. When the recruiting officers had returned to St. Louis and informed the Commercial club of their success in recruiting this band, a telegram was immediately sent Director Ozment asking him if his band could participate in a parade there. Mr. Ozment replied that they would do so.

College colors will be allowed in the parade and the Purple and White will be shown with the same old spirit that has led the band on many an athletic tour then playing loyally for K. S. A. C. now playing as loyally for Uncle Sam.

Following are the men who compose the band as it is now organized:

R. F. Rodgers, W. H. McClure, F. T. Scriven, F. J. Hanna, R. B. Losh, J. G. Kidney, F. C. Miller, O. F. Fisher, E. H. Barger, C. L. Bonnet, W. W. Trego, Wm. Knostman, D. E. Dewey, K. E. Richardson, Joe Heldt, J. G. Falkenstein, Clarence A. Peacock, A. C. Jones, John Guldridge, J. L. Landon, E. L. Tebb, O. S. Brower, M. D. Bruner, G. W. Fisher, Omar Van Parthe, F. C. Dale, P. J. Hill, C. E. Webb.

Saturday night the band played its farewell concert for Manhattan, college students, and soldiers, at the dance and mixer held in the gymnasium. One of the largest crowds ever seen in the gymnasium danced to the music of the Aggie band. The soldiers responded royally to the invitation of the college to come and mix with K. S. A. C. folk.

As a token of pride and esteem for the band and its action in joining the colors, the members of the Etk lodge of Manhattan presented Mr. Ozment, who is a member of the local lodge, with a beautiful baton made of ebony and ivory and mounted with gold. Mr. Ozment expressed his high appreciation of the gift.

Although K. S. A. C. has lost Mr. Ozment and the greater part of his band, the college will not be without a band to play for military parade.

From the men who are left of the original band and others who have volunteered, the military department has secured enough players to form a band to play for the dress parade to be held Commencement day.

THE SEMI-FINALS IN TENNIS

Girls' Tournament Narrows Down From 40 to Four Contestants.

Only four girls remain in the girls' tennis tournament. Preliminary matches have narrowed the field down from the original list of 39 girls and only Ferol Stratton, Hattie Bryan, Sarella Herick and Betty Cotton remain in the running.

Ferol Stratton, state champion, had an easy time winning from Esther Joss. The sets resulted 6-0, 6-6. The hardest match of the round, that between Sarella Herick and Ruth Thomas, went three sets before a decision was reached. Miss Herick was victorious, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

Hattie Bryan won her match with Margaret Etyold, and Grace Sullivan lost by default to Betty Cotton.

The semi-finals find Ferol Stratton matched against Hattie Bryan, and Sarella Herick scheduled to meet Betty Cotton. The winners of these two matches will go into the finals.

Pamphlets from the League to Enforce Peace may be had at the office of Dean Jardine. The purpose of the league is to establish international tribunals whereby all disputes may be brought for consideration.

12 GIRLS WILL BE LEADERS

V. W. Grants Commissions for Summer Community Work.

This summer is not to be all vacation for at least twelve girls from K. S. A. C. Twelve commissions were presented to just as many girls on Thursday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. meeting authorizing them as leaders of eight-week study clubs among the girls of their home communities.

Preparatory classes for this club work have been conducted by four instructors in the home economics division. Miss Ethel Jones, has held a class in art needlework, Miss Alice Skinner and Miss Josephine Perry in social forms, Miss Lula Kennedy in first aid, and Miss Rebecca Bartholomew has conducted a class in home problems. A four weeks' course was offered in these subjects followed by a Bible study class taught by Mrs. L. E. Melchers later in the term.

Twenty girls were enrolled for the work. The students who did not take the course for the purpose of home clubs, enrolled for the aid that it would give them in teaching.

The eight-week study clubs are organized usually among the girls of the high school age in rural and small town communities.

The girls who received commissions as leaders are: Miss Ruth McMaray of Darlow, Miss Alma Richart of Nickerson, Miss Eunice Baird of Cherryvale, Miss Myrtle Johnson of El Dorado, Miss Frances Russell of Scott City, Miss Pearl Althouse of Ottawa, Miss Vera Almstead of Moran, Miss Abbie Burnaux of Morland, Miss Mollie Smith of Westphalia, Miss Cora Winget of Jennings, Miss Ravina Brown of Lawrence, and Miss Leona Hoag of Ionia.

FORT RILEY TEAM WAS BUSY.

Aggies Won a 7 to 2 Victory in Five-Inning Combat.

The Aggie baseball team defeated the baseball team from Fort Riley Saturday afternoon on the college field, 7 to 2. Last week Coach Cleveland sent a challenge to the fort for a game here Saturday. They accepted the challenge but failed to send a team so the men that were here from the fort picked a team from their bunch and played the varsity.

Hewey, the former Aggie star twirler, was on the mound for the Fort Riley men. Magrath, the other star Aggie twirler, was on the mound for the Aggies.

The game lasted but five innings owing to a late start. The Aggies scored four runs in the first and three in the fourth innings. The opponent's scores came in the latter part of the game. Another game may be scheduled between the two teams before the close of school.

DYKSTRA IS "YET" EXAMINER.

Kansas Graduates Are Sought for Important Branch of Army Service.

Prospective Kansas recruits for the United States army veterinary reserve corps will be examined by Dr. R. R. Dykstra, who has been appointed special examiner. The government has asked for 2,000 volunteers and it is hoped that a large number of Kansas graduates in veterinary medicine will respond to the call.

Examinations may be taken at any time. Application blanks may be had by applying to Doctor Dykstra.

WENDT IN CLAEREN'S PLACE

COMMANDANT IS CALLED INTO ACTIVE SERVICE AT FT. RILEY.

In the Absence of Any Regularly Detailed Officer, Pres. Waters Appoints Assistant in Applied Mechanics to the Position.

Capt. E. L. Claeren, who was appointed acting commandant after the departure of Capt. L. O. Mathews, has been withdrawn from his detail here. Orders received by Captain Claeren Saturday ordered him to report at Fort Riley within five days. He will report Wednesday.

W. D. Wendt, assistant professor of applied mechanics, and who has had 15 years of experience in handling military affairs at the Michigan Agricultural college, has been nominally appointed by Pres. H. J. Waters to take the place made vacant by Captain Claeren. The new commandant has also had practical experience as a member of the Michigan National Guards.

Captain Claeren expressed regret at leaving the college with which he has been associated for seven years, although he is glad to be of service to his country.

"I am sorry to go," was his statement, "If God Almighty lets me come back, I'll come back."

Captain Claeren wears a campaign service badge decorated for service in the Guanamo (New Mexico) and Sioux Indian campaigns, the Spanish-American war, where he participated in the battle of San Juan, the Philippines insurrection and the army of Cuban pacification. He was in the Philippines four years and spent more than two years in Cuba. He was retired in March, 1910, as a commissary sergeant, U. S. A.

His detail here commenced April 22, 1910, when, at the request of President Waters, he was sent by the war department to become assistant to the commandant. He was commissioned a captain in quartermasters, U. S. R., April 14.

Captain Claeren said good-bye to his many college friends yesterday afternoon.

"I want every man from Manhattan and the college, no matter who he is, to look me up over at the fort," was Captain Claeren's parting statement to the cadet officers.

BIXBY GETS A COMMISSION.

Provisional Second Lieutenantcy Is Awarded to Former Aggie.

Harold Bixby, a former student at K. S. A. C., and who for the past month has been in active service at Fort Riley as a second lieutenant reserve officer, received notification the last of the week from Newton G. Baker, secretary of war, that his application and examination had been favorably viewed and that his name had been recommended to congress that he be granted a commission in the regular army as a second lieutenant.

Mr. Bixby has been interested in military work for a number of years and while in college he made an enviable record in the military department. In 1914 he won the gold medal for being the best drilled cadet and the following year was given a government model revolver for having the best drilled company. He was a member of Company I, of the Kansas National Guards, holding the rank of Sergeant while doing border work last summer. He was an expert rifleman and was a member of the college rifle team each year in school. He was a junior in engineering, a member of the Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity and the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Mr. Bixby's work so far at the training camp has been of the highest value in training new men. He is one who will always bring honor and glory to his city and college and a classmate of whom we may well be proud.

FIRST INTO FRANCE.

The scene is a "Seaport of France," possibly Calais. The time is late July, or early August. The event is the landing of the Pershing expedition, carrying America's pledge to the Old World that the New World will battle unceasingly for freedom.

Out on the bay the transports, just arrived from America slowly maneuver up to a place at the dock. A welcoming throng of Frenchmen, numbering among them government officials, war chiefs and peasants, crowds up to the first boat as it swings up to its position and lowers a gang plank.

Down the gang plank marches the first regiment of American soldiers to step on French soil. They are marines, "soldiers off the sea." Heading the entire column, heading the entire expedition, marches a band, OUR band, "Burr Omen's boys," composed of Kansas Aggies—and proud of it, too.

Of course we could go on with the picture. But it isn't necessary. If—always counting the "if"—if present plans are not changed, this group of 29 Kansas Aggies will take a position back of the American sector of the firing line. Their music will cheer the wounded and hearten and inspire the unwounded. Perhaps this band, which only last week "passed in review" on the college parade grounds, will march before President Poincaré, of France.

It means Kansans—and especially Kansas Aggies—are again out in front. The state which furnished the largest per capita quota in the Civil war, the state that sent the "Fighting Twentieth" under Funston to the Philippines—this same state is now furnishing Uncle Sam with his initial landing unit.

Bully for Kansas. Bully for K. S. A. C. And bully for Burr Omen and his "boys." They worked hard—and are rewarded.

AN EARLIER ROYAL PURPLE.

The Royal Purples will be out Friday, announces the committee. Other colleges and universities received their class books all the way from two weeks to a month and a half ago.

This isn't meant as a personal criticism of the members of the committee. Henry Adams has sacrificed almost all his time to getting out the book. Others have done the same. The trouble is in the system, or the lack of one, which allows the work to drag until the last few months. And then no one can help.

Although it is precedent at K. S. A. C. to issue the book at the very last moment, The Collegian believes that not the will of the students, but a rush of unexpected delays, has always been the cause. In the future why can not the work get under way earlier, and then why can't the book get out earlier? It would double, perhaps triple, the value of the book.

Being unable to write an ORIGINAL sarcastic jab intended for the fellow who greets you with a "Hot enough for you?" these days, we mercifully refrain from writing any.

In order to get a date the men who are left at K. S. A. C. have to put on a soldier's uniform and talk about

ENGINEERING COURSES POPULAR

Nearly Two Thousand Have Received Instruction in Division.

One thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight students here in college have received training in some division of engineering during the past three terms. Three hundred forty-six students enrolled in civil, electrical, mechanical, architecture or agricultural engineering are regular engineering students. The rest are students that have elected engineering subjects or that have taken engineering short course work. About one-fourth of the enrollment of the college this year have been regular engineering students.

The following shows the number of students enrolled in engineering subjects and the division from which they are from:

Regular college students pursuing courses in civil, electrical, mechanical, architecture, or agricultural engineering—346.

Regular college students from the division of agriculture—233.

Regular college students from the division of general science—208.

Regular college students from the division of home economics—274.

Short course students enrolled in mechanics arts short course—191.

Short course students enrolled in Farmers' short course—288.

Short course students enrolled in creamery short course—14.

Students enrolled in mechanics arts course, school of agriculture—34.

Students enrolled in agricultural course, school of agriculture (first year)—63.

Students enrolled in home economics short course and school of agriculture—87.

This leaves a total of 1838 students who have been enrolled in some engineering subject during the past three terms.

A MUSIC RECITAL TODAY.

Advanced Students Are to Take Part in a Program.

An innovation in music will be the recital of Miss Easter's class of advanced students of the piano, in the auditorium at 5 o'clock this afternoon. This is the first time that a recital has been given at the college wherein all the participants are strictly advanced in the work.

Corrine Sweet will play the "Mendelssohn G Minor Concerto," with Miss Easter. Bess Curry and Gertie Cope will render a very attractive two piano number, "Au Matin," by Chaminade. Myrtle Broberg, Francis Stall, Lulu Berger and Inez Backman each will play a group of numbers.

Students and faculty are cordially invited to attend.

DOROTHY DIX, FAMOUS AUTHOR, PRAISES "IDLE WIVES."

Dorothy Dix, the famous author, recently wrote a letter to Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley, photoplay producers of James Oppenheim's novel, "Idle Wives," which comes to the Warehouse theater on Friday, June 15.

"I want to see 'Idle Wives' the other night," said Miss Dix, "and enjoyed it very much indeed. It is one of the most appealing and human dramas I have ever seen, and the best exponent of the incalculable power of the moving picture as an influence for good."

"The thing that got me was not the story itself, but the wonderful framing you gave it—the discontented husband and wife, the quarreling family with nothing to brighten their sordid lives or to give them new thoughts, the boy and girl on the verge of the precipice—all of whom are lifted out of themselves, saved, turned back by having their danger visualized before them, by having new thoughts presented to them by the magic reel."

"The Bible says that salvation is without money and without price. Believe me, I think that the moving pictures have cut the price of salvation down to 19 cents, and that's putting it in the reach of the poorest."

"Idle Wives" is a great sermon. There's no human being who won't be better for seeing it."

To Watch Ft. Riley Methods.

The lunch room management class will carry out the preparedness attitude by visiting Fort Riley this week to study food problems in soldiers' camps. The class will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Hargart, professor in domestic science, and Prof. and Mrs. Coehel.

"THE NINETY AND NINE"

Greater Vitaphone offers Lucile La Stewart and William Courtney in this production. A big, clean, wholesome theme adapted from the stage version of the above story by Ramsey Norris, founded on fact—the heroic deed of an engineer on a western railroad who ran his train through a forest fire. Marshall Theatre, Tuesday, June 12th.

RHYMES AND POEMS.

"There's one thing certain,"
Says old Mr. Peck,
"A boil on the stove is Worth two on the neck."

And here is one speleled
By old Uncle Jack,
"A crick in the field
Is worth two in the back."

Said old Uncle Jap,
And what he says goes,
"A mole in the trap
Is worth two on the nose."

And here is another
By old Uncle Joe
"A corn on the stalk
Is worth two on the toe."

Said Young Mr. Duffer,
A gay dog is he,
"A peach on the lap
Is worth two in the tree."
—High School Oracle.

To the Potato.

Twinkle, twinkle, little spud,
As up among the clouds you scud,
You are doubtless feeling gay
Chasin' around the milky way;
You have reached to such a height
You are surely out of sight,
Like a diamond now you seem
In your price—and it's no dream
Twinkle on another twink,
But you'll drive us all to drink,
As we chase for needful chink;
You are sailing rather high
As you wink your shriveled eye
Up there somewhere in the sky.
As a flyer, you're a bird,
But the price is quite absurd
Spud so mighty, though so small,
You make diggers of us all;
Farmers dig you with a hoe,
While the others dig for dough.
If you keep on, I'll be bound,
You'll bring bullion pound for pound;
You'll fulfill the adage old
That you're worth your weight in gold
Tuber, since the coop you flew,
We have only longed for you;
That our fireside you forsook,
Broke our heart and pocketbook,
Never knew how we could love
Till you left and went above,
Never felt how dear you were,
Till we paid four dollars per,
Small potato, please come back,
In our lives there's such a lack
For your presence we so pine
That our stomach's hit our spine;
We are tired of eating greens,
Stewed prunes, sourkraut or beans,
'Tis for you alone we yearn,
Darling, tated, please return.

CULLED CLIPPINGS.

The Ohio State Lantern calls the attitude that would cause a man to leave for Alaska without his overcoat, one of coal indifference.

Lost—A slide rule, between 14th Ave. and library.—K. U. Daily.
WELL, what else could you expect of a slide rule?

A wedding announcement in the K. U. Daily is headed, "Short-Belt." How in the world is this couple going to make ends meet? We certainly hope they have enough to go around.

We saw a notice in our own Collegian, stating that the Narrow Gauge cafe is to close. Shouldn't it have read, TOO close?

There is an old fashioned paragraph on the Washburn Review who says that "tripping the light fantastic is a terachorean art."

Oh yes, and clipping the light mustache is a tonsorial art—But what's the use?

Many affectionate farewells are new being said, (and done). So says the Arizona Wildcat.

"THE PRIMROSE RING."

The appealing little beauty, Mae Murray, features in this artistic combination of pathos and visualized fairy tales. This is an exceptionally artistic production of a very human, pathetic little story, which registers a spirit of optimism worthy of anyone's emulation. This is an especially fine film for children to see as well as grown-ups.

Following is a list of the women graduates and the positions that they will fill next year:

Edith Andrew, home economics, Pankster Hill; Josephine Allis, home economics, Blackduck, Minn.; Blanche Baird, home economics and English, Gretna, Neb.; Myrtle Bauerfind, home economics, Minneapolis; Lucy Baughman, assistant in home economics, Arkansas City; Rose Baker, assistant in cafeteria, K. FEROL STRATTON, CHAMPION

STATE TITLE HOLDER WINS AGGIE WOMEN'S TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Sarella Herrick Defeated by 0-6 and 2-6 Scores—Thirty Girls Had Entered the Tournament—Four Went Into the Semi-Finals.

Playing in the same brilliant fashion that won her the state women's tennis championship last year, Miss Ferol Stratton defeated Miss Sarella Herrick in the finals of the Aggie tournament, yesterday, and annexed another championship title. The scores were 6-0, 6-2.

The fast and accurate serving of Miss Stratton, combined with her coolness under fire, enabled her to run away with the first set. In the second half of the match, however, Miss Herrick began to solve the attack, and the two players battled more evenly.

Thirty girls entered the racket battle for the championship. Four of the best tennis players among the girls stood up for the semi-finals. The fact that one of these four had gained the title of state champion gave the contest more of a serious aspect.

Ferol Stratton, Hattie Bryant, Sarella Herrick and Betty Cotton were all candidates for the finals. But as two only could earn these places the matches proved to be the "finals" for Hattie Bryant and Betty Cotton. Ferol Stratton won from Hattie Bryant with a score of 6-4, 6-2, and Sarella Herrick won from Betty Cotton, 6-1, 6-1.

This left Ferol Stratton matched against Sarella Herrick for the final and deciding combat.

Liberty Bonds to Amount of $11,750 Subscribed.

Faculty members and other employees of the college have shown their loyalty to the government through the purchase of liberty bonds aggregating $11,750.

This sum represents a large number of individual subscriptions. While it was not possible for any one person to subscribe heavily the employees of the institution have indicated their desire to back the government to the best of their ability. Patriotic talks were made at a recent mass meeting, and that they were more than mere idle expressions is indicated by the number of bonds purchased.

FARMERS TO PICNIC TODAY.

Large Attendance Expected—To Serve Basket Dinner.

A thousand people are expected to attend the Farmers' Union picnic at the college farm today. The county delegation is expected to leave Riley at 10 o'clock this morning. After dinner will come the program with Morris McCulliffe, president of the State Farmers' Union, presiding. H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas State Agricultural college, W. M. Jardine, dean of the division of agriculture, and L. E. Call, professor of soils, will speak.

After the program the ladies will attend a canning demonstration at the house, while the men will spend the afternoon inspecting the experimental work that is being conducted on the agronomy farm.

The conference members will be guests of the college at the cafeteria this evening. They will leave in their special car at 9:50 tonight for Hays where further work of the college will be examined. L. E. Call, professor of soils, will accompany the party and explain the projects at Hays.

GAIN FROM ATHLETICS, $400

DESPITE SURPLUS, DEPARTMENT IS STILL $1,200 IN DEBT.

Football and Basketball wiped Out the Old Deficit, but Baseball and Track Did Not Pay Out—Was Blamed by R. A. Seaton.

Four hundred dollars of the old $1,600 athletic debt has been wiped out during the past athletic year. Owing to the unfavorable season, the distraction of attention due to the national war situation, and the consequent small attendance and gate receipts at the baseball games this spring, however, the season closes with a deficit of about $1,200.

At the end of the football and basketball seasons the athletic board stood with a balance of $222.62 in the treasury. Baseball season tickets were sold to the amount of $604.50. Single admissions were taken at the gate to the amount of only $91.05. This is due to the fact that weather conditions were not favorable and also to the war situation. $91.69 was raised from concessions.

The amount advanced for trips was $592.02. The guarantees to visiting teams amounted to $634.59. Trips of team and coaches amounted to $572.74.

The financial standing at the present time seems to be about as follows, said R. A. Seaton, treasurer of the athletic board:

Assets.
Balance in treasury	$48.18
Money due from Pan-Hellenic Council	8.00
Money due from Missouri Valley Conference	21.08
Total	$77.26

Liabilities.
Estimated total outstanding bills	$1,277.14
This leaves a net estimated deficit of	$1,199.88.

At the end of last year the athletic board had a small deficit, but this deficit was made up early this fall from the good gate receipts of the football and basketball season. There was $222.62 in the treasury at the beginning of the baseball and track season.

AN ARMY CALL TO DR. SEIVER.

College Physician May Aid in Training Medical Reserve.

Dr. C. M. Seiver, college physician, received a notice from the government the first of the week to report for duty to the medical department at Fort Riley, June 20. Dr. Seiver was on the border last summer with the national guards doing medical and surgical work.

The work that Dr. Seiver will have to do at the fort will probably be the training of the medical reserve officers. There are about 900 doctors of the medical reserve at Fort Riley, who have had no practical experience. These doctors will be trained this summer.

Dr. Seiver has been ordered for three months. No arrangements have been made at present as to filling the vacancy left by Dr. Seiver.

Miss Eunice Nicolay, a graduate of K. S. A. C., is visiting with her sister here at the college. Miss Nicolay has been teaching at Granite, Idaho, the past year.

THE PLAY IS FULL OF FUN

"PAIR OF SIXES," SENIOR PLAY, IS A COMEDY OF MANY MIX-UPS.

Pill Factories, Side Whiskers, and a Poker Game Combine to Produce a Side-Splitting Farce—a Misunderstanding Nearly Causes a Fight.

A pair of sixes, two partners, violet coated pills, a quarrel, a poker game, side whiskers, a pill factory, and a happy home, are some of the features that go to make up the three act comedy, "A Pair of Sixes," which the senior class will present to students and Manhattan folk Tuesday evening, June 19.

This is the funniest comedy that has ever been put on by home talent at K. S. A. C. according to the management of the play. J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, stated that "A Pair of Sixes" will put the senior play that was given last year in the shade.

"From the time that the two partners settle their dispute by a poker game until an understanding is brought about in the last act, the play is a roaring laugh," said Charles Anderson, coach of the play. "One partner becomes the master of the pill factory for a year while the other partner becomes the servant. The wife tries to settle the trouble and herself becomes involved in the whirlpool of domestic affairs and is misunderstood for the labor she has taken in trying to establish peace."

"The cast have known their lines for two weeks and will be better able to give this play than the cast was when 'The Man From Home' was given."

The two partners that have a misunderstanding are George B. Nettleton which is played by "Buck" Freeman, and T. Boggs Johns, played by O. K. Rumble. "Duke" Turner plays the part of Krome, their bookkeeper, and Emily Lofnick is Sally Parker, their stenographer. The part of Tony Toller, the salesman, is given by "Bob" Osborne. Mr. Schmelzer, the German, is impersonated by Wm. Klooz. The part of the office boy of Nettleton and Johns is given by C. P. Huffman. Nina Mae Powell presents the part of Mrs. George B. Nettleton. Florence Cole, the leading lady and fiancée of T. Boggs Johns, is given by Agnes McGorle.

Laura Ramsey has the part of Coddles, the English maid of all work. "The parts of Coddles, Mrs. Nettleton, George B. Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns are the heaviest parts in the entire play and those persons presenting those characters should be complimented on the excellent manner in which they are handling their parts," said Mr. Adamson.

SENIORS PLAN WINDOW EXHIBIT

Two Furniture Stores Decorated by the Class.

Four ideal rooms were fitted out by the seniors in home decoration last week and are now on exhibition down town at the Paine Furniture Co. and the Manhattan Furniture Co. The work was done under the direction of Miss Araminta Holman, instructor in home art. An attempt was made to furnish the rooms with reference to purpose, color scheme and suitability of furniture so that the room will be made an effective background for the family life. It was through the accommodations of the two furniture companies that the experiment was made possible. The Spot Cash store furnished the necessary drapings.

CADETS COMPETE TOMORROW.

Gold Medal Goes to the Best-Drilled Soldier.

The annual competitive drill contests will be held on the college campus Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The preliminaries have been held for the past few days in the different companies. The judges are composed of college men.

Prizes will be given to the best drilled cadet, the second best drilled cadet, and the best drilled squad. A gold medal will be given to the best drilled cadet, a silver medal to the second best drilled cadet. A silver medal will be given to the corporal of the best drilled squad, and the other members of this squad will receive bronze medals. These contests are given under the auspices of the military department.

54 QUIT IN HALF A MONTH

TOTAL WITHDRAWALS MOUNTED TO 450, SAYS THE REGISTRAR.

Departure of the First Regiment Marine Band and the Return to the Farm Have Been Largest Causes of the Last Two Weeks' Exodus

Fifty-four students have withdrawn from college since the 28th of May, 19 of whom have gone to the farm, the rest going into some branch of the army. The fact that it is nearly impossible to get farm help seems to be the cause of so many men going to the farm. Seventeen withdrew last week to go with the Aggie band, which will soon be known as the first marine band.

Following are those who have withdrawn to go to the farm: Ralph Hunter, G. O. Hofflines, Harold Garner, C. L. Reeve, A. R. Denman, J. A. Reeve, A. R. Denman, J. A. Smith, W. R. Essick, J. D. Montague, R. L. Hunter, G. M. Nelson, W. H. Brookover, J. R. Bibby, O. W. Hinshaw, Chas. Nitcher, L. K. Saum, S. D. Capper, D. J. Borthwick, C. D. Voeman, F. A. Hannessy, V. W. Stambaugh, J. P. Myers, W. R. Stewart, R. W. Kilbourn, C. O. Works, R. E. Carr, and Robert Burns.

The following are those who joined the marine band: R. F. Rodgers, R. B. Losh, F. C. Miller, O. F. Fisher, E. H. Barger, C. L. Bonnet, W. W. Trege, Wm. Knostman, D. E. Dewey, K. E. Richardson, Joe Heldt, J. G. Falkenstein, John Gullledge, J. L. Landon, G. W. Fisher, and F. G. Dale. G. A. Foltz has taken a position in the quartermaster's department of the regular army. G. R. Hewey has entered the training camp. John Fredenburg is in the medical division of the army.

Miss Machir, registrar, says that over 450 students have withdrawn since the beginning of the spring term.

WE MUST "PEP UP" ON BONDS

Subscriptions Mean War's End is Nearer, Says Dr. Waters.

As a people we are slacking, declared Doctor H. J. Waters, when speaking to the student assembly concerning the buying of liberty bonds Tuesday morning, June 12.

"We are not yet aware of the responsibility which is resting upon us," continued the speaker. "So long as we fail to support the subscription of these bonds we are heartening the enemy and disheartening the Allies. So long as we withhold financial aid we are prolonging the war and its bloodshed."

"If the liberty loan is not subscribed that does not mean that we will not be able to furnish money to our Allies. When the people fail to buy the bonds, Congress will set to work and levy a heavy tax on every property owner in the country and the money will be raised in that way."

J. R. Macarthur, professor of English, gave the students some reasons why the people should subscribe for the Liberty bonds. He presented statistics showing what the country of Canada our nearest neighbor had done in loaning money to England.

"Canada has a population of only seven and a half million and throwing out two million French Canadians who are doing nothing toward aiding in the war, leaves a population of five and a half million which is aiding Britain in such a remarkable way," said Professor Macarthur. "This small number promised to send 500,000 soldiers to England and if this number 350,000 have already gone to the colors. The remainder are soon to follow."

Alumni Game Thursday.

One of the features of the commencement day program will be the alumni baseball game on the college field in the afternoon, Thursday, at 4 o'clock. The alumni team will be composed of old varsity men who have graduated from K. S. A. C. The game will be between the alumni of the college and the Aggie regulars.

The metallic signs for the Manhattan Motor club to be placed on the cars belonging to the owners of members of the club, are being made in the college shops. They are about six inches in diameter, painted blue with white lettering.

GIVE A SUMMER SCHOOL PLAY.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," Chosen—Tryouts June 25.

A play will be given at the college auditorium this summer by the students of the summer school, announced J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking, yesterday. The play is to be given the last week of the summer school term. Credit will be given to those who take part.

The play will be "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," a play by Anne Warner. This play is similar to the play "Charley's Aunt." The cast is of 12 characters, the principal character being an old maid. The play will be coached by Prof. Emerson.

Tryouts for this play will be held Monday, June 25, afternoon and evening, at the college auditorium. Tryouts are open to the entire student body of summer school. The time is short, so the tryouts are early in order to get started on the play. It will be well for anyone wishing to tryout for the play to see some one of the public speaking department prior to the tryouts.

Sigma Xi is one of the foremost honorary scientific societies in the country. It was founded at Cornell university in 1886 for the purpose of promoting research in the sciences.

Of more than thirty chapters of Sigma Xi in the United States, nine are represented at K. S. A. C. with the following faculty members: President H. J. Waters, W. A. Cochell, L. E. Call, R. K. Nabours, George A. Dean, H. F. Roberts, Marie A. Green, E. C. Miller, Mary T. Harman, L. E. Melchers, A. G. Hogan, P. S. Welch, J. B. Fitch, J. E. Ackert, J. S. Hughes, M. C. A SHORTER LYCEUM COURSE

"LITTLE WOMEN" IS A PART OF THE PROGRAM THAT IS PLANNED.

New Course Will be Under the Direction of the Departments of Public Speaking and Music in the New Arrangement for Year of 1916-17.

The lyceum course for next year will consist of four numbers instead of seven as in previous years and will be under the combined management of the departments of public speaking and music. The course has been arranged by A. E. Westbrook, director of music, and J. G. Emerson, head of the department of public speaking. The course will be managed by a person who will be directly responsible to these two departments.

Two dramatic numbers have been secured by Mr. Emerson. The first will be the drama, "Little Women," by Louisa M. Alcott.

The original company which presented this play in New York some years ago has been secured to give the same production here. "Little Women" ran for a whole year in New York and won a great success. The arrangement of the play was made by Wm. A. Brady. The cast is now managed by Wm. J. Kelgley. It will be given late in October.

The other number of the course which is of dramatic nature will come in the person of Miss May Zenoia McClaren, reader of rare ability and charm. The number will appear near the last of January.

The other two numbers of the course are musical entertainments which have been secured by Professor Westbrook. The first of these will be a program by Miss Christine Miller, the most prominent American contralto. Miss Miller is an Edison artist.

"Miss Miller is the greatest contralto that I have ever heard," said Professor Westbrook. "She is truly an American contralto, having received all of her training in America. She gets bigger engagements than any other contralto in this country." This number will be given in November.

The second musical number will appear in February in the form of Zoellner's string quartette. Miss Jaenette Durno, a pianist of note will appear with this number. Zoellner's string quartette does more concert work than any other string quartette in the world. According to Professor Westbrook these two numbers will be the best musical numbers that have ever appeared in Manhattan.

A DESERVED HONOR.

Associate editor of the Midland is the plum that recently fell to N. A. Crawford, professor of industrial journalism and printing. The Midland, be it known, is a well established magazine, which reflects the best literary ideals of the middle west.

One of the best literary magazines of the country gets its associate editor from the Kansas State Agricultural college! Such an appointment would be regarded as a high honor in a literary college or university, to say nothing of coming unsolicited to a journalist of an agricultural college.

"Another Jump in Gasoline."—Headline. John D. has probably subscribed for another five-million dollar block of liberty bonds.

MR. ALLEN OF WICHITA.

Clean politics, good government and a man-to-man religion have been the driving forces in the life of Henry J. Allen that have made him thoroughly known by Kansans and quite generally known by Americans. A "Manhattan boy" by early training, Mr. Allen has broadened out, making Wichita, then Kansas, and finally the nation his tramping-ground. And where Henry Allen has tramped he has left his foot-prints.

Mr. Allen will make the address at the graduating exercises of the School of Agriculture this evening. It is an opportunity for Manhattan and K. S. A. C. citizens and students should turn out in force to hear one of the best public speakers of the day, and a man who has ideals and ambitions that have enabled him to "make good."

QUILL INITIATES EIGHT.

Gold Medal was Given Leo C. Moser for Short Story.

Initiation exercises in the Beta Chapter of American College Quill club were held Monday night. The following members were initiated: John D. Cooke, Clyde Fisher, Grace Dickman, Edna Boyle, Georgina Burt, Sarah Drake, Sarah Boell, and Floyd C. Oakes.

Leo C. Moser was presented with the gold medal which he recently won in the short story contest.

An excellent program had been prepared by the initiates but the inability to secure lights prevented its being rendered in full. Refreshments were served. This was the last meeting of the year.

Anell K. O'Brien, school of agriculture, withdrew from college Thursday to take up river engineering work at Bluffton, Mo., where he has a good position awaiting him.

CRAWFORD ON MIDLAND STAFF.

But He Will Continue to Head Journalism Department.

Nelson Antrim Crawford, professor of industrial journalism, has been appointed associate editor of the Midland, a magazine established three years ago for the purpose of presenting the literary ideals of the middle west.

Among contributors to the magazine have been Arthur Davidson Picke, Keen Abbott, and other well-known writers, and the fiction published was commended some time ago by the Boston Transcript as representing the best literary standards of America.

Mr. Crawford will continue his work in the college.

AGGIE DEBATE IN A TEXT.

Warrensburg Talk Will be Published This Summer.

The Warrensburg women's debate which occurred April 27, is to be published this summer in the inter-collegiate debate series, edited by Prof. Edbert Nichols of Red Lines university, Red Lines, California. The debate was on the question: "Resolved that the federal government should appoint a permanent commission to regulate the price of food stuffs."

Don L. Burk, Aggie debate coach, received a letter from Prof. Nichols inviting him to contribute this debate both the affirmative and the negative, and a biography, to this publication. Speaking of this Mr. Burk said, "It is an excellent thing to publish this debate because it is on a vital subject and demonstrates that the Aggie debaters are on the map."

"The Waiting Soul."

Metro pictures present the peerless Marie Petiora in this production. In this picture Miss Petiora is impressive, beautiful and affectionate. Wareham's, Saturday, June 16.

Reisners Will Leave Soon.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Reisner, head of the department of education, will leave the 22nd of June for the east. Dr. Reisner will make a short visit at his home in Pennsylvania, before going to New York where he will teach in the summer school of Columbia university. Mrs. Reisner will make a short visit in Ohio. Next winter Dr. Reisner will deliver addresses over the east on the subject, "Principals and History of Education," under the direction of Columbia university.

Y. M. After New Students.

The cabinet and workers of the Y. M. are planning summer work in preparation for next fall's new student work. People from all the counties of the state are wanted to help in getting the new students lined up for next year. This is one of the most effective ways of getting prospective students to come to K. S. A. C. K. U. does this work better than do the students of K. S. A. C. They do it thru the work of the Alumni associations in the different counties.

H. B. Yocum to Washburn.

Harry B. Yocum, instructor in zoology, from '13 to '15, who left here to take a fellowship in the University of California, has been elected head of the department of zoology in Washburn college. Mr. Yocum will take his degree in doctor of philosophy of zoology this summer and will enter his duties at Washburn this fall.

Get Alumni Banquet Tickets.

The committee having charge of the alumni banquet to be held commencement day request the faculty and resident and visiting alumni to purchase tickets as early as possible. The banquet will be served in the gymnasium Thursday at 12 M. Tickets will be on sale at the office of Miss Ada Rice or Miss Francis Brown. The plates will be 75 cents each.

Classes to Fort Riley.

Institutional management classes visited the mess houses at Fort Riley Tuesday. Miss Haggard, professor in domestic science, and Miss Nola Treat, director of the cafeteria, went with the classes. The purpose of this trip was to give the girls an idea of how the government conducts its eating houses.

Senior Girls Breakfast.

The girls of the senior class of 1917 will have their senior breakfast Monday morning at 6 o'clock. Each girl is asked to bring a spoon and a cup. They will meet at the cemetery or in case of rain they will meet in the basement of the Congregational church.

Miss Florence Alsop, a graduate of K. U. has entered college as a graduate student in zoology. She will work on her thesis with Dr. Mary T. Harmon of the zoology department during the rest of the school year and summer and will give part time to teaching next year. She expects to take her master of science degree in 1.

MANY AND VARIED REPORTS

FUN TO LOOK OVER ANSWERS OF THOSE WITHDRAWN.

One Lists a Daily Account of His Footsteps, While Another Greeted Dean Willard Conditions of His Feet.

No weekly news event, pictograph, nor movie travelogue can compare with the system recently instituted by Dean J. T. Willard.

When war conditions began to take on serious appearance for us, college men began withdrawing in response to calls from the nation and from the farms. As each of these men completed arrangements for leaving, Dean Willard requested that on or before June first a letter should be sent him, telling him how the student was then employed, what he had accomplished, what he intended to do for the remainder of the year, and if he happened to be on the farm, the general conditions of the country roundabout him.

As a result, at the present time approximately 250 letters have found the way back to K. S. A. C. And this is where the variety comes in.

Anything that might come within the bounds of stationary has been used. There are big sheets and little sheets, fraternity paper, stock and ranch letter heads, some of sister's pale blue or lavender, or gold, pencil tablet paper, and Y. M. C. A. stationery. Anything from a plain lead pencil to green violet ink has been employed for the reports.

One may be typewritten and the next one scrawled.

Some of these reports are given in dignified itemized accounts, as: May 14:

Fixed hog fence around alfalfa. Built a place to feed and keep small chicks.

Hoed some in the garden. The account of each day is carefully set down.

Another letter lacks some of the dignity of form as the writer explains, "I am sitting here with my feet on the stove to keep warm."

Letters have come in from practically every farm district in Kansas and from these a survey of the agricultural conditions in Colorado, Michigan, Missouri, and Indiana. Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming, Fort Riley, Fort Barry, California, Marine Barracks, Fort Royal, South Carolina, and El Paso, Texas are representative stations of the college men who have not gone back to the farm.

The students wish it known that they are hard at work.

"I have put in time from 5:30 in the morning until 8:30 in the evening on the farm."

"I have put in about 60 acres of corn and it is now about three inches high. I have several acres of potatoes which are looking fine."

"The farmers around here are busy day and night and there isn't any help available."

"When I came home I found father had 100 acres saved for me to put in spring crops."

"I withdrew my assignment on May 2 and on May 8 began planting corn."

"Garden and truck farms around here are looking fine and are being given more attention this year than formerly."

Every letter from the farm mentions the amount of rainfall which keeps back the work, the failure of wheat and the good condition of corn crops.

Correspondents from the training camps have fully as much to relate and letters are as varied as those from the others. One says, "Here goes that letter that I promised you when I left K. S. A. C. This camp is a great place and we have a big task before us to become officers in three months."

"Everyone I see when away from camp asks how the life agrees with me. You may get an idea when I say that I have gained thirteen pounds. The food is good and this combined with the regular hours would make almost any one feel fine."

COLLEGE SAVES ON CATALOGS

WILL NOT SEND ENGINEERING PROGRAMS TO GIRLS.

The Style of the New Books Will Also Differ from the Technical Descriptions Formerly Used.

Conservation and efficiency have caused a change in the issuing of catalogues from the college this year. Instead of the 15,000 that have formerly been distributed, only one third that number will be printed.

Each division will issue a separate announcement. The veterinary department of the agricultural division, because of the special nature of its work, will offer a separate announcement. Hence, there will be six popular descriptive departmental announcements. These will go out to the various high schools, not all at one time as would the catalogue, but at intervals of perhaps two or three weeks.

The announcements are to be highly illustrated and will include inserts at various places informing the reader, that, he may on request obtain a catalogue for further information.

This plan is considered to be a most effective and economic means to advertise the school. The matter is entertaining and readable instead of the technical catalogue of old. The curriculum will be discussed along with the advantages of the institution. The only technically formal part of the announcements will be a page containing a schedule.

This method will enable prospec-

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

VOLUME 23 NUMBER 63

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, MANHATTAN, TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1917

PRICE FIVE CENTS

SENIORS IN CHARGE OF WEEK

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM INCLUDES CLASS DAY AND GRADUATION.

Baccalaureate Sermon by the Rev. Wendt Sunday Started the Week—Class Prophecy Will be Given at Chapel Exercises Today.

This is senior week at K. S. A. C. and alumni and friends are here in force to enjoy the commencement exercises that will be in progress the remainder of the week.

Sunday afternoon the program began with the baccalaureate sermon by the Right Rev. James Wise, D. D., bishop of Kansas, Episcopal church. Rev. Wise's subject was "The Foundations of Life." Rev. Wise is a speaker of note over the state of Kansas and his sermon was appreciated by the audience of more than 2,500 persons.

Yesterday afternoon the initiation services of the Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholarship fraternity, were conducted by Rr. H. J. Waters, in the rest room of the home economics hall. At 6 o'clock yesterday evening the Phi Kappa Phi dinner was held at Harrison's cafe.

Today the seniors have charge of the chapel exercises. And it is here that the students of K. S. A. C. will learn the future of the class of 1917 and of the faculty members. There is one member of the senior class with uncanny ability of prophecy and he will lay bare all the future secrets of the graduates.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the dedication of the class memorial will take place in the college auditorium and tonight in the auditorium will be given "A Pair of Sixes," the three-act comedy, by the senior class. It is said by those in power that this is the funniest play that has ever been given in the college auditorium. It is full of domestic unsettlement and of scandal, because "Coddles" (Laura Ramsey) makes love to T. Boggs Johns, (O. K. Rumble).

Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the alumni business meeting will be held in the old chapel and at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night the music faculty will give a recital in the college auditorium.

Then comes Thursday, the day of days for the seniors. Commencement exercises will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning in the college auditorium. The speaker of the morning is the William O. Thompson, president of the State university of Ohio. At 12 o'clock dinner will be given in the gymnasium for the class of 1917 and their invited guests. The dinner will be given by the alumni association.

In the afternoon comes the dress parade by the college cadets and at 4:30 the annual alumni-K. S. A. C. baseball game will be held on the athletic field. At 8 o'clock in the evening the reception to the visiting alumni, the faculty, and friends of the college will be given by the Manhattan alumni association in the gymnasium. This closes the college life at K. S. A. C. for the class of 1917.

Wedding Bells for "Gatey"

It is reported that Prof. Ray Catwood, instructor in the animal husbandry department of the K. S. A. C., will start east on a pleasure trip about Thursday of this week. Possibly the most interesting feature of his trip will take place at Marion, O., where he and Miss Corrine Myers, of the 1916 K. S. A. C. class, are to be married on the 27th of this month. After the wedding the young couple will probably visit a number of the eastern cities and expect to then return and make this city their future home.—Nationalist.

It surprises us at times to see what some folks will endure just for the sake of a date.

RATS LIKE ARSENIC POISON.

Dr. Dice Has Preparation That Rodents Take To.

Dr. Lee R. Dice, of the zoology department, has been experimenting for some time with the poisoning of rats. This is done by keeping the animals shut up in separate cages where they have access to both poisoned and unpoisoned food. This allows them to eat the poisoned food of their own choice, which is the greatest problem he has encountered.

Dr. Dice has found finally that a certain mixture of arsenic is the most satisfactory as it kills all the rats which eat it and most of them do. A circular has been prepared on the subject and is waiting the result of a few more experiments to be published.

MUSIC FACULTY IN RECITAL.

Miss Fanchon Easter, Pianist, and the Quartette are on Program.

A free concert will be given by the faculty of the music department Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in the college auditorium.

Miss Fanchon Easter, pianist, will give the first part of the program. The second half will be Cadman's Song Cycle, "Morning of the Year," sung by the faculty quartette, composed of Miss Faye Richards, Miss May Carley, Elton Calkins and Arthur E. Westbrook.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

DRILL IN SUMMER SCHOOL

MILITARY COURSE ADDED AS A WAR MEASURE.

Summer School is the Place for Would-be Summer Idlers, Says Dr. Reisner, to Help Conserve Food.

Special war-time features, including military drill are to be added to the summer school.

Demonstrations of food conservation, which will include courses in canning, drying and preserving, together with first aid and home nursing classes, are to be included in the summer work.

The demand for a course in military drill from high school principals and others has caused that class to be added, according to Dr. E. H. Reisner, who has charge of the summer school arrangements. W. B. Wendt, the new head of the military department, will be in charge of the class, which will probably be taught from five to six o'clock. Regular credit will be given.

Literature is being sent out to prospects in an endeavor to make the summer school enrollment the largest in the history of the school.

"In case three million of our men should be diverted from the productive arts of peace to military life, there will be a crying need of increased efficiency in production and conservation on the part of the 97 millions of people who remain at home," asserts Dr. Reisner. "They will have to learn to do new things and to do old things in better ways. There will be an on-coming generation to educate for the most stupendous period of reconstruction the world will have ever known."

"Schools and colleges must go on. Intelligent farmers and trained engineers and efficient home makers must be developed just as in times of peace."

To those who are undecided as to what to do with their spare time this summer Dr. Reisner calls attention to the summer school.

"Don't slump. Don't be a slacker to yourself. Don't waste the summer. 'Business as usual' should be your motto. Attend the summer school."

If we had to think of her as someone's sister all the time we'd go to a heap less shows, eh?

AN AGGIE WAR CATECHISM

1. What are present conditions at K. S. A. C.?

They are in bad shape. A total of 450 students have left school this spring. Practically all who have left are men, and most of them are undergraduates. Classes which started the year with an enrollment of 30 and 40 students, number less than half a dozen now. The graduating class is comparatively small.

2. Will many who have left this spring return in the fall?

Probably not. Quite a few enlisted outright. Others will be in financial difficulties. The majority of those who do return, probably will not do so until the special semester starts in November.

3. How are prospects for next year?

Mighty poor, unless conditions change. Many have already gone, not to return, and conscription, taking one out of seven, will hit another blow at the enrollment next fall.

4. What will make conditions change?

Matters will assume a decidedly different aspect IF EACH STUDENT WORKS.

How can he help by working?

EACH AGGIE MAN AND WOMAN SHOULD BRING BACK TO THE SCHOOL AT LEAST ONE FRESHMAN NEXT YEAR. Each should put himself out a little to make a special visit to this or that prospect. Each owes that much to the school.

6. But what is to be said to the prospects? What argument to be used?

Tell them that it is their part in the war to keep up the normal conditions of the country. Besides, there are special talks that can be made to each prospect on his part in the war, and the relation of a college education to that part.

7. What would you say to a prospective engineer?

Tell him that Uncle Sam needs engineers, both in military and in civil life. Tell him that France's railroads, the arteries which must carry food and munitions to the trenches, are breaking down, because France has lost her engineers. Tell him that Russia—poor disorganized Russia—is tottering now, and that engineers to reconstruct her railways and to bolster her up internally, may save her for democracy. Tell him that every K. S. A. C. senior engineer had a position almost two months before college closed, and that Dean Potter's desk is piled high with requests for men.

8. Are "Ag" men needed?

Yes, and they are needed badly. "Food will win the war," said members of the British delegation to America. To get the most out of the soil, to improve our farm machinery and our farm methods, and to concentrate our farm labors, experts—men with college training, are needed. K. S. A. C. turns out such experts.

9. And are the women needed, too?

Yes, as badly as are the men. The Official Bulletin published by Uncle Sam himself, urges that women be prepared to take charge of soup kitchens. Soup kitchens for the poor like Germany's? Yes we may come to that, says the Bulletin. And, continues the Bulletin, if soup kitchens are needed, women, and not men, must run them, for there will be other places for the men. And that doesn't mention women's preparation for home life.

10. But these are all war measures. Will these people need a college education after the war?

Most certainly yes. Counting on at least a two or three years' war—and few experts look for less—the warring nations will probably be in such shape that all the brains and energy, and every resource, must be thrown into the reconstruction. Promising men right in the prime of life will be sacrificed themselves in the trenches. Others must take their places. In business, in politics, on the farm, in every walk of life, the young blood of the college man and woman fill the breach caused by the departure of the older heads.

11. We see, now, that every student must bring back other students. We see that high schoolers and men who have given up their schooling must be induced to come to college. But how now, again, is all this to be done?

It can be done this way:

(1) Impress upon the prospect that a college education is necessary.

(2) Impress upon him that vocational, and not cultural, education will do the most for his country, and for him. And then,

(3) after you have convinced him that he must attend SOME college, give him to understand that this college—K. S. A. C.—is THE College for him.

12. What, then, should be the slogan of every Aggie?

Every student should commit to memory this slogan, "I will bring back a student." Then he should proceed to act on it.

THE Y. W. GIRLS ARE TO HELP

Letters Will be Sent Out to Secure More Students.

The news committee of the Young Women's Christian association believes in advertising. Sometime in August a Y. W. C. A. letter from a student representative of K. S. A. C. is to be printed in each of the 105 county papers of Kansas.

The aim of the letter is to interest the girls of the county, who are considering entering the college as freshmen in September, in the Young Women's Christian association, and it will also interest them in the college. The article will tell of the "Big Sister" organization, which is first aid to freshmen while they are becoming accustomed to college ways and learning directions. This letter will be signed by a girl who is a resident of the county.

George E. Bray, industrial engineer in the division of extension, will give a series of lectures on manual training in the rural schools at the Jefferson County Teachers' Institute at Oskaloosa this week.

MISS SHINGLEDECKER FIRST.

Sets Two Records in the Industrialist Contest.

Miss Laura Shingledecker, of Manhattan, freshman in industrial journalism, was an easy winner in the spring term industrial contest. She is credited with 353 column inches of material, as compared with 418 as the total of her 26 competitors. H. Clyde Fisher, of Lowmont, sophomore in industrial journalism, won second place, his copy having filled 64 inches of space.

Those deserving honorable mention in the contest are Miss Mollie Smith, of Westphalia, sophomore in home economics; Miss Nadie Dunn, of Manhattan, sophomore in industrial journalism; W. K. Charles, of Republic, junior in industrial journalism; D. J. Borthwick, of Manhattan, junior in animal husbandry; and Fred Carp, of Wichita, junior in animal husbandry.

In winning the contest, Miss Shingledecker broke two records. In the June 6 issue, a special live stock number, she had 144 column inches in print, by far the largest amount ever written by any one student for a single issue. Her record of 353 column inches is far in the lead of any other student's record for material published during the spring term. B. Q. Shields, junior in industrial journalism, lead last spring with 128 inches.

MILLER WINS THE CONTEST

HANDICAPPED BY LATE START, HE FINISHES STRONG.

Second Place to A. C. Hancock, and Third to Miss Zenith Mullen—Collegian to Have "Star Reporter" Next Year.

Although not having entered the Collegian contest until mid-term, Carl P. Miller, of Belleville, freshman in journalism, made a whirlwind finish and won the contest. Of the copy submitted by him for publication, 415 column inches were accepted.

A. C. Hancock of Stanley, junior in animal husbandry, won second place in the contest. Until the last tabulation, which included Friday's Collegian, Mr. Hancock was far in the lead, but Mr. Miller's work in the closing weeks of the term enabled him to close in on the leader, and finally to take first place himself. Mr. Hancock's total was 365 column inches.

Third place honors went to Miss Zenith Mullen, of Labette, with 222 inches. Honorable mention is accorded to Miss Elizabeth Wadley, with 204 inches; to H. Clyde Fisher, with 87 inches; to Miss Laura Shingledecker, with 87; to Miss Mollie Smith, with 73 1-2 inches; and to T. R. Pharr, with 65 inches.

Thirty-four students were in the contest, which is carried on every term by the Collegian. The prize for first place is a year's subscription to the Collegian.

A New Policy Next Year.

To stimulate still more interest in the Collegian contest next fall, a new policy, which will give more honor to the student ranking highest in the contest, will be pursued, according to the editor. In each issue of the paper the student who is leading at that time in number of column inches, will receive the designation of "Star Reporter," and will have his name, together with that title, in the mast-head of the Collegian, along with the regular staff.

More reporters are also sought for next year. A number of the new-chasers who were important in putting out the paper during the early part of the term, quit school, and the remaining reporters had plenty of work to do to keep the paper filled with news. Reporting on the Collegian carries with it an hour's credit.

A REAL ROYAL PURPLE.

Royal Purple Volume IV, by far the best of the many good class books in the college's history, made its initial appearance on the campus yesterday. "Old timers" voted it better than the famous Volume VI, put out by "Tom" Harris and "Davy" Davidson, and that is saying a lot for the 1913-14 annual had been set up as a standard of excellence.

With many new features, and with noticeable improvements over the old ones, the Adams-Thomas book is a work of real value. Sense and nonsense have been distributed in about the right proportion, the zinc etchings are good, faces are recognizable in the group pictures, and the page decorations are works of art.

It is no little job, this work of putting out an annual. Henry J. Adams and Charles D. Thomas have probably put more work into Volume IX than any manager and editor have put into an annual in the past.

The results show up. It's good work, fellows.

The slacker is not among those present on the hill. Although the complete figures are not yet in, it is a pretty sure thing that Aggie professors and students did every bit they could towards making a success of America's first war move—the Liberty loan.

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

When the band embarked for Philadelphia, and, incidentally, for France, gloom filled ever crack and cranny of the military department office. "How can we parade without a band?" and "What will Commencement be without a parade?"—these were some of the questions asked by those in charge.

Then came the response. In answer to a call by "Harry" Brown, assistant professor of music, a band was recruited. Faculty men, alumni, upperclassmen and future students, with the remaining members of the Ozment organization as a nucleus, volunteered to do all they could in the way of preparing for Commencement day.

The first trial came Friday. With Harold McClelland, who has just finished a successful year teaching in the Coffeyville high school, assisting as drum major, the hurriedly assembled musicians stepped through the cadet ceremony without a hobble.

If K. S. A. C. was proud of her old band, she is even prouder of her new one. Emergency called, and many made sacrifices that they might answer.

What better evidence of loyalty to the old school?

NOT A "SWAN SONG."

Precedence has dictated that the editor of The Collegian sing a "swan song" in the last edition of the year. This precedence the present editor will take great care in avoiding.

However, before the old and cracked typewriter cover is picked from its place on the floor and slowly and sorrowfully pulled over the "mill," not to be removed until the old bell in the tower calls us up on the hill next fall, the editor wants to say just this much: He has enjoyed the work, and so has the remainder of the staff. We haven't made the mistake of trying to please everybody, because we are not quite egotistical enough to believe we can do the impossible. We are aware we are not superhuman; we are only mortals, and have our many faults.

Practically the same names that appear in the present mast-head will be there when the students swing into the routine of school work next fall. Practically the same editorial and new policies, with improvements, will be pursued.

And now, just before the forms are locked up and the paper goes to press, we want to say, "Thanks for your support. Come back next year—there's plenty of work to do—and bring a couple of freshmen with you.

IT IS ALL IN THE GAME.

Cupid Makes Use of Cafeteria in Testing Lovers.

One of the interesting experiments to those who were trying it out has been in many cases disturbed by the war. Each of these experiments requires two persons and data has been taken mentally by these two for from one to three times a day in the cafeteria dining room. The result will not be given out to the public since only those participating in the trial are interested.

Perhaps you have seen them seek out a table "just big enough for two" but you probably did not think that she noticed his favorite dish in order to know what to practice on this summer at home. And you had no idea that HE was taking mental data on her appetite and her clothes in order to figure how to pay the bills "some day."

It is not known just what the decision of the experimenters will be but it bids fair to be satisfactory to all concerned.

"Hell Morgan's Daughter."

Dorothy Phillips, the queen of the screen, is the star in this intensely interesting play. Replete with gripping interest and enlivened by sensations galore. This production will provide screen entertainment with an appeal to all classes of theatergoers. At the Marshall, Wednesday and Thursday, June 19 and 20.

What part of goin' to school do you like the best?

The goin' home part of all the rest.

KENYON LIKES THE MARINES

BUT HE IS NOT AN ADMIRER OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Citizens Are Either Asleep or Dead, He Says—Expects to Join the Fifth Regiment.

Letters have been received from Keith E. Kenyon who with John Sellon, both of this college, is now in the naval officers' training school at Port Royal, C. C. Some of the men from this port are expected to be assigned to the Fifth regiment, which is to be the first one sent to France. This is the regiment with which the Aggie band is expected to depart.

In describing the conditions at this place Mr. Kenyon writes:

"This has been a long, hot day for me. We finished our range work today and I made 'expert marksman' which I thought very good. They count different here than in the army. Expert marksman here is the same as sharpshooter in the army.

Military drill is real military drill here. One can command the men and they have to mind—no two ways about it. They look upon an officer as their superiors and treat them so.

"My modern conveniences consists of a box with two shelves for books besides my table and another box nailed to the end of the table for a shaving mug, shoe polish, etc. We have electric lights and imported water. Outside my tent, I have a wash stand and a nice new bucket and basin. Salt water is all we have to wash in and soap will hardly work at all in it. John (Sellon) has about the same as I do, so there is nothing to say about him.

"We have to be careful about taking pictures here as the officers will object. The towns here are about 500 population, 200 asleep and 300 dead, as a friend expressed it. This seems to be about the truth. The whole country seems slow and lazy.

The inhabitants are largely negroes. "Every 'nigger' has a cow or an old mule which he uses for all purposes. They are about 40 years behind in everything. The country is heavily timbered and log cabins are a common sight. Cotton is the chief crop, but some tobacco, potatoes and corn are grown. They are too lazy to tend the crops, so they do not raise much more than they need.

Twenty-four men left for Philadelphia and Ontario this week and the rest expect to be ordered away soon—no one knows where."

KEITH E. KENYON.

HIKE PRICES OF DRILL SUITS.

Price Next Year Will be $27.50—Was $17.25 This Year.

Drill suits next year will cost more than ever before. The price of the entire suit, including blouse, shirt, trousers, cap, leggings, shoes and gloves, will be $27.50, according to Major Carp.

The rising prices of wool materials is blamed by Major Carp for the hike in the price of suits. Last year the suits, including shirt but not shoes, cost $17.25. The year previous, without either shirt or shoes, the price was $14.55.

That never finds me late.
I'm always there and waiting
At a quarter until eight.

Not harmless, rather meek,
But I've not the nerve to face 'em,
'Cause my patent leathers squeak.

THE ROYAL PURPLES GO FAST

STUDENTS WAIT IN LINE TO GET THEIR ANNUALS.

There Are a Few Left Over, Says Henry J. Adams, Manager—The Scandal Section Isn't Too Scandalous.

"Have you seen them yet? Have you been over to get yours?"

"Have I seen what? Have I been over to get what?"

"Why the class books, silly! The Royal Purple! I have just been over to get mine and now I am going over to the library to look at it. Want to go over with me and look at it, too? They came yesterday morning and Mr. Adams, the business manager of the class book for 1917, told me that they were going out with a boom and that every one was trying to get theirs at once. Last night at closing time he said that over seven hundred had called to get their book."

"He also said that true to their promise they had ordered only enough to fill the number that had been ordered at the time that the order was sent to the publishing company. However, if there are some that want one yet orders are being taken for them and from the number that is left over from those that were ordered for some that have left school and did not leave their address."

"Every one seems to be pleased with the book and Mr. Adams said that it is the best bound book that has ever been put out at K. S. A. C. Only 1,250 were ordered this year because so many have left school. This is 250 below the number that was ordered last year."

"Space has been given to the students that are doing things at the college and to those activities that are for the promotion of the school, such as athletics, debate, military activities and class work in general. Over in the back here is the space given to snapshots and to scandal. You know Arthur Newkirk was the snapshot editor. Oh, look at this one of—and! Isn't that funny? But the best one I think is this joke on J—."

"Well, I must go and take my last quiz and then I will be through. If you are going over to get your Royal Purple now you can come with me because I have to go through Main hall."

JUST JESTS, JOKES AND OTHER JUNK.

"Professor, what are you going to do for your country this summer?"

Conceded Prof. "I intend to benefit my country by just staying in it."

Irene—I know who you are writing to, I can tell by the look on your face.

May—(blushing) Do I show my affections as plainly as that?

Irene—Affections!!! my mistake, May I thought you were writing to your father.

May—Well?

Irene—and that you looked hungry.

If you want to make a girl hate you, utterly, tell her that her shoes look as if they hurt her feet.

There is a valiant Senor. Who trips about the hill. He does a little teaching. Just to pay the tailor's bill—

A man always thinks that if a woman admits an attraction of a show or an opera, etc., in his presence, she expects him to ask her to go—with him.

Three young men went down the street. My, but they were cute! They doffed their hats, and tipped their caps

And called each girl they passed a "beaut."

But such wise men could never guess. The man who walked behind, Heard just enough of careless bluff. To keep the job they tried to find.

JACK RICHARDS TO U. S. ARMY.

Successfully Passes Examination—Is an Aggie Graduate.

On June 2, Leird A. Richards was nominated to the senate by the secretary of war, for an appointment as second lieutenant of infantry, in the United States army. Richards is now a third lieutenant in the Philippine constabulary, and is stationed at Zamboanga, Mindanao, Philippine Islands, where he is in command of two companies of Philippine scouts, on guard duty at the government wireless station.

Richards received his degree from K. S. A. C. at Christmas, 1915, in the division of general science. While in college he was a prominent man in the military department, being a cadet captain his junior year.

The new appointment will release him from the constabulary, and he will probably return to the states soon, so as to enter the army service school at Fort Leavenworth, on July 15, for three months' training, before going to a regiment for duty.—Army and Navy Journal.

COMPETITIVE DRILL TO CO. B

Whedon's Men Win Out in Close Fight With Co. C.

Company B, commanded by Capt. E. F. Whedon, won the competitive drill Saturday, nosing out Company C, which has been drilled by Capt. O. T. Bonnett. Only a few points separated the two leading companies in the opinion of O. B. Burtis, former colonel of the cadet corps; A. E. Hylton, former captain, and C. R. Keller, lieutenant in Company I, K. N. G., who were the judges.

The companies performed before a crowd of more than 200 spectators, several of whom were students from the training camp at Fort Riley. The drill consisted of one-minute of manual of arms, and about five minutes of the school of the company. A handsome saber will be given Captain Whedon. The other officers of the company are C. E. Sawyer and Theodore Yost.

Company B also scored in the squad competition. A squad commanded by Glen Jones from that company won the squad competition. Corporal Jones received a silver medal, and bronze medals were awarded the other seven members of the squad.

The best drilled man in the cadet corps is W. A. Nye, a sergeant from Company D. Sergeant Nye was awarded a gold medal. Sergt. M. P. Stangel, of Company C, won the silver medal which went to the second best drilled cadet.

Blanche (wildly): "Why, I believe he left just after the reign."

CADET REGIMENT NEXT YEAR?

Major Carp Hopes for at Least 500 Student Soldiers.

The cadet corps next fall will be organized into two, or possibly three, battalions. Plans for near-normal enrollment are being made in the military department, according to Major Fred Carp, who has been in charge of the drill since the departure of Capt. E. L. Claeren.

"Of course we don't know just how many cadets we will have, but present indications point an enrollment of nearly 500 students who will be subject to military drill," said Major Carp. "Several upperclassmen may also drill in preparation for a possible call to the colors. We expect all the older men who are holding offices now, to enroll for drill next year, as officers will be scarce."

The probable arrangement for next year is that Major Carp will have charge of the drill work, and E. B.

Wendt will have charge of the office work, and will supervise the department. In the event a regiment is organized, Carp will probably become cadet colonel.
